Rumor is current in Washington that Assistant Postmaster-General Frank H. Jones, of Illinois, is engaged to Mrs. Nellie Grant Sartoris, Gen. Grant's daughter.

SICILY suffered from severe earthquake shocks, on the 27th, and much damage is reported to have been done. Messina and Milazzo felt the shocks most keenly.

THE biggest and most successful fox hunt in the history of Allegheny county, Pa., took place on Christmas day. During the day a distance of twenty-five miles was covered. The result of the hunt was ten foxes.

THE presidents of the colleges of the state, at a meeting held in Indianapolis, Ind., on the 27th, decided to prohibit inter-collegiate football games henceforth. Exhibition sports of any kind only will be allowed.

THE American Forestry association, having for its object the preservation of the forests of the country, convened at the department of agriculture in Washington city, on the 28th, for its eighteenth annual meeting.

THE report from Cleveland that the Carnegie Steel Co., of Pittsburgh, Pa., had closed a deal for several thousand acres of land at Lorain, O., on which would be erected a large steel plant was denied, on the 27th, by the officials of that company.

HENRY M. SEELEY, aged 59 years, of Honesdale, Pa., who was presiding judge of the Twenty-second judicial district of Pennsylvania, consisting of the counties of Wayne and Pike, from 1892 to 1894, died, on the night of the 25th, of Bright's disease.

MISS VIRGINIA CHEW, 16 years of age, daughter of Col. R. P. Chew, and granddaughter of John Augustine Washington, the last private owner of Mount Vernon, and a great-grandniece of George Washington, died at Charlestown, W. Va., on the 25th.

THE body of Mrs. William Waldorf Astor, after being embalmed and placed in a mahogany casket, the mountings and plate of which are solid silver, was inclosed in a case of lead and sent from London to Liverpool, on the 27th, for shipment to New York on the steamer Aurania.

THE police authorities of Berlin issued orders prohibiting socialist clubs of that city from attending the theaters in a body or in considerable numbers during the holidays. This order was issued with the idea of preventing demonstrations in the theaters against anti-revolution bills.

THE secretary of the interior, on the 28th, requested the attorney general to bring suit against the Black Hills & Wyoming Railroad Co. to forfeit the right-of-way to certain lands in South Dakota granted the road in 1887, provided the attorney general deemed it necessary and advisable.

A BOMB was exploded near the official residence of United States Ambassador Wayne MacVeagh in Rome, shortly after 11 o'clock on the night of the 25th. The explosion took place while Mr. MacVeagh's reception was in progress, but caused little or no excitement among the guests. No damage was done.

THE president refused the application for pardon in the case of the Indian Cha Nope Huah, alias Two Sticks, who was convicted of murder in South Dakota and sentenced to be hanged on the 28th. The Indian, with his sons and another Indian, deliberately murdered four cowboys, whose hospitality they were enjoying.

THE extraordinary action of the government of Ecuador in permitting the Ecuadorian flag to be used in the transfer of the Chilian cruiser Esmeralda to Japan has excited the greatest indignation in Ecuador and the adjacent republics. The only explanation offered by President Cordero is that Ecuador will gain an advantage from the transaction.

A BOARD of survey has been ordered to see what it will cost to put the historic frigate Constitution in condition for sea service. The sum of $225,000 is to be expended in putting her in as good condition as she was during her famous career, and as soon as she is made seaworthy she will be taken to Washington, where will be her permanent station.

A REPORT from O'Neil, Neb., on the 28th, confirmed the rumors of destitution and impending starvation among the people of Boyd county and part of Holt county, in that state. Heartrending stories of the distress prevailing accompanied the report. Considerable flour and provisions were hastily gathered in O'Neil and forwarded to the stricken people.

TIMOTHY J. CREEDON, who was the first New York police official to make a confession before the Lexow committee, put in his application at police headquarters, on the 28th, for retirement. Capt. Creedon had been thirty years on the force. He is a veteran, and served with great distinction throughout the civil war. The board denied the application.

GOV. MATTHEWS of Indiana has refused to honor the requisition issued by Gov. Altgeld of Illinois for the return of D. C. Bryan, of Indianapolis, to Chicago, to answer an indictment charging him with swindling operations in connection with a real estate deal. Gov. Matthews took testimony on the case and did not consider the charges against Bryan worthy of recognition.

THE International Geographical congress meets in London July 25 next. Queen Victoria is a patron of the congress, and the prince of Wales, Thomas F. Bayard, the American ambassador, and Charles Tupper, the Canadian high commissioner, are vice-presidents.

CONFIRMATION of the rumors that a shortage existed in the accounts of County Treasurer Henry Adams of Kings county, N. Y., was had, on the 27th, when the board of county supervisors met to receive the report of experts, who found an apparent shortage of $89,696.25, of which amount $24,148.28 is said to be missing from the account of Cashier Lawrence J. Tormey.

SIMEON COY, the most picturesque political character in the history of Indiana, died, on the 27th, at his home in Indianapolis. He had been suffering from diabetes for several months, but the bursting of a blood vessel, with the consequent hemorrhage, was the immediate cause of death. He died poor.

THE feature of the Lexow committee's investigation in New York city, on the 27th, was in the introduction of evidence to show that Anthony Comstock, agent for the Society of Prevention of Vice, had taken a bribe of $1,000 from a green goods man to procure the dismissal of the indictment against him.

CHARLES H. SHEPARD has begun suit, in Chicago, against Senator John F. O'Malley for $50,000 damages. Shepard is the young cabman who was shot by O'Malley on election day and was made a cripple for life. An indictment is still pending against O'Malley for the shooting.

THE Massillon (O.) miners adopted resolutions, on the 28th, declaring the award of the arbitrators an outrage on the miners, and not founded upon the evidence nor in accordance with the basis upon which the arbitration was entered into; favoring a joint meeting of operators and miners to fix prices for the future, and continuing the strike until such conference acts.

ON the 28th Emperor Francis Joseph accepted the resignation of the Wekerle Hungarian ministry, thanking the members for their service and their devotion to the interests of their country.

THE failures for the week ended on the 28th, as reported by R. G. Dun & Co., were 350 in the United States, against 311 last year, and 41 in Canada, against 41 last year.

CARNEGIE'S CLAIM.

Secretary Herbert's Authorized Statement Of His Interview with Mr. Carnegie—Neither He Nor His Friends Said Anything About Suing the Goverment to Recover the Money Withheld as a Fine.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—Secretary Herbert authorizes the following statement in regard to the Carnegie affair:

"Mr. Carnegie came into my office and said he had seen my testimony before the naval committee of the senate, and indicated that if the matter was to go on he would make a proposition: that he was willing to do anything that was fair. Mr. Carnegie expressed himself as having unbounded confidence in the armor, and said he was willing to go to any expense to show it. I told him that the newspapers had only published a portion of my statement before the committee. I stated to him the substance of what that evidence was. I told him the testimony had been published by the senate committee; that he could get a copy of it; that I had given it as my opinion that the Quay amendment providing that the $140,000 should be returned to his company in case the plates named should pass the ballistic test ought not to pass; that that fine was not imposed on the idea that the plates would not stand the ballistic tests, although on this point I might be mistaken. I further said that whether the plates stood that test or not, I did not think he was entitled to the money, because the fine had been imposed upon the company on the ground that it had not made the plates as much better than what those tests indicated as it could have done.

"I referred Mr. Carnegie and his friends to the printed testimony, and they left without making to me any definite proposition and without saying anything about suing the government. I told Mr. Carnegie that so far as the department was concerned the payment of that fine was considered as a final settlement of the question of damages."

JOHN W. FOSTER

Going to Japan to Assist the Chinese Peace Commissioners.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—Mr. John W. Foster has been requested by the Chinese government to go to Japan and meet the plenipotentiaries of the former government to aid them in their negotiations for peace. He has accepted the invitation, and expects to leave Washington within a day or two, sailing from Vancouver for Yokohama an January 7, unless informed of a delay in the departure of the plenipotentiaries.

The Japanese government has been advised of the appointment, and its minister in this city has expressed his satisfaction with it.

Mr. Foster desires to have it understood that he goes to Japan purely in a private capacity as an adviser of the Chinese plenipotentiary. He has no authority to represent or speak for the government of the United States.

The fact that Mr. Foster's appointment was submitted to the Japanese government and approved by it, indicates that politic overtures, as exclusively announced by the United Press at the time, were begun simultaneously with Mr. Foster's selection as the adviser of the Chinese government.

Mr. Foster has had an extended diplomatic career, having in addition to being secretary of state in President Harrison's cabinet, represented the United States at the court of Spain, and more recently one of the counsel of the United States in the Behring sea arbitration at Paris.

The immediate effect of his appointment will be to delay the beginning of the peace negotiations.

Mr. Foster's mission is taken as an indication that the Chinese expect to gain more favorable terms from Japan than has hitherto been considered at all probable. As Mr. Foster does not intend to sail for more than a week, and the voyage across the Pacific will consume two weeks more, nearly a month must elapse before the peace negotiations are fairly inaugurated.

NEWFOUNDLAND'S MISTAKE

In Refusing to Enter the Dominion Responsible for Her Present Condition.

LONDON, Dec. 28.—The Daily News says to-day, in a leader on the arrests of the bank officers in Newfoundland yesterday: The arrests seem to be in the nature of an heroic remedy for the financial troubles in the colony. Whatever the issue of the prosecution may be, it can hardly strengthen the public confidence on which the poor remnant of the colony's prosperity for the moment rests. Newfoundland is in a piteous state. She has almost returned to first principles as a social organization, and she must now regret her shortsighted refusal to enter the dominion. If she had joined the federation she would have a better claim on the support of her sister communities. Her refusal never was based on any other reason than selfish prudence."

Bloody Fight Over a Game of Craps.

HELENA, Ark., Dec. 28.—Pistols, guns and knives were used in a fight over a crap game at Hillhouse, Miss. Louis Allen killed two negroes instantly, mortally wounded two others, and, being shot by another of the party, fell dead on the bodies of his victims. Allen's father brought the body here for burial.

KENTUCKY'S BIG DEFICIT

Will Probably Result in an Extra Session of the Legislature.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Dec. 28.—There is a probability of an extra session of the legislature to take action in regard to raising finances to defray the expenses of state government. There is at present a deficit of about $800,000, which is increasing daily. When asked to-day, however, Gov. Brown said he had not decided to call the extra session. Nevertheless there have been rumors that he would do so early in January.

WILL A CONTEST LIE

Against Representative John J. Jenkins, of Wisconsin?—He Has Never Been Naturalized, But He was Brought Into the United States When an Infant, and Has a War Record, Which He Thinks Establishes His Status.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—The statement telegraphed from West Superior, Wis., to the effect that the seat of John J. Jenkins, republican, elected to the fifty-fourth congress to succeed Nils P. Haugen, the sitting member, may be contested on the ground that he is not a citizen, never having taken out naturalization papers, has resulted in a thorough search of the records at the capitol for precedents upon which to form an opinion as to the probability of E. C. Kennedy, the democratic candidate, being successful in his contest. It is said that Jenkins came from England with his parents when he was 4 years old and located at Baraboo, Wis., where he has since resided. He admits that he has never taken out naturalization papers, but claims that his service in the army makes him a citizen. It is not stated that his father was naturalized; if he were that would materially simplify the situation; in fact would settle it. The supreme court in the case of Campbell vs. Gordon decided that "the naturalization of an alien conferred the right of a citizen on his infant son who was at the time of the naturalization a resident of a foreign country, but was a resident of the United States at the passage of the law of 1802."

In the famous case of Boyd vs. Thayer, decided February 1, 1892, the question whether or not a father's naturalization conferred the right of citizenship upon his infant son was raised and discussed. Boyd having been elected governor of Nebraska. Thayer brought suit against him for possession of the office on the ground that he had never been naturalized. In the pleadings it was set up that Boyd's father was naturalized while Boyd was yet a minor. Discussing this point, Chief Justice Fuller, who delivered the opinion of the court, quoted the decision in Campbell-Gordon and said: "We perceive no reason for limiting the rule to the children of those who had already been naturalized. In our judgment the intention was that the act of 1802 should have a prospective operation."

It was held that Gov. Boyd's acts since arriving at the age of 21 years constituted a virtual compliance with the requirements of the law. The point made by Mr. Jenkins that his war record made him a citizen, was a question in the contest made against the seating of Capt. J. B. White, elected to the fifty-first congress from the twelfth Indiana district. Mr. White was not disturbed in his seat, and that case may form a precedent for determining Jenkins' right to his seat. Capt. White, after the matter had been discussed, completed his record by taking out naturalization papers in due form.

COMMISSIONER WRIGHT

Talks on the Great Chicago Strike Before the American Economic Association.

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—The second day's session of the seventh annual meeting of the American Economic association was called to order at 10 o'clock this morning in Hamilton hall, Columbia college. Hon. C. D. Wright, commissioner of labor, made the opening remarks and read the first paper at the morning session. His subject was the recent Chicago strike, which he described as a "combination of strike and boycott." He reviewed the cause of the struggle and its growth. He also reviewed the founding of the American Railway union, the organization which controled the strike, and cited the recent court decision regarding the strike. The speaker said that a system of state socialism means the destruction of industry and the retrogression of society. The federal or state government should not be allowed to regulate the wages or price of commodities. The present pooling bill before the senate is but a result of the feeling in favor of silent revolution.

A YOUNG HERO

Saves His Mother's Life Through the Flames of Their Burning Home.

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 28.—The home of Mrs. Spencer at Edgewood, on the Missouri Pacific, was burned to the ground Wednesday night, and Mrs. Spencer barely escaped with her life.

Mrs. Spencer and her son were the only persons in the house. Young Spencer was disrobing when the flames burst into his room.

He started to make his escape, but remembering his mother, ran to her room and found her on the floor in a dead faint. He picked her up and carried her through the flames and smoke to safety. Both escaped with a bad fright. Loss about $3,500.

A NEW SCANDAL

In Connection with French Army Contracts at Hand.

PARIS, Dec. 28.—The Presse says that a new scandal about army contracts is at hand. The fraud is said to be similar to the one practiced by Allez Bros., recently condemned. Ruffier, who contracted to deliver cavalry saddles of a certain quality, made some inferior goods, and they were rejected. Later, the Presse says, he got them accepted.

DETERMINED TO DIE.

Desperate Attempts of Frank Randolph to End His Life at Emporia, Kan.

EMPORIA, Kan., Dec. 28.—Frank Randolph Wednesday night slashed and stabbed himself horribly with a butcher knife in an attempt to commit suicide. After the knife was taken away he obtained a box of "Rough on Rats," and, filling his mouth with the dry stuff, swallowed all he could. He now lies unconscious, and the physicians are unable to say whether there is hope for his life or not. He is about 24 years ago.

DUN'S COMMERCIAL REVIEW.

Failures and Liabilities, Compared with Those of Last Year, Show a Remarkable Falling Off—The Purchasing Power of the Wage Earners of the Country for Three Years Compared—Holiday Purchases Reflect the Hard Times, Etc.

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade issued today says:

Commercial failures in 1894, already reported to R. G. Dun & Co., number 14,292, against 15,242 last year, with liabilities of $163,238,404, against $346,779,889 last year. Next week the final report for 1894 will probably include about 400 more failures, with liabilities of about $4,000,000. From these accounts, banks and bankers, financial and transporting companies are excluded.

Manufacturing failures already number 2,756, against 3,422 last year, but liabilities are only $64,491,287, against $176,982,091 last year. The trading failures already number 11,314, against 11,512 last year, but liabilities are only $87,898,057, against $130,062,333 last year.

The statement by sections shows a decrease of about two-thirds in defaulted liabilities in the middle and central northern states, one-half in the west and southwest, and a third in other sections.

Holiday trade has scarcely met expectations. Purchases have been numerous, but smaller than usual in amount and more confined to needful articles, thus anticipating ordinary trade.

The volume of business represented by clearing house exchanges is 7.7 per cent. larger than last year, but 21.8 per cent. less than the year before, and the daily average for December has been 7.1 per cent. more than last year, but 25.2 less than the year before.

Wheat has declined a half cent, though western receipts have been only 1,172,908 bushels, against 3,109,862 for the same week last year; but since August 1 receipts have been a little larger than last year, and the visible supply is the largest ever known. Exports in December from both coasts have been a little larger than last year, but for the crop year about 2,000,000 smaller. The western estimate, usually regarded with most confidence, is that the crop will reach 515,000,000 bushels, which will leave for export, with the stocks brought over, more than 200,000,000 bushels, of which only 75,000,000 bushels have gone abroad.

Corn has declined three-quarters of a cent, with good receipts.

The price of cotton has not changed, but the fact that receipts from plantations this month have been greater than in 1891, while stocks in sight here and abroad are larger than at the same date that year, is an obstacle to any rise.

Revision of prices for cotton goods have been the controlling feature since the great auction, and wide sheetings have been marked down about 10 per cent., while changes all along the line are expected. It is no longer disputed that the consuming demand has fallen below expectations and below the productions which mills kept up in the hope of increased consumption.

Very little has been done in woolen goods, all waiting for developments after January 1, when new duties take effect. Low grade overcoating already opened show little change, and in dress goods one or two cases of slight advance are noted. Sales of wool this month have been 17,896,800 pounds, against 18,049,197 last year and 21,302,300 in 1892, and Ohio has sold at 17 cents.

The market for iron and steel is waiting, but the reduction in wages at the Edgar Thomson works, averaging 15 per cent., plainly indicates the same difficulty which is seen in other quarters, that the demand for consumption does not answer to the increase in production of pig iron. The shipments of rails for eleven months are reckoned at only 700,000 tons, of which only 200,000 tons are for new roads. Numerous projects for steel buildings are under consideration, but no important contract is reported. It gives some encouragement that the Bethlehem works have secured a contract to make armor plate for Russia, but the order for cast pipe for Japan is still in doubt. Prices have scarcely changed during the week, though Bessemer pig and billets are, if anything, a shade weaker. There is larger demand in nails, but in hardware, machinery, engines and railway stocks and materials the business is much depressed.

Shipments of boots and shoes from Boston have been 640,471 cases in the past two months, against 584,239 in 1892, hitherto the largest year, but the difference about prices still checks operations.

Money is still coming to this city in a steady stream, and exports of gold for the week are expected to be about $2,500,000. The dissolution of the bond syndicate, on the ground that the pending currency bill has destroyed the market for bonds is the most important event in financial circles, and is liable to have results of some consequence.

Failures in three weeks of December show liabilities of $10,651,937, of which $3,569,760 were manufacturing and $6,751,419 of trading concerns.

The failures this week have been 350 in the United States, against 341 last year, and 41 in Canada, against 41 last year.

Burning of the Platt and Lawless Block at Waterbury, Conn.

WATERBURY, Conn., Dec. 29.—The Platt block, a handsome brick structure on the corner of East Main street and Phoenix avenue, four stories high, and the home of most of the lawyers in this city, was completely destroyed by a fire that broke out at 4 a. m. The Lawless block, adjoining on Main street, which contained Sery's hotel, was also burned. There were many narrow escapes. Edward Stone and George Harper, firemen, fell two stories and were badly injured. The loss will be over $100,000.

A MEMORABLE BUILDING

To be Torn Down and Replaced by a Magnificent Opera House—It is the House Wherein Secretary Seward and His Son were Assaulted and Where James G. Blaine and His Son and Daughter Died.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—The gloomy old brick mansion on Lafayette square, in which the murderous assault was made on Secretary Seward and his son the night of President Lincoln's assassination, and in which James G. Blaine and his son and daughter died, and which has also been associated with other memorable tragedies in Washington life, is to be torn down, and a handsome, fire-proof, steel opera house, to cost at least $250,000, is to be erected on the site now occupied by the house and its spacious grounds.

A building permit to that effect was issued yesterday to Paul D. Connor, representing a Chicago syndicate. The architects of the new building will be Wood & Lavelle, with whom are associated Messrs. Sossman and Landis, scenic artists, all of Chicago.

The house belonged until its recent purchase, to the estate of the late James G. Blaine, by whom it was first leased and afterwards purchased and improved. The sorrowful associations of so many tragic events connected with its history, however, made it an undesirable residence.

No more prominent site for an opera house could be found in Washington. The lot is very extensive and on the line of the chief street railroads, and immediately across Pennsylvania avenue from the chief entrance to the White House grounds and adjoining the department of justice and facing the treasury department.

TWO STICKS HANGED.

The Red Chief Pays the Penalty for One of His Numerous Crimes.

DEADWOOD, S. D. Dec. 29.—Two Sticks, the Sioux Indian, sentenced for a leading part in the murder of four cowboys on February 2, 1893, was hanged yesterday morning at 10 o'clock by United States Marshal P. E. Miller, in the presence of fifty people. The Indian died easily and quickly. The gallow was inclosed with a high board fence 50x50, the entire inclosure covered with a canvas, and admittance was by invitation.

An effort was made to have President Cleveland commute the sentence to imprisonment for life, the Indian Rights association of Philadelphsa interesting themselves in the matter. Attorney-General Olney telegraphed the district attorney, asking if the case would warrant a commutation of sentence. Attorney Miller replied that it was a clear case for hanging, so the execution took place as scheduled.

Two Sticks was 62 years old, weighs 165 pounds and is five feet four inches in height. He gained fifteen pounds since his incarceration, and did not seem to worry over his fate. He is the second Indian ever executed by judicial authority in the Dakotas, the other one being Brave Bear, who was hanged at Yankton twelve years ago.

DESTITUTION IN NEBRASKA.

People in Boyd and Holt Counties Must be Helped Soon or Starve.

O'NEIL, Neb., Dec. 29.—For some time past stories of fearful destitution have come from Boyd county and various parts of Holt, but they seemed so improbable that the people here hardly credited them. Inquiry shows, however, that the stories are not much exaggerated. The situation in Boyd county is bad, and if the people there are not helped soon they will starve or freeze to death.

J. M. Smith, who lives on what is called the Three-mile strip, on the state line, was in O'Neil yesterday, and he tells many harrowing and heartrending stories of the condition of the people in his part of Boyd county, and says that what is true of the people there is also true in almost all parts of the county. Mr. Smith comes well recommended; he has the indorsement of all the county officers, bankers and others of Butte, and there is no question of the truth or authenticity of his commission from the people of Boyd. He gathered considerable flour and provisions here and forwarded the same.

FARMER YOAKUM'S MURDERER

Captured in the Mountains of West Virginia—He May Confess.

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 29.—A telegram received at police headquarters late yesterday afternoon from Detective Mahoney announced that he had captured William Taylor, the murderer of Farmer Isaac Yoakum, of Worthington, in the mountains of West Virginia. Yoakum was assaulted on Thursday and died Saturday night from the effects of a terrible blow on the head. It is thought Taylor will confess.

THIEF AND DESERTER.

A Young Man Abandons His Wife and Family and Runs Away with a Rich Orphan.

BUTTE, Mont., Dec. 29.—Fred Walker, a young married man with a wife and three children, eloped with Ida Braddie, a 17-year-old orphan with a fortune of $10,000. The Walker family is left in destitute circumstances. Walker is short $800 as treasurer of the American Railway union, and $500 belonging to the business in which he was a partner.

BOLD BUT SUCCESSFUL.

A Station Agent Knocked Senseless and Robbed.

HOWARD CITY, Mich., Dec. 29.—When Station Agent Gilluly went out on the platform Thursday night with the express money for the Detroit, Lansing & Northern train, due at 7 o'clock, he was knocked senseless, dragged under the depot platform and robbed of his watch and $100. Gilluly is seriously injured, but will probably live. There were fifteen passengers at the depot when the robbery was committed, but the highwayman escaped unnoticed.

THE CHRONICLE.

C. C. DuBOSE, Editor and Proprietor.

COLUMBIANA, JAN. 3, 1895.

HAPPY NEW YEAR.

With this issue of The Chronicle we commence the year 1895. Looking forward with bright hopes, and without fear we step upon the threshold of the new year filled with a determination to make The Chronicle the best country paper in Alabama. Hoping to profit by our mistakes and short-comings of the past year, we shall endeavor to steer clear of the many pitfalls into which we may have stumbled and thus be enabled to work more intelligently for the good of Columbiana and Shelby county.

RETROSPECTIVE AND PROSPECTIVE.

The bells have rung the old year out and the new year in. Yes! a new year! Heir of all the experiences of the past and great with promise for the future. It is well that we stop and lift up our hearts to God and consider well the mistakes of the past that we may, with His help, avoid them in the future.

As we stop and look back one year when we stood just within the door of the new year, realizing that we had mounted one round higher in the ladder of time, and flushed with bright anticipations of victories to be won; of trials to be met and overcome; of great business enterprises to be carried to successful completion, we moved forward with many friends to do battle with the unknown trials of life which are sure to be met.

Hark! What's that? 'Tis the tolling of the bell. Some poor mortal, tired and sick of the everlasting strife, has laid down the armor of battle, never more to take it up again, and we pause on our journey long enough to look upon the still, white face, drop a tear of sorrow upon the cold earth that hides all that was mortal from earthly view, then we are pushed on with the hurrying, eager throng, and soon the still, white face and the new-made mound are forgotton as we mingle with the crowd seeking that great unattainable on this earth—perfect happiness. Many times are we called upon to pause and perform the same sad rites for loved ones, who have given up the strife that we la! done such a short time ago for another.

Then, again, have we witnessed the child taking its first step; toddling along a short distance, then falling down, but soon up and trying again, and again, until practice brings strength to the weak limbs and it launches out bravely on life's troubled sea. A little further on and we see two young people whose hearts and lives are pledged to each other on the holy altar of love, start out in the world hand in hand, with a determination, God helping them, to make a success of life. Will they accomplish it is the question that only time and themselves can answer.

Thus it is. Gladness and sorrow, sunshine and shadow. Radiant with hope and filled with bright anticipations for the future today; tomorrow cast down into the darkest depths of dispair; all hope gone; seeing nothing in the future but darkness and bitter disappointment.

This is life, and always will be to the end of time.

As 1894 was to us, so may we well prepare, in a great measure, to find 1895. Our joys may not be as great, our sorrows less poignant, we may live more upon an even plane of life, but should God spare our lives until 1896, a retrospect, carefully taken, will show that 1895 had her joys and sorrows for us in about the same measure as 1894.

All the past was in the old year, but the bright dawn of a new future shines upon us. As we gaze upon its first glorious ray we picture to ourselves the realization of hope deferred. We listen and hear in the tones of the bell, quivering with the dirge of the dead past, a new strain. It tells of passions soothed to peace, hatred quenched in forgiveness, and a new hope is breathed in our souls.

Longer would we linger in the portals of the past, living only in its loves and joys, forgetting its sadness and terrors. But relentless time urges us on, reluctant, or willing, we are hurried toward those battlements which are seen dimly outlined against the horizon, but which may be mist shrouded and so near at hand that the next step will bring us to the grim gates which open but once to every mortal, and behind which there is a greater mystery than that of Time. Woe be it to us, as we march along with the mighty hosts, if we fail to do our duty and shrink to do battle against the mighty fortress of wrong and prejudice according to the strength of our soul and the justice of our cause.

Miss Winnie Davis, the daughter of the South, has just published a new book. She is now devoting herself almost exclusively to literature.

A Georgia editor exclaims in rhyme: "The wind bloweth, the water floweth, the subscriber oweth, and the Lord knoweth we are in need of our dues. So come a runnin', this thing of dunnin' gives us the blues."

Eugene Byars, of Birmingham, who murdered his cousin, Eugene Walker, last January for his money, will be hanged February 8th. The State Supreme court sustaining the decision of the Jefferson county criminal court. A petition for executive clemency will be presented to the governor.

Over sixty marriage licenses were issued in Jefferson county during the Christmas season, twenty-nine being issued on the Monday before Christmas. This is a sure indication of returning prosperity of our country.

A Baltimore man stole a cat from a neighbor, who had him arrested for theft. The judge decided that it was impossible for any one to steal a cat, as that animal is not property. The old maids in that section are now all in tears.

It is claimed that Liverpool speculators are offering cotton of the 1895 crop at prices that will yield the producer about 4½ cents. If our people will raise about half the present crop for next year, these enterprising speculating gentlemen will hear something drop.

After long litigation in the court with publishers, Mrs. Jefferson Davis has just secured possession of her deceased husband's memoirs, and hopes soon to secure the sheet and plates of "Short History of the Confederacy," which she will publish in a revised edition.

M. W. Howard, the populite elect member of congress from the seventh Alabama district, will, very likely, not be allowed to take his seat. His book, showing up the private lives of members of congress, and calling them moral leepers, will be the basis of the cause for his rejection.

Miss Celeste Stauffer, the young lady who was engaged to Samuel J. Tilden, who was elected president of the United States in 1876, but was counted out by the republican returning board, was married at New Orleans December 26th. Mr. Tilden bequeathed her $100.000 in his will.

Seeley, the New York bank thief, got only eight years for stealing $354,000. That is, Seeley gets in round figures, about $44,000 a year for permitting himself to be locked up. That is almost as much as the average editor gets for working 18 hours out of 24 trying to save the country.

In answer to the question: "What is home without a newspaper?" an exchange says: "It's a place where hats are stuffed into window panes, where the children are like young pigs, the wife like a savage, and the husband with a panorama of the Dismal Swamp painted on his shirt bosom with tobacco juice."

Rev. Dr. Edward McGlynn, who was excommunicated from the Catholic church by the Pope of Rome, for taking up with Henry George's single tax theories, has just been restored, and celebrated his first mass on Christmas day at the Church of the Holy Cross, New York City. He had been debarred from celebrating mass or exercising any of the offices in the Catholic church for eight years.

The storm of last week was general in its nature, extending almost entirely over the country. It was about as cold as it usually gets in this locality, the thermometer on last Friday morning registering 11 degrees above zero, which then registered its lowest, and then grew warmer until Sunday morning, when it commenced snowing, changing at noon to rain, then sleet, with clearing, fair weather on Monday.

If the last election demonstrated any one thing beyond doubt, it was that populism has "gone where the woodbine twineth." Waite, Lewelling, the "sockless" Jere Simpson, Tom Watson and nearly all the gallant bomb-proof brigade have bitten the dust and passed in their checks. Republicanism was triumphant, but its only enemy in future is the old, rock-ribbed, battle-scared democracy.—Ft. Payne Journal.

With the coming of the new year comes a rift in the dark clouds of financial depression which hover over our country, and the bright sunshine of prosperity comes glimmering through. The bank reserve has decreased, and consequently the volume of currency among the people has increased. The country, especially the South, is slowly resuming a normal condition. The clouds will roll by, and good times will come again some time.

Spain has undertaken to bulldoze the United States. Under the circumstances it would appear that she had undertaken a very large contract, but the foreign nations learned long ago that the American government will stand a great deal of foolishness. Some day Uncle Sam may conclude to show the foreigners that he is entitled to the most scrupulous respect, and then somebody will get into trouble. As foreigners never see the American flag in their harbor, many of them are under the impression that this country does not amount to much, and that it may be ignored in the games of the nations.

The wife of a laboring man in a northern city complained to the mayor that her husband had spent his weeks' salary—$11.00—in a saloon in one hour and a half, leaving her without a penny to buy bread for herself and children. The mayor sent for the saloon keeper and made him refund $10.00 of the money, and informed him that his action was as bad as highway robbery, and that the next time he was guilty of such an act his license would be revoked. Let the good work go on, and may the day soon come when the man who drinks or sells intoxicating liquors will be ostracized from society, and considered as one little better than the brute.

BOOK TRUST IN ALABAMA.

A Combination With the Book Dealers of the State to Rob the People—Legislative Investigation Probable.

Correspondence of the Courier Journal.

Montgomery, Ala., Dec. 20.—The legislature of Alabama is likely to get seriously mixed up with the American Book Company, widely known as the School Book Trust, or the indications are all wrong. This state has no statute regarding school books, and the Book Trust, taking advantage of the situation, has been imposing upon the people most outrageously, but a day of reckoning is coming, and that very speedily, too.

Some time ago, this great monopoly formed a combination with the University Publishing Company of New York, and Hansell & Brother, of New Orleans. This entirely removed these popular southern corporations from the rank of competitors. The Book Trust then proceeded to make a deal with the Alabama Book Sellers' Association, containing in its membership the most prominent book firms in the state. It was then in beautiful shape to squeeze the people as it pleased, and it has been doing so in a manner almost beyond belief. School books that can be purchased in other states for 75 and 80 cents, retail, in the cities of Alabama, at $1.25 and 1.50, and in the country at even higher prices; and this monstrous combine supplies 90 per cent of the books used in the public schools.

For several years repeated attempts have been made by the friends of education to induce the state legislature to pass some measure that would relieve the people of this burdensome school-book tax, but the Book Trust and the book-dealers would not have it so. Through skillful lobbying, every effort in that line has been killed, and the exorbitant prices have continued. In the present legislature, a local school-book bill was recently introduced. Not being acceptable to the Book Trust, because it would open up competition, it was vigorously jumped upon. Some of the lobbyists, in their zeal to serve the trust, were indiscreet. In consequence of this, the true inwardness of the opposition leaked out. When the bill came up in the senate they could get only one man to vote against it.

This knock-out was bad enough in itself, but there is still greater trouble ahead. Some of the members of the legislature are now fully informed of the infamous purpose of the Book Trust and dealers to block legislation, and it is morally certain they will be able to command very few votes against the general book bill now in the legislature; and their compact is likely to become the subject of legislative investigation. No special interest ever successfully resisted the will of an injured people. The citizens of Alabama have been wronged by the School Book Trust, and they know it and they are now demanding and will obtain from the legislature a proper law for their relief and protection. The members of this general assembly will not be controlled by the paid lobbyists of a corrupt combination.

HOW TO BOOM A TOWN.

From the Kansas Chief.

Kick.

Kick hard.

Kick at everything.

Don't pay a cent under any circumstances—advertising or otherwise—and kick continually.

Refuse to enter any combination that will be a benefit to anyone but yourself.

Always speak ill of your competitor in business; kick at the merchants, school teachers, doctors, newspapers, town board, and everything else.

Always buy of peddlers, if possible, and give your home merchants the go-by.

Speak of your own town as the most immoral place on earth, and say a bad word for it every chance you can get.

If a stranger comes to town, tell him that everything is overdone, and that the town is no good on general principles. This will be a good drawing card to new business and industries.

Stop your home paper, ask your friends to do the same, and insist that they take the Bungtown Blister, or the Kansas City Sunday Sun. This will give your home paper a great boom and assist your editor materially, which you must avoid above everything else.

If you are in business don't advertise. Buy a rubber stamp and use that. It may save you a few dimes, and look so much nicer than if printed by an artist.

Kick because you and your friends are not permitted to run the town, and if you do run it, kick anyhow.

Plaint of the Pessimist.

It's growing colder.
Every year.
And we're getting older.
Every year.
The years are growing shorter;
People don't do as they oughter;
Our bank account's getting sorter
Slim, and the lines are drawing tauter
Every year.

Age-Herald.

A careful comparison of the vote of the country, cast last November, with that of 1892, shows plainly the cause of democratic defeat, which was not due to an increase of the republican vote, as that party polled about the same vote in 1894 as it did in 1892, and the populists gained about 200,000, while the falling off in the democratic vote was about 1,500,000. This enormous vote will be cast at the election of 1896, and it will place the party of the people, the democratic party, in power again by an overwhelming majority.

The Chicago Herald's "Dixie" special made the unprecedented time from Chicago to Atlanta, a distance of 733 miles, in sixteen hours and fifty-six minutes, an average of forty-three miles an hour including stops. The trip was made in the interest of the great Atlanta international exposition to be opened next September and continue three months. One million copies of the Herald were printed, eight pages of which were devoted exclusively to the coming great exposition. Great is Chicago, and great are its papers.

THE WEEK OF PRAYER.

BY REV. W. I. SINNOTT.

The week of prayer for the entire body of christians in the United States has been appointed by the Evangelical Alliance for the week beginning with the first Sabbath of January. Knowing the power of united prayer from past experience and from the teaching of the Scriptures, it is requested of all christians, either to meet together, or, if this is impossible, then in their private devotions, on each day of the first complete week in January to present to the Throne of Grace special and particular petitions for certain blessings needed for the entire world. We know that prayer has increased power when the same petitions are made by God's people in all parts of the world, or even in several communities at the same time.

The pastors of Columbiana have agreed to observe this week of prayer and they will be glad to see every christian in the town at the meetings, the first one of which will be held in the Presbyterian Church on Monday night, and afterwards it will go to the other churches of town. All christians who can do so are urged to attend these services, and those who cannot attend the public services, whether living in Columbiana or elsewhere, are earnestly asked on the days selected to remember at family worship and in their private prayers, the objects mentioned in the following list of topics. The list of topics selected are as follows:

SERMONS.

Sunday, January 6.—"They that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength."—Isa. 40:31.

HUMILIATION AND THANKSGIVING.

Monday, January 7.—Confession of sin; of unprofitableness in the service of Christ and of conformity to the word.—Psalm 51; Dan. 9:3-13; Math. 21:17-20.

Praise and Thanksgiving—For blessings temporal and spiritual: for awakening conscience in civic affairs: for an increasing apprehension of the relations of Christ to society.—Psalm 34; Eph. 1:15-23.

THE CHURCH UNIVERSAL.

Tuesday, January 8.—Prayer—For the manifestation of the Holy Ghost; for increasing fellowship among believers, and more active co-operation among Churches.—Acts 1: 5 8; 1-18; Eph. 4: 1-16.

NATIONS AND THEIR RULERS.

Wednesday, January 9.—Prayer—For national righteousness and peace; for the putting away of legislative sanction to vice and all immoral traffic; for all needed reforms, social, industrial and political: for all in authority; for religious liberty.—Deut. 4; 5-8; Psalm 67; Prov. 14:34; Rom. 13: 1-7; Mark 9: 38-40.

FOREIGN MISSIONS.

Thursday, January 10.—Prayer—For all missionaries and missionary societies: for more laborers; for the conversion of Jews, Mohammedans and heathen; that the war in the East may open new doors to the gospel; that the African Rum Traffic may be suppressed.—Luke 23: 45-48; Math. 39: 36-38; Psalm 22: 27, 28.

HOME MISSIONS.

Friday, January 11.—Prayer—For home, and city missionaries, and for missionary societies; for a larger apprehension of the social mission of the Church; for increased co-operation; for a deeper sense of responsibility in behalf of neglected country districts and the unreached multitudes of the cities.—Col. 4: 2-4; Isa. 62.

FAMILIES AND SCHOOLS.

Saturday, January 12.—Prayer—For parents, sons, daughters and servants, that in all their relations with each other they may follow the Divine teaching; for all charged with the training of children and youth; for all Christian societies for young people; for Sunday and day schools, and for all institutions of learning.—Col. 3: 14-25; Prov. 4.

SERMONS.

Sunday, January 13—"Always abounding in the work of the Lord."—1 Cor. 15: 58.

Have Your Steam Gauge Tested Free.

The Mechanical Department of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute takes pleasure in informing its friends, the steam users of Alabama, that it is now provided with apparatus for testing and correcting steam gauges.

All are familiar with the fact that steam gauges become inaccurate after continued use and become sources of danger rather than instruments of protection. Any citizen of this state owning a gauge and wishing to have it tested and corrected, can have the same done free of charge by sending it to the undersigned by express, charges prepaid.

To prevent delay, caused by having more gauges sent us than can be tested promptly, it is requested that parties having such work to do will notify the undersigned by postal card, being careful to sign name and address plainly, and they will receive in return a printed slip giving directions for packing and shipping, and assigning a day for shipment.

Any advice or information desired that can be furnished by this department, may be had for the asking.

THE NEW YEAR.

M. L. ASPLEY IN COMMERCIAL APPEAL.

As I dreamfully sit in my silent room,
This saddest of all sad days,
And gaze in the fire now fast burning low,
A strange vision meets my gaze.

On a couch of snow, the sky for its spread,
Lies the form of a weird old man.
His scepter, the scythe, now useless to him,
Has dropped from his palsied hand.

But the hour glass still he holds with a will,
There seems to be strength in his might.
Yea! to the last hour he asserts his power
Of measuring time in its flight.

The fire lower burns and my gaze now turns
To another form appearing.
I see a young child, with joy and mirth wild—
A torch aloft he is bearing.

He kneels by the form on its couch of snow,
A kiss on the cold brow pressing,
He looks at the scythe as it useless lies,
And kneels for the old man's blessing.

The old year turns. I see it is he.
His weary eyes so full of sadness,
And places his hand on the bowed young head,
Seeming to say, "To all bring gladness."

The child rising now takes sceptre and glass,
And the old man passes from view;
I silently feel the death of the old
Is to us the birth of the new.

And ever it is, as the year dies,
And passes away so wearily,
We greet with joy this bright young boy
Who comes to us so merrily.

The Columbiana Literary Society.

The last meeting of the Columbiana Literary Society was held at the residence of Mr. E. B. Nelson on Friday night, Dec. 28th, '94.

The program, as arranged at the previous meeting, was very successfully carried out.

On account of the very severe weather, the attendance was smaller than usual.

A goodly number of visitors were present.

Our young friend, Mr. Will O'Hara, made a very interesting and encouraging talk.

The next meeting of our Society will be held at the residence of Mr. E. B. Nelson on Friday night, Jan. 11th 1895.

Misses Helen Oliver and Jessie Carter spent Christmas at home.

Messrs. Louis Christian, Rob't Oliver, W. O. Dunn, Theodore Sparks and Frank Spears, accompanying Misses Isla Averyt, Jesse Carter, Mary Riddick, Helen Oliver, and Mamie Glenn visited Sylacauga the 26th inst. to be present at the wedding of Mr. J. Knox Lanning, of this city, and Miss Cora Phillips, of that place. The party reports sumptuous fare, elegant treatment, and an all-around good time. Who next?

John Hazzard, (col.) who, on the night of March 3d, 1891, was charged with mean whisky, at a party given by Ellen Walden, without provocation shot and killed Caroline Roden and her son, John, escaped to Texas. It is now rumored and believed that he rode a mustang pony out on the prairies, which threw him, and broke his leg in two places. He attempted to drag himself home, became exhausted, and burning with thirst, shot himself to be relieved of his misery. When found, the wolves and vultures had devoured portions of his carcass. Those who would like to refer to a parallel case, see 1st Kings, 23d chap. through 23d verse: also 2nd Kings, 9th chap. and 30th verse through 37th verse.

The particulars of the above were obtained by a letter written by himself and found on his person.

The income tax law pays a premium on single blessedness. Suppose that a young woman has an income of $10,000, she has to pay a tax on but $6,000. Her intended husband has the same income and the same tax. But they marry, and the income tax law compels them to pay a tax on $16,000 instead of $12,000. The $4,000 of the woman is not exempt the moment she marries. —Chicago Inter-Ocean.

A Few Proverbs.

Most folks get savage when they mean only to be severe.

When all men know little, how can any man know it all?

How little anything costs that is to be paid for in the future.

You know what a man is when you know what he will oppose.

Every civilization bears in it seeds of the civilizations to follow.

Much mischief has been done by making virtue seem a nuisance.

Nothing itches like an empty palm, unless it be an overfull one.

Some men never win because they never expect to win.

Snow, sleet, slop, slush, and the end is not yet.

Commissioners court will convene next Monday.

Henry Milner spent a portion of last week in Birmingham.

R. G. Weldon, of Wilsonville, paid us a pleasant call yesterday.

Mac Piper and W. A. Walburn, of Shelby, spent Sunday in town.

T. K. Roberts spent Christmas week with his parents at Sylacauga.

Hon. R. W. Cobb, of Helena, was in town yesterday among friends.

Frank Anchors, of Anniston, paid relatives here a visit last week.

Miss Alma Daran, of Calera, was the guest of Miss Allie Nelson last week.

Horace Hammond spent last week with his father's family in Wilsonville.

Miss Essie Mason spent last week in Childersburg the guest of Miss Ola Edwards.

Wm. Fraser, Jr., of Montgomery, spent the holidays with his aunt, Mrs. Hiyett.

Mr. Richard Kinkle, of Selma, spent Christmas with his sister, Mrs. W. H. Newton.

J. R. Hill and family, of Jemison, spent last week with the family of W. G. Parker.

A. H. Avery and Frank Sparks, of Shelby, attended quarterly meeting here Saturday.

Mrs. D. B. McMath and little John Adams spent last week with relatives in Montevallo.

Little Alice Walburn, of Shelby, spent Christmas week with the family of S. T. Anchors.

Will Parker and Frank Jackson, of British, helped to entertain our town during the holidays.

J. A. Moore, of Hubbard, Texas, spent last week with the family of his brother, B. L. Moore.

Mrs. Fannie V. Chambers, of San Jacinto, Cal., is here on a visit to her sister, Mrs. A. Mardis.

The Chronicle wishes for each and every one of its patrons a happy and prosperous new year.

The charming Miss Kate Upshaw spent Christmas in town, much to the delight of her many friends.

W. H. Wimpee and daughter, Chlora, returned Saturday from a Christmas visit to his father at Rome, Ga.

Mr. Hendrix, of Mumford, spent Friday and Saturday in town. We heard he came to see his best girl.

John T. Cromwell, our efficient night watchman, returned Monday from a visit to friends at Maplesville.

The Misses Looney, who are attending the Fitting School here, spent last week with relatives in Fayetteville.

Misses Myrtle Swain and Annie McMillan, who are students of the Livingston Normal College, spent last week at home.

Miss Georgia Leeper is at home for a few days. She will spend a few days in Anniston on her return to Agnes Scott College.

J. H. Weldon and Amos Daniel, of Wilsonville, two staunch democrats and nigh-toned gentlemen, were in town Saturday a few hours.

Subject of discourse at the Baptist church, second Sunday in January: "Catholicism contrasted with Protestantism, or Ritualism versus Faith."

MARRIED.—December 25, '94, Mr. W. A. Lyon and Miss Jennie E. West at the residence of the bride's father, John A. West, Rev. C. W. O'Hara officiating.

Joe Roberts and Geo. Mason, who are attending college at Livingston, spent the holidays here. We are glad to learn they are both taking a high stand at college.

Miss Naldo Christian, one of Shelby's most beautiful young ladies, spent Tuesday and Wednesday of last week with her friends, Misses Nellie Parker and Anna Milner.

Cadets Will O'Hara and Ed. C. Parker, of Howard College, spent the holidays at home. They are both making gratifying progress in college and their futures are indeed promising.

Cadets John Milner and E. B. Teague, of the State University, spent last week with home folks and many friends. They are both bright young men and our town may well feel proud of them.

E. L. Spencer and wife left Monday for Atlanta, Ga. Mrs. Spencer has been in feeble health for several months, and her many friends indulge the hope that she may return fully restored to health.

W. B. Browne returned Sunday from New York City, where he has been for several weeks under treatment. He is much improved in health and spirits, and the prospects for his complete recovery seem flattering.

Thomas J. Caldwell, of Birmingham, than whom a nobler specimen of the genius homo does not exist, spent one day of last week with friends here, and when we say friends we mean the entire population of Columbiana.

Mrs. D. B. Math gave her pupils a week's vacation during the holidays. On Friday afternoon before dismissal, quite a number of her patrons were entertained by speeches, essays, etc., and, be it said to her credit, her scholars all acquitted themselves superbly.

The first Quarterly meeting for this circuit was held in the Methodist church here last Saturday and Sunday, Rev. John W. Newman, recently appointed presiding elder, presiding. He is a preacher of talent, culture, fine address, earnest and eloquent, and impressed every one present with his zeal in the Master's work.

Brown McMillan and Leeper have moved their law office into their elegant new apartments on the second floor of the Clardy block. They occupy the two front rooms, and they have them fitted up in attractive and comfortable style. They are now prepared to dish out law in any quantity, quality or price desired. Simply press the button, they will do the rest.

We have just finished the printing of the minutes of the Synod of Presbyterian church of Alabama. The proceedings made fifty pages of printed matter and one thousand copies were printed. The Chronicle office is doing considerable book and magazine printing, and as we have fitted up our office for just this particular line of work, we are enabled to do as good work as can be done in Birmingham, Montgomery, or any other city. Write us for estimates and we guarantee you as low prices and as good work as can be done anywhere.

The town was quite gay Chaistmas week. The young people who are attending college at a distance were at home; many friends from other places were visiting here, and thus families were united who have not been for a long time; many pleasant parties were held nights throughout the town, and everybody was full of merriment and good cheer. But the first of the week witnessed the departure of the scholars and guests, and today many a home seems lonely, and the heart for the short time sad, because friends have gone and the usual routine of life has been taken up.

The Columbiana Fitting School gave its pupils ten days' vacation for Christmas, but resumed business at the old stand on Tuesday with very flattering prospects for a prosperous session. Public examinations consumed the last two days before closing. During this time it could be seen clearly that the work of the session then ending had been thorough, systematic and faithful. We heartily congratulate Messrs. Greek and Roberts and their accomplished assistant, Miss Louella Teague, on the substantial results obtained so far, and we bespeak for them the earnest support of the entire community for the future as in the past.

A supper was given at the Central Hotel Christmas night for the little folks. The weather was rather inclement for children, but they turned out in force nevertheless. Quite a number of older persons were there also, who soon became enthused by the spirit of the occasion (not spirits fermenti) and they entered heartily into the sport of the children. The supper was abundant, and of ample variety to suit the palates of all. After the feast, recitations were made by Misses Myrtle Swain and Ethel Greek, both of whom have already established an enviable record in this line. Cadet Will O'Hara made an appropriate speech also, after which the crowd were turned loose to do as each one pleased until at the hour of 10 o'clock all returned home unanimous in the declaration that the evening had been delightfully spent.

Beautiful faces are always features of Hood's Sarsaparilla calendars, and they were never more charming than they are this season. Hood's Sarsaparilla calendar for 1895 is heart shaped and is ornamented with representations of "Summer" and "Winter." A sweet little face, which peeps out from a dainty cap, with the snow flakes falling all about, represents the season of ice and snow, while the sunshine of summer lights up another face at the left. The design was made by one of the most gifted water color artists in the country, and the work of the lithographer is seemingly perfect. Hood's calendar, as usual, presents all the desired information about the lunar changes and other astronomical events. Ask your druggist for a copy, and if his supply is exhausted, send six cents in stamps for one calendar, or ten cents for two, to C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

The Columbiana Literary Society gave a superb exhibition in the large auditorium on the second floor of our school building on Friday night, Dec. 21. We regret that we could not be present, but owing to circumstances over which we had no control, we were compelled to remain at home. The circumstances, as well as we remember, were about these: Mrs. Chronicle concluded she wanted to take in the show, and when we reached home in the evening she had her bangs curled, her best harness on, and we were informed (very quietly but firmly) that the little Chronicles would be left in our charge for the evening. That settled it, and it is needless to add that we stayed at home. Consequently we cannot write the entertainment up as we would like and as it really deserves, but our better half says it was good, very good indeed, in fact splendid. And the receipts were good also, amounting to about $25.00. After the entertainment, a large portion of the audience repaired to the hospitable home of John W. Johnston, where an oyster supper was in progress, and here the receipts were swelled to the handsome total of $35.00.

Carlton Cornwell, foreman of the Gazett, Middletown, N. J., believes that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy should be in every home. He used it for a cold and it effected a speedy cure. He says: "It is indeed a grand remedy; I can recommend it to all. I have also seen it used for whooping cough with the best results." 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Parker & Armstrong.

Making His Mark at Howard.

EAST LAKE, ALA., Dec. 20, 1894.
EDITOR CHRONICLE.—

DEAR SIR.—Please publish in your next issue that Cadet J. W. O'Hara is on the Roll of Honor of Howard College for the six weeks ending December 14th.

Respectfully,
A. W. MCGAHA, Pres.

There is reason good for the popularity of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Davis & Buzard, of West Monterey, Claion Co., Pa., say: "It has cured people that our physicians could do nothing for. We persuaded them to try a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and they now recommend it with the rest of us." 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Parker & Armstrong.

CHARACTER OF AMERICANS.

An English View is One of Which We May be Proud.

Take them as a whole, the Americans are the kindliest race on the face of the earth, says the London Spectator. In spite of their eagerness, their push, their desire to be in the front rank at all times and all seasons, the true American seldom fails in kindness. He wants badly to prevent anyone getting ahead of him mentally, physically and morally, but if his competitor fails in the struggle he will make untold sacrifices to help him up. The rule in American business is pure cut-throat competition, carried to its logical conclusion. You are expected to press and push every point as far as it can possibly be pushed and pressed, and no one is expected to consider whether, in making a coup, you will not ruin Brown, Jones and Robinson. The moment, however, that Brown, Jones or Robinson actually goes under, he is treated with the utmost generosity and consideration.

The hand which struck him down is instantly stretched forth to help him, and as much care and trouble are used to put him on his feet once again as were originally employed to knock him off them. In social intercourse, this kindness and sunshiness is especially attractive. The American will take infinite pains to make the merest stranger happy. He is courteous and pleasant spoken, not like the Frenchman, from convention, but from the sense of pleasure which his instinctive optimism teaches him to diffuse. His optimism has even proved strong enough to break down the shyness which naturally belongs to the English race. One sees, no doubt, survivals of it in the American, but in most cases the sense that all is for the best in the best possible of worlds has mastered it altogether.

"I know an old soldier who had chronic diarrhoea of long stauding to have been permanently cured by taking Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy," says Edward Shupike, a prominent druggist of Minneapolis, Minn. "I have sold the remedy in this city for over seven years, and consider it superior to any other medicine now on the market for bowel complaints." 25 and 50 cent bottles of this remedy for sale by Parker & Armstrong.

Every reform that comes and stays begins in the heart.

The Waylaying of Mr. James Winslett,

It is a noteworthy fact that for two years the Christmas tide has been signalized with criminal acts at this place. The tragedy that marked that period a year ago, was almost unparalleled in the annals of crime. An innocent man, a devoted husband and a worthy citizen was foully murdered in the sacred precincts of his home, and no clue to the perpetrator except his own wife. The person murdered was Mr. J. A. Seale. This Christmas brings with it a waylaying that if it had been successful, would have resulted perhaps in the killing of Mr. Jas. Winslett, a wan who, as far as any one knows, has no open enemy around or about this place. He was paid off at the Company's office on last Saturday night, and afterward went up home with 20 or more dollars in his pocket, the result of his hard earned toil. He cancelled his debts as far as it would go, and went over to Mr. Joe Brown's house (the Christian place) to see a brother of his. While there he exchanged knives with a young lad named Virgil Brown, and at about 12 o'clock started for his home. The night was tolerably dark, perhaps somewhat cloudy, sufficiently dark however to prevent any one from seeing far ahead. At the crossing of the dirt road leading back of the old red shack, now kept as a colored boarding house by a negro named Goodgame, with the railroad leading from the rear of the furnaces, he turned up a pathway on the right of which was a deep gully. After taking a few steps along this path, he thought he heard some persons talking in an undertone about three or four yards in front of him. He stopped and listened for a few moments, and not seeing any one, ventured onward. When he had gone on a little farther and came alongside a pine bush about twice as tall as he is, he heard a noise close by it and a little to his rear. He instantly turned his head, when he received a staggering blow upon his right jaw, cutting the skin for three inches. From the effects of the lick which so unnerved him, he sided towards the gully and being unable to see it he fell into it in a doubled up position. He sprang, as soon as he could into an upright position, with his back against one of the sides of the gully, when two persons slid down into the ditch facing him. Fortunately he had his knife open in his pocket, for he is in the habit of carrying it that way in the dark—when he slashed away right and left with his knife. The knife was the one he had gotten from the lad spoken of and was a better one than his. After swaying his knife with marked effect upon the bodies of either one or both of his assailants, they dropped a few feet below down the ditch and out of his reach, whereupon he turned up the ditch to find a place where he could get out. The waylayers followed him, but did not again come within reach of him, for he had dealt them blows that had made them shy of him. Once out of the ditch, Mr. Winslett pressed around towards his home and hallowed to his family sufficiently loud for his folks to hear him. The midnight robbers, for they must have been prompted to commit such a diabolical deed by motives to secure booty, slunk off in the dark having been foiled in their devilish designs.

Mr. Winslett, soon after his arrival at home, sought for a physician to dress his wounds. When examined, his face was found to be considerably bruised and skinned by the fall into the gully. A cut was found upon his jaw about two inches in length, evidently cut by a piece of iron ore or cinder. There was scarcely any flow of blood from it. Mr. Winslett informed your correspondent that he was sure that one or both of his assailants was injured worse than he was, as he had certainly cut something every time he made a stroke and it was not clothes either. Early next morning before the sun had kissed away the dewdrops from the weeds and shrubs, your correspondent visited the scene of the midnight struggle. In the gully or ditch, as we have indiscriminately spoken of it, there was quite a lot of blood at one place, and along up the sides of the gully drops of blood were seen here and there evidently dropping from the fingers of the wounded party. There were shoe marks, one quite small. The number could not have been over a No. 7. The tracks of the waylayers went up the ditch for at least thirty feet beyond the place where Mr. Winslett got out of it and led across the ore banks near where the old shaker was burned. Up to date no clue has been found to even cast a suspicion as to who attacked Mr. Winslett. He is unable to say whether they were white or black. He asserts that there were two in the attacking party, and can affirm that either one or both were worse hurt than he was. It is a great pity that the fact that there were dogs at Columbiana that could, in all probability, have trailed them, was overlooked. There is no doubt the guilty ones could have been easily run down on account of their being so much blood spilled, and besides, the ground was damp.

There have been some terrible murders committed here that have never been ferreted out. They have been passed over with seeming indifference on account of the lack of the necessary agencies to secure the perpetrators. Three years ago, a man by the name of Nelson was ruthlessly shot down and no one ever heard any more of it. Henry Perkins, a negro man, was shot from ambush just above the A. M. depot not over a year and a half ago and it was passed over silently. A year ago, J. A. Seale was most foully murdered in his own home and the perpetrator goes unwhipped of justice. Jas. Winslett, not over a week ago, waylaid and no one is even suspicioned yet the deed was done.

A pair of pants was purloined by a well known negro from H. Stark's store last Saturday night. After failing to have him arrested by a constable, he employed other means and secured the pants. The negro has always been regarded favorably and above such an act of criminality.

The same night, old man Sawyer, a colored man, was robbed of two sacks of flour which he had placed in his wagon preparatory to going home.

Dr. Abbott's Liberal Creed.

Rev. Dr. Lyman Abbott, unlike some clergymen, is not opposed to novels, theatres or even dancing. In his sermon the other morning, he said he believed in love stories. They taught the language of affection to those who know not how to express their love. He thought it was good once in a while for persons to see a love drama presented on the stage. Dancing was said to be dangerous—perhaps it is, but he did not know, as he did not dance—but so was life itself dangerous, and the only safe place to be in that he knew of was a sepulcher.—N. Y. Special to Philadelphia Ledger.

Pains in the Back

"I had been afflicted for several years with what the doctors called Diabetes, and suffered terribly. The pain in my back was agonizing in the extreme. Hood's Sarsaparilla and Hood's Pills cured me. Now I can go to church and attend other meetings with pleasure. I always keep Hood's Pills by me. In my whole life I never met anything that did me so much good as Hood's Sarsaparilla. 'Experience teaches a dear school, but fools will learn by no other.' I was once foolish enough to listen to a druggist who claimed to have something superior to Hood's, and took another medicine. If I had thrown my dollar in the street I would have been a gainer." Has discovered in one of our common pasture weeds a remedy that cures every kind of Humor, from the worst Scrofula down to a common Pimple.

He has tried it in over eleven hundred cases, and never failed except in two cases (both thunder humor). He has now in his possession over two hundred certificates of its value, all within twenty miles of Boston. Send postal card for book.

A benefit is always experienced from the first bottle, and a perfect cure is warranted when the right quantity is taken.

When the lungs are affected it causes shooting pains, like needles passing through them; the same with the Liver or Bowels. This is caused by the ducts being stopped, and always disappears in a week after taking it. Read the label.

If the stomach is foul or bilious it will cause squeamish feelings at first.

No change of diet ever necessary. Eat the best you can get, and enough of it. Dose, one tablespoonful in water at bedtime. Sold by all Druggists.

SUGAR TRUST FOLLY.

The Rash Bluff of a Protection-Fostered Monopoly.

The threat of the sugar trust to close its eastern refineries was characteristic of the methods of that monopoly. It was made by Mr. H. O. Havemeyer, the president of the trust, within a few days of the meeting of congress, and Mr. Havemeyer based the pretended necessity for closing the refineries and turning thousands of men out of employment on the probability of the passage of the free-sugar bill, which, having gone through the house of representatives at the last session of congress, is pending in the senate. At the time when this threat was uttered there was small probability that the free-sugar bill would be passed by the senate. There was then no evidence, so far as the public knew, that the hold of the trust on the senators who compelled the surrender to its demands was weakened. But Mr. Havemeyer's interview has evidently greatly discredited the trust in Washington. It has aroused a widespread indignation against the trust, which, coupled with the popular verdict in the country, and especially in his own state, has compelled even the obstinate and cynical Senator Smith to denounce the friends by adhering to whom last summer he incurred much deserved odium.

The threat was clearly ill-timed, and otherwise indicative that to Mr. Havemeyer, as to other men who have been cleverly and astutely defiant of the public sentiment in favor of morality, and whose success in corruption or selfish greed has seemed unbounded, there has come a time when folly has taken possession of him. So cruel and unnecessary was his threat that the president felt constrained to mention it in his message, and to express a willingness, in view of it, that the especial protection enjoyed by the trust should be repealed.

Mr. Havemeyer apparently thought that he had only to drive his workingmen into the streets to stay the hand of the advocates of free sugar. But he forgot, or never realized, the almost universal hatred which his own and his associates' conduct in Washington had inspired. He and they were among the most potent factors of democratic defeat. The country believes the trust purchased protection from the senate, and that Gorman, Brice, Smith and some others were practically its agents. It knows from the testimony of the two Havemeyers and Searles that the trust habitually corrupted both political parties. It has reason to know that the trust is amply protected, and that if it has lost money or failed to make it in the last three months it is because it was too confident in its power to postpone the operation of the act until the 1st of January. More important than all else is the knowledge that the business of refining sugar is conducted in this country more cheaply than anywhere else in the world, and that the trust can actually pay some duty on its raw material and still compete with the German and English refineries in the markets of the world. It knows from Henry O. Havemeyer's own testimony, given in 1880, that American refiners do not need protection.

The indignant outcry with which Mr. Havemeyer's threat was greeted was followed by the return to the refineries of the few workingmen who were discharged. This was a confession that, instead of being under a stress of civil circumstances, the trust could not afford to stop production even for a few days, and for the purpose of preventing the passage of the free-sugar bill.

The result of all this ought to inspire the senate to do something towards curing one of the grossest scandals that ever tainted it. The differential duty at least should be abolished. If this much is accomplished the country will be grateful for Mr. Havemeyer's folly.—Harper's Weekly.

FILLED WITH DOUBT.

Republicans Uncertain as to the Tariff Situation.

Sundry republicans in congress are making a sensational outcry as to the way in which they have been misrepresented in recent interviews, in which they were made to say that the McKinley bill would never be reenacted, and the like. It is quite true that some of these statements were repudiated by the persons to whom they were attributed, notably by Senator Sherman and Mr. Thomas B. Reed. The latter, however, while claiming that he was misquoted, refused to state precisely what he had said.

It is no uncommon thing for public men to be misquoted in interviews, nor is it altogether impossible for them to repudiate interviews actually had. However, the denials of Messrs. Sherman and Reed were actually published in democratic papers, and if others were not so fortunate it was due to their own failure to make complaint of the sentiments attributed to them.

The occasion of the recent protests appears to be that sundry republicans are anxious to claim that the recent elections were an indorsement of the acts of the Fifty-first congress, including the McKinley bill. But here is their dilemma. If they wished the judgment of the people on the McKinley bill, why did they not go to them upon that issue? They distinctly declined to do that in most cases. They said that the country wished rest on the tariff issue, and that the way to get it was to elect a republican house, which would not be permitted by the senate and the president to do any harm. This is the issue on which they asked the judgment of the people, and they triumphed. But what did their victory mean? Obviously, what they said it would before the election, namely, that they should do no harm, by passing no bill that would not be approved by a democratic president and the democrats in the senate.

Having got back into power, the republicans may repudiate their implied promise not to make an effort to reenact the McKinley bill, but they will be held answerable for its violation. They have seen how rapidly public sentiment veers from one party to another. For this reason many republicans are decidedly opposed to another declaration in favor of a tariff bill of abominations. But then there are the Home Market club and many other monopolistic organizations that wish a distinct promise that they will be allowed to write a new tariff bill, if successful, before they put up money for the campaign of 1896. The republicans carried the last election by skillful evasion, but will this trick be available a second time?—Louisville Courier-Journal.

ECONOMIC LUNACY.

What a Republican Journal Says of McKinleyism.

The defeat which prohibitory protection has just sustained in the republican congressional campaign committee is significant. It came on the question of continuing the committee headquarters and the maintenance of its literary bureau until March 15 next. This was the proposition of Chairman Babcock and the other leaders of the moderate wing of the party and it was opposed by the high protectionists under the direction of Boutelle of Maine. The moderates were successful by a large majority. For three months more the headquarters will be kept open, and during this time literature on the tariff question will be sent out to republicans or others who ask for it and the campaign of education be continued.

Just what happened in the congressional committee would happen in caucus if the matter were brought before the entire republican delegation of both branches. High protection, the protection which is understood by the term McKinleyism, would be beaten four or five to one on a vote of the whole body of republican members of congress. McKinleyism denotes high protection—protection in some places very close to the prohibitory point, and in many places much nearer that point than is necessary for the producer, fair for the government, or just to the consumer. The term is concrete and specific, and the wayfaring man, though a fool, will know precisely what it means.

McKinleyism is not republican doctrine and never was. Undoubtedly if the republican masses of the country were permitted to vote on the McKinley bill just after it was put into shape they would have rejected and condemned it by a vote of at least three to one.

A man can be a sound and consistent protectionist without believing that the highest duties are always the best duties. All the protection which the really representative men of the party ever wanted was that which would offset the lower wages paid abroad. There are, it is true, in the republican party, as there were in the whig party, men who think that nothing whatever should be admitted to the country which can be made or raised here, no matter what the price here is, but in the whig days those men were never allowed to dictate tariffs. The republicans, too, kept them in the background until recently. They had no hand in the framing of the Morrill bill which passed the house in 1860 and the senate in February, 1861. The duties in that act, of course, were subsequently increased, but that was during the war, when an impost was put on everything that a tax-gatherer could reach. After the war the duties started downward, and they kept on going down until 1890. Then the import exclusionists and abolitionists got control of the ways and means committee, framed the McKinley tariff, and the party was overwhelmingly and deservedly beaten in that year and in 1892 as a consequence. No tariff will ever again be framed on the 1890 lines. There is an irrepressible conflict between McKinleyism and republicanism. McKinleyism is a relic of barbarism, a survival of the dark ages. It is political heresy, economic lunacy, Chinese statesmanship. The republican party will see to it that the McKinleyism resurrectionists be sent to the rear and kept there. — St. Louis Globe-Democrat (rep.).

PARAGRAPHIC POINTERS.

——Every dollar that Steve Elkins will spend in buying the West Virginia senatorship represents honest American sweat, not a drop of which has been sweated by Elkins himself. How long will the people allow the plutocracy to fly its red flag over the senate? —N. Y. World.

——Ex-President Benjamin Harrison has permitted it to transpire through a friend that he has not authorized anybody to say that he is not a candidate for the republican nomination for president in 1896, nor that he is a candidate. But he says for himself (through his friend) that he does not desire the nomination and would accept it only "under extreme pressure." It is easy to see, however, that he confidently expects to feel the "pressure." —Chicago Herald.

——"No tariff will ever again be framed on the 1890 lines," says that outspoken republican journal, the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. "There is an irrepressible conflict between McKinleyism and republicanism. McKinleyism is a relic of barbarism, a survival of the dark ages. It is political heresy, economic lunacy, Chinese statesmanship. The republican party will see to it that the McKinleyism resurrectionists be sent to the rear and kept there."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

——No more interesting paper has been issued from the government at Washington during recent years than the annual report of the secretary of agriculture, Hon. J. Sterling Morton. Not the least interesting feature of this valuable paper is the statement at the outset that six hundred thousand dollars of the appropriation for the department for the last fiscal year have been covered back into the treasury, being twenty-three per cent. of the entire amount, and that "economy has not diminished efficiency."—Kansas City Times.

——A four-dollar rise in one day in the price of sugar trust stock! This is to be traced as directly to the fact that every republican voting in the senate voted against taking steps to remove the duty from which the sugar trust benefits as effect was ever to be traced to cause in any quarter. The democrats contributed a mite to aid it also, but it is only fair to them to say that the greatest bulk of their senators went the other way. The republican leaders easily control their party and make it a unit in the interest of monopoly, while the democrats are helpless for efficiency in the other direction.—Boston Herald.

——McKinleyism is thoroughly discredited even in his own party. The high priest of the faith will have to modify his views or cease to be a presidential possibility. As speaker of the house Reed will concentrate the public gaze and attention. He will be a much more conspicuous figure than the governor of Ohio or the distinguished citizen of Indianapolis who delivers lectures and practices law. The czar's way to the nomination seems an easy one, but the antagonism which he has created and which he will create when again he is speaker makes the question of his selection entirely a different matter.—Detroit Free Press.

HE KNEW WHAT HE WANTED.

Why a Smart Clerk Couldn't Sell an Extra Collar.

A lily-white, blonde young man entered a well-known haberdasher's a few days ago to purchase some collars. After examining the various styles, from the low-water mark to the twenty-eight-story flat, he selected two at twenty cents each.

"They are three for fifty cents," said the clerk.

"Well, give me two."

"Better take three for half a dollar,' replied the clerk.

"I only want two."

"Yes, but two cost forty cents, and you get three for fifty—one for a dime. See?" said the clerk.

"Can I buy two?" anxiously inquired the blonde young man. "I only want two."

"Of course; but you save ten cents by taking three," said the clerk. "I'll just wrap up three for a half dollar."

"Look here, I know what I want. You wrap up two collars."

"But, sir——"

"I want two collars, and I have forty cents to pay for them, and——"

"You lose a dime—three for fifty," insisted the clerk, as he reluctantly wrapped up the neckwear.

"I don't care a rap," howled the blonde young man in a rage. "I know what I want—two collars, a beer and a nickel to pay my street car fare home. See? Now, can I get two collars for forty cents or not?" and the blonde young man foamed at the mouth in his righteous indignation.

He got the two collars. The clerk swooned. He hadn't thought of the "beer and the street car."—St. Louis Republic.

The Japs as Jokers.

The Japanese are a very polite people, but they sometimes like to play a joke in a round-about oriental way upon the men of the west. In the days of the second empire Baron Gros was sent to Japan to demand the opening of certain ports to French commerce. Among the rest he named to the Japanese ministers a certain city.

The Japanese functionaries smiled so broadly when he preferred the request that the French ambassador asked them to tell him what gave them so much amusement, but instead of answering the Japanese ministers said:

"We will open the port in question, my lord, if France in her turn open a certain port to us."

"What port is that?" asked the Frenchman.

"The port of Liverpool."

"But, your excellencies (laughing), Liverpool is not a French port, but an English one."

"Yes," answered the Japanese. "And the port you named is not in Japan, but in Corea."

The French ambassador was compeled to admit that the joke was against him.—Tit-Bits.

Growing Appreciation of Silence.

Even in children—and children are supposed to enjoy noise of the most maddening kind—I can see the growing appreciation of silence. A few months ago, when we escaped for awhile from the din of the town to the quiet hamlet where I yearly recruit my noise-shattered nerves, my little girl of seven said on our first evening in the country: "Isn't it nice to listen to the silence?" The advance of the savage toward civilization is marked by the abatement of noise. The more savage the tribe the more noise it requires.—North American Review.

Foolish.

"What do you think of bloomers?" asked the flirtatious woman.

"Er—I believe I prefer the buds," said the young man in answer, and it was not long before he found himself alone.—Indianapolis Journal.

PHYSICAL STRENGTH,

cheerful spirits and the ability to fully enjoy life, come only with a healthy body and mind. The young man who suffers from nervous debility, impaired memory, low spirits, irritable temper, and the thousand and one derangements of mind and body that result from, unnatural, pernicious habits usually contracted in youth, through ignorance, is thereby incapacitated to thoroughly enjoy life. He feels tired, spiritless, and drowsy; his sleep is disturbed and does not refresh him as it should; the will power is weakened, morbid fears haunt him and may result in confirmed hypochondria, or melancholia and, finally, in softing of the brain, epilepsy, ("fits"), paralysis, locomotor ataxia and even in dread insanity.

To reach, re-claim and restore such unfortunates to health and happiness, is the aim of the publishers of a book of 136 pages, written in plain but chaste language, on the nature, symptoms and curability, by home-treatment, of such diseases. This book will be sent sealed, in plain envelope, on receipt of this notice with ten cents in stamps, for postage. Address, World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

For more than a quarter of a century physicians connected with this widely celebrated Institution have made the treatment of the diseases above hinted at their specialty. Thousands have consulted them by letter and received advice and medicines which have resulted in permanent cures.

Sufferers from premature old age, or loss of power, will find much of interest in the book above mentioned.

A PARVENU was giving a large dinner party to show off his new dining-room. The ceiling was gorgeously painted, the wall-paper had cost a small fortune, but the dinner was execrable. "What do you think of it all?" he asked the wit beside him. "I prefer less gilding and more carving."—Tit-Bits.

Cottolene as a Trade-Mark.

An important and interesting trade-mark suit, which has been before the courts for some time, has recently reached a decision in the United States Circuit Court for the Southern District of New York. The suit was for an injunction against the infringement of complainant's (The N. K. Fairbank Company, Chicago) trade-mark "Cottolene" by the use of the word "Cottoleo." The validity of Cottolene as a trade-mark was made permanent by an injunction, the case being summarized by the court as follows:

"It seems to be the law that when manufacturers have educated the public to ask for a certain article by its trade-mark name, they have acquired the right to insist that products manufactured by others shall not be given to the public under that name. It is just that it should be so for the benefit derived from such name can only be obtained by faithful service in furnishing articles of recognized value. Moreover, if the trade-mark name might be adopted by others, inferior articles might then be produced and sold under it; and thereby the value to manufacturers of the reputation of the name used by them as a trade-mark would be destroyed."

IN the senate, on the 3d, Mr. Quay, of Pennsylvania, gave notice of an amendment to the urgent deficiency bill, which proposes to strike out all that portion of the bill which in any way relates to the income tax or its collection, and to substitute a new woolen schedule, constructed along the lines of the McKinley woolen schedule.

MRS. P. T. BARNUM is now in a private hospital in England. For some time her health has not been good, and the climate of this country does not agree with her. She has ordered the sale of the mansion in Bridgeport, Conn., which the great showman had built for her after plans of her English home, and which was just completed when he died.

THE Withington & Cooley Manufacturing Co., the largest manufacturers of agricultural tools and implements in the world, located in the Jackson (Mich.) state prison, served notice, on the 1st, that it will terminate all its contracts for the employment of convict labor on June 1 next, because of the hostility of labor elements to convict competition.

ON the 2d the supreme court of California decided the appeal of Alice Edith Dickason, the alleged widow of the late Thomas H. Blythe, in favor of Florence, the daughter. The appeal was from the decision of Judge Coffey awarding the Blythe millions to Florence and was the last appeal in the case to be decided. There are still several minor appeals pending from Judge Coffey's recent order of distribution of the estate, but they are merely technical and practically hopeless.

AT Homestead, Pa., on the 4th, a final conference was held between Manager Schwab and the striking shearmen, and a settlement reached. The likelihood, therefore, of a strike of any proportions at Homestead was entirely removed.

BLAZES IN BEDLAM.

Destructive Fire at the Illinois Asylum for the Insane at Anna—South and Center Sections Burned—The Patients in the Burned Portion, All Females, Safely Removed—Miss Inda Anderson, an Attendant, Missing—Well Insured.

ANNA, Ill., Jan. 5.—The Southern Illinois hospital for the insane took fire at midnight, and it was not until 3 a. m. that the flames were under control. The center section and the south wing, comprising over half of the entire building, were destroyed. The north wing, machinery, laundry and kitchen departments were saved. The south wing contained the quarters of the female patients, the male patients being quartered in the north wing.

ALL THE PATIENTS SAFELY REMOVED.

All the patients to the number of 500 were, it is thought, safely removed to the other buildings. Much difficulty was experienced in making the transfer, but there was no great panic. It is reported that a female attendant named Inda Anderson has been burned, as no trace of her can be found. The loss will amount to $350,000. The physicians, officers and employes in the burned building lose nearly all their personal effects.

STARTED IN THE CENTER SECTION.

The fire was discovered at 11:40 p. m., in the roof of the center section of the main hospital building, and the danger bell was rung to alarm the guards and arouse the inmates. The fire spread so rapidly that the hospital employes instantly realized that it could not be controlled by the meager fire apparatus with which the institution was supplied, and, while some of the guards rushed unlocking the doors and opening the windows, others ran to the village and summoned the local fire department. The hospital contained nearly 1,000 inmates, and the section which was destroyed was occupied by over 200 women. In the south wing of the building were located about 300 women and children. The north wing of the building was set apart for the men, and at no time was this section in danger.

THROUGH THE HALLS AND CORRIDORS,

SCREAMING WOMEN.

As soon as the guards gave the alarm the insane women began screaming and, rushing to the farther corners of their cells, threw themselves in a heap on the floor or cot and in many cases it required the united efforts of two or more attendants to drag them from their cells and carry them to places of safety.

ALL WERE GOTTEN OUT IN SAFETY,

however, and were grouped on the snow covered ground where, for a few minutes, they shivered in the bitter cold air until they could be marched or carried to other buildings. The villagers rushed to the assistance of the asylum people and rendered valuable aid in rescuing the sick and refractory inmates. Several times some of the patients broke away from their guards and

ATTEMPTED TO RUSH BACK INTO THE BURNING BUILDING.

They were quickly caught, however, and in cases where they were violent they were bound to other patients by means of straps and ropes.

A telegram was sent to Cairo, Ill., asking for the help of the fire department of that place. A special train was quickly made up, and the department reached here at 3 a. m.

WORK OF THE CAIRO FIREMEN.

Lines of hose were soon laid, and four big streams of water poured on the burning building. The flames were quickly gotten under control, and the fire was confined to the center section and the south wing of the building. In this department were located the quarters of the physicians and other employes. In many cases the officials lost all their instruments, clothing and personal effects.

A CLOSE ESTIMATE OF THE DAMAGE to the building places the loss at $275,000, and it is believed this is fully covered by insurance.

It is possible that Inda Anderson, reported missing, is located at one of the houses in the village, where many of the attendants were carried on account of being injured by burning clothing or suffering from exposure on account of the frightfully cold weather.

ASYLUM BURNED.

One of Ohio's Eleemosynary Institutions Suffers—No One Injured.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 5.—About 5 o'clock last evening fire was discovered in the attic of the south wing of the State imbecile asylum. This wing is known as the boys' dormitory—accommodating about 240 boys of the medium class—and is the only part of the old building, which was not destroyed by fire November 18, 1882.

The fire was in its incipiency when discovered, but it spread rapidly, and before the fire department arrived it was under good headway, and the entire institution, which is a magnificent structure, was threatened. The boys were at supper at the time, with the exception of a few who were sick, and nobody was injured.

This wing was a four-story structure, and was separated from the main building by a fifty-foot passageway. The firemen stationed themselves in this passageway, and thus prevented the flames from communicating to the main building.

The dormitory was completely gutted and the loss is about $50,000.

As the institution was already crowded it will be necessary to rebuild at once. The origin of the fire is in doubt. It was thought that some of the children might have been playing with matches in the attic, but as the place was being fumigated it seems more likely that the children had nothing to do with it.

Gov. McKinley and State Auditor Poe arrived while the fire was at its worst. They expressed satisfaction with the way the fire was handled and they were more than pleased to learn that no one was hurt.

There was no insurance on the burned building.

DUN'S COMMERCIAL REVIEW.

Interesting Figures Covering the Past Year, and Comparisons with Other Years—A Notable Decrease in Commercial Failures—Prices of Commodities at the Lowest Level Ever Known—The Outflow of Gold.

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade, issued today, says:

Failures for 1894 are fully reported this week, being 13,885 in the United States and 1,856 in the Dominion of Canada. Liabilities in the United States were $172,992,856, and in Canada $17,616,215. Neither the decrease of over half in this country, nor the increase of over 40 per cent. in Canada, is surprising, but the statement shows that most of the decrease in the United States is in manufacturing liabilities, while the increase in Canada is liabilities of trading concerns. A few states, including New York and Pennsylvania, show more failures than in 1893, and in a few southern states, the amount of liabilities is larger, but in the central and western states, very much smaller. In eleven of the last thirty-eight years, reported liabilities have been larger than in 1894, though for this year, and 1893, the statement is confined to commercial failures, as it was not in former years. The failures have been 12.5 in every 1,000 firms doing business; the liabilities have averaged $132.77 to each firm in trade, and in proportion to the value of solvent business represented by all clearinghouse exchanges $2.63 for every $1,000.

The complete review of different branches of business given to-day places in a clear light the fact that prices of commodities are at the lowest level ever known. Eight years ago in July, prices averaged only 73.69 per cent. of the prices for the same articles, and in the same markets January 1, 1860, and this remained the lowest point ever touched until August 10, 1893, when the average fell to 72.76, but early last year prices dropped below all previous records and have never recovered, the average, December 26, being only 68.73 per cent. of the price in 1860. The range was very little higher at the end of the year and about as low October 25. The fall since a year ago has been 5½ per cent.; but very unequal in different branches. In iron and steel products 14 per cent., in wool 13.4 per cent. and in woolens and cottons about 15 per cent. These changes contrast sharply with the decline of wages paid per hour's work, which, as was shown last week, average only 1.2 per cent. less than a year ago.

The volume of business represented by exchanges at the principal clearing-houses was $156,450,000 daily in December, against $141,604,000 in January; but 8.1 per cent. larger at the end than last year, while 35 per cent. less than last year in January. Comparing with 1892, a year of general prosperity, the decrease for December was 26.1, and ranged from 21.7 to 29.2 below that year since June; but at the beginning of the year was 32.3 per cent. below 1892, and ranged from 23 to 37 per cent. below that year, for the first five months.

The exports of $4,550,000 gold this week are not because of merchandise movement, for the excess of exports over imports of merchandise has been from $20,000,000 to $30,000,000 per month. Unquestionably large withdrawals of foreign capital, through sales of securities and otherwise have caused the outgo, the duration and extent of which, therefore, depends upon other than commercial elements.

Extraordinary abundance of money has resulted from the general dullness of trade, and the movement to this center has been unprecedented in volume.

The condition of industries has been largely governed by the fall in prices, and while production is much greater than a year ago, the aggregate increase being fairly measured by the increase of 8.24 per cent. in hours of work done in November, compared with the previous year, it has been the controlling feature in almost every important industry that consumption has not kept pace with the output, and has not sustained prices.

The woolen industry records a production for the year of about a quarter less than nominal, and for the last four months 28.47 per cent. less than in 1892 in quantity of wool consumed, but in value of product the decrease was, of course, greater.

The cotton industry, while materially close to the cheapest point ever known, keeps most of the mills at work, but by selling goods at prices quite unprecedented.

The output of boots and shoes has been the largest known in number of pairs, but besides a fall in price below all records, there has been a general preference for the low-priced goods, and the attempted advance on account of the rise in leather caused a marked decrease in orders.

The year has been especially noteworthy for the lowest prices of wheat and cotton on record. Both suffer from wholly unprecedented accumulation of stocks, crops being larger. Outside this country, wheat production has not decreased enough to justify a price of 60 cents at New York, and the accumulation is largely due to false reports of yield intended to frighten buyers and raise prices. The same influence has been felt in cotton, which is also affected by world-wide depression in business and decrease in consumption of goods.

Wants an Increased Appropriation for the National Guard.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Jan. 5.—In his message to the legislature yesterday Gov. Stone asked for an increased appropriation to maintain the national guard as a positive necessity and because an adequate militia force removed all excuses for the employment of the regular army in purely domestic affairs.

A DESPERATE BATTLE

With Moonshiners in the Mountains of Northwest Arkansas—John Putnam, the Moonshine Leader, and His Nephew, a Boy, Bite the Dust—None of the Posse Seriously Hurt—Two Prisoners Taken and the Outfit Destroyed.

CHICAGO, Jan. 5.—A special from Little Rock, Ark., says; News of another battle between the revenue officers and moonshiners in the mountains of northwest Arkansas has been received here. The location of a still 15 miles out from the village of Morganton was discovered, and Sheriff Jennings with a large posse, including two United States deputy marshals,

SURROUNDED THE MOONSHINERS

while they were at work and unsuspicious of danger. The still was in a mountain gorge, in an out-of-the-way place, and when the officers drew near everything was running at full blast. In response to a demand to surrender John Putnam, leader of the moonshiners and part owner of the still, snatched up a Winchester and OPENED FIRE UPON THE POSSE.

His companions followed his example, and a sharp conflict ensued. Bullets flew thick and fast, the moonshiners fighting like tigers. Putnam was shot through the head and fell on the ground dead. His nephew, a boy of 17, was fatally wounded. None of the posse was seriously hurt. Sheriff Jennings had

A NARROW ESCAPE FROM DEATH.

One of the moonshiners aimed his rifle at him when face to face, but one of the posse struck him down before he could pull the trigger. One moonshiner escaped and two were captured. The posse advanced on the still in the midst of a shower of bullets and forced the moonshers to cover.

THE STILL DESTROYED.

The officers, after securing their prisoners, set fire to the still house, first cutting the copper still to pieces and destroying the mash tub and a large amount of liquor and material for its manufacture. It was reported that friends of the moonshiners would ambush the posse, but they returned to the settlement without further trouble.

A KENTUCKY TRAGEDY.

Dr. F. L. Harrod Murdered on the Street at Harrodsburg.

MURDERED ON THE STREET.

HARRODSBURG, Ky., Jan. 5.—At 11:50 a. m. Sheriff John I. Vanardsdell shot and killed Dr. F. L. Harrod. The killing took place in Lawyers' row. The physician had just returned from a call on Judge C. A. Hardin, who has been lying at the point of death. After going to the post office, he had gotten as far as his office door when he was

INTERCEPTED BY THE SHERIFF,

who opened fire on him at close quarters, firing three shots, two taking effect in the body and one missing. Just a few seconds before the shooting Vanardsdell was talking to Jailer Chatham, who had started home, but hearing the first shot and he turned in time to see the last two shots and the doctor fall. The causes leading up to the killing is attributable to the recent election in this county. Vanardsdell was a candidate for re-election and was opposed by the doctor.

THE DOCTOR CALL OUT: "MURDER."

AN ANONYMOUS CIRCULAR

in which Vanardsdell was raked fore and aft in his domestic relations was sent out. Vanardsdell was defeated for re-election and it was thought that Dr. Harrod was the author of this circular.

NO CITIZEN STOOD HIGHER.

A BOLD, BUT FUTILE

Attempt to Rob an Express Car on the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific.

DES MOINES, Ia., Jan. 5.—While the north-bound passenger train on the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific railroad was standing at the Coon Valley mines, six miles south of here, at 6 o'clock last night, and while the messenger, Frandk Tarrade, was outside his car, robbers entered the car and carried away the heavy steel safe containing $216 in money and valuable packages.

A brakeman, noticing that the lights were not burning in the express car, gave an alarm. The robbery was discovered, and a searching party of fifty miners speedily organized.

Half an hour later the safe was found a short distance away unopened, the robbers having become frightened and decamped.

HORSE THIEVES HANGED

And Filled with Lead, Without Judge or Jury, by Vigilants.

WICHITA, Kan., Jan. 5.—A report comes from Cantonment, a little trading point in the Cheyenne and Arapahoe country, to the effect that a fight occurred near there Thursday between a body of vigilants and a band of horse thieves, during which Gus Caskill and Syl Campbell, two of the vigilants, were wounded, and three of the horse thieves were captured. The trio of prisoners were promptly run up to the nearest tree and their bodies riddled with bullets.

CUTTING IN DEEP.

Ten to Thirty Per Cent. Cut in Wages at the Black Diamond Steel Works.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Jan. .—The Black Diamond Steel Co. of this city, which employs 5,000 men, has announced a cut in wages. The proposed cut will average 10 per cent. all the way through, though in some departments it is said to reach 30 per cent. The move is said to be one in sympathy with that at the Carnegie mills. The Lawrenceville district, in which the mills are situated, is much excited. The men have not yet decided what to do.

THREE LIVES LOST

In the Burning of a New York Tenement—A Mother and Two Little Children Overtaken in Their Flight and Smothered on a Stairway—Efficient Work by Police and Firemen in the Saving of Human Life.

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—Three lives were sacrificed yesterday afternoon in a fire at 25 Pitt street. The victims were Lena Lehman, 24 years of age, and her two children, Sarah and Henry, aged, respectively, 2 years and 3 months.

The fact that lives were lost in the fire was not discovered until some time after it was extinguished, when the firemen found the three bodies, burned to a crisp, lying beneath a heap of debris in a turn of a stairway on the third floor. The woman lived on the fourth floor, and was trying to escape to the street when she and her infants perished in the flames. Their lives would have been saved had the panic-stricken mother remained in her apartments, as help promptly arrived.

The building where the fatal fire occurred is a five-story brick tenement. There is a Chinese laundry and a vacant store on the ground floor, while the rest of the building is tenanted by Hebrew families.

It was a few minutes after 1 o'clock when Mrs. Schoner, the housekeeper, discovered smoke in the first hallway. Before she could make an investigation the smoke was followed by flames, and she ran into the street and gave the alarm. The front fire-escapes were soon filled with a crowd of terror-stricken women and children; the tenants in the house having heard the housekeeper's cry. They started for the stairways at first, but found the hallways filled with smoke, through the midst of which shone the flare of the fire. They then crowded the fire escapes and waited for help. Three policemen hastened up the fire escapes and assisted the women and children to the street.

The firemen had now reached the building and were working hard to control the flames, which had spread rapidly to the top and were bursting from the roof.

The fire was got under control in about an hour, and soon after drowned out. The flames did not invade any of the apartments except those on the top floor, but all the others were badly damaged by smoke and water.

Aaron Lehan, the husband of the woman who was burned together with her two children, was away from home at the time the fire started, and consequently they were not reported missing by anyone. When the flames had been extinguished the firemen made a search of the building and discovered the charred bodies amidst the debris on the stairway as above stated.

The total damage caused by the fire is estimated at $4,000. The fire started in the rear of the cellar.

WAR ON EVILDOERS.

The Citizens of Sacramento, Cal., Organize to Suppress Crime in Their City—A Committee of Safety Determined to Lynch All Known Criminals who Refuse to Leave the Town When Notified.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Jan. 3.—In response to the action of the city board of trustees taken yesterday afternoon, fifty special officers and 200 private citizens were appointed. The latter are to serve without pay. These men last night patroled the streets of the city, armed with authority of law, and their intention is to thoroughly cleanse the town of the criminal element.

In addition to the series of crimes which have occurred within the last few days, two more were reported yesterday morning. The house of Mrs. A. B. Kidder, an old woman, who lives on Eighth street, was entered Tuesday night by burglars, who effected an entrance by the back door. Mrs. Kidder rushed out on hearing them, gave the alarm and they were promptly frightened away.

At about the same time a young man was held up and robbed in the eastern part of the city.

New evidence has been discovered in the Weber case, which has been kept secret by the police. On last Wednesday a son of the murdered couple named Luther found a lot of old clothing in the back yard saturated with blood. The clothing was under a barrel and covered by a piece of oilcloth. From its appearance it was undoubtedly worn by the tramps who committed the terrible double murder.

In addition to the appointment by the board, an association calling itself "The Committee of Safety," has been formed with an ex-police captain at its head. These people announce themselves as determined to head a movement to lynch all known criminals who refuse to leave the city.

FOR THEATRICAL EFFECT.

The Story of the Abduction of Bartlett Scott Circulated to Aid His Flight.

OMAHA, Neb., Jan. 3.—Private dispatches received here from O'Neill, the county seat of Holt county, are unanimous in the opinion that the so-called abduction of Bartlett Scott, the defaulting county treasurer, was for theatrical effect. Scott is under $70,000 bonds pending a decision of his case in the supreme court, and it is believed that the abduction story was got up to relieve his bondsmen of responsibility and afford him a chance to get out of the country.

IN QUO WARRANTO.

Interesting Proceedings in Judge Baker's Court in Chicago.

CHICAGO, Jan. 3.—When Judge Baker opened his court yesterday he found forty cases on the docket which have been brought in the name of the people of Illinois by Attorney-General Maloney, some of them being of national interest. The list includes the quo warranto proceedings against the Pullman Palace Car Co. for forfeiture of charter on the ground that the company is operating a dozen industries under the franchise to build cars.

THE CHRONICLE

C. C. DuBOSE, Editor and Proprietor.

COLUMBIANA, JAN. 10, 1895.

PEACE will soon be declared between China and Japan. It is needless to say that Japan will dictate the terms.

A BROKEN new year resolution is seldom a clean fracture, possessing rather the jagged character of a blow-out or burst.

SECRETARY CARLISLE'S financial scheme has been adopted by the democrats in caucus, but it is extremely doubtful if it ever becomes a law.

IN spite of low prices and hard times, there are more farmers in the South out of debt and prospering today, than there were five years ago.

THE birthday of Gen'l. Robert E. Lee, the great Confederate hero, occurs on the 19th of January. The day should be properly celebrated in every town and city throughout the South.

MUCH excitement prevails in Cleburne and Coosa counties, this state, over the discovery of gold. We publish an article elsewhere, giving the particulars of the find and the formation of the company to work the lands.

THE recent heavy rains, which have prevailed generally throughout the country, have raised the mountain streams, and much damage is reported from Pennsylvania, Ohio, and West Virginia by the high waters.

GADSDEN is to have a $600,000 cotton factory. The land has been secured, and all the other details perfected. The contracts for the buildings will be let about the 10 - instant. It is the intention to be ready for work by November 1st.

IT speaks well for the good sense and sterling morality of the American people that W. C. P. Breckinridge is now lecturing to beggarly audiences in the Western States and not paying expenses. He must sadly realize that he has had his day. A man with a record like his should not court publicity.

IT MUST have done David B. Hill good to get a good political drubbing, one that took the conceit out of him. He is now a patron of the White House, willing to do homage to Grover. He was a guest at a cabinet dinner recently given by the President, the first time he has appeared at the White House for a long time.

PROHIBITION is steadily gaining ground in the South. Within a few years, Texas, Mississippi and Alabama, will be prohibition states. The great majority of the people are becoming tired of the lawless spirit, prevalent in so many places, caused by intemperance, and are determined to apply the remedy. Over 70 per cent of the counties in Mississippi are now prohibition counties.

THERE is a proposition on foot to increase the tax on lager beer $1.00 per barrel. This it is claimed, will increase the revenue upwards of $30,000,000 without inconveniencing the people. No, it will not inconvenience the people in the least. Just tax it and all other liquors so high that they will be taxed out of existence, and thus give the people the greatest benefit and blessing that congress can bestow.

ALL of our exchanges are jubilant over the prospect for a revival of better times. We earnestly hope that their expectations may be soon realized, and that the bright dawn of prosperity may soon break over our land; that those who seek labor may find it; that the hungry may be fed; that those who are illy clad may be enabled to wear good and comfortable clothes; that prosperity and happiness may reign in the thousands of homes, where now stalks want and misery.

JAMES WHITCOMB RILEY, the Hoosier poet, may have to get married before the year ends. His mail, it is reported, is growing unwieldly from the importunities of his poetic friends, who think he would trot beautifully in double harness. That is right. It is real missionary work to convert an old bachelor into a benedict. There is no reason why a good poet like Riley should not become a full-fledged man. Keep up the music of the fiddle strings; he may be brought into the fold before the year ends.

THE Southern farmers have their cribs full of corn and small grain, and their smoke-houses reasonably full of meat. Above and beyond this, we have the resources that nature has given us, all waiting for development. There is no reason why our iron masters may not take control of the iron market, nor is there any reason why 500 new cotton mills may not be established here during the year 1895. In short, there is no reason why the South should not go forward and reap a reasonable degree of prosperity, even though times are hard.

TO COME down to particulars, does the majority in the senate intend to let the Sugar Trust's infamous tax remain? Do the two houses mean to do nothing, except to dribble and talk over the Treasury troubles and the perilous state of our currency? Does the President mean to go on obstinately to the end of his term carrying the odium of the unpunished Carnegie frauds and his Attorney General's virtual nullification of the anti-trust laws? Is nothing to be done to bring the defaulting Pacific railway corporations to terms?

HOME OWNERS IN THE UNITED STATES.

The census office made public on January 2nd, a report showing that the owners of farms and homes, regarded as substantially the land owners of the United States, own more than 90 per cent of the wealth of the country. Of the white owners and tenant heads more than 51 per cent are owners; of the negroes, more than 17 per cent; of mixed white and negro parentage, 25 per cent; of the Indians, 65, and of the Chinese and Japanese, 14 per cent. The white owners of farms and homes that are free from mortgages, form 71 per cent of all white owners: negroes, 89; of mixed parentage, 87: Indians, 96, and Chinese and Japanese, 97 per cent. The percentages of ownership are slightly higher for women than for men, and free ownership is also higher among women, except with the Indians and Chinese and Japanese.

The results for farm proportion show that 72 per cent of the whites are owners, 21 of the negroes, 29 of those of mixed blood, 79 of the Indians, and over 10 per cent of the Chinese and Japanese, while for homes 39 per cent of the whites are owners, more than 15 of the negroes, 23 of those of mixed blood, 53 of the Indians, and 14 of the Chinese and Japanese. The white farm owners who are free of mortgage are 71 per cent; negroes, 90, of those of mixed parentage, 89: Indians, 95, and Chinese and Japanese, 87. The corresponding figures for homes are nearly the same.

AVERAGE LOW IN THE CITIES.

In the fifty-eight cities of 50,000 population and over almost 25 per cent of the white occupiers are owners and not quite 9 per cent of the negroes.

For farms and homes 53 per cent of the native occupiers are owners; from Austria-Hungary, 41 per cent; from Canada and Newfoundland (British), 47; from Canada and Newfoundland (French), 31; Wales and England, 46; France, 47; Germany, 52; Ireland, 44; Italy, 15; Norway, Sweden and Denmark, 61; Russia and Poland, 31; Scotland, 45; and from all other countries, over 47 per cent.

The native farm occupiers are exceeded in ownership by the natives of all these countries except Italy. The per centage for native owners is 69, and for the Indians 68; and the highest per centage is 87 for the Irish. Ownership is more prevalent among native than among foreign born occupiers in the cases of homes than it is among farm occupiers. Of the native occupiers of homes, 41 per cent are owners and the lowest per centage representing the ownership of homes for places of birth is 12 for the Italians.

The ownership of homes in the fifty-eighth principal cities is nearly as great among the foreign born as among the natives. Among the native home occupiers in these cities, 23 per cent are owners, the highest percentage being 32 for the Germans and the lowest 9 for the Italians.

NATIVITY OF THE PROPRIETORS.

The results of the inquiry as to the nativity of parents of the white native farm and home occupiers, shows that for farms and homes 55 per cent of the proprietors who have both parents native born are owners and 43 per cent of those who have one or both parents foreign born. The percentage for farm owners having both parents native born is 69, and in the case of homes 42 per cent. The total for both sexes and for farms and homes, shows that of the occupiers under 25 years of age 20 per cent are owners; from 25 to 29 years, 28 per cent; from 30 to 34 years, 37 per cent; from 35 to 39 years, 42 per cent; 40 to 41 years, 49 per cent; 45 to 49 years, 53 per cent; 59 to 54 years, 57 per cent; 55 to 59 years, 63 per cent; and 60 years and over, 69 per cent.

Percentages are generally somewhat higher for women than for men. Farm ownership is more prevalent at all ages than home ownership. Almost 35 per cent of farm occupiers under 25 years of age are owners, and the percentage increases with age up to 83 per cent for owners of 60 years and over. Among home occupiers or less than 25 years of age 13 per cent are owners, and the per centage increases without interruption to 58 per cent for owners of 60 years and over.

Ownership is more prevalent among women who are farm and home owners and heads of tenants families than among men, the ownership of the women being represented by 57 per cent and the men 46. The women exceed the men also in the fifty-eight principal cities, where of the male home occupiers 23 per cent are owners, and of the female 31 per cent. One reason for the difference between the figures for the two sexes is the custom that makes the husband of the wife the head of the family. The ownership of the farms and homes is divided between the two sexes in the proportion of 83 per cent to the males and 17 to the females. Slightly more than one quarter of the 2,928,671 owned homes of the United States are owned by women, and about one-tenth of the 3,142,746 owned farms.

REMOVE THE CAUSE.

There is much said by the newspapers of the state of the necessity of so revising the Sayre election law as to give greater guarantee of fair conduct of elections, and we endorse all that is said, and add that anything that will ensure greater fairness, will meet with our hearty approval and support: let us not, however, deceive ourselves with the pleasing belief that any amendment we can now make will give the people actual fairness of elections. So long as there is a "reward offered," so long as there is an incentive, and so long as this "reward" can possibly be obtained, or this incentive exercises its influence, so long will there be found men who are ready to misinterpret the law and even to ignore it. There has been no contrivance of man which another man cannot outwit, and no election law has been made or will be made which cannot be, in some fashion, circumvent. What we ought to do, is to so arrange our domestic affairs that cheating in elections will not be deemed any longer necessary, even by those persons who do so deem it. Let us remove the incentive, and, be assured, the evil deed will not be continued. We cannot go much farther with the present arrangement. The method offers a premium for dishonesty, yet, under our present conditions, we cannot better it. What then, shall we do? Is it not plain, then, it will be well to so change our fundamental law as to put our electoral system upon the basis that has been adopted by a majority of the states in the union, and do away with the prime cause for unfairness and swindling in elections? With this cause removed, as it will be when the constitutional provision forbidding the making of educational or property qualifications for electors is abolished, the Sayre law could be so amended as to give us greater reason to expect that the true vote would be cast and counted as it should be. Do not tinker with this leaking vessel—get a new one.—Mobile Register.

COLD DISCOVERED IN ALABAMA.

A deal is in course of consummation for the purchase of some valuable gold lands near the State line, a short distance this side of Carrollton, Ga., and also in Cleburne and Coosa counties, and the gentlemen interested are closely identified with the industrial interests of this vicinity.

In the city are Col. B. M. Long, of Cordova, Walker county; Mr. Stewart, a son-in-law of Col Long, whose home is in Carrollton, Ga., and Mr. Bonner, also of the latter place. Between these gentlemen and others, whose names could not be gotten, a deal is about to be consummated in which the latter will sell to the others some valuable gold lands.

It is said Mr. Bonner owns a valuable tract of gold land near Carrollton, in Alabama. It descended to him from his father, but since the war it has been worked very little. It is thought the deal will be made.

A company has been formed and prospectors are out in the Coosa and Cleburne gold fields for the purpose of making purchases. Tests are being made of the product from these fields and it is said the result has been extraordinary.

Col. T. H. Aldrich, when questioned last night by a News reporter said, "Yes, there is quite a bit of interest now being shown in this matter. Attention has been turned on the subject and the capitalists have their minds in that direction." — Birmingham News.

WHO KILLED KING COTTON?

Who killed King Cotton?
I, Said M. Neill!
With my Munchausen Tales,
Of ten million bales,
I killed King Cotton!

Who saw him die?
I, said the Farmer, I!
Killed by lie upon lie,
I saw him die!

Who caught his blood?
I said the Bear;
It was rich and rare,
I caught his blood!

Who'll make his shroud?
We, said the spinners,
He has furnished our dinners,
We'll make his shroud!

Who'll dig his grave?
I, said Liverpool,
With "estimates" as a tool,
I'll dig his grave.

Who'll "preach his sermon?"
We, said the Ed,
We know naught on that head,
So we'll preach his sermon.

Who will carry him to his tomb?
I, said the Loom,
With the Market's aid,
We'll bear him to the tomb.

Who'll be the chief mourner?
I, said the South,
With ruin all about,
I'll be the chief mourner.

Who'll toll the bell?
I, said the Bull;
I can't toss but I pull.
So King Cotton, farewell.

And all the sweet Southland
Saw of hard times the bottom.
When they heard the bell tolling,
For old King Cotton.

—Natchitoches Enterprise.

A Correct Answer.

It is reported that recently a Knox county (Tenn.) young lady was teaching a class in spelling, when the word "husband" was written on the blackboard. None of the children could pronounce it, and in order to help them out the teacher asked: "What would I have if I should get married?" The response was very prompt, but it was not what she expected, and she blushed such a brilliant red that the sunlight faded.—Charley Slack in the Bristol Courier.

THE Chicago Tribune has undertaken to keep a record of homicides, legal executions and lynching in the United States. It gives the number of people who died by violence in 1894 as 9,800. The legal executions were 132, the lynchings at 190. While these figures may not be altogether correct, they convey an idea of the small number of men who are legally executed in proportion to the great number who take the life of their fellow-man. This argues a great failure of justice. For the benefit of those who think that the failure of justice is more common in the South than in the North, it is sufficient to say that ninety-one of the legal executions were in the South and forty-one in the North. This shows that, whatever may be the delinquencies of Southern justice, the extreme penalty is inflicted more frequently by Southern than by Northern courts.

IMMIGRATION TO ALABAMA.

The State of Alabama is especially favored in regard to climate, soil, and conditions. With few exceptions, all grain crops can be grown here to advantage; roots of all kinds do well, and a great variety of fruit can also be cultivated. In the southern counties truck farming should be a very profitable industry.

The banks of Norfolk, Va., handle over $5,000,000 per annum from the truck industry of adjoining counties. Special trains loaded with truck are dispatched, each day, during the season, for Northern markets. In Southern Alabama the season is much earlier than on the sea coast, and garden stuff could be raised here and shipped to the northern market at a time when it is worth large prices. The greater portion of the hay used in Alabama is shipped in when every pound should be raised here.

Instead of constantly raising cotton from the same land, raise a grass crop, cut the hay as early as possible, and turn under the second growth—it will be the cheapest kind of fertilizer. An intelligent understanding of crop rotation will enable a farmer to take almost worthless land and make it very productive. Every farmer should raise upon his own farm everything his family and stock consume. If a stock feeder can buy cattle and corn, consolidate the two and reap a greater profit than those who sold the cattle and corn originajly, surely a farmer who raises both and combines them, will make a double profit.

Do not be satisfied with producing raw material, but go into manufacturing. Beef, mutton and pork are the farmer's manufactured goods, and it is he who can distance all competitors should he start in right. Root crops are excellent stock food, ground peas can hardly be beaten for hogs, while sheep will improve any land upon which they run. The quickest way to force up the price of cotton is to decrease the supply, and at present, almost any crop is preferable to cotton as a source of revenue.

To be successful the farmer of today must use his brains and be prepared to meet any turn of the market. By diversifying his crops he is prepared to do this, and should the price of one drop, the probabilities are that some other would rise.

Intensive is far preferable to extensive farming. A few acres well cultivated are much more profitable than many poorly cultivated. Do not attempt to farm more land than can be properly handled and increased revenue, decreased expenditure, improved land and general happiness will be the result. The great essentials to successful farming in the South are intensive farming, deep plowing, intelligent rotation and diversification. Do not pin your faith to cotton alone, but spread all sails, that the breeze, come from what direction it may, will fill some of them and carry the ship to a profitable market.—Montgomery Advertiser.

TOWN AND COUNTY NEWS.

Mr. Joe Parker visited Birmingham last Friday on business.

Miss Belle Huyett is confined to her room this week by illness.

Have we any scandal-mongers or kitty clackers in Columbiana?

The grip is getting to be quite prevalent throughout the country.

Ye editor visited Anniston on business Tuesday and Wednesday.

Miss Sadie Williams visited in Pelham with relatives last week.

John Simmons, of Birmingham, is visiting with Mrs. A. Mardis.

The Shelby iron works, it is reported, will close down today.

Henry Fallon, of New Orleans, La., is visiting relatives here this week.

Miss Melissa Teague, of near Wilsonville, is visiting in town this week.

Clarence Smith visited the Orphans Home, at Talladega, Christmas week.

John Harman, of McCalla, paid us a pleasant call while in town yesterday.

Miss Louella Teague has returned from a Christmas visit to Harpersville.

Mrs. Dr. Hart Williams spent the Sabbath with her parents at Wilsonville.

Misses Emma and Kate Looney visited their parents at Fayetteville, last week.

D. R. McMillan spent Wednesday in Montgomery, on business before the supreme court.

H. R. Payne, of Longview, entered the Columbiana Fitting School, as a student, last Monday.

T. K. Roberts was called to Shelby Springs Sunday, to be at the bedside of a friend, who is very ill.

Mrs. Bruce Harris, of Rome, Ga., left Saturday for home after a visit of several days to relatives here.

Miss Pearl Hendrick returned Saturday from Renfro, where she spent the Christmas holidays with friends.

Elisha Bentley has moved from the Verchott place to the house lately occupied by J. H. Newton, near the Southern railway depot.

The rainy season has certainly set in, for clear days are a rarity now, and if Prof. Hick's predictions amount to anything they will be for a long time to come.

A perusal of the commissioners' semi-annual report, publishedin another column, will show how the people's money has been used for the past six months.

Many bridges and culverts over small streams have been washed out by the recent heavy rains, making travel over the country roads very dangerous.

Miss Earl Anchors, one of our most estimable young ladies, is quite sick, being confined to her bed and under a physician's care. Her many friends hope for her speedy recovery.

On account of this being the week of prayer, the Literary Society meeting has been postponed until Friday night, January 18th. Mr. E. B. Nelson's home will be the place of meeting.

The directors of the Alabama Chatauqua have recommended that Talladega be selected as the place for a permanent home for the institution. Both Talladega and that Chatauqua are fortunate in this matter.

Prof. Greek has moved to the Verchott place, recently occupied by Jack Barnett; R. E. McLean has moved to the place vacated by Prof. Greek, and Rev. Sinnott occupies the house occupied by Mr. McLean, which he has rented.

The Teachers' Institute which was held at this place last Friday and Saturday, was quite well attended, and proved quite successful. Several essays were read which were far above the average, particularly the one by Miss Bama Chandler, which was of especial merit.

Commissioners' court convened on Monday. Outside of allowing the usual bills against the county, transacting the general routine business and making allowances for the building of a few much needed bridges, nothing of importance was transacted. Court adjourned Wednesday evening.

Mrs. E. C. Parker, mother of Rev. Sinnott, has come to Columbiana to make her future home, bringing with her two bright little girls, Rev. Sinnott's adopted children. She formerly resided at Brandon, Miss, but has come here to keep house for her son. They will live at the old Leeper homestead, which has been purchased by Mr. Sinnott.

A LIBERAL CRITICISM ON REV. DR. LYMAN ABBOTT'S LIBERAL CREED.

BY T. K. ROBERTS.

MR. EDITOR.—While perusing your paper last week, I was very much surprised to find the following:

DR. ABBOTT'S LIBERAL CREED.

Rev. Dr. Lyman Abbott, unlike some clergymen, is not opposed to novels, theatres, or even dancing. In his sermon the other morning, he said he believed in love stories. They taught the language of affection to those who know not how to express their love. He thought it was good, once in a while, for persons to see a love drama presented on the stage. Dancing was said to be dangerous—perhaps it is, but he did not know, as he did not dance, but so was life itself dangerous, and the only safe place he knew of was a sepulcher.—N. Y. Special to Philadelphia Ledger.

Now, Mr. Editor, I believe that Dr. Abbott would never sanction any such creed as the above—that he has been misrepresented. I write this criticism on the hypothesis that the above is true.

"Rev" Dr. Lyman Abbott, unlike some clergymen, is not opposed to novels, theatres, or even dancing, and believes in love stories. Yes, Dr. Abbott is unlike—I record it to his dishonor—the leading men of all the Christian churches. Here is the evidence.

1. THE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.—In 1865, the General Assembly said: "The Presbyterian church, through its supreme judicatories, has repeatedly borne its testimony against dancing and other world's amusements." In 1869 and 1877, the Assembly expressed its condemnation in much stronger terms. Add to this the testimony of such men as Dr. Alexander, Dr. Potts, Dr. Rice, and Dr. Palmer. But Dr. Abbott is unlike these.

2. THE EPISCOPAL CHURCH.—From Bishops Hopkins, of Vermont, Meade, of Virginia, McElvaine, of Ohio, and Coxe, of Western New York, we have this: "The only line we would draw in regard to the dance and the theatre is, that of entire exclusion." But Dr. Abbott is unlike these.

3. THE BAPTIST CHURCH.—See Baptist Quarterly for October, 1867. In addition, take this from a sermon by an eminent Baptist D. D. "Of all the pasttimes in vogue, none is so captivating, so bewitching as the dance—especially to young females: and no serpent of evil infuses a more deadly venom. In its practice it is libidinous and bacchanalian." But Dr. Abbott is unlike him.

4. THE METHODIST CHURCH.—The law: "Thou shalt not take such diversions as cannot be used in the name of the Lord Jesus." The following are especially forbidden and specified by the present college of Bishops: Dancing, going to theatres, card-playing, and indiscriminate novel-reading. But Dr. Abbott is unlike these.

5. MISCELLANEOUS TESTIMONY.—Dr. Talmage: "There is but a short step from the ball-room to the grave. Ninety-nine out of the hundred novels in this day are baleful and destructive to the last degree."

Arch Bishop Spalding, of New York: —"The confessional has revealed the fact that nineteen-twentieths of the women who fall, take their first step in the dancing parties."

Judge Butstrode, of England, in a charge to a jury, said: "One playhouse ruins more souls in a single year than fifty churches saves."

Prof. Faulker, an ex-dancing master: "If, by the help of God, I can be the instrument of saving one-fiftieth as many young people as I have been the instrument of ruining, I shall be very thankful."

John Newton: "Theaters are fountains and the means of vice." But Dr. Abbott is unlike all these.

St. Paul: "Abstain from all appearance of evil." And Christ says: "Come out from among them and be ye separate. Love not the world, neither the things that are in the world." But Dr. Abbott is unlike these. He is a very peculiar fellow. He does not know that dancing is dangerous, for he has not tried it. Reasoning analogously, he does not even know that hell is dangerous. We would like to finish this criticism, but lest we impose on your good nature, Mr. Editor, we close with four farewell shots. 1. Reading love-stories teaches the infernal art of flirtation to those who know nothing of true love. 2. True love bursts forth from the heart like the spring from the mountain side and makes its own channel. 3. My Bible does not say, "Whoso getteth in a sepulcher shall be safe; but, Whoso putteth his trust in Christ shall be safe.—Prov. 29:25. 4. The Apostle's Creed is good enough for me.

From Saginaw.

Rain, rain, rain!

A neck-tie party is the program for Monday night.

Mr. J. S. Farrel, of Yellow Leaf, was here Saturday.

The high court of beat 7 will convene next Saturday.

Chrismas has passed, and all have returned to their work.

Our school is progressing finely considering the bad weather.

Messrs. Frank Fallon and Ed Walls, of Columbiana, was in our midst last week.

Misses Florence and Augusta Ferrell returned Saturday from a visit to Yellow Leaf.

There was a tacky party given at the residence of Mr. Burgan Saturday night. All report a good time.

Prof. Letson spent Sunday here, probably with his best girl. He attended the Institute at Columbiana and reports a grand time. He thinks he will attend the Columbiana Fitting School and take a course in Greek.

DEATH OF JOHN SPENCER.

Died in Columbiana, Ala., Jan. 3. 1895, John Spencer, in the 89th year of his age.

The deceased was born in Greenbrier county, Virginia, June 21, 1806. At the age of 18 he left home to make his way in the world. He went first to Sevier county, Tennessee, where he remained several years, and afterwards he removed to Monroe county in the same state. Here he was married on April 10, 1835, to Martha A. Sickens, who still survives him. Nine children were the fruit of this union, four of whom are living, viz: Thomas, John P. and Eugene L. of Columbiana, and Mrs. Bruce Harris, of Rome, Ga.

In 1836 he removed to Jacksonville, Ala., where he resided until 1851. Since this time he has lived in Anniston and Oxford, and in 1872 he removed to Columbiana, where he has since resided, until his death.

He joined the Presbyterian church at Jacksonville in 1843, and was afterwards called by the votes of his fellow members to the honorable and responsible office of ruling elder in the church He was an honorable and upright man, a good citizen and a man of great firmness and decision of character.

Possessing great physical strength and endurance, he retained unimpaired the powers of mind and body to a great age. A severe attack of sickness five years ago, in consequence of exposure, left him somewhat enfeebled, since which time he has been waiting the summons of the Master to come up higher.

Items from Sterrett.

J. B. Skinner left Saturday for his new job at Oxmoore, Ala.

Miss Georgia Goodwin has returned home from a visit at Bessemer.

Mr. J. A. Kincaid is having a fine dwelling erected on his place here.

Christmas passed off very quietly here and the new year is before us.

There was no school this week on account of the snow and bad weather.

Mr. J. A. Stewart has gone to work with the bridge crew on the C. & W. Railway.

Mr. Tom Rollo, of Columbus, Ga., visited his best girl at this place a few days ago.

Mr. Johnnie Goodwin, of Hillman, Ala., spent the holidays with home folks here.

Mr. C. Butler's family have returned home from Jemison, where they spent the Christmas holidays.

We are glad to say that Miss Will Muncher and George Block have recovered from a spell of typhoid fever.

Mr. S. J. Warren, our clever saw mill man and his family, have just returned from a visit to Springville, Alabama.

The high court of Sterrett convicted a man of grand larceny last Friday. In default of bail he was committed to jail.

Miss Mary Falkner has been visiting for some time at Bessemer and is expected home this week to the delight of our young men.

Prof. Kinnett, our efficient school teacher, went to Columbiana Saturday to get his share of the dear little "scullie" of which all people, especially school teachers, are so proud.

B. W. Cosper, while on his way to spend the Christmas holidays, could not resist the temptation and had to stop off at Jackson's Gap to see his best girl, and afterwards returned home, "all smiles." Hurrah for the boys!

BACK LOT MEMORIES.

BY R. K. MUNKITTRICK.

There was fun in early boyhood that I never can forget,
Though it's dead and gone forever, 'tis a lovely vision yet,
And full often I look backward to that very merry time
When the moments fled as gayly as the ripples of a rhyme;
'Twas a time that nothing ever from my memory can blot,
When we used to roast potatoes in the old back lot.

It was in the mellow autumn, when the leaves were blowing red,
When the apples all were golden and the bobolinks had fled,
That we gathered barrel slivers and a lot of sticks and roots,
And the fence-rails of the neighbors and their cast off shoes and boots,
Which we tossed upon the blazes as around our ears they shot,
When we used to roast potatoes in the old back lot.

There was nimble Willis Morris—Oh, I can still see him sport
Round the blazes; and Bob Miller, whom we "Yaller" called for short;
There was cross-eyed Tommy Ransom, who was freckled very much;
There was lively Benny Slocum, on his little yellow crutch—
Oh, we howled like wildest Indians by the flames so high and hot,
When we used to roast potatoes in the old back lot.

When I think of those potatoes all so luclous, not a pin
Would I give for roasted lobster or for knuckle or for shin,
For the boys would still be lacking and the smoke would never curl
From those antique cowhide sandals in a dreamy mist of pearl
As it rose from that bright bonfire, that knew neither pan nor pot,
When we used to roast potatoes in the old back lot.

When the leaf is turning russet and the air is growing chill,
And the goldenrod is fading in the meadow by the rill,
And I fall to idly dreaming of those happy, bygone days,
And the flower of the boot-flames in my vision softly plays;
And the odor's still refreshing though it ne'er was begamot,
When we used to roast potatoes in the old back lot.

Should I e'er win fame and fortune I can ne'er with pleasure glow
As I did while hunting boot-heels for that bonfire, don't you know,
Oh, if I could be transported to that happy scene again,
I should leap e'en as the tiger leaps upon his native plain;
And I'd shout in lusty triumph, as I shouted then, "Creat Scott!"
When we used to roast potatoes in the old back lot.

"I know an old soldier who had chronic diarrhœa of long standing to have been permanently cured by taking Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy," says Edward Shupike, a prominent druggist of Minneapolis, Minn. "I have sold the remedy in this city for over seven years, and consider it superior to any other medicine now on the market for bowel complaints." 25 and 50 cent bottles of this remedy for sale by Parker & Armstrong.

The Boss Lie of The Season,

Probably the biggest fake of the season is the following special, sent out from Florence, Ala.:

The following story is vouched for by men of unimpeachable character. The incident occured at the Mussel Shoals Canal, near Florence, on one of the coldest days of last week:

According to the story, Mr. Jake Bare, keeper at Lock 6 on the canal, encountered an unusualy large wild cat last Friday morning. Mr. Bare was on his railway tricycle, going to the canal headquarters. The cat was sitting on the iron rail of the narrow gauge road which skirts the canal. Mr. Bare saw the cat, but not until he was directly upon it. He stopped the machine within a few feet of the animal. The wild cat saw Mr. Bare, but owing to circumstances over which it had no control it remained where it was. The cat was very much alive to the situation and struggled fiercely to get sway. Mr. Bare succeeded in leaving the spot in short order, but returned in a few moments with a stout stick, with which he killed the cat. It was then found that the cat was frozen hard and fast to the iron rail. It had knawed two of its feet nearly off in attempting to get loose, and after it was killed it required considerable pulling on the part of two men to pull it from the rail.

Many stubborn and aggravating cases of rheumatism that were believed to be incurable and accepted as life legacies, have yielded to Chamberlin's Pain Balm, much to the surprise and gratification of the sufferers. One application will relieve the pain and suffering and its continued use insures an effectual cure. For sale by Parker & Armstrong.

Uncle John—And why do you think your brother Charles is a great writer?

Alice—Why, because he is. He writes more every day than he can get into the paper.—Boston Transcript.

Carlton Cornwell, foreman of the Gazett, Middletown, N. J., believes that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy should be in every home. He used it for a cold and it effected a speedy cure. He says: "It is indeed a grand remedy; I can recommend it to all. I have also seen it used for whooping cough with the best results." 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Parker & Armstrong.

There are a good many people who want to do good, but they are going to wait until tomorrow to begin.

There is reason good for the popularity of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Davis & Buzard, of West Monterey, Claion Co., Pa., say: "It has cured people that our physicians could do nothing for. We persuaded them to try a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and they now recommend it with the rest of us." 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Parker & Armstrong.

$5,000 for 50 Cents!
DO YOU WANT IT?
YOU STAND AN EQUAL CHANCE WITH ANY ONE TO GET IT, AND HERE IS HOW IT MAY BE DONE:
THE WEEKLY COMMERCIAL APPEAL, in order to secure the largest circulation of any weekly in the South, offers a prize of the magnificent sum of $5,000 in Cash to the subscriber guessing nearest the number of bales of cotton received in Memphis from September 1, 1894, to May 15, 1895, as follows: If the correct or nearest to the correct guess is received in the month of October, . . it gets in cash $5,000.

If in November, . it gets in cash 4,000.
If in December, . it gets in cash 3,000.
If in January, 1895, it gets in cash 2,000.
If in February, 1895, it gets in cash 1,500.
If in March, 1895, it gets in cash 1,000.
If in April, . 1895, it gets in cash 500.

The contest closes in April, but the nearest guess first received will be awarded the prize. As a guide for making a guess, the receipts in Memphis in former years were as follows:

Up to the 15th of May, 1891.....707,190 bales.
" " " " 1892.....745,538 "
" " " " 1893.....410,585 "
" " " " 1894.....474,351 "
" " " " 1895.....How many?

In order to get a guess for this Great Cash Prize, you have only to send 50 cents for a year's subscription to the WEEKLY COMMERCIAL APPEAL. One Dollar will get two guesses and the paper for two years, and for $2.00 the paper to five subscribers with five guesses. Old subscribers can take advantage of this great offer and have a guess and their time extended one year. Those wishing to have the paper sent to a friend can do so and have the guess credited to the sender.

If two correct guesses are received, or if two subscribers who are nearest have the same guess, the first one received gets the prize. Don't delay in subscribing. In the first place you need the Weekly Commercial Appeal; your wife needs it; your children need it; your farm needs it, and your stock need it, and, besides, you may get the $5,000, and you need that.

The Weekly Commercial Appeal is a paper full of the news from all parts of the United States and every portion of the globe, with a Farm Department, a Household and a Children's Department, a Veterinary Column, to all of which every reader is invited to contribute or ask questions for themselves about their stock, their crops, etc. It is the best family newspaper in the South and the cheapest in the world—only 50 cents a year, and every one who sends 50 cents will get this Great Family Weekly one year and have a chance to WIN THE $5,000 PRIZE.

No guess will be counted unless accompanied by 50 cents for the paper, and both the guess and the money must be sent at one time. Free Sample Copy sent on application. It is best to send by P. O. Money Order. An order for less than $2.50 costs only 3 cents. Liberal terms to agents Write for particulars and free samples.

SOME CURIOUS CUSTOMS.

HINDOO women are forbidden to read or write. Indeed, those who dare to indulge in such luxuries are often "accidentally" missing.

IN China a wife is never seen by her future master. Some relatives bargain for the girl, the stipulated price is paid, and she is afterward a submissive slave.

JEWISH women of the higher classes were secluded from public life and passed their time with the distaff and spindle. At marriage the ceremony lasted seven days.

THE women of ancient Rome were treated with the greatest respect. Still they were not allowed to inherit property and could be divorced by their husbands for counterfeiting their keys and for wine drinking.

IN Turkey a woman is held in the most rigid seclusion. She must always appear veiled. With pigs and dogs she is forbidden to enter a mosque and the Koran declares a woman who is unmarried to be in a state of reprobation.

SIBERIAN women are raised as abject slaves, untidy in dress, and are bought with money or cattle. The most capricious whim of her husband is law to the Siberian woman, and should he desire a divorce he has only to tear the cap from her head.

LITERARY SAYINGS AND DOINGS.

OLIVER WENDELL HOLMES received $500—the highest price he ever touched for a single poem—for his verses eulogizing Garfield.

IN one month 25,000 copies of Hall Caine's "The Manxman" have been sold in England—a sale unequaled by any novel since Lothair.

IN a recent lecture delivered at Columbia college, William Dean Howells was quoted as placing Ambrose Bierce among the first six writers of America.

Dr. PIERCE'S Golden Medical DISCOVERY

Cures Ninety-eight per cent. of all cases of Consumption, in all its Earlier Stages.

Although by many believed to be incurable, there is the evidence of hundreds of living witnesses to the fact that, in all its earlier stages, consumption is a curable disease. Not every case, but a large percentage of cases, and we believe, fully 95 per cent. are cured by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, even after the disease has progressed so far as to induce repeated bleedings from the lungs, severe lingering cough with copious expectoration (including tubercular matter), great loss of flesh and extreme emaciation and weakness.

Do you doubt that hundreds of such cases reported to us as cured by "Golden Medical Discovery" were genuine cases of that dread and fatal disease? You need not take our word for it. They have, in nearly every instance, been so pronounced by the best and most experienced home physicians, who have no interest whatever in misrepresenting them, and who were often strongly prejudiced and advised against a trial of "Golden Medical Discovery," but who have been forced to confess that it surpasses, in curative power over this fatal malady, all other medicines with which they are acquainted. Nasty cod-liver oil and its filthy "emulsions" and mixtures, had been tried in nearly all these cases and had either utterly failed to benefit, or had only seemed to benefit a little for a short time. Extract of malt, whiskey, and various preparations of the hypophosphites had also been faithfully tried in vain.

The photographs of a large number of those cured of consumption, bronchitis, lingering coughs, asthma, chronic nasal catarrh and kindred maladies, have been skillfully reproduced in a book of 160 pages which will be mailed to you, on receipt of address and six cents in stamps.

Address for Book, World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

WHY THE GOLD IS EXPORTED.

Republican Legislation the Cause of the Tremendous Outgo.

The Indianapolis Journal was boasting the other day of the large foreign investments made in America after the passage of the McKinley bill, and at the same time asserting that exports of gold at present are caused by the Carlisle currency bill. The Courier-Journal took occasion to show that these investments after the passage of the McKinley bill were mythical, so far as they were indicated by the gold movement, as the net exports of gold in the twelve months ended June 30, 1891, were the largest since 1864. The Journal admits the accuracy of the figures submitted, but tries to wriggle out in this way:

"The Courier-Journal points out that during the fiscal year which ended June 30, 1891, the net export of gold was $68,130,087, then the largest since 1864. That is true, but why was this large export of gold necessary in 1891? Because the net exports of merchandise amounted to but $39,564,641. That balance in our favor was not much over one-third of the money necessary to pay foreign freights and interests on American securities held abroad. So the gold went. The Courier-Journal also calls attention to the fact that the net export of gold during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1893, was $87,506,463. True; but turn to the records of exports and imports of merchandise for that year, and it appears that we bought $18,735,273 more abroad than we sold. That is, we had to pay during the year not only the foreign freights and dividends on securities, but $18,-737,738 of adverse trade balance. That shows why the gold was needed.

"There are a few other interesting facts in connection with this matter. The net export of gold during the fiscal year which ended June 30, 1894, was $4,538,942. Why was the net export so small? Because the net export of merchandise during the same period was $237,-145,950."

Now, it will be observed that this is wholly irrelevant to the question whether the passage of the McKinley bill induced foreigners to invest large sums in American securities and to ship gold to this country to pay for them. The large net export of gold that year shows that they did not do it. The Journal admits this, but says the balance of trade, though in our favor, as the phrase is, was not so much in our favor as it might have been. Why was not the balance of trade more in our favor? Was not the McKinley bill passed to check importations? If it be said it was not yet in full operation, we pass on to the fiscal year 1893, when it was certainly getting in its work, and the balance of trade was what is called adverse. This year we exported $87,506,483 in gold, the largest amount ever exported in a single year. This showed clearly enough that the McKinley bill was not bringing gold from Europe.

Now, so far as the trade balance is concerned there is practically no dispute that it would be paid in gold if there were no other causes operating. But other causes are always operating. Hence, if we assume that an adverse balance of trade will necessarily cause an outflow, or a balance in our favor an inflow, of gold, we shall continually find statistics refuting our theory. In the fiscal year 1894, as above stated, we exported more than we imported by some $237,000,000. This was an ideal year according to the republican theory, as the balance of trade was so largely "in our favor." Imports were really checked, as the republican platform of 1888 demanded. Still everybody knows it was a bad year for business. The simple reason why we did not import more was because we could not afford it, our resources having been crippled by the Sherman act panic. By republican logic we ought to have imported, net, $237,000,000 of gold, but, in fact, our net exports were over four millions. No doubt the difference was made up by the return of our securities, and this was caused by the fear that we might not be able to maintain the gold standard.

The fact remains that the large outflow of gold was going on under the Harrison administration. All the conditions affecting the currency, with the exception of the Sherman act, which were operating under the Harrison administration, are still in force. To pretend, therefore, that the outflow of gold, which has been going on for years, whether the balance of trade was one way or the other, has been caused by the new currency bill is to disregard all the probabilities and the lessons of experience. Not a dollar of national bank currency, as it is now, or as it would be under the pending bill, would be available to settle international balances. The new currency bill might, and probably would, force the banks to furnish their share of the gold for export, and to that extent relieve the treasury. For that reason it is rather calculated to diminish than to increase the shipment of gold, as it gives an additional reason to expect that the gold standard can be retained.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Prosperous Democratic Times.

This center of manufacturing interests in New Hampshire is experiencing an unprecedented revival of business, and shrewd men of affairs do not hesitate to express themselves to the effect that Manchester is upon the threshold of an era of business prosperity compared with which her past wonderful material advancement will be as naught. Signs of increasing prosperity are manifest on every hand. For an entire mile along the river front, from Olzendam's hosiery mills on the south to the Langdon mills at the extreme north, the whirling of spindles and the rattling of shuttles can be heard. All the mills are being run full time, new industries are being started, old industries are working overtime, and the hum of industry affords pleasing music throughout every part of this thriving community. The merchants of Manchester have just reaped a rich harvest from the most successful merchants' week ever held under the board of trade auspices, and all feel the business outlook for the winter to be of a rosy character. The tariff question is regarded as settled, and already the superiority of the Wilson over the McKinley tariff is dawning upon the minds of all, confidence is restored, and throughout all the arteries of business life there is a feeling of buoyancy, hopefulness and good cheer.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

——"The sugar trust holds its grip on the senate," says the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, "and that is one of the reasons why so many people want to mend or end the senate." And our republican contemporary of St. Louis will please observe that when Senator Gray the other day moved to take up a bill to shake off the grip of the sugar trust, not a republican senator voted with him.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

PROTECTION VS. M'KINLEYISM.

Prohibitive Rates of the McKinley Bill and Their Results.

Hon. John A. Kasson, who will be favorably remembered as a republican member of congress a score of years ago, writes a letter to the Washington Post to protest against the use of the phrase "McKinleyism is dead." That is, Mr. Kasson objects to that phrase if it is to be understood that McKinleyism means "national protection," and inferentially he conveys the idea that if it doesn't mean that, but something else, then he doesn't care a continental cuss what becomes of it.

Mr. Kasson is justified in feeling some anxiety on that point, and in order to relieve his mind the Times assures him that McKinleyism doesn't mean "national protection." What it means is the robbery of the many to enrich the few, impoverishing the millions to add to the plunder of the trusts, and reimbursing the manufacturing barons for the millions of dollars they contributed to the republican corruption fund in 1888 and 1892 in order to debauch the ballot and corrupt the voters of the country in the interest of the republican plunderers.

That is what McKinleyism means, as distinguished from national protection. When Mr. Kasson represented an Iowa constituency in congress the government was under the policy of national protection, and he was among those republicans who protested against the increase of the tariff taxes for the reason as they then said that higher duties would be burdensome and unjust. Subsequently such presidents of his party as Grant and Arthur recommended a reduction of the duties. But McKinleyism doubled them in nearly every particular, and established not protective but prohibitive rates.

The consequence of the substitution of McKinleyism for national protection was the formation of a sugar trust, a steel trust, a cordage trust, a barbed wire trust and various other trusts, the business of which was to plunder the people, and they did business with great earnestness and assiduity until the election of 1892 knocked them silly. Then the new tariff bill was enacted, and, though the advocates of McKinleyism denounce it as a free trade measure, it provides for duties a trifle higher than those which existed when Mr. Kasson was in congress.—Kansas City Times.

HIGH TARIFF NOT WANTED.

The People of the West Not In Favor of Higher Taxes.

A republican politician in the far-off territory of Oklahoma expressed a popular truth when, a few days ago, he said: "The west is not stuck on a high tariff."

Nobody is "stuck on" a high tariff, except its beneficiaries. Nobody wants to pay any more taxes than he can help and everybody wants the necessities of life at such a price that they can be readily obtained without too much toil and effort. Not only the west, but the east, is not "stuck on" a high tariff. A high tariff is high taxation. The taxation is borne by the people, and as it is impossible that everybody should profit by taxing himself so it is equally impossible that everybody should profit by high tariff which means high taxation.

The days of a high tariff are over. No one of authority in the republican party pretends to favor a return to the McKinley tariff. No party will go before the people on the issue that the people shall pay more taxes and that everybody is better off by being taxed.

Whether the democratic party elects its candidates or not, its principles are winning a stronger hold on the people, and if the republican party continues to reform, it will soon be practicing the real truths of democracy.—Albany Argus.

OPINIONS AND POINTERS.

——Mr. McKinley has discovered that the tariff barons have no use for the lemon if they can get the juice without it. Tom Reed is very juicy withal.—St. Louis Republic.

——The republican senators will have another opportunity to earn more sugar trust boodle by defeating again the bill to remove the differential duty on German sugar and on the trust's refined sugar.—Chicago Herald.

——William McKinley and Benjamin Harrison will note the fact that it was Senator Quay who introduced the bill for a new presidential mansion. Of course Senator Quay doesn't expect McKinley or Harrison to ever occupy his new million dollar white house, as he had an eye on Tom Reed when he proposed to fix up the next president so handsomely at public expense.—Kansas City Times.

——A stanch western republican paper, the Sioux City (Ia.) Journal, believes that the republican party in New York state will make a serious mistake if it does not "turn down" Tom Platt. "He did not win the late victory," it says; "he had nothing to do with it; the only contribution it was in his power to make was to keep out of sight. When he now comes forward to dictate the use of the victory he simply raises an issue within the party against himself. The party must purge itself of his bossism and of all machine dictation, if it hopes long to retain control in New York. The bosses must be downed."—N. Y. Post.

——The republican pretentions of wanting fair and honest elections are very shallow when such fair and honest elections fail to elect their candidates. A living example of this is the present situation in California. In spite of the manipulations of republican election officers in that state the returns show the election of Budd, democrat, for governor, by one thousand three hundred plurality. Now the republicans are threatening to steal the state outright for old man Estee, who was defeated at the polls. While the g. o. p. wears a very pious look it also carries an itching palm for other people's property.—Kansas City Times.

——Shrewd republicans must realize that the republicans of the senate committed an irremediable blunder in voting down the proposition to consider the bill depriving the sugar trust of the privileges accruing to it from the differential and discriminating duties. There can be no doubt that the degrading influence and the insatiable greed of the sugar trust will figure conspicuously in the campaign of 1896. That monstrous monopoly is a product of republican legislation, and the republican party must now go on record as defending its progeny against the attack of all but three of the democrats of the senate.—Rochester Herald.

SOUTHERN GLEANINGS.

Florida Fruit Losses.

Reports from correspondents in the orange districts of Florida indicate that at least 1,800,000 boxes of unpacked oranges were made masses of ice by the recent cold snap, and more than 300,000 boxes in warehouses or lying in bulk preparatory to sorting were frozen. Tomatoes, cabbage, beans, peas and all vegetables in the northern half of the state were ruined, except the pineapple plantations, which were not much injured. Half of this season's great orange crop of 5,000,000 boxes was still on the trees. The tail of the blizzard switched around through the Florida peninsula, and within the space of a few hours Florida had sustained a loss that, estimated in money, would reach into the millions. The destruction will be felt for many years, directly or indirectly, by all the people of the state. Previous to this time the coldest weather was known in 1835, but there is no record to show just how cold it was then.

Reports from the interior of the state show that the cold weather has been general, and has extended from one end of the peninsular to the other. The lowest temperature at Tampa was 18, and the same was reported at Titusville. At Cedar Key it was said to be down as low as 16, and at Key West it was down to 44. The cold weather played havoc with the plumbing and water supply in Jacksonville. Many people found their water pipes frozen. The occurrence was so unusual that it was some time before residents could realize that the water had actually frozen in the pipes. There was ice in shallow places, however, and there were icicles everywhere.

Pay of Plantation Hands.

A movement, which seems destined to become popular among the planters of Mississippi, was inaugurated at the planters' meeting at Nittayuma, Miss., recently. Prominent agriculturists of the Delta were present, and resolutions were passed fixing the pay of best male labor at fifty cents per day, and the best class of female labor at forty cents per day. Not more than seven dollars per month, with rations, will be paid the best laborers, and crops should be laid at a maximum expenditure of $3.50 per acre. Clubs will at once be formed throughout the state, having for their motto the reduction of wages.

A Fine Church Edifice Ruined.

Shortly after the benediction was pronounced at the morning services of the First Baptist church, Chattanooga, Tenn., flames burst with a roar through the floor of the auditorium, and the whole interior of the church was soon ablaze. A blinding snowstorm was raging at the time, and the fire department found it impossible to make any speed over the slippery streets. Arrived at the church, another difficulty presented itself in a lack of water from frozen pipes. The result was that the church was finally ruined. It was the finest Baptist church building in the south, costing about $100,000. Only $20,000 insurance was carried.

Legislator Duncan's Tramp.

E. D. Duncan, the member of the Tennessee legislature who has been walking from Washington county, east Tennessee, to Nashville, reached his destination the other day, having been forced by the bitter cold weather to travel by rail the last 50 miles. He says he did not take this tramp for the purpose of gathering newspaper notoriety, but to study the life and habits of the mountainers, as he intends writing a novel, and include in it the results of his study and observation.

Prospecting for Coal.

Extensive prospecting is being done by a syndicate composed of Jackson (Miss.) and other capitalists in Holmes county, Miss. An enormous bed of brown coal has been found, and borings made recently are said to show that the coal grows blacker and harder at greater depths. The deposit underlies many square miles.

Animals Dying of Pneumonia.

The animals of Howe & Cushing's show, now in winter quarters at Birmingham, Ala., are taking pneumonia one by one and dying. Three monkeys, two camels and other valuable animals have died, and two lions, valued at $3,000, are very ill.

At the Age of 125.

Sophia Plunkett, colored, died at Mobile, Ala., aged 125. The family to whom she belonged say they have papers showing that she was of this age. She had lived in Mobile forty years, and was 85 years old when she was taken there.

The Cold Snap in Texas.

The recent norther was the coldest in about nine years in south and east Texas. Late gardens were killed, and further growth of the top crop of cotton was stopped. The thermometer in south Texas registered from 12 to 15 above zero.

Slab of Stone 210 Feet Long.

The other day workmen at the Mount Airy (N. C.) quarry split off a slice of stone in a perfectly straight line 210 feet long, 10 feet wide and 2 feet 8 inches thick. It contained about 5,600 cubic feet, and weighs about 460 tons.

Houston as a Cotton Market.

From September 1 to January 1 there were about 1,325,000 bales of cotton received at Houston, Tex., fully 200,000 more than for the entire season of 1893-94. New Orleans is now the only market leading Houston.

To Hang.

Gov. Carr of North Carolina has issued a warrant for the execution of William McDaniel and Henry Webb at Asheville, March 12.

After a Short Illness.

Col. Andrew B. Carson, at one time sheriff of Washington county, Miss., and a leading planter of the Delta, died after a short illness.

His Wife and Then Himself.

At New Orleans Albert Murdock shot his wife through the head and then himself. Both died before they could make a statement.

No License for Welsh.

Welsh, Calcasieu parish, La., voted on the question of license or no license. The total vote was 73, and the majority against was 15.

DEMOREST'S . . . FAMILY MAGAZINE

We wish to show the great value that will be given for the money expended. In the first place, the Magazine itself cannot be matched anywhere in the world for two dollars. If you wish to prove this, compare it with any other as to matter, illustrations, quality of paper, printing, etc. Then, too, it is so designed as to interest every member of the family, which makes it really a dozen magazines in one. Here, then, is the first $2.00 of the $48.00 mentioned above. The next $5.00 is represented by the exquisite premium for the coming year, De Longpre's "Roses," which is the most exquisite oil-picture that has ever been published, and worth nearer $10.00 than $5.00. Then comes a value of $3.00, represented by giving every lady reader all the patterns she wishes to use during the year, and in sizes to suit. A novel and important feature, introduced into DEMOREST'S MAGAZINE last April, is a Portrait Album giving eight cabinet-size portraits each month of the world's celebrities, with a biographical sketch of each person. Each year's collection of ninety-six portraits of distinguished men and women, when inserted in the Portrait Album which we can furnish, forms a handsome ornament for the home, as well as a valuable source of information and reference, interesting all members of the family and their friends. The collection would cost over a hundred dollars if made in any other way, as many of these photographs are very expensive, neither time nor money being spared in making the collection. If we count each portrait at the low valuation of only 25 cents it would make $24.00 worth with your coming year's magazines; and if you are a new subscriber and wish to commence your collection from the first we published, we will send you the fifty-six already issued, and these fifty-six at 25 cents each would make another $14.00. Summing up all the above, you have a value of $48.00 for only $2.00. The following fifty-six Portraits were published in the last volume, which new subscribers will be entitled to free. The ninety-six for the coming year will include names as well known as those already given.

A NEW YORK official can not now accept a pass without violating the state constitution. and this clause has led to the resignation of fifty notaries throughout the state.

ST. LOUIS was the first city in the country to have a street car postal service; it was the first to have a street car express service, and now it is the first to have a street car ambulance service.

JOHN BURNS says that the United States army is too large. It is more than a hundred years now since Englishmen began to conclude that a few American troops can be made to go a long way.

A BREAD war in a Michigan town has had an unexpected result. The reduction of the price of a loaf to two cents has induced families to stop baking their own bread, and the bakers find profits larger instead of diminished.

THE Turkish idea of necessary violence seems to be the thing that civilization has to tackle. The sultan frankly admits the truth of most of the Armenian charges, but he boldly declares that in his serene judgment it was all necessary.

THE Greek chamber, by a vote of 74 to 69, decided to destroy the currant crop in order to improve the market. If the Greeks would stop adding so much classic sand and gravel to their currants they would find the market far more satisfactory for their wares.

THE growth of Atlanta is an example of the expansion of the new south. A house-to-house census of the city just completed shows a population of 108,644. The figures of the census of 1890 were 65,558. Few American cities have reached such a percentage of increase.

AS LATE as 1873 the Chinese emperor refused to notice the salutations of foreign ministers or to admit them to his presence except on their knees. China will be apt to have to do the kneeling act in the future, if any is done, now that her mask of Bluff has been torn off.

PEKIN'S wall, built several centuries ago, is fifty-four feet high and forty feet wide. Yet the city has been captured once by foreigners and is threatened again. What constitutes a state? Certainly not battlements like those with nothing but hordes of imbeciles behind them.

THE news that the mikado of Japan is willing to accept an American heiress for the wife of the crown prince may indicate that the royal finances are not in keeping with the new progress of the empire. American heiresses are still for sale. and the market is closed to nobody with a title.

A SPEEDY death under the guillotine would perhaps have been more merciful to France's alleged traitor Dreyfus than the ceremony of degrading him, which took place recently in the presence of a large body of troops at the Ecole militaire. There is a grave suspicion that the captain has been made a scapegoat.

THE question of adulteration and spurious imitations should be dealt with without further delay in this country. The genuine antitoxine is twelve dollars an ounce, and a bogus article is already on sale in New York at a reduced price. This is tampering with human life,.but other villainies of the kind could probably be discovered.

LIVERPOOL has been thoroughly aroused by the effort of Manchester to capture its trade by means of the ship canal. The former city will build a great landing stage to debark passengers without the use of tenders, and expects to thus accomodate steamers of the future one thousand feet long, making the voyage from America in three and a half days.

THE city of Charleston, S. C., has decided to purchase a tract of five hundred acres on the Cooper river for a public park, and to construct an avenue one hundred feet wide between the city and this pleasure ground for the people. The Charlestonians have never lost faith in their town, though tried in an extraordinary way by earthquake, fire, flood and hurricanes.

IT is stated that the checks recently deposited in a single day by a Boston business house made a list ten feet long. This is a striking and significant proof of the extent to which checks serve the purpose of currency in this country. As a matter of fact, a very small proportion of money is used in commercial transactions, checks being preferred because they are more convenient.

THE eastern end of the great Russian Siberian railroad is completed out of Vladivostock for nearly three hundred miles and is open to traffic. Material for its construction has been going forward from Russia by way of the Black sea, the Dardanelles and the Suez canal. England would have objected to this in former times, but what Russia does now is apparently all in the family.

IT IS shown by the report of the comptroller of the currency that the deposits in the national banks amount to $1,647,017,129, and that the number of depositors is 1,929,340. The deposits in the savings banks of the country amount to $1,747,961,280, and the depositors number 4,777,687. Then there are building associations with assets valued at $528,852,000, and shareholders numbering 1,745,725.

THE Kansas supreme court has ordered a new trial in the case of Anderson Gray, who was convicted of murder upon the theory that he had hypnotized another man and caused him to do the killing. Gray will probably be acquitted, while the real murderer, having also been acquitted, can not again be tried for the crime. Thus we have another illustration of the peculiarities of criminal jurisprudence.

MINOR BILLS PASSED

But Little Important Work Going On in Congress.

SENATE DEBATE ON THE INCOME TAX.

Among the Measures Rushed Through in the House—The Tennessee River Near Sheffield, Ala., to be Bridged According to an Enactment.

WASHINGTON, January 12.—The debate in the senate yesterday on the subject of the income tax occupied the better part of five hours. Most of that time was used by Mr. Hill, in advocacy of the amendment offered by him giving courts of the United States jurisdiction to hear and determine suits to test the constitutionality and validity of the text. Speeches were also made by Mr. Dubois, republican of Idaho, Mr. Quay, republican of Pennsylvania; and Mr. Mitchell, republican of Oregon.

A motion by Mr. Quay to postpone the further consideration of the bill and amendment until the first Monday in February received one vote, his own, in its favor and 43 against it. A point of order was made against the Hill amendment, that it was general legislation on a general appropriation bill and was sustained by the presiding officer, Mr. Faulkner, democrat of West Virginia. An appeal from this was taken by M. Hill, and at that stage of the proceedings the whole matter went over until today.

Two of the calendar bills were introduced, one by Mr. Vest and one by Mr. McPherson, democrat of New Jersey, the latter authorizing the sale of bonds.

Bills Passed in the House.

Authorizing the Laporte, Houston and Northern railroad company to build a bridge over Galveston bay was passsd; also the following:

Authorizing the Little Rock and Pacific railroad company to bridge the rivers in Arkansas which its lines will cross.

Authorizing the Tennessee Bridge and Ferry company, to bridge the Tennessee river at or near Sheffield, Ala.

For the relief of I. H. Hathaway & Co., of Philadelphia, contractors for the harbor work at St. Augustine, by the issue of a duplicate for $104,110, the original having been lost in the mails and the following senate bill:

Extending the time in which the Texarkana and Fort Smith railway may bridge the Little river.

THE CONTEST IN TENNESSEE.

Counting and Publishing of Returns Postponed Pending an Investigation.

NASHVILLE. Tenn., January 12.—The gubernatorial contest continues to be the all absorbing subject. The entire morning session of the senate yesterday was consumed in the discussion. The republicans insist that the vote shall be canvassed, while the democrats take the ground that an investigation should be made before hand. In the house yesterday something of a sensation was created by Mr. Robertson, democrat, who arose to a question of privilege and read a letter from W. A. Davis, a republican from Dixon, which stated that there was a lot of republican "boodle" floating around and that he could get some of it for his vote. The senate, by a vote of 19 to 14 in the afternoon decided to postpone counting and publishing the returns until an investigation could be made.

THREE DEAD BODIES FOUND.

Gas Stove Overturned and the Escaping Gas Did the Damage.

NEW YORK, January 12.—Abraham Bersam, 22 years old, Joseph Abscon, aged 25 years and Jacob Rosenberg, 13 years old were found dead at 5 o'clock yesterday morning in a room at 343 Grand street. There was a small gas heating stove in the room near Jacob's feet. It was overturned, the flame extinguished and gas pouring from two burners. It is supposed it was turned over by Jacob in his sleep.

SAYS M'BRIDE IS CORRUPT.

An Open Charge Against the Leader of the United Miners.

COLUMBUS, O., January 12.—President A. A. Adams, of the Ohio miners, in a speech to miners at Shawnee yesterday reiterated his charge that not a miners strike had been settled during the past five years which was not brought about by corrupt labor leaders. McBride will have to prove his innocence of the charge made against him or reap the consequences.

CHILD BURNED TO DEATH.

Three Year Old Daughter of An Alabama Farmer Left in a Room Alone.

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., January 12.—A three year old daughter of Lucius Brown living four miles in the country, was burned yesterday. The family had left her alone in the house for a minute and when they returned her clothes were on fire. She was burned so badly as to cause death in two hours.

Cotton's Slight Advance. Weak Market.

NEW YORK, Jnuary 12.—The Sun's cotton review says: Gotton advanced 4 to 5 points, but lost this and then advanced 1 point, closing dull, with sales of only 35,000 bales. New Orleans advanced 1 to 2 points.

Could Not Stop at Queenstown.

QUEENSTOWN, January 12.—Such a strong southeast gale was blowing off the coast yesterday the Cunard steamer Etruria, was unable to land passengers or mails and proceeded for Liverpool without stopping.

Fatal Storm On the Plain of Apulla.

NAPLES, January 12.—A violent wind and snow storm swept over Foggia, on the great plain of Apulla yesterday. Eight persons were killed and many others injured.

Carter From Montana in the Senate.

HELENA, Mont., January 12.—Thos. H. Carter was nominated last night for United States senator by the republican caucus of both houses.

IMRROVED TRADE CONDITIONS.

Bradstreets Reports a More Active Market in all Commercial Lines.

NEW YORK, January 12.—In their report on the state of trade, Bradstreets says:

The second week of the new year brings reports of an increasing volume of orders of substantial goods. Chicago, St. Louis, Boston, New York and Philadelphia report relatively greatest improvement with increased orders for dry goods, clothing, rubbers, shoes, hardware, and woolen dress goods.

Mercantile collections south and in the central west are reported fairly satisfactory or improve to greater extent than for thirty days previously. Confidence of wholesale dealers in staple lines, that the near future in business promises increased activity, with an upward tendency in quotations, is pronounced at some cities.

Pittsburg, Philadelphia and Boston in the east, Atlanta, Jacksonville, Chattanooga and Galveston at the south, and at Cleveland Chicago, Omaha and St. Louis in the west, each of these, except Cleveland, reports a moderately improved condition of business this week, as does Milwaukee. At other points general trade is quiet, unchanged and without feature.

MRS. MORTON'S RECEPTION.

Albany Fashionables Visit the Executive Mansion by Her Invitation.

ALBANY, N. Y., January 12.—The first public reception given by Mrs. Morton in the executive mansion was held yesterday afternoon, and all Albany's most fashionable set gathered in honor of the event. The mansion, which has been somewhat changed since the departure of Flowers, presented a most brilliant appearance, with its tasteful decorations of Calla lillses, roses, orchids and vines. Contrary to the habit of Mrs. Flower, who usually surrounded herself with a large receiving party, Mrs. Morton welcomed her guests unassisted, save when once and a while one of her daughters or some of the young girls assisting them in the dining room would stand by her side for a few moments.

MRS. MARY STUART'S ESTATE.

Thirty-three Charitable Institutions Receive $518,000.

NEW YORK, January 12.—The thirty-three institutions comprising the residuary legatees under the will of Mrs. Mary Stuart, widow of Robert L. Stuart, who died on December 30, 1891, yesterday received the third installment from the estate. It amounted to $518,000. The money was realized from the sale of the Stuart mansion, at Sixty-eighth street and Fifth avenue, to Amzi L. Barber. George G. Williams, president of the Chemical National bank, and John S. Kennedy, the executors, have thus far turned over to the residuary legatees $4,277,000. Seven institutions yesterday received $37,000 each, and six got $9,961.54 each. A fourth installment still remains to be paid.

THE LOCKS OPERATE WELL.

First Test of the Government Locks, Opening Up the Coal Fields of Alabama.

MOBILE, Ala., January 12.—First practical test of government lock No. 1, on Warrior river, Ala., made this week and lock found to operate perfectly. This is the first of these locks the government is building just above Tuscacoosa to open up all year round water route from Warrior coal fields to Gulf via. Mobile. Other two locks in advanced stages will probably be finished by autumn. Practical working of lock No. 1, is guaranty of success of all these. Coal is now laid down by rail in Mobile cheaper than any seaport in the world, and the water route will cut the present rate considerably, probably as much as one half.

NEW NEWSPAPER FOR OCALA.

Mr. T. W. Harris Will Resurrect the Capitol Newspaper.

OCALA, Fla., January 12.—Ocala is to have still another newspaper. The differences between the Evening News, the successor of the Evening Capitol, resulting in the withdrawal of T. W. Harris from its editorship on January 1, reached their culmination yesterday in the determination of Harris to resurrect the Capitol. He announces his purpose in a circular issued yesterday, which says he will continue all old subscriptions and advertising contracts of the paper. It is understood the News claims these contracts as a part of the purchase of the Capitol.

An English Eulogy of Cleveland.

LONDON, January 12. — The Daily News says editorially: "President Cleveland has shown good feeling toward Great Britain, together with an enlightened sense of American interests, in his recommendations to congress on the Hawaii cable. There seems to be no reason to doubt that congress will take the same sensible, neighborly view."

Execution of Henry Archer at Sylvania.

SYLVANIA, Ga., January 12.—Henry Archer was hanged at this place yesterday for the murder of John Jackson, a young merchant of Oliver, whom he killed on the night of May 15th last in the bed room above his store by crushing in his skull with an axe. Robbery was the object of the crime.

Confessed His Crime on the Gallows.

RICHMOND, Ky., January 12.—William Taylor, the negro who assaulted Esquire David G. Doly December 7, 1894, was hanged at 12:13 o'clock yesterday. His neck was broken. Before the trap was sprung he confessed his crime in a speech, stating that whiskey caused it.

Commuted on the Eve of Execution.

CHARLESTON, S. C., January 12. —Lincoln Grant, colored, who was to have been hanged at Mount Pleasant yesterday, was reprieved Thursday, his sentence being commuted to life imprisonment. His crime was murder.

Editor Portalis in Mexico.

PARIS, January 12.—It is reported that M. Portalis, editor of the "Dix-Neuvieme Siecle," has reached Mexico. He left Paris ostensibly for Brussels last November in consequence of newspaper blackmailing scandals.

To Abolish the Death Penalty.

HARRISBURG, Pa., January 12.—A bill was introduced in the Pennsylvania legislature abolishing the death penalty for murder in the first degree.

WHEN BANDITS FAIL

An Engineer's Quick Eye Thwarts the Novice Desperadoes.

BOLD ATTEMPT AT TRAIN ROBBERY.

Band of Would-be "Daltons" Unsuccessful in an Effort to Hold Up a Passenger Train in Mississippi—Volley of Shots Fired into Coaches.

CARROLTON, Miss., January 12.—As the eastbound passenger train No. 71, in charge of Engineer Lindsy and Conductor Slaughter, was pulling out from Indianaola, a rapidly growing town 45 miles west of this place, a bold and dastardly attempt was made to flag and, no doubt, rob it by an unknown number of desperate novices, but Engineer Lindsay quickly gathering in the situation, throwed the throttle of his engine wide open, sped by the unexperienced bandits at a rapid advance of schedule time. However, following the example of the recently captured Pantherburn bandits, they emptied a volley of shots at the passenger coaches and one shot ploughed a slight flesh wound on the neck of Mr. Chas. H. Ewing, who is engaged with Chester A. Pond, of Moorehead. Several brick were thrown in the colored coaches and one colored man sustained quite a painful wound. The doors of the express car were also bombarded but the robbers plans were easily thwarted by a watchful engineer, who should be congratulated upon his presence of mind.

MILL MEN LOOK TO THE SOUTH

Other Large Massachusetts Concerns to Have Southern Plants.

LOWELL, Mass., January 12.—The announcement is made that the Merrimac, the largest cotton manufacturing company in this city, in addition to other concerns which have been mentioned, is to have a southern plant. This makes three of the largest establishments in the city to join the movement and makes the factory a surety. The labor element is inclined to become anxious. The elements in the problem are thus set forth by Treasurer, Clark, and Mr. A. C. Cullnock, of the Boot mills. "The fact is," said Mr. Clark, "that we can no longer manufacture plain sheetings and drills at a profit in the north. Against $3.50 per ton for coal in the south, we pay $4 to $4.50. The cimate there is milder. Up here we must pay freight and brokerage, giving them an advantage of 1 cent per pound on the raw cotton, which by itself is a fair profit for a mill making coarse yarn goods. The labor, too, costs sixty per cent more here than down there."

LYNCHBURG SLUMS STIRRED.

Over Forty Cases Against the Bar-rooms, Gambling and Ill Famed Houses.

LYNCHBURG, Va., January 12.—This city has been considerably stirred up for the last few days by the investigations of common abuses by the grand jury. Judge Christian, who succeeded to the bench January 1st, seems to have been credited with having brought about the investigation. About 150 young men of various avocations in life were summoned before the grand jury to tell what they knew about gambling, Sunday liquor drinking and prostitution generally. Their testimony has resulted in about forty presentments by the grand jury, including nearly all the principal saloons in town, the gambling rooms and several houses of bad repute.

IN BEHALF OF EUGENE DEBS.

His Attorney in Washington to Ask the Supreme Court for Permission of Bail.

WASHINGTON, January 12.—Mr. C. S. Barrow, counsel for Eugene V. Debs, arrived in Washington last night for the purpose of appearing before the United States supreme court in the interest of his client. The case was intended to come up in the supreme court by an application from Debs' counsel for a suit of habeas corpus denied to the Illinois court, but Mr. Barrow said that pending the argument on that question, he will ask the supreme court, as soon as he can be heard, to allow bail to be given for Mr. Debs.

JABEZ WIGGINS MUST HANG.

The Negro Who Killed Detective Murray and Others Must Pay the Penalty.

AUGUSTA, Ga., January 12.—Jabez Wiggins, the negro who killed detective Joe Murray and John Davis and wounded Officers Stringer and Wrenn while they were attempting his arrest on December 23d, for a crime committed in South Carolina, has been found guilty after a trial lasting five days. The court appointed the ablest lawyers at the bar to defend him but his crime was too heineous. He was immediately sentenced to be hanged Friday, February 8th.

New Treasurer of the Irish Federarion.

NEW YORK, January 12.—John D. Crimmins was elected treasurer of the Irish National Federation of America, to succeed the late Eugene Kelly, at a special meeting of the trustees and officers last Monday.

Southern Postmasters Confirmed.

WASHINGTON, January 12.—The senate has confirmed the nominations of the following to be postmasters: Alabama, W. C. Bowdell, Auburn. Georgia, Laura A. Wilder, Forsyth.

The Treasury Gold Reserve.

WASHINGTON, January 12.—The treasury list in gold withdrawals Thursday and Friday $3,625,000 reducing the gold reserve to $77,349,409 at the close of business yesterday.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., January 12.—Ex-Secretary of War Stephens B. Elkins, was nominated United States senator last night by the republican caucus.

Banquet of the Free Trade League.

BOSTON, January 12.—The New England free trade league enjoyed its first banquet since its change of name, last night at the United States hotel.

TO DEVELOP JAPAN'S MINERALS

The Government Invites a Chicago Engineer to Oversee the Projected Work.

CHICAGO, January 12.—At the request of the Japanese government Edward C. Potter, son of O. W. Potter, the millionaire of this city, who was for years president of the Illinois Steel company, left for Japan last night to instruct the Japanese how to utilize the great mineral resources of that country and teach them to manufacture steal rails and armor plate for their warships, steel and iron for their engines and machinery of all kinds. A great iron and steel plant will be established in Japan by the government, and the machinery for its equipment will be purchased in this country.

ROBBED AT MONTE CARLO.

Mr. Franklyn Johnson Was So Much Worried That His Death Ensued.

PARIS, France, January 12.—A newspaper of this city announces the death at Nice of Mr. Franklin Johnson, son of the president of the first national bank of Boonville, N. Y., under suspicious circumstances. The young man, it would seem, arrived at Nice about two weeks ago and went to Monte Carlo, where he was plied with wine, drugged: and robbed of over $000. As the young man was in delicate health, the affairs seems to have preyed on his mind, and is believed to have hastened his death, which occurred on Sunday last, January 6.

MRS. WM. W. ASTORS FUNERAL.

The Services Conducted at the Trinity Chapel by the Rev. Morgan Dix.

NEW YORK, January 12.—The funeral of Mrs. William Waldorf Astor took place from the Trinity chapel, in West Twenty-Fifth street this morning at 11:30 o'clock. Rev. Morgan Dix and Bishop Potter officiated. The interment was in Trinity cemetery, Washington Heights. The pallbearers who were chosen are personal friends of Mr. Astor. Mr. Astor returns to England by the Teutonic, the steamship by which he arrived, next Wendesday.

FOR THE GREATER NEW YORK.

A Commission to be Appointed Which Will Proceed to Frame a Charter.

NEW YORK, January 12.—Senator Reynolds, of the state assembly, yesterday, introduced the Greater New York bill which provides that the governor of the state, the mayor of New York, and the mayor of Brooklyn are each to appoint three commissioners, and the two mayors to act ex-officio. Twenty-five thousand dollars are to be appropriated, and the commission is to proceed to frame a charter.

The Output of Coal in Nova Scotia.

HALIFAX, N. S., January 12.—Nova Scotia's output of coal during 1894 was 2,055,114 tons, an increase of 80,500 tons over 1893. Of this total 1,170,000 tons were from the Cape Breton mines. While the Cape Breton mines show an increase of 132,320 tons the Pictou and Cumberland collieries show a decrease of 50,000 tons. The exports to the United States exceeded 120,000 tons, an increase of 100,000 tons over the previous year, due to the lowering of the United States tariff.

Wilson Looks for an Extra Session.

WASHINGTON, January 11.—Representative Wilson of West Virginia does not expect either tariff or currency legislation this session. He said yesterday: "As I look at the situation, I do not see how it is possible to avoid an extra session of the next congress. I have had no consultation with the president on this subject, and I do not know what his views may be, but if I were in his place I do not see what I could do but call an extra session."

President Spencer Pays a Bet.

WASHINGTON, January 13.—President Samuel Spencer, of the Southern railroad, gave a dinner last night at the Arlington in payment of a bet he lost to Congressman Isidor Straus, of New York. The bet was that a free coinage of silver bill would be passed by the house of representatives last session. Covers were laid for twenty and among the guests were cabinet officers, senators, representatives and railroad officials.

Cape Town in the Postal Union.

WASHINGTON, January 12.—Captain Brooks, superintendent of the foreign mail service, has received advices from the International universal postal union at Berne, Switzerland, stating that Cape Colony had joined the Postal Union. The union now includes every civilized country with the exception of the Orange Free States and several small islands in the Orient and Africa.

Fears of a General Strike in New York.

NEW YORK, January 12.—There is a prospect of an extended strike in the building trades being brought about by the board of the walking delegates of the building trades, who are determined to wage war on all non-union plumbers, many of whom are now at work. At present more than eight hundred mechanics are out on strike.

Whipping Post Advocated in New York.

NEW YORK, January 12.—Commodore Elbridge T. Gerry advocates a return to the whipping post as a means of punishment for wife beaters and others, and during the present session of the legislature will have introduced an amendment to the law providing for some such punishment for certain crimes.

Entertained by Mrs. Cleveland.

WASHINGTON, Junary 12.—There was a distinguished gathering of the ladies of the official circle in the blue room at the white house at noon yesterday, Mrs. Cleveland having invited her friends to a musicale to hear her former schoolmate, Miss Katharine Willard, who is a brilliant pianist.

What the Strike Cost Illinois.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., January 12.—The biennial report of Adjutant General Orendorf, commanding the Illinois state troops, says that the total cost of the great Chicago strike to the state was $800,000, of which $85,000 has been paid from appropriations, leaving $254,000 still due.

DENIES THE CHARGE

Sensation Sprung in the New Orleans Bribery Trial.

TESTIMONY OF A WOMAN THE CAUSE.

Declared in the Bill For a New Trial to Be an Eye Witness to the Bribe in Question, She Goes Upon the Stand and Denies the Story.

NEW ORLEANS, January 12.—The supplemental bill presented to Judge Ferguson of Section A., criminal district court Wednesday evening and filed with the clerk of the court on yesterday by the attorneys in the Dudoussat case (councilman convicted of receiving a bribe) on a motion for a new trial, received a severe set back yesterday. The bill went on to relate how, among other discoveries of recent date, new testimony had been discovered in this case and a woman had been found who would testify that she was standing on the steps of Charles Sherman's grocery on the morning that Dudoussat played his star engagement with Sherman and witnessed with her own eyes the latter putting the money in the councilman's pockets.

The woman appeared and created a sensation by denying the whole story as contained in the supplemental bill, and declaring that she knew absolutely nothing about the matter further than heresay, and expressed herself in very strong terms against those who were responsible for dragging her into court. It is rumored Hopkins, through whose instrumentality the bill was filed, will be indicted for subornation.

SECTIONALISM IN THE HOUSE.

The Lines to be Distinctively Drawn in a Measure Soon to be Heard.

WASHINGTON, January 12.—What may result in a division of the house on strictly sectional lines will be an order for the committee on rules next week fixing the time for the consideration of a bill to pay certain southern war claims. A bill providing for the settlement of the claims of citizens in both northern and southern states was reported some time ago from the committee on war claims and is now on the house calendar. Some of the members of this committee learned yesterday that another bill which looks only to the payment of southern claims and which did not originate there, is the one in which the committee on rules will take cognizance. The war claims members are exercised over the matter and an effort will be made, when the rule is reported, on Monday or Tuesday of next week, to defeat it, their argument being that the bill reported from their committee is fairly and impartially drawn, and the only measure that ought to pass the house. Some quiet missionary work was done on the floor of the house yesterday by certain members of the war claim committee, looking to the presence in their seats next week, when the order is reported, of as many northern men, both republicans and democrats, as can be counted upon to antagonize the action of the committee on rules.

SECRETARY SMITH IS MAD.

Condemns the Effort of Interior Employes to Force Legislation by a Paid Lobby.

WASHINGTON, January 12.—The secretary of the interior yesterday gave out the following: The attention of this department has been called to a circular letter, the purpose of which is to effect an organization of the registers and receivers of the local land officers and the surveyors-general to raise a fund to defeat certain proposed legislation. The impropriety of subordinate officers of the department attempting to counteract by a paid lobby the suggestions emanating from the department is so manifest that it meets with the severest condemnation of the secretary of the interior, and it is not improbable that some of these officers will have no occasion in a short time to take any interest in whether the offices they now hold are abolished or not.

THREW VITROL IN HIS FACE.

Deadly Assault Made Upon Editor Frank B. Steele, of Waterbury, Conn.

WATERBURY, Conn., January 12.—As Frank B. Steele, of Waterbury, editor of the Bridgeport Sunday Herald, was leaving his office yesterday an unknown man threw vitrol in his face from the effect of which he will be scarred for life. The vitral covered most of the left side of his face and ran down the outside of his throat and breast, his clothing about the neck being badly burned. His eyes were uninjured. His assailant is yet unknown.

TRAGEDY IN SOUTH CAROLINA.

Officer and Moonshiner Both Killed in a Duel at Walhalla.

WALHALLA, S. C., January 12.—Robert Moore, a revenue officer and Robert T. Thrift, a moonshiner, shot and killed each other yesterday. Thrift was arrested by Moore for running an illicit distillery and was being carried by Moore to Walhalla to be placed in jail. Thrift tried to escape by shooting Moore, who returned the fire. Each shot struck a vital part, and both men died in a few minutes.

North Carolinian Killed at Savannah.

SAVANNAH, Ga., January 12.—J. Chadwich, of Moorehead City, N. C., was crushed to death yesterday in a peculiar manner. He had gone inside the bucket of a dredge to repair it, when the engine wheel slightly reversing threw the heavy bucket shells together, crushing him across the waist.

Governor of Washington for the Senate.

SEATTLE, Wash., January 12.—A sensation was sprung yesterday by the announcement that Governor John H. McGraw had entered the race for United States senator. McGraw's friends maintain that neither Ankeny, Wilson or Allen can be elected and that McGraw is the only acceptable candidate for the place.

WAS RESTORED TO THE BENCH.

Governor Morton Assigns Judge Barnard to Work as a Supreme Court Justice.

ALBANY, N. Y., January 12.—Colonel William D. Dickey, of Newburg, and Senator Lexow called upon Governor Morton at the executive chamber yesterday and presented petitions requesting that the governor restore Justice Barnard, of Poughkeepsie, to active service in the supreme court. The petition was signed by nearly all of the lawyers of Duchess county. Judge Barnard retired from the bench under the seventh year limit a year ago. Under the new legislation the governor may permit any justice so retired to resume work in the supreme court. Governor Morton at once granted the request contained in the petition and has assigned Justice Barnard to special term which is to be held on Saturday of each week at Poughkeepsie, and has restored to him all his functions so that he may perform all the duties of a supreme court justice.

ATLANTA POLICE DEPARTMENT.

A Thorough Investigation the Outcome of the Charges Against Baker.

ATLANTA, January 12.—Public interest in the Baker investigation is growing daily. Many startling surprises will be sprung before the committee finishes its labors. From the present outlook, the investigation will not be confined to Captain Baker's record, but that of his accusers will also be thoroughly sifted. Those who are in a position to know, say that Baker's counsel will impeach the characters of the detectives and their witnesses. A great number of witnesses will be subpœned by Baker and asked to tell what they know of the methods of the detective department. Baker has secured a strong array of legal talent in the persons of L. Z. Rosser, B. H. Hill and T. W. Rucker.

GLENN'S CIRCULARS SENT OUT.

Georgia's State School Commissioners on the New Administration's Policy.

ATLANTA, January 12.—State school Commissioner Glenn has prepared a most interesting circular letter, which he sent out to all the county school commissioners yesterday. The circular is in the nature of an advisory letter, telling the different commissioners what will be the policy of the new official, who is to look after the educational interests of the state for the next two years at the least. The new commissioner indicates in the letter that he has taken vigorous hold of the educational branch of the state's government, that he wants to build new schools and get rid of any incompetent teachers who may have gotton into the schools.

THE SOUTH PACIFIC ISLANDS.

England to Patrol Those Waters to Look After Her Growing Interests.

SYDNEY, N. S. W., January 12.—The new naval commander, Admiral Bridge, has arrived. A farewell banquet was given to Admiral Bowden Smith, Premier Sir Robert Duff presiding. The admiral said in his speech that despite the fact that all Pacific islands except Tonga, were annexed by the powers, it was necessary that British cruisers continue to patrol those waters owing to increased responsibilities in connection with the recent annexations. He rejoiced, he said, to know that the relations of Great Britain, France and Germany in the South Seas were most cordial.

MRS. MEYER MAY GO FREE.

May be Released Outright or Plead to a Lesser Crime.

NEW YORK January 12.—The case against Mrs. Meyer, indicted with her husband, Dr. Meyer, for causing the death of Frederick Baum, alias Ludwig Brandt, in order to collect insurance money, will probably be settled in a short time. It was learned positively yesterday that an agreement had been arrived at between the district attorney's office and consul for Mrs. Meyer to either allow the woman to go on her own recognizance or to allow her to plead guilty to a much lighter offense upon the understanding that a minimum sentence shall be imposed.

Captain Freitsch to Cross the Pacific.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., January 12.—Captain Adolph Freitsch, who sailed from this city to Queenstown in the sailboat Nina, now proposes to cross the Pacific in a similar craft. Captain Freitsch and his boat are on exhibition at the St. James theatre, in London, but in a letter to friends in this city he says he has received an offer for his boat and will sell it. Then he will go to San Francisco, build another craft, and cross the Pacific to Melbourne or Sydney, Australia, making a stop at Honolulu.

Selma Druggist Found Dead.

SELMA, Ala., January 12.—Dr. Braxton Shields, a prominent druggist at this place was found dead in bed yesterday. He was in his usual spirits when he retired and death resulted from heart failure.

Ex-Treasurer Taylor Arrested at Memphis.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., January 12.—Ex-Treasurer Taylor, of South Dakota, was arrested here when he was released, as the officers here could hear nothing from the South Dakota officers.

An Earthquake in Canada.

TORONTO, Ont., January 12.—Earthquake shocks last night are reported from Pembroke, Cobden and Westmeath, in the northeastern part of this province. No damage was done.

Assignment in Alabama.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., January 12.—A special from Faunsdale, Marengo county, says Coleman, Walker & Co., made an assignment yesterday. Liabilities $15,000. Assets unknown.

Reluctantly Becomes Foreign Minister.

LONDON, January 12.—A dispatch to the Times from Buenos Ayres says that Dr. Alcorta, after several refusals, has accepted the foreign portfolio.

Fair and Colder Weather.

WASHINGTON, January 12.—For Georgia and Alabama, fair, colder in northwestern portion, westerly winds.

THE * CHRONICLE.

C. C. DuBOSE, Editor and Proprietor.

COLUMBIANA, JAN. 17, 1895.

NEW YORK city has 522 churches of all denominations. These afford a seating capacity of 400,000.

GOOD roads are what we must have to hurry on the march of industry and progress, and they are what we are going to have. Every day delayed is precious time wasted.

AS THIS is an off year in politics our people are going to turn their time and talent to developing Alabama, and before another year good times will have returned.

A LAW to punish the unwarranted usurpation of public office is not wanted so much for the present as for the future. After Kolb's harmless performance, there is no telling what some bold crank may do hereafter.—Birmingham News.

THE Japanese armies will not go into winter quarters, but continue an aggressive war on China, all through the winter months. China may as well quit now and surrender and thus save thousands of lives and millions of money, for she is already a terribly whipped nation.

THE recent severe cold snap and storm did a great deal of damage to shipping on the great lakes and oceans. Many vessels are known to have been lost, while many are overdue, and the loss of life is appalling. The storm was the severest in years.

BILL COOK, the noted western desperado and train robber, has at last been captured. He was captured on an isolated cattle ranch near Roswell, New Mexico, and was quietly effected by three deputy United States marshals. He was taken to Oklahoma and jailed.

THE way to make a prosperous year is to make it. Quit borrowing trouble. Quit conjuring up hard times. Remember that the sun will shine, the rains will fall, health and strength are yours, and that your fortune is with yourself and not with the stars.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

THE assembly has created two new judicial circuits and thus has expressed a willingness and purpose to relieve the crowded condition of the court dockets, and to secure speedy trials and sure administration of justice. In this way it is hoped to put down the necessity for mob violence and to compel obedience to the laws.

STEPHEN B. ELKINS, who, with the aid of another rascal like himself, carried Indiana on the "blocks-of-five" system in 1888, for Ben Harrison, has been elected a United States senator from West Virginia, by the republicans to succeed John N. Camden. Elkins is a millionaire and paterns much after the Vanderbilts in being a "Public be damned" sort of a man. But that is just the kind of a man the republicans like to honor with high places.

ALL property should be made to bear its proportionate share of the burdens of taxation, and any system of assessment laws which permits any property to escape or to be assessed below its real value, is unjust and unfair and cannot give satisfaction. Our assessment laws have done all this and more, and now a change is demanded by which fairness and equity can be secured and the necessary expenses of the government raised without so much difficulty. A joint committee of the Assembly met in Montgomery Tuesday to consider the question.

WHY can't Columbiana have a cotton mill? It certainly cannot be because we are not well situated for just such an enterprise. Plenty of cotton is raised in Shelby and adjoining counties, our railroad facilities are good and all other things would point to this place as a good place to locate a cotton mill. But there is the one thing needful, and that is a progressive, live class of business men, men who will work together for the good of the town and county irrespective as towhether one man is to receive a little more benefit therefrom or not, men who will lay all other differences aside, and come together with the one object in view, and to work together as a unit for the attainment of that object. Should the men of this town get together, organize themselves into a commercial club, have circulars printed showing up the advantages of Columbiana, and send them over the section in the east where cotton mills are now located, and advertising the many good reasons why this town is the best place in Alabama for a cotton mill, we would soon have prospectors here looking over the town and its many advantages and they would be followed by the mills, which would, in time, induce capitalists who have money invested in other business than that of the manufacture of cotton fabrics to locate among us, and thus we soon would reap the reward of our labor and the money spent in advertising in increased valuation of our property, the increased volume of business, which would necessarily be done in a good many manufacturing towns. Let us organize, and that right off, for if we don't we will be left high and dry upon the shores of inactivity, and all that is business, and life will have left us to stalk along as best we may, and mutter: "The saddest words of tongue or pen is, it might have been."

WHY COTTON MILLS ARE COMING TO THE SOUTH.

The Birmingham Age-Herald gives the following very good reasons why the cotton mills are leaving the New England states and locating in the South:

The more we think about it the more do the reasons multiply that impel the New England cotton mills to come South. They must not only get near the raw material, but nearer their market. Every year the center of population has been drifting westward, until now it rests near Cincinnati. Birmingham is several hundred miles nearer Cincinnati than Boston is. A cotton mill at Birmingham has twice the advantage in freight to Cincinnati that a mill in Boston has. And it must be kept in mind that the United States buys the great bulk of cotton manufacture. Then the old saying that Boston is the hub of the universe, must be changed. It is only one of the felloes. Not only is the South nearer the market, but the Southern railroads charge less freight on cotton manufactures. The Southern roads take cotton as fifth class, while the Northern roads take it as second and third class. This distinction makes a big saving in the freight.

Again, the mills erected in the South get cheaper lumber. The Alabama pine is sold in the New England markets and is superceding all other lumber.

Still again, the New England mills have discovered that the higher grade of cotton is grown in the Black Belt of Alabama and the Mississippi bottoms, and they desire to get near it.

Another fact counts for a great deal. The New England mills are forced to keep up steam all summer to keep their thread moist—if too brittle it breaks. This expense is saved on the high table lands of the South, where the moisture in the atmosphere is sufficient.

Now, let us if we can formulate the reasons that are attracting the New England mills to the South:

1. Proximity to the cotton field.
2. Cheaper labor.
3. Cheaper fuel.
4. Meeting the competition of the Southern mills on their own ground.
5. Saving in freight on the raw material.
6. Longer daylight and consequent saving in lights.
7. Favorable climate conditions.
8. Buying cotton direct from the planter and saving the brokerage commission.
9. Desirability of loose cotton over compressed cotton.
10. Machinery runs faster.
11. High grade of cotton.
12. Nearer center of population.
13. Cheaper sites and building material.
14. Lower taxes.

ENFORCEMENT OF LAW.

There are many reasons why crime, according to the law of our land, should be punished. Sometimes for the reformation of the offender; sometimes for the good effect punishment will have on society at large; sometimes for both these good reasons combined, and always because our inate sense of justice demands it. The blood of every man that is murdered, like the blood of Abel, crieth out from the very ground that drinks it in. The same is true with regard to the whole band of lawless evil doers and well-marked enemies of our race—the midnight burglar, the heartless thief, the highway robber, the unscrupulous swindler, the false-hearted deceiver of the innocent and unsuspecting, the cruel oppressor of the weak and unprotected, the unfeeling extortioner. To see this recreant host of plotters and planners against the peace and prosperity of their fellow man passing along unpunished, causes the face of every honest man to burn with righteous indignation. The law written on our hearts that guilt should be punished is indelible. The punishment of one guilty man may possibly have a wholesome influence on a hundred others just as bad at heart, in restraining them from deeds of lawlessness and crime. The existence of law is found to be absolutely necessary to the continuance of good society. By its enforcement the innocent are protected, and the wicked are held in check. The character of a community is determined by the justness and promptness with which its laws are enforced. In that community where the authorities are slow in dealing with offenders, there you may find the greatest amount of disorder and defiance of law. The true time for the infliction of the penalty of the law is just after the law has been violated. Swift justice is simple justice. This of course cannot always be accomplished. Time must be spent not only in ascertaining the true intent of the law, but in making sure that there is no injustice done in special application to individual cases, but when all this is accomplished, and that, too, without any unnecessary delay, the time for the penalty is at hand. Justice unnecessarily slow is not necessary justice. And it is our grave duty as law-abiding citizens, not only to see that good laws are enacted, but also that they are effectually enforced. The beginning of our duty in this regard goes back to the selection of such men as we may have reason to believe will carry out the duties of the position to which we elect them. And then, it becomes our duty to lend our influence toward all lawful effect to aid these officers, and urge them on to the impartial performance of their duties.

The man who is trying the hardest to pick the Bible to pieces is the one who is the least willing to live up to its teachings.

RAM'S HORN BLASTS.

Warning Notes Calling the Wicked to Repentance.

As long as the fraction of a tithe is kept out of the storehouse the windows of heaven cannot open.

Kill the lion of temptation, and the next time you pass that way you will find its mouth full of honey.

Hope can never die while love lives.

All lost sinners will go to the same place.

The law kills, but Christ is the resurrection.

Faith never takes a step without first looking up.

God puts the good man where he needs him the most.

Christ was God's idea of what every man should be.

Don't forget that your soul may be lost if you lose your temper.

The more unconsecrated wealth a christian has the worse he is off.

Some of us have to live a long time to find out that we don't know much

When the name of Christ becomes everything to us, it will do everything for us.

The man who is ashamed of his religion ought to be, for he has the wrong kind.

Nearly every sinner expects to repent when he gets too old to longer enjoy a life of sin.

God is disappointed in every christian whose spirit does not remind some one of Christ.

Great things can be done by the weakest man who is willing to trust in God and do his best.

There is no such thing as goodness in man until he knows for himself the goodness of God.

There are men who occupy high position in the church at whom the devil never aims a dart.

There are a great many temperance men who stop working at the trade when they go to vote.

Our prospect for being happy with God in heaven is not good unless we are happy with him on earth.

The man who loves sin is a sinner, no matter if he does sit in the "amen corner" when he goes to church.

The devil is not far away when any kind of a man begins to feel pretty well satisfied with himself.

Many people wear long faces because they are afraid they wouldn't be considered religious if they didn't.

One trouble with the world is that every man wants to measure his neighbor's cloth with his own yardstick.

Had the woman who gave the two mites been wise like some of the children of this world who now belong to church, she would have kept her money and begged some flour to bake a cake, to be sold to the highest bidder for Jesus' sake.

PROPOSALS OF MARRIAGE.

Statistics of How Men and Women Act at an Interesting Moment.

There is a clever statistician who could teach a thing or two to the novelist. This statistician has attempted to classify the action and methods of proposals, and, as a result, has presented tabulated figures extremely interesting to physiologists, says the Philadelphia Times. Out of one hundred cases, thirty-six gentlemen take lady in arms; sixty-seven gentlemen kiss lady on lip four gentlemen show very good taste by kissing lady on eyes, and two gentlemen kiss lady on hand. It is to be presumed these two out of a hundred are the timid, diffident kind, though it is possible that they might be of the quietly sentimental nature. One gentleman kisses lady on the nose. It must be added that the statistician is careful to insert the saving clause (by mistake.) There is even a record of a man kissing a lady on the edge of her shawl, but, thank goodness, there is only one in a hundred, and the chances are that this man is peculiar. Seventy-two hold lady's hand, seventeen hold it very tightly, fourteen have lumps in their throats, and nine exclaim aloud: "Thank God!" Only seven out of a hundred declare themselves to be deliriously happy, and five are too full for utterance. Three out of a hundred stand on one foot when they make proposal, and two get down on one knee, while nine make a formal prelude—something like the slow music in the play, we suppose, when the villain appeals to heaven to witness the consuming flame of his affections for the heart he plots to ruin, etc.

The behavior of the lady under the circumstances is equally entertaining and instructive. Out of a hundred cases, eighty-one sink into the arms of a gentleman; sixty-eight rest their heads on gentleman's breast, and only one sinks into the arms of a chair; eleven clasp their arms around the gentleman's neck, six weep tears of joy silently, and forty-four weep tears aloud—whatever that means; seventy-two have eyes full of love, and nine out of a hundred rush from the room and tell everybody. Only four are greatly surprised, and eighty-seven of a hundred knew that something was coming. Five giggle hysterically and one even sneezes. Only one of a hundred struggles not to be kissed, while six kiss gentleman first. If we believe the statistician, one out of a hundred women will say: "Yes, but don't be a fool."

EX-GOV. WAITE proposes to lecture on "Who is Our Fat Friend?" meaning President Cleveland. This is certain to make people ask, who is our fool friend? He is the populite crank from Colorado who wanted to see blood run bridle deep on one occasion. The President is complimented by the antagonism of such creatures as Waite.—Birmingham News.

The Natural Boy.

O, for the glimpse of a natural boy,
A boy with freckled face,
With forehead white 'neath the tangled hair,
And limbs devoid of grace.

Whose feet toe in, while his elbows flare,
Whose knees are patched all ways,
Who turns as red as a lobster when
You give him a word of praise.

A boy who was born with an appetite,
Who seeks the pantry shelf.
To eat his "piece" with resounding smack,
Who isn't gone on himself.

A Robinson Cruso-reading boy,
Whose pockets bulge with trash,
Who knows the use of rod and gun
And where the brook trout splash.

It's true he'll sit in the easiest chair,
With hat on his tousled head;
That his hands and feet are everywhere—
For youth must have room to spread.

But he doesn't dub his father "old man,"
Nor deny his mother's call.
Nor ridicule what his elders say,
Nor think that he knows it all.

A rough and wholesome natural boy,
Of a good old-fashioned clay;
God bless him, if he's still on earth,
For he'll make a man some day.
—Washington News.

An Even Temper Conducive to Beauty and Good Health.

When a girl is young and in the stage of pinafores and bibs she is told that she must not indulge in fits of ill-temper, because it is "naughty." That is a matter of perfect indifference to the child, but the punishment that follows an outbreak of fury is tolerably effective in decreasing the number of such outbreaks. When she is older she is warned against temper on the ground that it is a destroyer of beauty and a promoter of wrinkles. Finally, when she has reached the age when neither its effect upon her appearance nor the danger in which it places her soul bothers her, she is warned against an outburst of temper as being injurious to her health.

It is claimed by physicians that to indulge in rage is a profitless performance and worse than that. It not only has no effect, as a usual thing, upon the thing raged at, but it exhausts the nerve forces and leaves the angry person weak and tired. A series of outbursts will put a woman in a condition where the sanitarium is a necessity.

But let not the woman who simply represses her emotions imagine that she is going to escape. Repression of anger or of pain or of whatever may be the predominating sentiment of the moment may be carried to an excess, and then those same wise doctors who decry the indulgence in temper bewail its repression. The woman who continually hides and subdues her feelings is courting nervous diseases and exhaustion as surely as her violent sister is.

There is only one thing to do, and that is to cultivate a charming disposition that never feels any particular emotion. The woman who never gets angry and consequently never has either to repress her feelings or to indulge it is the one who will reach a wrinkleless old age, who will win golden opinions concerning her amiability and who will never have to seek a sanitarium or try the rest cure.

The Delineator for February is the midwinter number, and the contents bear out the promise of the publishers that the magazine for 1895 will be more interesting than ever. In the front of the book is the new Delineator March, by Monroe H. Rosenfield, which is immensely effective and sure to become popular. There is an illustrated article on Church Fairs, full of practical suggestions; and another descriptive of a picturesque Flag Fete, suitable for a Washington's Birthday entertainment at schools and academies. There is a Good Night Drill also, for children, and two delightful entertainments for their elders, called A Flower Party and A Valentine Masquerade. Mrs. Carrie M. Knapp writes of Laundry Work as an Employment for Women, and Ada Tyng Griswold describes a Girl's Life and Work at the University of Wisconsin. Some most attractive favors for the Germans are shown in Crepe and Tissue Papers, and new designs are illustrated and described in Venetian Iron Work. The sixth paper on The Kindergarten introduces some fascinating work for little hands. For the housewife there is Seasonable Cookery, Hints on Serving Fruits, and the continuation of the articles on The Home. The chapter on The Treatment of the Eye and Ears will be of value to all who read it if its precepts are followed; the flower-lover will find something of interest in Floral work for Midwinter; the Tea Table Gossip is as entertaining as ever, and The Newest Books are reviewed. The Fancy Work Department is unusually attractive in this number, and there are papers on Crocheting, Hair Pin Work, Knitting, Netting, etc.

Some Oddities of the Calendar.

The days of the month and week are always the same in March and November, in April and July, and in September and December; that is, if March "comes in" on a Monday, November will do likewise, the same rule applying to the other months named above. In leap year January is with April and July, in other months it is with October. February, in leap year, is with August, in other years with March and November. The last day of February and the 4th day of July always occur on the same day of the week; the same is true of May Day and Christmas.

Many stubborn and aggravating cases of rheumatism that were believed to be incurable and accepted as life legacies, have yielded to Chamberlin's Pain Balm, much to the surprise and gratification of the sufferers. One application will relieve the pain and suffering and its continued use insures an effectual cure. For sale by Parker & Armstrong.

THROWING OUT HINTS.

John Was Rather Too Urgent and Personal to Be Successful.

From the Detroit Sun:

When a Georgia farmer found out that his son, John, was sparking a certain farmer's daughter for a year or more without settling any question, he called him out behind the barn and said to him:

"John, do you love Susan Tinker?"

"I guess I do, dad."

"And does she love you?"

"That's what I dunno, and I'm 'fraid to ask her."

"Well, you'd better throw out a few hints tonight and find out. It's no use wearing out boot leather unless you are going to marry her."

That night at 10 o'clock John was a wreck. His face was all scratched up, his ear was bleeding, his hat was gone, and his back was covered with mud.

"John! John: What on airth is the matter!" exclaimed the old man, laying down his paper.

"Bin over to Tinker's," was the reply.

"And—and"

"And I threw out a few hints to Susan."

"What kind of hints?"

"Why, I told her I'd been hoofing it two miles four nights out of a week for the last year to set up with her while she chawed gum and sung through her nose, and now I reckoned it was time for her to brush her teeth and darn up her stockings, cure the bile on her chin and tell the old folks that we're engaged."

"And her father bounced you?"

"No, dad, no; that's where I'm consoled. It took the entire family, including Susan, two hired men and three dogs, and then I wasn't more than half licked. I guess we moved on 'em too soon, dad—I guess it wasn't quite time to throw out hints."

Kitchen Time-Table.

New potatoes will boil in one half an hour.

Corn will boil in twenty minutes use; hot water.

Spinach will boil in fifteen minutes; use hot water.

Summer beets will boil in one hour; use hot water.

Winter beets will require three hours; use hot water;

Onions will boil in one and a half hours; use hot water.

Dried corn must besoaked over night. Allow to cook one hour.

Asparagus will boil in three-quarters of an hour; use cold water.

Lima beans will cook in three-quarters of an hour; put on to cook in hot water.

String beans require two hours or more; the first water should always be poured off.

Summer squash is better steamed, as putting it in water makes it too watery; cook three-quarters of an hour.

Early peas will boil in half or three-quarters of an hour; they are best put on in cold water; add salt when nearly done.

Turnips require a long time to cook; if cut thin, they will cook in an hour and a quarter, but if only cut in halves it will take two hours and a half.

Silver and Gold.

Something everybody wants, something all can get by securing a copy of Vick's Floral Guide for 1895, a work of art, printed in 17 different tinted inks, with beautiful colored plates. Full list, with description and prices of everything one could wish for vegetable, fruit or flower garden. Many pages of new novelties, encased in a chaste cover of silver and gold.

Unusual and astonishing offers, such as Sweet Peas for 40 cents a pound, $300.00 for a name for a new double Sweet Pea, etc. If at all interested in seeds or plants, send 10 cents at once for a copy of Vick's Floral Guide, which amount may be deducted from first order, to James Vick's Sons, Rochester, New York, and learn the many bargains this firm is offering.

He Hadn't Wings.

"Of course before your marriage you told your wife that you would never be absent from her side except when business demanded your presence elsewhere?"

"Yes."

"And you said you would gratify every wish of hers?"

"Yes."

"And that you would never speak a cross word to her?"

"Yes."

"Have you kept your promise in these things?"

"Say, what do you take me for? Do I look like a winged seraph?"—Boston Courier

It Was Safe.

"I suppose," said a would-be-contributor to the editor, "that you are bothered a good deal by being offered jokes that have been printed already?"

"Yes, that is true."

"Well," said the caller, as he produced a manuscript from his inside pocket, "here is one that I will guarantee is original. It has never been in print."

The editor read it, and replied:

"I'll tell you something else about this joke."

"Well, sir?"

"Not only has it never been in print, but it never will be."

"Ah," she said in reply to his flattering remarks, beauty, you know, is only skin deep." "Yes," he returned, "but consider the vast number of girls, and many of them your own associates, who haven't got it that deep."—New York Press.

Technical Talk.

The wife of the country editor, accompanied by her son, was paying the husband and father a visit at his office, and the kid wandered down into the composing room where they were making up the paper. After a time he returned quite excited.

"Oh, mamma," he exclaimed, "the editorial page in papa's paper is very, very naughty,"

"Why, Fred," she responded, "what do you mean?"

"Just what I say, mamma—it's naughty. I heard the foreman tell another man that it was locked up."—Detroit Free Press.

Strength and Health.

Algernon Milner returned Friday from a week's visit to relatives in Leeds and Birmingham.

The school teachers were made happy this week by receiving the money due them from the state

Ham DuBose, who has been visiting in Courtland for the past six weeks, returned home last Thursday.

Miss Fannie Finley returned to her home in Birmingham this morning, after a pleasant visit with friends in Columbiana.

The Columbiana Literary Society will meet tomorrow (Friday) evening at the residence of E. B. Nelson. A full attendance is desired.

A team of horses belonging to Wm. Strain ran away last Monday evening. The breaking of the wagon tongue was the only damage done.

There were quite a number of disappointed school teachers in town Saturday, it being the time set by the county superintendent to pay them off and he failed to be here.

The many friends of Miss Earl Anchors will be pained to learn that she is no better. Her disease is catarrh of the stomach. We hope to be able to note her improvement next week.

The full Marine Band, of Washington, D. C., is about to make a southern tour, having received the consent of the secretary of the navy to do so. It will leave Washington March 15, and play in all the principal cities of the South. It is a magnificent band and shouldbe induced to visit Birmingham. Should it do so, it will be a rare musical treat, and all Columbiana lovers of good music should avail themselves of the opportunity and hear this band.

On Friday night January 25, the young people of Wilsonville will give a minstrel entertainment, the proceeds of which go to the school. It is a worthy object, and the entertainment will be one worthy of patronage. The "Starlight Minstrels," as this aggregation is called, gave an entertainment in Columbiana last season, and it was one of the best that we had here that season. We bespeak for the people composing this company a large and appreciative audience. We hope there will be a large crowd of Columbianians present. If the weather is pleasant we shall endeavor to be there, and we know of a few others who intend going, but we would like to see a large crowd go and help swell the receipts of the evening, besides having a good time. The local goes up close on to 5 o'clock, arriving there in due time for supper, returning in the morning in plenty of time for the day's labor, or those who have horses can drive up in a couple of hours and return after the show. Let every one who can go and give the boys a rousing reception, and the school fund a big lift. Admission 15c; children 10c.

In conversation the other day with a young lady school teacher, she complained bitterly of her inability to collect tuition money at the close of the school. Not only has this young lady cause to complain of this matter, but nearly all of the teachers have the same reason for complaint. But in the case of the young lady in question especially is it a crying shame to defraud her of her just dues for labor performed in the school room, for that is her means of support, and in thus importing knowledge to others, that they may become useful men and women, teaching them that which can never be taken from them, she has ruined her health, and now, above all times, needs the money so hardly earned and justly due her. If there is any debt in this world that a man should first pay it is the one that he has contracted whereby his children may be educated. A man who wilfully defrauds a teacher out of pay so hardly earned is no man at all and deserves the condemnation the entire community. This class of men may expect to pay at first, but when the school is closed and the teacher calls for her hard-earned pay she is told that they cannot pay today, but please call some other time. And each time she calls the same story is repeated until sick and disgusted she gives up the battle for her rights, and the man who receives the benefits of her labor through the education of his children, congratulates himself that he is ahead just the amount he has defrauded the teacher out of, forgetting there is a just God who takes note of all these things and judges accordingly.

There is reason good for the popularity of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Davis & Buzard, of West Monterey, Claion Co., Pa., say: "It has cured people that our physicians could do nothing for. We persuaded them to try a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and they now recommend it with the rest of us." 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Parker & Armstrong.

An Editor Loose.

This is the way the editor feels when he does up his sentiments in blank verses:

"I would fly from the city's rule and law—from its fashions and its forms cut loose—and go where the strawberry grows on straw, and the gooseberry grows on its goose; where the catnip tree is climbed by the cat as she clutches for her prey—the guileless and unsuspecting rat on the ratan bush at play. I will catch at ease the saffron cow and the cowlet in their glee, as they leap from bough to bough on the top of a cowslip tree; and list while the partridge drums his drum, and the woodcock chucks his wood, and the dog devours the dogwood plum in the primitive solitude.

"Oh let me drink from the moss-grown pump, that was hewn from the pumpkin tree! Eat mush and milk from a rural stump, from folly and fashion free—new gathered mush from the mushroom vine, and milk from the milkweed sweet—with pine apple from the pine. And then to the white-washed dairy I'll turn, where the dairy maid hastening hies, her ruddy and golden red butter to churn from the milk of her butterflies; and I'll rise at morn with the earliest bird, to the fragrant barnyard pass, and watch while the farmer turns his herd of grasshoppers out to grass.'—Exchange.

Carlton Cornwell, foreman of the Gazett, Middletown, N. J., believes that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy should be in every home. He used it for a cold and it effected a speedy cure. He says: "It is indeed a grand remedy; I can recommend it to all. I have also seen it used for whooping cough with the best results." 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Parker & Armstrong.

Arab Maxims.

Here are five Arab maxims, which have underlying them a bedrock of truth: Never tell all you know, for he who tells everything he knows often tells more than he knows.

Never attempt all you can do: for he who attempts everything he can do often attempts more than he can do.

Never believe all you may hear; for he who believes all that he hears often believes more than he hears.

Never lay out all you can afford; for he who lays out everything he can afford often lays out more than he can afford.

Never decide upon all you may see; for he who decides upon all that he sees often decides on more than he sees.

Shelby Siftings.

Mr. Lee Hook has secured a job in Anniston.

Capt. T. G. Bush is in Shelby and will visit Montgomery this p. m.

Miss Lizzie Riddick is in Meridan, Miss., on a visit of several months.

Mr. Tom Hook has secured a job in Culman. Both of their families are here.

Mr. John. F. Averyt has been sick recently but is now very much improved.

Prof. Franklin's school has opened in the new year under very favorable auspices.

Mr. Haywood Johnson and family will move to Autauga county, where he will engage in farming.

Mr. Joe Harrell, who has been a citizen of Shelby upwards of 9 years, has moved with his family to Bessemer.

The series of prayer meetings were very thinly attended during the week, on account of the inclement weather.

No. 2 furnace closed down on the 9th inst. There and thereabouts is lonely and desolate. It is not known when it will blow in again.

Rev. Wilson preached in the Methodist church to a very appreciative audience Sunday. The Shelby people are well pleased with Bro. Wilson.

Mr. Jas. D. Abbett, father of Mr. Green Abbett, died in Birmingham on the 4th inst., and was buried in the Shelby cemetery. Had he lived 12 days longer he would have passed his 87th year.

Our friend and companion, Jno. M. Moseley, left for his old home in Dallas last Friday. We are indeed sorry that the business outlook did not justify his retention in the position which he has so long and nobly filled, and trust that some bright day to welcome his return. The present gloom cannot always last, and though many of us must leave, we will look forward to the dawn of the era of prosperity when each of us will be reinstated in our accustomed positions. John carries with him the best wishes of all.

Rumblings from Beat 9.

Rain, sleet and snow.

Our farmers are preparing for another crop.

Everybody and his daddy are on a boom for Texas.

Mr. James Finley will reside near Four Mile church this year.

The young people enjoyed a good singing at Mr. Riddle's Saturday night.

Mr. Wm. Armstrong has occupied the house recently vacated by Z. T. Baldwin.

Four Mile is on a boom; several fine residences are going to be erected soon. Hurrah for Four Mile.

We can almost hear the bells tolling for another wedding. Let them go; we have a full supply.

Prof. J. A. Spearman, principal of K Springs High School, was among his many friends here Saturday and Sunday.

Profs. J. A. and D. M. Spearman spent several days visiting relatives and friends in Blunt county during Christmas.

The prosecution of James Finley for the biting off of John Smith's ear, we learn, has been compromised by Finley paying a small sum.

Quite a number of our teachers attended the Institute at Columbiana on the 4th and 5th inst. They report having had a good time with but one exception—they got no money. It does seem to me that teachers have some right to complain. We learn that, in other counties, the teachers were paid a week previous to the time of holding the Institute at Columbiana. Why is this? We live in Alabama governed by the same officials. Why could not the people get their money here without paying 2 per cent discount? This is leaving a bad impression on our officials. I say there is something wrong somewhere, and sooner or later it will reel out. It is simply too bad for teachers to labor for a small compensation and then have to discount it to get it.

SCHOOL BOY.

Glycerine for Coughing.

A foreign medical journal is authority for the statement that a tablespoonful of glycerine in hot milk or cream, will at once relieve the most violent attack of coughing. This is a simple, easily obtained, and harmless remedy, and if it keeps good its promise will prove to be of great value. Equally simple and quite as effective is the use of glycerine spray through an atomizer.

This is applied directly to the inflamed or irritated surfaces, and gives almost instant relief. In attacks of influenza, colds in the head, sore throat, and troubles, glycerine mixed with three times its bulk of water, boiled and cooled, is an invaluable remedy. A little practice will enable the patient to fill the lungs with the spray and the soothing and cooling effect is remarkable. Mixed with an equal bulk of sulphurous acid, glycerine is an almost unfailing remedy for throat troubles of all kinds, and being harmless, can be used by all people. It must, however, be freshly made, as it keeps but a short time after mixing.

Harpersville Echoes.

[Received too late for publication last week.]

Prof. Lee spent the holidays with home folks in Georgia.

Prof. Streck and wife and W. A. Gorman, of East Lake, spent Christmas with home folks at Harpersville.

Dr. Nelson has treated himself to another horse. I suppose that he wants one to pull and the other to push.

Mr. Vernon Crawford, of Texas, is visiting in our community.

Dr. Thompson and family, Mrs. Davis, T. A. Randolph and Tom Borum, all left here Christmas week to try their fortune in Texas. We regret to have them leave us but wish them success in their new home.

Miss Minnie Florey has gone to Perdue Hill to spend the winter with her sister, Mrs. Lula Agee. We wish her a pleasant trip and a safe return.

Prof. H. J. Willingham, principal of the Lineville college, visited Harpersville friends Christmas week.

Mr. E. V. Caldwell and family, of Alpine, is now domiciled in the McRae building. We extend to them a hearty welcome.

Col Kidd has bought him a crusher in connection with his dairy, and is now prepared to grind up all of his feed for his cows.

Mr. C. B. Henderson has rented the Pitts farm from the syndicate company and is filling it up with democrats.

The line has been clearly drawn here with our young people. I have been informed that they don't even attend one another's parties. Hurrah for the elite of beat 10, also Vincent beat. Those two beats have a strong team of as pretty young ladies and gallant young men as can be found anywhere. Again we say hurrah for the young democrats, ladies and gentlemen of Harpersville and Vincent.

The old year with its trials and troubles, ups and downs, has come and gone, and is now numbered with the things that were. To some it brought joy and happiness. To others sorrow and trouble, but it is gone and is left for us to say how we will improve it. Have we done what we could, or have we left undone things that we should have done? The farmer made good crops; the merchant made good collections, and, in fact, every occupation has done extremely well, but with the low price of cotton caused a good many of our farmers not to pay their debts but most of them have corn enough to do them and more meat than last year, but no money; and, as a general thing, they are in better circumstances than last year, and we sincerely hope that hard times and the much talked of "money panic" is over. We have a good country, and to people who want to come South we say come to Alabama; Come to Shelby county and come to Harpersville—lands are good and cheap. I have not yet any axe to grind; no land to sell, nor any interest in anything that is for sale, but we say come, and come to Harpersville and you will a hearty welcome find.

"JAKE."

"I know an old soldier who had chronic diarrhœa of long standing to have been permanently cured by taking Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy," says Edward Shupike, a prominent druggist of Minneapolis, Minn. "I have sold the remedy in this city for over seven years, and consider it superior to any other medicine now on the market for bowel complaints." 25 and 50 cent bottles of this remedy for sale by Parker & Armstrong.

The Felicities of Matrimonial Life.

"You never bring me home a little present now, John," said the young wife, as she sat with her husband at the breakfast table; there's Mary Dana's husband, he is always bringing her home something, and yesterday he brought her a pretty volume entitled "Hints on Domestic Cookery."

"Hints on Domestic Cookery, may do for Mary Dana, my love," said the young husband, as he hefted one of the breakfast biscuits, "but you, my dear, want something more than a hint: you wont "Plain Talks on Domestic Cookery," and I'll begin 'em tomorrow morning."—New York Press.

A PECULIAR CASE.

Physicians Puzzled by the Experience of Mrs. Bowen.

The Episcopal Hospital Said She Had Consumption.

(From the Record, Philadelphia, Pa.)

Last July the Episcopal hospital admitted a woman whose pale and emaciated face and racking cough proclaimed her the victim of consumption. She gave her name as Mrs. Sallie G. Bowen, wife of Wm. G. Bowen, residence, 1849 Meighan St., Philadelphia. The case was diagnosed and she was told plainly that she was in an advanced stage of consumption. The examining physician even showed her the sunken place in her breast where the cavity in her lung was supposed to exist. She went home to her family a broken, disheartened woman with death staring her in the face. That was the beginning of the story, the end was told by Mrs. Bowen, who no longer expects to die, to a reporter who visited her home.

"The first symptoms of consumption came in the form of terrible sweats, both night and day. From April until September I was constantly cold and kept wrapped up in blankets through the hottest weather. A terrible cough took possession of me, my breast was sore to the slightest touch, and my limbs were like cold clay. The hardest rubbing with the coarsest towel would not create the slightest flush, and the least exertion would so exhaust me that I could barely gasp for water.

"I went to the hospital in July and they diagnosed my case as above stated. It was when the clouds were the darkest that the first glint of sunshine came. Mr. Shelmerdine a friend, who lives around at 1844 Clementine St., said to me one day: Mrs. Bowen, did you ever try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People? I had never heard of the medicine, but in my condition could not turn a deaf ear to anything that offered relief. It was after considerable thought and investigation that I concluded to discontinue all the medicine I was taking, including cod liver oil, and depend entirely upon Pink Pills. I began to take the Pills, at first with but little encouragement. The first sign of improvement was a warmth and a tingling sensation in my limbs. Finally the cough disappeared, my chest lost its soreness and I began to gain flesh until I was fifteen pounds heavier. All this I owe to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I cannot praise them too highly."

Mrs. Bowen is a kindly faced lady of middle age, a church member well-known and highly esteemed. She looks to-day well and strong, and it seems almost impossible that she was ever given up by eminent physicians as an incurable consumptive. Yet such is the case beyond all dispute.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are for sale by all druggists, or may be had by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., for 50c per box, or six boxes for $2.50.

MARKET GARDENERS GROW RICH.

There is lots of money made in early vegetables. Everybody admits that the very earliest vegetables are produced from Salzer's Northern Grown seeds. Think of having radishes in fourteen days; lettuce in twenty days; potatoes in forty days; peas in forty-six days, and splendid cabbage in fifty-five days from day of sowing seed!

IF YOU WILL CUT THIS OUT AND SEND IT with $1 money order to the John A. Salzer Seed company, LaCrosse, Wis., you will get free thirty-five packages earliest vegetable seeds and their great seed catalogue, or for six cents postage a package of FOURTEEN DAY PARIS RADISH seed and their seed catalogue. SOUTHERN GLEANINGS.

New Industries in North Carolina.

State Geologist Holmes of North Carolina has made his annual report. It says the most profitable work done has been the development of the monazite industry. This mineral is more abundant in North Carolina than anywhere else. It is found in counties which cluster about the South mountains, and a yellow sand found in streams, and from it thorium is chemically separated for making incandescent gas burners. The mining of monazite will this year be far larger than ever before. Mr. Holmes announces two new industries, these being mills for making corundum and emery wheels. Corundum mining is now more extensive than ever. Plans are being made to restock with long-leaf pine the waste lands in the sandy regions in the eastern counties. Half a million acres there can be restocked, the only thing necessary being protection from fires and hogs, which destroy the young trees. Fires destroy as much timber as sold.

The Future of the Cotton Industry.

With cotton at less than five cents per pound in the interior markets, says the New Orleans Picayune, it is safe to say that it is below the cost of production, and, as a result, the cotton producers of the south have reaped no profit from the sale of this cotton crop, and in a very large number of instances have been unable to meet their pressing obligations. Under the circumstances, therefore, the future of the industry becomes a problem which must give serious food for reflection from the present moment until the time arrives for planting the next crop. The diversification of crops and the production of food supplies at home will of itself reduce the cotton acreage, as a good proportion of the available area will be required for that purpose. Should this system be generally adopted throughout the south, the acreage would be more than sufficiently reduced to restore cotton production to a healthy proportion compared with the world's requirements.

Looking Southward.

A New Orleans paper in one day's issue mentions the arrival of seventy-five Iowans as settlers in an Arkansas colony, fifty-eight Belgians to form a farming colony in Bolivar county, Miss., the location of a New York colony in Vermilion parish, La., and the probability that 10,000 people from Iowa will remove to Texas during the next five months. The interest felt in southern opportunities is undoubtedly increasing, and immigration in that direction in 1895 is certain to be greater than has been known before.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

A Great Cotton Mill.

The Dwight Manufacturing Co. of Boston, owning large cotton mills at Chicopee, Mass., and at Great Falls, N. H., have located their big southern mill at Alabama City, within 1 mile of the center of Gadsden, Ala. The plans of this mill call for 50,000 spindles, 25,000 of which will be built at once, and the remaining 25,000 spindles put in after the first mill is in successful operation, and the plant may ultimately be increased to 100,000 spindles, making the largest cotton mill in the south.

The Rise of the Buckwheat Cake

The leaven of yesterday ruins the cake of to-day. Don't spoil good buckwheat with dying raising-batter—fresh cakes want Royal Baking Powder.

Grandma used to raise to-day's buckwheats with the souring left over of yesterday! Dear old lady, she was up to the good old times. But these are days of Royal Baking Powder—freshness into freshness raises freshness.

And this is the way the buckwheat cake of to-day is made: Two cups of Buckwheat, one cup of wheat flour, two tablespoons of Royal Baking Powder, one half teaspoonful of salt, all sifted well together. Mix with milk into a thin batter and bake at once on a hot griddle.

Do not forget that no baking powder can be substituted for the "Royal" in making pure, sweet, delicious, wholesome food.

CURRENT COMMENT.

AN official report says that the supply of natural gas in Indiana will be exhausted in four years.

THE legislatures of the various states will soon be asked to adopt a bill providing for the caring for homeless children.

LAST year was a bad one for most American railways, but the Missouri, Kansas & Texas road was not in the list, the line's receipts being nearly $200,000 larger last year than in 1893.

THE election of M. Faure as president of the republic of France was well received by the moderate press but was violently criticised by the radicals and socialist newspapers of that country.

IN the United States circuit court at Philadelphia the other day fifty-three foreigners applied for naturalization, and twenty-eight of them were rejected on account of ignorance and other forms of unfitness for citizenship.

VARNIER, the strong man of France, is to sail for America January 22. He stands 5 feet 6½ inches; chest measurement, 49¾ inches; weight, 15 stone. On his arrival in America he will deposit $500 and challenge Sandow, Sampson and Cyr, the American champions.

JOHN FLANIGAN, of Kilmallock, the champion weight thrower of Ireland, offers to throw the 56-pound weight against any man in America. Flanigan holds the world's record. Flanigan stipulates the weight to be 13 inches long and shall be thrown from the scratch.

THE grave of Vice President Schuyler Colfax, in the city cemetery at South Bend, Ind., is unmarked save by an humble slab bearing his initials. The 13th was the tenth anniversary of his death and it was proposed to erect a proper statue or monument to mark his last resting place.

THE serum of asses, which a French doctor has been using as an injection for consumption, was reported to have shown favorable results in mild cases. It was said that the blood of the ass resists the attack of tuberculosis better than that of any other animal, and the French experiments are attracting much attention in medical circles.

MANY members of congress from the west are receiving letters from settlers asking that the law allowing the settlers in the arid region to abandon their claims during the last year, owing to the unfavorable season, be extended through the coming year. An effort will be made to effect legislation to comply with the request.

SENATOR PLATT has introduced a bill providing that any Indian in the five tribes may apply to the United States courts and secure an order for his share of land to be set aside to him. It was believed that Indians were being imposed upon and that they would take their share of the lands and do much toward solving the land question in that country.

THE civil service commission at Washington has received more than 4,000 requisitions for application blanks, schedules for examinations for 1895 and pamphlets of instruction. It was expected that these documents would be printed and ready for distribution by January 1, but they have been delayed. The commission believes that it will be able to fill these orders in about two weeks.

IN a meeting of the house committee on Indian affairs recently Representative Maddox, of Georgia, announced that he had a letter from the secretary of the interior stating that he did not believe that the Wichita reservation, in the Oklahoma territory, should be opened to settlement for three years, owing to the condition of the Indians. The secretary took the position that he did not believe the Indians would be ready to take their allotments before that time, and at the same time be in such a condition that they would be benefited by the country being opened to settlement.

AN attempt will be made early in the spring by three aeronauts to cross the continent from New York to California in a balloon. They are Mortimer McKim, Leo Stevens and Don Carlos, all experienced balloonists. They conceived the idea of traveling to San Francisco, and arranged for a generator weighing but ninety pounds, and generating 2,500 cubic feet of gas an hour, to be made for a balloon which they are building after their own model. The new balloon will hold 60,000 feet of gas, and is being made of especially constructed cloth, half linen and half silk.

FRANCE has an arbitration law similar to the one proposed for this country, and the report just made of its operation in 1893 is therefore interesting and suggestive. There were 634 strikes in France during that year, but arbitration was resorted to in only 109 cases, and of these 13 were settled by the return of the employes to work before a decision was rendered, 45 resulted in refusals to accept the decisions, 21 failed for want of agreement, and only 30 reached a satisfactory adjustment. These figures do not seem very favorable to that method of solving a difficult problem.

A LABOR arbitration plan has been devised by Attorney-General Olney. In several points the bill is more far-reaching than any that has been brought forward. It says that pending arbitration the status shall not be changed; that the award shall be final; that the parties shall faithfully execute it and it may be enforced in a court of equity; employes dissatisfied with the award shall not quit work without three month's notice, and that the award shall continue in force for two years. Violations of certain provisions are made a misdemeanor punishable by fine and imprisonment.

THE CAUSE NOT LOST

The South's Position Defended by Southern Congressmen.

RIOTOUS COLLOQUY IN THE HOUSE.

The Pension Question the Origin of the Debate—The Work of a Day in Both of the Branches of Congress. Washington News.

WASHINGTON, January 19.—The senate spent nearly two hours yesterday in secret session, considering the question of ratifying the treaty with Japan. No action was taken and the matter was postponed until next Friday. While in legislative session the army appropriation bill was passed.

Another financial bill was launched by Senator Peffer, populist of Kansas, the title of it being "To replenish the treasury and provide an abundant and safe currency." It was referred to the the finance committee.

The Nicaraguan canal bill was taken up and Mr. Caffrey, democrat of Louisiana, continued his speech against the constitutionality of the measure.

District Day in the House.

No business of a general character was accomplished in the house yesterday. By unanimous consent the District of Columbia had been given the right of way. Before two o'clock the District committee surrended the floor and the rest of the day was spent in the further consideration of the Indian appropriation bill in committee of the whole.

At the night session a riotous discussion ensued between Jones, of Virginia, and Cooper, of Indiana. It grew out of the pension question, and was based upon a sneering remark by Cooper as to "the lost cause." Jones was relieved in the debate by Talbert, of South Carolina, who made a thundering speech of a few minutes defending the south's position in that contest. At the hour of adjournment the fight was ready to be turned into one of personal conflict.

THE HAWAIIAN INSURRECTION.

The Story of the Royalists' Open Revolt Against the Republic.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., January 19.—Correspondence of the United Press, per steamer Alameda from Honolulu, under date of January 10th, says: Bob Wilcox and Sam Nowlein led half a thousand Kenakas, half-white royalists in open revolt ahainst the Hawaiian republic, Sunday January 6th, on the shore six miles from this city. The rebels were foiled in their plan to surprise the city. A fight took place at Diamond Head between the police and rebels in which Charles L. Carter, a prominent young man, fell mortally wounded. When a strong force was sent out of from the city the rebels retreated to the recesses of the volcano ridges; several were killed by shot and shell. Many prisoners were taken, including John Lane, a half white, who shot Carter. On the 9th, the troops attacked Wilcox and sixty of the enemy in a valley and routed them with a loss of two killed. None of the troopers were injured. The insurrection is completely crushed and the rebels have entirely dispersed.

BITTERNESS AMONG STUDENTS

The Outcome of the Trouble at Richmond College, Virginia.

RICHMOND, Va., January 19.—The recent action of the trustees of Richmond College in electing Professor Boatwright, the youngest member of the faculty, to the presidency of the college has caused division among the students and much bitterness. Yesterday H. C. Twitchell, a ministerial student, and W. F. Gordon, an academic student, became involved in a difficulty because of some verses relating to the "death" of the college, which were championed by Twitchell and during a scuffle Twitchell attempted to draw a pistol. He was disarmed by bystanders and his pistol was carried with a report of the proceedings to the chairman of the faculty. An investigation will be made Monday.

THE BOND DEALER A FORGER.

Arrest of Edwin O. Quigley in New York for a $15,000 Forgery in Bonds.

NEW YORK, January 19.—Edwin O. Quigley, of Quigley and Tuttle, bond brokers at No. 6 Wall street, was arrested yesterday morning by Detective Beilly on the complaint of President William P. St. John, of the Mercantile National bank. He is charged with having secured loans of $144,000 on $57,000 city of Cleveland, O.; $68,000 city of Springfield, O.; $35,000 city of Harrisburg, Pa., and $6,000 city of Zanesville, O., bonds, a total of $166,000 forged bonds. Quinley confesses to the forgery and exhonorates his partner, who is a resident of New Haven, Conn. Quinley is a resident of Orange, N. J., and claims that he lost the money in speculation.

BEAUTIFUL "EDGEWOOD" SOLD.

The Suburban Property of the Late Judge Chase Sold Under Mortgage.

WASHINGTON, January 19.—"Edgewood," an extensive suburban property just outside of Washington city, where Chief Justice Salmon P. Chase made his home, and which is at present the residence of his daughter, Mrs. Kate Chase Sprague, has been sold at public auction for $42,000 to satisfy a deed of trust. Mrs. Sprague recently obtained an injunction to permit persons from whom she had obtained loans, from levying on her personal property. She made a hard fight to save "Edgwood" and was given until yesterday to satisfy the deed.

Glenn Cannot Proceed Against the Trust.

WASHINGTON, January 19.—Attorney General Olney states that he has not given United States District Attorney Glenn, of North Carolina, instructions to proceed against the American Tobacco company, of Winston, N. C., as has been published.

THE DOWNFALL OF DEMPSEY.

America's Middle-Weight Champion Enters the Ring With Ryan, Drunk.

CONEY ISLAND, January 19.—It has been some years since a prize fight in this vicinity has attracted such a widespread interest as the fifteen-round contest between Jack Dempsey, the once famous "Nonpariel" and middle-weight champion of America, and Tommy Ryan, of Chicago, who is now regarded as the cleverest welter-weight in the United States. The minor event on the program proved to be the most satisfactory, however. Ryan was in first class condition and showed it plainly. It was equally apparent that the reverse was true of Dempsey. Dempsey was twelve minutes behind Ryan in entering the ring. In the first round Dempsey acted like a drunken man and many of the spectators were so disgusted that they left the building. Ryan had Dempsey at his mercy and simply played with him, hitting him when and where he pleased, while the crowd yelled at the top of their voice, "stop it, stop it." Tim Hurst stopped the bout at the request of the club, owing to Dempsy's unfit condition and the battle was awarded to Ryan in the third. It is said that Dempsey has been drinking hard ever since he came here from New Orleans and was drinking hard all day yesterday and did not seem to care anything about his battle with Ryan or realize its importance. It certainly is Dempsey's downfall and many of his admirers left the building with heavy hearts.

YIELD OF CORN IN THE WEST.

Statistics Showing the Extent of the Great Destruction to the Crop.

BALTIMORE, January 19.—The Manufacturers' Record has compiled from the report of the agricultural department, just issued, statistics showing the production of corn by states for 1894, which fully confirm the statements that have been made regarding the great destruction of the corn crop in Nebraska and several other western states. The yield of corn in Nebraska for 1894 was only 13,000,000 bushels against 157,000,000 bushels for 1893; South Dakota, 1,500,000 bushels against 20,500,000; Kansas 41,000,000 bushels, a falling off of nearly 100,000,000 bushels, while in Iowa the decrease was from 230,000,000 bushels to 81,000,000 bushels. The total crop of these four states was only 130,000,000 bushels against 569,000,000 bushels, showing a decline of 430,000,000 bushels. In the south the crop was unusually large, the aggregate yield being 483,200,000 bushels.

TRIPLE MURDER AND SUICIDE.

Young Minnesota Farmer Kills His Wife, Her Parents and Himself.

FAIRMONT, Minn., January 19.—About 8 o'clock Thursday night Sam Hotaling, a farmer living about five miles south of here, went to the house of T. B. Whitney, his father-in-law, and shot and killed both of the old people and his wife, who had left him and gone to live with her parents. A young daughter of Whitney escaped from the house and gave the alarm. After committing the murders Hotaling fled to his own house near by and barricading doors and windows, prepared for a siege. He kept the sheriff's posse at bay until yesterday when a number of militia rifles were taken from this place and the house riddled with bullets. Hotaling was found dead, having shot himself in the head, the ball entering the left eye and coming out at the back of his head. He was armed with a Winchester rifle and a large revolver.

GRANT WILL HEAD TAMMANY.

No Opposition Left to His Reorganizing With Purroy's Help.

NEW YORK, January 19.—On Wednesday next, at 4 p. m., the Tammany hall executive committee will meet to draw up a resolution embodying its recommendation, made two weeks ago, that the committee on organization and the general committee order the postponement of the primaries until next summer. One of the district leaders said yesterday to a reporter:

"With Croker, Gilroy and Martin out of Tammany the coast is clear for Grant. County Clerk Purroy is willing to enter into an offensive and defensive alliance with him. Purroy could not be induced to accept the leadership. Ex-Mayor Gilroy and President Martin will get out of the organization. There will be no serious opposition to Grant as the Tammany boss, and there will be no Tammany reorganization until next summer. You can make the announcement authoritatively."

NEW COUNTERFEIT ON MARKET.

First of the Denomination and a Dangerous Bill to Handle.

WASHINGTON, January 19. — A new counterfeit bill has been discovered. It is the first new one of the denomination that has been put out in years and is a dangerous one. It is an imitation of the ten dollar silver certificate of 1891, and bears the signatures of D. N. Morgan and J. Fount Tillman, of the treasury department. In the center is an engraving of the head of the late Vice-President Hendricks. The number on a counterfeit is usually the same on every bill and it is one of the first means of detection of individual bills if it is known a counterfeit of the series is out. The number on this specimen is E1,399,558.

Davis Respited While on the Gallows.

SAVANNAH, Ga., January 19.—Eddie Davis, sentenced to hang yesterday for the murder of Willis Browne in January 1894, was respited by Governor Atkinson yesterday morning until February 15th. The execution was delayed to await a telegram from the governor.

Trying to Form a French Cabinet.

PARIS, January 19.—It was learned at 10 o'clock last evening that M. Bourguois, after a two hour conference with M. Faure, had consented to try to form a cabinet. He will go to the Elysse today to report the result of his negotiations.

The Cotton Market.

NEW YORK, January 19.—The Sun's cotton review says: Cotton advanced 2 to 3 points but lost this and declined 1 to 3 points, closing steady.

FIGHT ON IN TEXAS

The Creeden-Bernau Mill The Event at Galveston.

DUFFY WILL REFEREE THE CONTEST.

Dan Creeden the Magnate That Draws. Sports Arrive From all Over the Country—Bernau in the Very Pink of Trim.

GALVESTON, Tex., January 19.—The Creeden-Bernau fight which occurs this evening is pugilistically the biggest event that has ever occurred in Galveston and the public is doing their share to support the enterprise. The advance sale of seats is most gratifying to the promoters and it is predicted that the "S. R. O." sign will be read early in the evening. The audience will not be composed entirely of local sports, as the outside sporting men are already arriving.

Of course Dan Creeden is the magnate that draws the crowd, but Bernau has lots of admirers here and elsewhere. The Creeden party, consisting of himself, Tom Tracey, Lew. Phelan and George Davis, the sporting writer of the St. Louis Republic, arrived in the city Tuesday morning. They repaired to the Beach hotel, opposite which training quarters have been made for Creeden. It is an ideal place for training quarters, as the house is built in the surf.

Creeden and his trainer are delighted with the location. At present Dan has considerable surplus flesh, but he says, by the time he is ready to enter the ring this will be off.

On his arrival in the city he weighed 170 pounds, but he has reduced five pounds since Tuesday and will enter the ring at 162. Bernau is in pink of condition and is a fine specimen of physical manhood. He is training faithfully and his friends and trainers predict victory. He at present weighs about 178 pounds. Bernau is a hard hitter and a clever fighter and the sporting element predicts a spirited contest. Honest John Duffy will arrive tonight to referee the contest.

BALLOT REFORM CONVENTION.

Meeting in New Orleans in Reponse to Manning's Call, of Alabama.

NEW ORLEANS, January 19.—Less than fifty people attended the convention of the Ballot Reform league, which was called to order at 12:30 o'clock yesterday at Washington Artillery hall, by J. C. Manning, of Alabama, who made a speech calling attention to the ballot box corruption going on in the south. The speaker called particular attention to political affairs in Alabama and quoted from several newspapers bearing out his statements.

Mr. Manning spoke of the election in Dallas county, Ala., where the speaker said, while men with blue eyes and straight hair, ex-confederates, had sworn that 5,000 fraudulent votes had been cast in the county. Mr. Manning spoke of certain parts of Alabama as "darker Alabama"; and also spoke of the election of Congressman-elect Black of Georgia, who, he said, had demanded a free and fair count because he was appalled at the enormous steal of 15,000 votes in his favor in Richmond county.

The speaker recommended that as soon as the league was permanently formed that inquiries be made with a view to prosecuting those guilty of election frauds, and that the people and press be appealed to assist in the cause.

At the conclusion of the speech, the speaker was roundly applauded.

Hon. Thos. S. Adams, ex-Secretary of state, then made a speech welcoming the convention to the city.

SHE ELOPED WITH A DRUMMER.

Sensation Sprung in the Upper Circles of St. Louis Society.

ST. LOUIS, January 19.—Somewhat of a sensation was experienced in the upper circles of St. Louis society when it became known last evening that Miss Adelaide Niedringhaus, millionaire daughter of F. G. Niedringhaus, millionaire president of the St. Louis stamping works and ex-congressman from the tenth Missouri district, had eloped to Belleville, Ill., and been married to Frank P. Seltzer, a traveling salesman. Upon reaching home they received the parental blessing. Congressman Niedringhaus announces his entire satisfaction at the marriage, and stated that the pair had been engaged some months.

RECEIVER TO BE APPOINTED.

The Chesapeak, Ohio and Southwestern Railroad Forced to the Wall.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., January 19.—Judge Learton, of the United States circuit court, was called upon today to consider a motion for the appointment of a receiver for the Chesapeake, Ohio & Southwestern railroad. The motion is filed by second bondmortgage bondholders and its purpose is to obtain receivers certificates to pay the interest on the first mortgage bonds in order to prevent a foreclosure under default on the interest due. The Illinois Central, it is claimed, has purchased about $5,000,000 of the first mortgage bonds with a view of forcing a foreclosure and the motion is intended to defeat this action.

Governor Northen in the Editorial Chair.

ATLANTA, January 19. — Governor Northen has become connected with The Cultivator, a long established agricultural magazine, in the capacity of managing editor. Captain Tip Harrison, Mr. Stanhope Sams and Mr. W. G. Whidby will be associate editors. The Cultivator will be made a standard southern magazine.

Failure in Tennessee.

JACKSON, Tenn., January 19.—G. H. Ramsey & Co., the oldest and one of the most popular grocery firms in this city, made an assignment yesterday for the benefit of the creditors.

GUNS FACE THE STRIKERS.

Militia Called Out to Aid the Brooklyn Street Car Magnates.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., January 19.—Mayor Schieren has called for the services of six hundred militia to aid the police today in protecting the street railroads in their endeavors to resume business. The mayor and chief of police have been at odds with the railroad companies upon the proper method for the latter to pursue. The railroad men wish to start the cars upon all of the tied-up roads at once. The mayor and chief of police held to the opinion that the better way would be to concentrate effort upon the roads singly and put them in operation one by one. The railroad men yesterday showed a disposition to go over the city authoritie's heads and call upon the sheriff of Kings county who could bring the militia into service without the intervention of the mayor. Yesterday was an exceedingly turbulent and riotous one upon all the roads where any attempt was made to do business excepting the two where compromise was reached Thursday. The condition of affairs last night was such that the mayor seems to have waived his opinions and acted according to the desires of the railroad companies.

SCHOOL GIRLS' RUN FOR LIFE.

Fire Gutted the Building of the Columbia, South Carolina, Female College.

COLUMBIA, S. C., January 19.—About 8:30 o'clock yesterday morning, the Columbia Female College building, one of the oldest and most thoroughly equipped college structures in Carolina was discovered to be on fire. The building was damaged to the amount of $5,000. The fire originated in the roof over the fourth floor dormitory of the western wing and was difficult for firemen to get at. It is supposed to have been caused by a defective flue and to have been burning through the night. It had great headway when discovered. The young ladies, over one hundred of them, were at "morning study" in the chapel. When the alarm was sounded there was consternation, but the girls were not panicky. Many of them lost all of their wardrobe, jewels, watches and other effects. They were all gotten out of the structure and the citizens hastened to throw open their homes to them.

EMPTY HONORS CONFERRED.

Democratic Nominations for the United States Senate in North Carolina.

RALEIGH, N. C., January 19.—At the meeting of the democratic caucus here last night for the nomination of United States senator, a nomination for compliment only, the following gentlemen were offered by their friends for the senatorship: Mason, Aycock, Pou and Governor Carr. Mason was nominated on the first ballot by a vote of 20 to 16 for the other theee candidates. There were five ballots taken for the western senatorship with the following gentlemen in nomination: Overman, Osborne, Armfield, Crawford and R. T. Bennett. On the last ballot Overman received 28 votes, Armfield and Osborne 1. Both nominations were made unanimous. There were present thirty-eight members of the legislature. At the outset it was agreed by all to eliminate Ransom and Jarvis from the contest, and so they were not named.

IMPORTANT PENSION RULING.

The Decision Rendered by Judge Morris in a Maryland Court.

BALTIMORE, Md., January 18.—In the United States district court here yesterday, Judge Morris, who is presiding at the trial of Lawyer Garritee, for alleged pension swindling, made an important ruling. The question raised was this:

"Can the section of the pension laws making it a crime to demand or receive an illegal pension fee be properly construed to cover a suit for pay for professional services rendered in connection with a pension case by a lawyer, who is not the attorney of record in the case?"

Judge Morris decided that the law can be so construed, and, moreover, ought to be so construed, whenever it is shown that the "professional services," as a matter of fact, do operate toward the prosecution of a claim; in other words, whenever these services help an applicant get his pension.

SOUTH'S TRADE CONDITIONS.

General Business Has Been Largely Hampered by Unseasonable Weather.

NEW YORK, January 19.—Bradstreet's commercial review for the week says:

With few exceptions, commercial, financial and industrial features indicate only a retention of improvement heretofore noted. Among the more favorable phases of trade is found a somewhat improved demand for woolen and rubber goods, shoes, hardware, and to an extent for leaf tobacco. Jobbers in South Carolina and Georgia complain of slowness in mercantile collections and general trade throughout the south, as at the west and northwest, continues hampered by unseasonable weather. Baltimore reports that southern merchants continue to hold off, as prices of almost all staple lines are lower than ever. The most favorable report from the south is that the usual semi-annual dividends have been declared by cotton factories, and that the latter have fair orders.

NO ELECTION YET IN IDAHO.

The Ballot for Senator Continues With But Little Changes From the First.

BOISE CITY, Idaho, January 19.—In the joint assembly of the legislature yesterday, the ballot for the United States senator resulted as follows: Shoup 15, Sweet 20, Claggett 15. The situation is exciting and a change of some kind is imminent. The populists will stand by their man for several days yet.

Police Captain Stevenson's Bail.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., January 19.—The bail of ex-Police Captain John M. Stephenson, New York, convicted of bribery, who has been granted a stay, was fixed at $25,000 by Judge Gaynor in Brooklyn yesterday afternoon.

Korea's King Not Poisoned.

WASHINGTON, January 19.—The Korean legation here has received a cablegram from Seoul denying the report which came to this country a few days ago to the effect that the King of Korea was poisoned.

MACON'S HEAVY LOSS

Over Half Million Dollars in Property Burned.

ONE ENTIRE BLOCK LAID WASTE.

The Heavy Losses Covered Largely by Insurance, the Smaller Losses are Total. Atlanta Fire Department's Response to a Call for Aid.

MACON, Ga., January 19.—At 7:15 o'clock last night an alarm was rung in and fire was found to be blazing from the windows of Waxelbaum & Son's dry goods establishment on Third street. The entire department was called out, but nothing could be done to save the building. The walls fell in on all sides and the hardware establishment of the Dunlap Hardware Co. was next in flames, and the store of E. B. Harris was caught after the walls of the Waxelbaum building fell upon the roof.

The fire was not under control till 2 o'clock this morning. The estimated damage is about $500,000. Wholesale stock of dry goods of S. Waxelbaum & Son, valued at $275,000, is totally destroyed, insurance $220,000; building owned by Mrs. S. T. Coleman, was valued at $65,000 and was insured for $40,000. The Dunlap Hardware Co's. hardware was totally destroyed, valued at $60,000, insured for $25,000; building valued at $25,000, insured for $12,000. Dannenberg Company, insured for $160,000, was also destroyed, with the building valued at $40,000, insured for $35,000. The American Shoe brokers, E. B. Harris proprietor, stock $25,000, insured for about the same. Farmers' Supply company is a total loss with value not known, but the insurance amounts to about $500. The adjacent buildings were lightly damaged. Atlanta was wired to and responded.

FUNERAL OF MISS STEVENSON.

Preliminary Services in Asheville—Body Carried to Bloomington, Ill.

ASHEVILLE, N. C., January 19.—Miss Mary L. Stevenson, eldest daughter of Vice President Adlai E. Stevenson, died yesterday afternoon at 1:15 o'clock. Miss Stevenson came to Asheville about the middle of October, accompanied by her mother, suffering from what was at first considered to be a heavy cold, contracted on the coast of Maine. This, however, developed into chronic pheumonia with tuberculosis and complications of kidney trouble. All of the family except her brother, Lewis G., were present. Preliminary funeral services will be held in the parlors of the Battery Park hotel this afternoon at 2 o'clock and the remains will leave Asheville in a special train for Bloomington, Ills., at four. Interment will occur Monday.

ALABAMA EDITORS IN FLORIDA.

Trip Through the Orange State on a Scheduled Program.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., January 19.—The members of the Alabama Press Association, who are making a tour of Florida on their return from Cuba, were in Tampa yesterday and left that city for Lakeland. The party will arrive in Jacksonville Monday afternoon and will be entertained while here by a trip to Pablo over the Jacksonville and Pablo railway, which has been tendered for this purpose, and upon their return a luncheon will be given at the board of trade rooms.

DEATH CAME WHILE DRUNK.

The Sad Fate of a Prominent Missourian Who Had Once Been Prosperous.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., January 19.—General J. M. Hackney, was found dead yesterday hanging on the picket fence in the rear of the Pacific house. He was drinking heavily the night before and it is supposed he fell, caught his neck between two palings and was unable to release himself. General Hackney was at one time chief clerk of the state auditor's office and in 1852 he was appointed adjutant general of the state by Governor Price. At one time he was quite wealthy.

THE NAVAL APPROPRIATIONS.

Bill Approved by the Committee—An Increase in Money Expended.

WASHINGTON, January 19.—The naval appropriation bill prepared by Mr. Talbert, chairman of the sub-committee of the committee on naval affairs, has been approved by the committee and will be reported to the house. The bill, which accords substantially with the views presented in the annual report of the secretary of the navy, provides for an appropriation of $31,881,000, an increase of about $5,000,000 over that of the current year.

TREASURY CONDITION GOOD.

No Uneasiness Felt in Washington at the Heavy Gold Withdrawals.

WASHINGTON, January 19.—Gold withdrawals for export do not create any uneasiness among treasury officials and up to this time there is no talk in authoritative circles indicating an immediate issue of bonds. The general treasury condition is good, kept so by the heavy receipts which are constantly increasing. Further increase is looked for next month and the month after.

Failures for the Week and Year.

NEW YORK, January 19.—R. G. Dun & Co's. report says: Failures this year to January 10 were in amount of liabilities $4,522,581, of which $1,133,428 were of manufacturing, and $3,386,603 of trading concerns. Failures for the week have been 373 in the United States against 407 last year, and 60 in Canada against 46 last year.

Broker Chapman in Custody of a Deputy.

WASHINGTON, January 19.—Messrs. Havemeyer, Searles, Seymour, Shriver, and Edwards have been notified to appear in court Monday to plead to the indictments. Effort is being made to postpone until Tuesday. Mr. Chapman is at the Arlington hotel in charge of a deputy marshal.

IN MEMORY OF ROBERT E. LEE.

The Birthday Especially Observed in Atlanta—Presence of Fitzhugh Lee.

ATLANTA, January 19.—Georgia today wears a holiday attire, as do all of the southern states, the occasion being the birthday of General Robert E. Lee. In Atlanta the banks, public offices and many of the business houses are closed and the citizens of the city are celebrating the occasion in elaborate order. The day in this city is made especially memorable by the presence here of General Fitzhugh Lee, who will deliver the anniversary address at 3 o'clock in the Y. M. C. A. auditorium.

The anniversary banquet will begin in the Kimball banquet hall at 7:30 o'clock p. m. under the auspices of the Virginia society and will be one of the most expensive spreads ever given in Georgia. The hall will be especially decorated for the occasion, and a life-size picture of the distinguished subject suspended from the centre of the entrance.

Georgia was the first state to make the birthday of General R. E. Lee a legal holiday.

SENATOR THURSTON'S VIEWS.

Would Redeem United States Notes in Gold or Silver.

WASHINGTON, January 19.—In acknowledging his election to the United States senate, Mr. Thurston yesterday at Lincoln, Neb., said, regarding the outflow of gold from the treasury:

"I would put a stop to the outflow of gold from the treasury: first, by requiring that all import duties should be paid in gold, at the opinion of the treasurer of the United States, and, second, by insisting upon the right of redemption in either gold or silver by outstanding notes, whenever it becomes apparent that such redemption is being demanded for speculative purposes. It is said that such a policy would drive gold to a premium. In my judgment we can better afford to have gold at a premium than prosperity at a discount."

PAUL JONES WINS HIS WAGER.

Arrived in the Empress of Japan, With the New Japanese Consul and Others.

VANCOUVER, B. C., January 19. — Among the passengers by the Empress of Japan is T. Nosse, the new Japanese consul Dr. O. Schmidt-Sada, who is enroute to Samoa to assume the position of German consul-general, and Paul Jones, who started from New York to travel around the world on a wager. He left without a cent, and had to accomplish the trip in a certain time, besides earning $5,000. He has already got $4,800, and has three weeks in which to get to New York. He is pretty sure to win the wager.

MRS. CLEVELAND IMPROVED.

Lady of the White House Well Enough to Perform Duties as Hostess.

WASHINGTON, January 19.—Mrs. Cleveland, who has been indisposed for several days past, as a result of a severe cold contracted at the new year day reception, and aggravated by exposure at the diplomatic reception last Thursday, is reported to be much better today. Cards were issued for a reception by Mrs. Cleveland this afternoon, and there is no doubt that the fair mistress of the white house will be well and strong enough to perform her duties as hostess.

SEPARATION BRINGS WEALTH.

The Arrangement by Which Mrs. Wm. K. Vanderbilt Gets a Divorce.

NEW YORK, January 19.—William K. Vanderbilt who sailed on the Teutonic for Liverpool yesterday left an amicable arrangement by which Mrs. Vanderbilt will secure a divorce without contest. The suit is now pending. The arrangement gives Mrs. Vanderbilt $250,000 a year for life, and the use of the Fifth avenue and Newport houses during the minority of their children.

Russian Petroleum Dutiable.

WASHINGTON, January 19.—The treasury department has received information through the secretary of state that the governments of Russia and Peru imposed a duty upon imported petroleum and its products. So petroleum imported into the United States from those countries will be subject to a duty of 40 per cent.

Crisp in the North Carolina Mountains.

WASHINGTON, January 19.—Speaker Crisp will leave for Asheville, N. C., this evening to seek a brief season of rest, in the hope that a change of climate may prove beneficial to his health. He will remain in the mountains for a week or more.

Fair and Warmer Weather.

WASHINGTON, January 19.—Forecast: For Georgia and Alabama, fair, warmer, south winds.

AMONG THE RAILROAD MEN.

President Hill, of the Great Northern, has sailed for Europe.

F. Slater has received the appointment of general foreman of the Chicago and Northwestern at West Chicago.

The Pennsylvania's new St. Louis limited will be put on Sunday, and it is scheduled to make the run in about twenty-six hours.

The prediction is made by responsible officials that the anti-pass agreement adopted by the western lines will have been rescinded by May 1 next.

The resignation is announced of Geo. T. Williams, secretary and treasurer of the Union stock yards and transit company of Chicago, on account of his ill health.

General Passenger Agent Crane, of the Wabash, is authority for the statement that the passenger earnings of that system for December were $80,000 in excess of the same period in 1893.

Traffic Manager Culp, of the Southern railway, and Emerson, of the Atlantic coast line, and General Passenger Agent Turk, of the former road, have returned to Washington.

A special meeting of the stockholders of the Chesapeake and Ohio has been called for February 25 for the purpose of ratifying the joint agreement recently made with the Big Four, the Louisville and Jeffersonville Bridge company and the East End Improvement company of Louisville.

THE CHRONICLE.

C. C. DuBOSE, Editor and Proprietor.

COLUMBIANA, JAN. 24, 1895.

DURING the senatorial fight at Trenton, N. J., one hundred extra barkeepers were employed. No wonder a republican was elected.

THE action of the three female members of the Colorado legislature in removing their hats, is probably due to their desire not to "talk through them."

THE passenger steamer State of Missouri, running between Cincinnati and New Orleans, sank last Sunday in the Ohio river. About forty lives are reported lost.

"Alabama:" Here We Rest." Alabama, "Here We Prosper." The old Indian Chief gave the first definition; we can surely make her worthy of the second.—Advertiser.

THE official returns of the November election in Texas, have just been announced. Culberson, the democratic candidate for governor, received a plurality of 50,000 votes.

THE General Assembly of Alabama re-convened last Tuesday, after a short vacation. It has only twenty-three working days left, and much important legislation is yet to be considered.

DON'T you hear 'em coming? The factories are moving; don't keep quiet and be overlooked; make a great noise so as to turn them this way. An acquaintance with Columbiana's advantages will cause them to look no further.

A REVOLUTION has begun between the royalists and the annexationists on the Sandwich Islands. A battle has been fought near Honolulu, in which several were killed on both sides. What the outcome will be is anxiously watched by the people of this country.

IT IS predicted that the grand old State of Alabama will have 5,000,000 of people in less than five years. Her manufacturing localities are attracting much attention among the manufacturers of the North and East. How many of the 5,000,000 does Columbiana propose to secure?

GOV.-ELECT H. C. EVANS, of Tennessee, proposes to Gov. Turney, who is contesting Evans' election, to leave it again to the people, thus having a new election for governor alone. That may be all right for the candidates, but pretty tough on the people who will have to foot the enormous bill a special election would cost.

THE Atlanta Constitution and several other papers of the country are to be given over to the ladies on Valentine day. They expect to do all the work necessary to getting out the papers except the press-work, when they will call in the boys. When it comes to genuine press-work, the ladies, God bless 'em, they can't get along without the boys.

THE resignation of Casimir Perier as president of France, and the election of Felix Faure, has thrown the French republic into a fever of excitement. When the result was announced and the Socialists found that their candidate had been defeated by 69 votes, they were wild with rage, and it was only on the advice of cooler heads that a riot, such as only the French can get up, was averted.

THE democrats seem to be playing in hard luck. No sooner had a truce been fixed between the president and Senator Hill, and everything was pointing to party harmony, than Senators Gorman and Hill came together in the senate and created a chasm that will take many years to bridge over, and as each has a strong following, it may be said the usefulness of the democratic party in the senate is at an end.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., is under military rule. The street car employe's strike has assumed such proportions as to be beyond the control of the city authorities. Last Sunday was a day of rioting and disorder; street cars were fired into, car tracks torn up, and terror reigned supreme until details of soldiers from the Thirteenth and Fourteenth regiments were called out, when the strikers sullenly gave way, and quiet reigned once more in the City of Churches.

AT THE great Populite ballot-reform convention, held at New Orleans by the populite evangelist, Prof. J. C. Manning, Clark Howell, of the Atlanta Constitution, was selected as its executive committeeman from Georgia. We knew long ago that the Constitution had departed from the straight and narrow path of democracy in many ways, but this punishment is too severe. His Alabama conferee is Lou Parsons, of Birmingham, while Col. Colyar, of Nashville, is his Tennessee compatriot.

THE talk in the North of ignorance and brutality in the South should certainly cease. In looking over our exchanges this week we notice no less than a dozen brutal pugilistic encounters which occurred in the Godly north, and they were brutal in the extreme, and they were witnessed by gentlemen (?) who hold high places in northern political circles. It is true prize-fighting is done in the South, but New Orleans, La., and Jacksonville, Fla., are the only places where it has been allowed, and even there it is on the wane and will soon be a thing of the past. We would say to the northern croaker that "People who live in glass houses should not throw stones."

ORGANIZE AND GO TO WORK.

Last week we mentioned a plan to advertise our town in order that it might be benefitted by the establishment of cotton mills, or other industries calculated to increase our population, and by giving employment to many of our able-bodied men who are now in enforced idleness, and thus be the means of bringing more money into the country, and putting into circulation many hundreds of dollars that now lie buried in bank vaults of our own and neighboring towns.

Not more than three or four years ago capital sought our midst, our railways were busy, long lines of cars stood on the side-tracks, awaiting to be unloaded, or to be transferred to other towns and cities, loaded with the products of our county, but now things are different. All of a sudden there was a change, and all through this country there was a quick stop to prosperous times. Capital went into hiding and there it has remained. The question that confronts us today is how to attract it from its hiding places. There is no doubt in the minds of those who are acquainted with our town of its natural advantages. Then why not put forth every energy in our power to cause capital to seek us again? Our people certainly know what means to resort to to bring about such a result, and it will certainly be a mystery if they do not "speak out in meetin'" and not only speak out, but combine their forces and grasp at everything that comes in reach.

A water-works system would be a good starting point. Let us have a good system at as low a price as it can possibly be put in for, and it would lower the rates of insurance a large per cent. Just think of the high rate of insurance imposed upon our people. What is the use of paying out all our money to insurance companies? Why not get water-works and save that much.

Then, again, we must help our school. It must receive more financial aid than formerly. The building and grounds must be improved as to their external appearance, that they may be made attractive and the teachers encouraged to further efforts. Nothing does a town more good than a well established school. Then the next thing in order must be good roads leading into our town.

But we must not talk too much about the things we want, but go ahead and work and secure them. If each citizen will resolve himself into a committee to talk and work and work and talk for Columbiana during this year, then we can make 1895 the most prosperous year of all. Let's go forward instead of backward. A long pull, a strong pull and a pull altogether will accomplish much. Will you do it? We know of several who will, and during the year if you find them working for the town don't get mad or jealous, but pitch in and help. If you can't help, just keep out of the way and let those alone who will. The time has come when we must do something. Everything is favorable for successful work. Then let "Work, work" be the watch-word.

FRESH FRUIT HEALTHFUL.

At this season of the year when the harvest of all kinds of fruit is laying earth's best tribute before us, a few lines on fruit, as a diet, I am sure will be acceptable to many.

There are very few people, indeed, who cannot appropriate fruit, and there are few who will not be benefitted by eating more largely of fruit in season and less of meat, grains, etc.

To our mind, fresh fruit is the food of health. It is nature's best physic, and is admissable in abundance on your tables, at every meal, for children, young and old. It is an anti-billious and anti-rheumatic food. It is especially strengthening to the nerves, and, by its qualities, will take the place of so much abhorred nursery abomination, such as rheubarb, quinine, mother's soothing syrup, and the like. No bad effect follows the regular systematic eating of good fruit. Let the children have it in the morning, and you will find that it regulates the bowels and heart-beat as well, driving away peevishness.

No drug in pharmacopocia can be exchanged for a single apple, nor can any mixture from the chemist's be found to equal the divine alchemy of the orchard and field. Fresh fruit is a specific recreative power, a renovator and rebuilder. It helps to cleanse the system from deposits or from debris that may be debilitating it. It cleanses and sweetens that great filter of the circulation, the liver, and lessens the chances for zymotic diseases.

Fresh fruit is also one of the best remedies for organic trouble, or for Bright's disease of the kidneys. It will invariably ameliorate many of the symptoms due to breaking down and clogging up of the system in these diseases. Who has not heard of the grape cure, the apple and orange cure, and the fig and date cure? Surely many can witness to the value of such fruit in chronic diseases as well as in health.

Many people have the idea that fruit is expensive, and that it must be considered as a luxury, but this cannot be the truth, for everywhere you go you will find lots of apples, peaches, pears, grapes, plums, etc., wasting on the ground, waiting the demand on the part of the people. Increasing the demand will enliven the trade, and best of all, will enliven the individual and lengthen life.

Even in the most obstinate cases of dyspepsia, there is almost always some kind of fruit that can be well borne and be a real aid to the digestion. Let us eat more fruit and less meat.—Pacific Health Journal.

ON THE CHOICE OF A CAREER.

There are times in a young man's life when he is beset as to what he shall do for a livelihood, and the question as to a choice between a profession and a technical course is before him. In looking over an experience of nearly fifteen years, it seems as if, notwithstanding the many disappointments in life, there is a greater opportunity for a young man in the field of technology than anywhere else.

If the question were to be put as to what branch of technology offered the greatest opportunities for a successful career, the answer would be, in the domain of technical chemistry. The world is full of men who cannot make a success in any career, and yet they get along somehow. But they are not the ones to whom one should look as examples. Rather study the careers of those who have succeeded and who have overcome the obstacles that have at times impeded their progress. The success of Carnegie in this country and the success of Bessemer in England, are well known illustrations of men who have succeeded, but for fear some captious individual may say, "Yes, but that was when times were different," let us take a modern example, one of the immediate present. No one in recent years has so thoroughly made a high reputation for himself, as a chemist, as H Y. Castner. Let us examine his career for a short while, and see if there is not something in it that may encourage the young man about to enter upon a technical career. Castner left the school of mines in 1879 without a degree, and at once devoted himself to the practice of analytical chemistry. An analyst has, unfortunately, but few opportunities of developing his abilities. He does one thing, and the one thing that dozens of men can do, and do equally well. There is no future to that sort of work. This Castner promptly recognized and devoted his leisure to the study of chemical processes. It was not long before he became interested in the manufacture of bone-black, and soon invented a continuous process for making that article. It was a chemical success, but, for reasons that had to do with the economic conditions of the market, it failed to be a pecuniary success. The cheap production of aluminum was then a subject of considerable study on the part of chemists both here and in Europe. Castner examined the ground very carefully, making a very complete study of the literature of the subject, and then set to work experimenting. He soon invented a process concerning which Sir Frederick A. Nobel, in his presidential address before the British Association in 1890, said that it constituted "one of the most interesting of recent illustrations of the progress made in technical chemistry, consequent upon the happy blending of chemical with mechanical science through the labors of the chemical engineer." A unique success was made, and the world heralded the new discovery with applause, but soon electrolytic processes compelled the abandonment of the direct chemical production of aluminum.

The characteristic feature of the Castner process was its method of making sodium, and he promptly turned his attention to that element, creating a demand for which he supplied. He also called attention to the value of sodium peroxide, which was promptly recognized, and his plant at Oldbury continued in active operation, furnishing at a profit many of the sodium salts. Here we have a career of a chemist who is not yet forty years of age, but who has invented three valuable improvements in existing precesses. These inventions, each of which has marked a distinct era in the progress of science, have gained for the inventor a handsome fortune.

More recently, Castner has invented an electrolytic process for the decomposition of alkaline chlorides, yielding caustic soda and chlorine, which, according to certain English technical journals, may result in revolutionizing the long accepted LeBlanc and Solvay processes.

It is not necessary to enter upon any discussion of the merit of these inventions. They are cited simply for the purpose of illustrating that opportunities exist around us all the time, which, if promptly seized upon, lead to fortune and reputation.

In no country in the world are the possibilities of a successful career in the line of technical chemistry more evident than in these United States. With the single exception of potassium saults, there is no limit almost to the amount of crude substances existing in nature, capable and ready for use. One single illustration of this fact may be permitted. Candles made from the paraffine contained in ozokerite are considered superior to all others. If the deposits of this mineral that exist in Utah were developed and used for the making of candles, the entire supply required for the region that exists between the Mississippi River and the Pacific Ocean would be at the mercy of the maker. And yet we import candles.

The magnificent soap establishments in Chicago and Cincinnati are striking examples of the growth of enormous plants from very small beginnings. It is for such work that the chemist must educate himself. First he needs an education at some technical school, and there are many of these. In New York City there is the School of Mines of Columbia College; in Boston there is the Massachusetts Institute of Technology; in Chicago there is the Armour Institute; in Golden there is the Colorado School of Mines; and near San Francisco there are the technical departments of the University of California. In any of these, and they are all good, a young man may prepare himself for just such a career as Castner has made for himself. He must devote himself to the study of principles. These will be of more value than skill in manipulation or a special knowledge of details. It is a great deal better to know how to make any analysis than to be able to make any one single analysis without error.

It is a great deal better to know how to install any factory than to be able to put up one kind of works. With this general idea, the student pursues his course until graduation. Places do not come at once, and even sometimes are hard to obtain, but in time, the way will open, and then, if the fledgling is able to put into practice the knowledge that he has acquired, there are no heights in the professional world to which he may not soar. Watch your opportunities. If you study the career of any great man, you will find that it was the opportunity that made him. Grant might have remained a tanner in Galena if his opportunity had not come to him with the civil war. If opportunities do not come readily, you must try and force them. No process is perfect so long as it is of human origin. Therefore, select a process of some kind, study it, find out its weak point, and endeavor to improve that. In this way, your opportunity will come. Find uses for refuse materials. Rember that the refuse of gas works became the source of the annaline colors. Frequently the value of by products is sufficient to pay for the process. Thus the precious metals obtained in the electrolytic refining of copper enable the smelters of Montana and Arizona to sell refined copper at a price far below that which English smelters can afford. Inspiration and suggestions frequently come from sources that are seldom expected. A poet was once speaking of his valuable reference library. The connection was at first blush not apparent, but it soon transpired that in his descriptions of nature, he always verified his fancies by reference to his books. The reason of his having gained the reputation of being a poet true to nature was thus disclosed. His appreciation of a value or an application in something apparently remote from his work, showed his genius. So it is in chemistry. The man who is successful will find suggestions when he least expects them, and which, if properly applied, will bring him wealth or that which is better, a high reputation.—Scientific American.

A MOTHER'S ANSWER'

BY LILLIE E. BARR,

Over the lofty Ben-Lomond
The charm of the sunset fell,
And sweet in the purple twilight
The chime of the old kirk bell;
And low! in the grassy kirkyard
Was the white-haired dominie,
Men and women on either hand,
And the children at his knee.

And there, in the still, warm evening,
Low sitting among the dead,
The good man took the sacred book,
And the trial of Abraham read,
Until in the solemn shadows
The sorrow grew wondrous near—
Fathers looked at their own bright sons,
And the mothers dropped a tear.

Thoughtful all sat a little space,
And then the dominie said,
"David, couldst thou have done this thing?"
And the old man bowed his head,
And standing up with lifted face,
Answered; "I think I could,
For I have found through eighty years
That the Lord, our God, is good."

'Janet, you've been a mother oft,
Could your faith have stood the test?"
She raised her grand-child in her arms,
And she held it to her breast.
"God knows a mother's love," she said,
While the tears dropped from her eyes,
"And never from a mother's heart
Would have asked such sacrifice."

"Oh, mother, wise!" the preacher said,
"Oh mother wise and good!
A deeper depth than man can reach
Thy heart hath understood.
Take Janet's sermon with you, friends,
And as your years go by,
Believe your Father no poor soul
Beyond its strength will try."

'Tis True.

The first question a man asks when he sees a girl flirting is whether she is respectable or not; it raises a doubt at once, says an exchange. This being the case, surely no modest girl can afford to indulge in the pastime. When the down is brushed from the peach its beauty is so marred that it can never be restored, and so when a young girl throws lightly aside that sweet and modest reserve so becoming to a maiden, and which so elevates her as to enable her to command the respect of all, she loses the greatest charm and becomes cheap and common. Flirting may seem to the giddy and thoughtless girl to be wonderfully amusing and she may get the idea that she is fascinating, but it is a most degrading thing and should be frowned upon by every young lady who has an ambition to become a worthy and charming young lady.—Exchange.

Carlton Cornwell, foreman of the Gazett, Middletown, N. J., believes that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy should be in every home. He used it for a cold and it effected a speedy cure. He says: "It is indeed a grand remedy; I can recommend it to all. I have also seen it used for whooping cough with the best results." 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Parker & Armstrong.

A Hunting Outfit.

A Detroit man the other day received a sudden invitation from a Kentucky friend of his to come down and join a hunting party about to start out for the mountains. The Detroit man wanted to go, but he didn't know what kind of game was to be the object, so he sent this telegram for instructions:

"All right. What shall I bring?"

A few hours later he received this reply.

"Corkscrews; we have the rest."—Detroit Free Press.

INVENTORY OF A DRUNKARD.

BY ALICE CARY.

A hut of logs, without a door,
Minus a roof and ditto floor;
A clapboard cupboard without crocks,
Nine children, without shoes or frocks,
A wife that has not any bonnet
With ribbon bows or strings upon it,
Scolding and wishing to be dead,
Because she has not any bread.

A tea kettle without a spout,
A meat-cask with the bottom out,
A "comfort" with the cotton gone,
And not a bed to put it on;
A handle without any axe,
A hackle without wool or flax,
A pot-lid and a wagon hub,
And two ears of a washing tub.

Three broken plates of different kinds,
Some mackerel tails and bacon rinds;
A table without leaves or legs,
One chair and half a dozen pegs;
One oaken keg with hoops of brass,
One tumbler of dark, green glass;
A fiddle without any strings,
A gunstock and two turkey wings.

Oh, readers of this inventory,
Take warning by its graphic story;
For little any man expects
Who wears good shirts with buttons on 'em,
Even to put on cotton checks,
And only have brass pins to pin 'em!
'Tis, remember, little stiches
Keep the rent from growing great,
When you can't tell beds from ditches,
Warning words will be too late.

CHARLOTTE TEMPLE'S GRAVE.

W. W. Errost has the following in the Mobile Herald, of recent date. As it is about the grave of the beautiful English girl who was decoyed to this country and basely betrayed by a pretended lover, one who saw nothing good in woman, and as the same acts of deception of innocent girls are being practiced every day, even right in our very midst, we publish it:

In your issue of the 12th inst., I read a brief sketch headed, "Died For Love." It refers to the grave of Charlotte Temple, buried in Trinity church yard, New York city. I wondered how many of your Mobile readers, or how many of the thousands and tens of thousands of people who daily pass Trinity church yard, on Broadway, New York's busiest throughfare, and within ten feet of this poor girl's grave, knows the sad story of her life. It is the old, old story, woman's wrong and man's shame.

On a beautiful day in September, 1886, I found myself wandering out among the old and crumbling graves in Trinity church yard. I had already seen and read the inscriptions on the monuments of Alexander Hamilton, Robert Fulton, and hosts of others, eminent in the annals of American history, when all of a sudden it flashed across my mind that Charlotte Temple was buried in this very church yard and I was seized with a desire to see and stand by the grave of this deeply wronged girl. I immediately instituted a search among the many graves, and after looking in vain for many minutes was about calling into requisition the servies of the aged and venerable sexton, when I heard a voice say, "here it is now."

A few yards away from me stood two men, one pointing his finger downward. It instantly struck me that possibly these were hunting the same grave. I edged my way over to where the men stood, and sure enough I was standing by the grave of Charlotte Temple.

The men moved along and I was alone. There were no flowers on it then as mentioned in your last issue, nothing but a plain white slab that had become somewhat brown by long exposure to the elements; it lay prone upon the ground and in the centre were chisseled in large letters the simple name, Charlotte Temple.

How my thoughts flashed back for more than a century; in fancy I saw the beautiful English girl leaving her home in far away England to follow her lover, Lieutenant Montroville, to New York city, who was stationed with the British army in that city.

Her betrayal by this base officer, her many troubles, and at last dying of a broken heart, the mournful tolling of Trinity church bell at her funeral, and when they had lowered the coffin into the grave, a British officer straging by enquired of a bystander who was being buried. When told, he rushed frantically through the crowd of mourners and seeing a white-haired old man with bowed head and stricken with grief, enquired of him if he was the girl's father. When told he was, he fell on his knees before the open grave, tore open his coat and vest and bared his bosom, pulled his sword from its scabbard, handing it to the father and shrieking, "I am the betrayer of your daughter, take this sword and run me through the heart."

The father looked for a moment with piteous eyes on the cringing figure before him, then waved the sword from him saying, "Vengeance is mine saith the Lord, I will repay." Go, young man, I leave you in the hands of God.

Oh how vividly everything connected with this poor girl's history appeared before me as I stood alone by her grave. I thought of how many Charlotte Temples have fallen since that time through the baseness and perfidy of man, and then heaving a deep sigh, I wended my way through the front gate, and in a moment more I had mingled with the countless throng that are at all times passing by.

"I know an old soldier who had chronic diarrhœa of long stauding to have been permanently cured by taking Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy," says Edward Shupike, a prominent druggist of Minneapolis, Minn. "I have sold the remedy in this city for over seven years, and consider it superior to any other medicine now on the market for bowel complaints." 25 and 50 cent bottles of this remedy for sale by Parker & Armstrong.

Deserving Praise.

We desire to say to our citizens, that for years we've been selling Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, Dr. King's New Life Pills, Bucklen's Arnica Salve and Electric Bitters, and have never handled remedies that sell as well, or that have given such universal satisfaction. We do not hesitate to guarantee them every time, and we stand ready to refund the purchase price, if satisfactory results do not follow their use. These remedies have won their great popularity purely on their merits. Parker & Armstrong, druggists.

She Was No Politician.

"Did you see all those dreadful charges the papers make against you?" said the politician's wife.

"I did," was the reply. "What am I going to do about it?"

"Why," she answered, almost sobbing; "I—I'd make that horrible editor prove every word of them, so I would."

"Prove em. Great guns! That's exactly what I'm anxious to keep him from doing if I can!"

W. A. Walburn and family, of Shelby, visited relatives here last week.

Miss Kate Upshaw, spent Sunday with the family of W. A. Wortham.

Miss Mattie Hand, of Jemison, is visiting her aunt, Mrs. B. L. Moore.

Mr. Hardin, road supervisor of the Southern railroad, was in town Saturday.

J. V. Liles and daughter, of Alexandria, are visiting relatives here this week.

Mrs. Warner, of Selma, is visiting her sister, Mrs. J. H. Newton, this week.

Mr. J. S. Honeycutt, of Montevallo, visited Columbiana on business last Saturday.

Miss Emma Wilson, daughter of Rev. T. M. Wilson, visited Calera last Tuesday.

Miss Lottie Duran, of Calera, visited friends and relatives in this place last week.

Farmer Scales, a popular freight conductor on the Southern, was in town Tuesday.

Give the "Starlight Minstrels" at Wilsonville a packed house on Friday evening, Jan. 25.

J. L. Peters and A. P. Longshore left Tuesday for Montgomery to transact legal business.

Mrs. Lon Cater, who has been quite sick for the past two or three weeks is slowly improving.

E. D. Hall is making arrangements to put up a saw-mill about four miles west of this place.

W. J. Seale and wife, of Childersburg, spent Sunday and Monday in town on a visit to relatives.

Mrs. Pitts and little Arthur Armstrong left Friday for a visit to Mr. Saybrook's in Childersburg.

T. J. Martin and John Russel, of Harpersville, spent a portion of Monday with Columbiana friends.

Miss Earl Anchors is now convalescing, and it is to be hoped she may soon be restored to perfect health.

We are in receipt of an elegant souvenir from the Atlanta Engraving Co., Atlanta, Ga. It is a copper plate etching of Frost's celebrated painting, "Fairy Tales." Copies of this souvenir will be mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents in stamps.

Moore and Morgan are adding sawmill machinery to their plant in West Columbiana and will soon be ready to saw.

Miss Leila Parker returned yesterday from Selma, where she had been in attendance at the wedding of Miss Kelley.

Mr. J. H. Newton, our affable L. & N. station agent, left for Meridian, Miss., on Tuesday, on a visit to his brother.

Henry Wilson, Esq., has been quite ill for some time, but is now improving daily, and we hope will soon be out again.

Hard times seem to cut a small figure with Lester, Mason & Co. They are receiving goods almost daily, and are making preparations for the spring trade.

No man who allows his wife to chop stove wood has any business with his name on the church book. The religion that doesn't make a man kind to his family is a fraud, no matter how loud he says amen in the meeting house.

We understand that a couple of our young folks, who live within the radius of ten miles of this office, have about completed arrangements whereby they will pack their clothes in the same trunk. We print fine wedding stationery at this office.

One of our townsmen on being interrogated as to what he knew, replied thusly: "If you know what I know, and I know what you know, I know then that you know what I know you know; and if I know what you know and you know what I know, I'll know then what you know of course we both know."

Many stubborn and aggravating cases of rheumatism that were believed to be incurable and accepted as life legacies, have yielded to Chamberlin's Pain Balm, much to the surprise and gratification of the sufferers. One application will relieve the pain and suffering and its continued use insures an effectual cure. For sale by Parker & Armstrong.

We understand that quite a number of our young people contemplate going to Wilsonville tomorrow night to the entertainment. That is right. The young people of that place never fail to respond heartily to any entertainment given here by our people, and we should reciprocate liberally, besides the entertainment will be a good one and for a worthy object. If the weather is favorable let there be a good crowd go from here, for we can assure you a jolly good time with the hospitable people of Wilsonville.

It is not often the case that the public are offered an opportunity to purchase goods at actual cost, but there is a chance now and a good one. F. A. Fort, the Shelby furniture dealer, has decided to leave that place in ten days, and he is offering every article in his store at astonishingly low prices. He is anxious to sell his entire stock of furniture if possible, otherwise he will pack up the remainder and ship it. So if you want a suit of furniture, a sewing machine, rocking chair, or anything usually kept in such a stock, go at once and get it cheaper than dirt. We know whereof we speak for we were in his store yesterday and priced his goods. See his large advertisement elsewhere in this issue. A few prices are given therein.

Mr. Huston Explains.

WILSONVILLE, ALA., Jan. 21, '95.

My pay-roll for the last quarter was examined and approved by state superintendent J. O. Turner, and placed in the hand of the auditor Dec. 19th, 1894. A postal from the treasurer dated Jan. 2, 1895, says: "It is not likely you will get your school money by January 5th, (the regular pay day) but will be sent as soon as practicable."

The money was ordered shipped to Columbiana, and to that point my attention was kept directed. On January 14th, I was notified by the agent that the money had come to Wilsonville. In three hours, on the first train, I was on my way to Columbiana to pay the teachers. These are the cold facts, and the question arises why this long delay of nine days and to force some of the teachers to discount their claims at 2 per cent to save themselves from going into bankruptcy? I regret as much as any one to see the claim of a teacher discounted. They are entitled to all they get, but still the question comes up. Why this long delay? Could any creditor afford to wait that long and not grow nervous?

I cannot afford to attach any blame to the state officials, because I feel that each one did the best he could under the circumstances.

Some teachers were left off the last pay-roll because their contracts came in after the pay roll was made out and gone forward to Montgomery. The law requires you to be licensed, and contract with the trustees before beginning your school, and file that contract with the county superintendent in ten days after it is made. See to this, or attach the blame to yourself. Very Respectfully,

T. A. HUSTON.

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.

Yellow Leaf Items.

Mud, mud, mud!

There is some sickness in our community.

Going to Texas seems to be all the talk here now.

Mr. A. P. Brasher attended court in Birmingham this week.

Weddings are all the go here now. Wonder who will be next.

Some of our boys spent the holidays in the city of Birmingham.

The young folks have continued Christmas up to the 18th inst.

Spring will soon be here and corn planting time is near at hand.

The holidays are over and our farmers are preparing for another crop.

Mr. T. A. Blackerby left Wednesday for Texas. We wish him success in his new home.

Mr. H. H. Blackerby, who has been on a visit to friends and relatives in our community for several days, left Wednesday for his old home in Texas.

Aunt Fannie has enjoyed herself during the holidays with regard to the mud, and she is glad to see the young folks enjoy themselves while they are young.

AUNT FANNIE.

From Saginaw.

Mr. Doc Nabors visited relatives here Sunday.

T. F. Farrell visited his father's family Saturday.

Mr. T. L. Douglas, of Pelham, visited relatives here Sunday.

Mr. H. C. Fulton transacted business in Birmingham last week.

The C. E. Society met at Elliottsville Sunday evening, and it was a grand success.

Some capitalists were here on the 15th inst with a view of investing. If they succeed Saginaw will soon be on a boom.

We sincerely sympathize with the young lady who has ruined her health in educational work, and long to see the day when men can be forced to pay their tuition. We should have a better school law and also a uniform series of text books.

The first month of the new year has almost passed away, and has passed so quietly that we cannot help thank our Maker for such a glorious new year. So let us all put our shoulder to the wheel of progress and push steadily forward and the year 1895 will be the happiest that we have ever passed. Success to The Chronicle and all its readers. F——.

Harpersville Echoes.

The bad weather continues.

There has not been much farm work done yet.

Last Sunday was communion day at the Baptist church.

Mr. Bell, the traveling photographer, is now stopping at Harpersville.

Our school is progressing finely and we dare say is one of the best in the county.

Dr. Steadham, of Easonville, visited Harpersville last Friday and Saturday.

Dr. Sam Welch, of Alpine, visited Harpersville friends last week who are always glad to see him.

The Pitts company has been removed from the postmastership at Cresswell and George Wallis, a democrat, has been appointed.

Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Seale, also Renfro Martin, will leave in a few days for Texas. We regret to see them leave us, but hope that they may find better health of which they are hunting.

The Tennessee mule drover has been at Harpersville for several days. He made several sales here and traded for 32 head of beef cattle, which were sent to Birmingham by rail last week.

Very much to the regret of his congregation Rev. Mr. Giles tendered his resignation as pastor of the Baptist church here last Sunday. Mr. Giles was partly raised here, and went from this place to the Howard, and from there to the Louisville Seminary. After completing his education, he then preached for some time at Cairo, Ill. He then came back to Alabama and was elected to a professorship in Howard college, which position he now holds, and was elected four years ago as pastor of the Harpersville Baptist church. He is a fine scholar, a good preacher and a deep thinker, and his place will be hard to fill. We do not know at this writing who his successor will be, but there will be preaching at the time and then a new pastor will be called. "JAKE."

The Gold Flower.

This flower, so fittingly called Gold Flower, was produced by M. Moser, of Versailles, France, and introduced in Europe last season, the plants coming to America. The flowers are two to three inches across, of a bright, shining, golden yellow, and bearing numerous handsome stamens. Plant is of low, spreading, branching growth, with handsome leaves, the upper side much darker than the lower. It is perfectly hardy, forms an excellent border, or is grand for bedding, while as a single pot plant it is charming with its clean, bright green foliage as a back ground for the flowers, great, shiny yellow disks, brilliant in their reflection as burnished gold.

This year an enterprising firm is offering it at the price of ordinary plants, viz: 25 cents a plant.

By sending 10 cents to James Vick's Sons, Rochester, New York, for Vick's Floral Guide, (which amount may be deducted from first order), you will learn all about this beautiful plant Hypericum Moserianium, and also regarding their offer of $300. Ask for a name for the new Double Sweet Pea.

There is reason good for the popularity of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Davis & Buzard, of West Monterey, Claion Co., Pa., say: "It has cured people that our physicians could do nothing for. We persuaded them to try a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and they now recommend it with the rest of us." 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Parker & Armstrong.

Columbiana Literary Society.

The last meeting of the C. L. S. was held at the residence of Mr. E. B. Nelson on Friday evening, Jan. 18, '95.

The attendance was larger than usual, and all present enjoyed themselves immensely.

The program as arranged for the evening was well executed, with the exception of the News Report, by Miss Elva Greek, which could not be read on account of her illness.

The music of the evening was very good.

Miss Louella Teague was elected Essayist and T. K. Roberts was elected Orator for the present term.

The following interesting program was arranged for the next meeting:

Opening Song—By Society.
Prayer—By Chaplain.
Roll-call and select Quotations.
Music—Miss Katie Huyett.
Recitation—Miss Sadie Williams.
Declamation—Clifton Anchors.
Music—Miss Emma Wilson.
Cross Questions and Crooked Answers—W. M. Calahan and Miss Fannie Longshore.
Debate—"Resolved that an old ox is meaner than an old hog."
Affirmative—R. H. O'Hara and J. S. Leeper, Jr.
Negative—John Farrell and Henry Anchors.
News Report—Horace Hammond.
Several new members were elected.

The next meeting will be held on Friday evening next, the 25th inst. at the residence of Mr. W. G. Parker.

$300 FOR A NAME.

This is the sum we hear the Salzer Seed Co. offer for a suitable name for their wonderful new oats. The United States department of agriculture says Salzer's oats is the best of 300 varieties tested. A great many farmers report a test yield of 200 bushels per acre last year, and are sure this can be grown and even more during 1895. Another farmer writes us he cropped 112 bushels of Salzer's Marvel Spring wheat on two and one-half acres. At such yield wheat pays at 30c per bu. One thing we know and that is that Salzer is the largest Farm Seed grower in the world and sells potatoes at $2.50 per barrel. IF YOU WILL CUT THIS OUT AND SEND IT with 10c postage to the John A. Salzer Seed Co., LaCrosse, Wis., you get free his mammoth catalogue and a package of above $300 PRIZE OATS. [K]

AS THE train drew up at a country station on the South Eastern railway, a pleasant-looking gentleman stepped out on the platform, and inhaling the fresh air enthusiastically observed to the guard: "Isn't this invigorating?" "No, sir; it's 'Caterham.'" replied the guard.—Wonder.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

UPHEAVALS IN POLITICS.

Illogical Reasoning of a Would-Be Republican President.

Hon. Thomas B. Reed has an article in the North American Review for January on "Historic Political Upheavals." He touches lightly upon the changes which followed the French revolution, notes the execution of Charles I., the rise of Cromwell, the restoration of the Stuarts and the complete and permanent revolution of 1688, and then comes down to our own history. Alluding briefly to the large majority cast for Franklin Pierce in 1852, he says it was then supposed that the slavery question was settled, which everybody knows was a great mistake. Then he tells of the big republican victory of 1872, which was followed by the republican overthrow in 1874, and comes down to the elections of 1890, 1892, 1893 and 1894. What happened in these years is, of course, fresh in the minds of newspaper readers.

We note in Mr. Reed's article a failure to deduce the logical consequences of the facts which he adduces, and even to apply at the end the principles which he enunciated at the beginning of his article.

All the lessons laid down in the first half of the article tend to show how baseless is the confidence in permanency of power for the party which happens to be the beneficiary of a great political upheaval. When the French revolution occurred, people thought there would be no more kings and nobles. They were disappointed. When the Bourbons were restored everybody thought the old days had returned to stay. They, too, were deceived. So it went all along the line, until the election of 1894 was reached, when Mr. Reed, instead of warning his party that this was in no sense a guaranty of its continuance in power, contented himself with saying that the elections of last November "seem to have settled the future of this country for many years." This appeared to afford a good opening for Mr. Reed to add that "things are not what they seem," but he failed to utilize it. On the contrary, he concluded his article with a few observations which imply that the republicans are going to rule the country to the end of time.

Mr. Reed's explanation of the disasters of 1890 and 1892 is peculiar. When he says that the passage of the tariff bill should have taken place by the middle of July we understand him well enough. No doubt the republicans suffered in 1890 from delay in passing the tariff bill, just as the democrats did in 1894. But when he brings in the Baring failure to supplement it he reverses history, for that did not occur till after the election. Nor is it true that the "influences which produced the Baring failure," as Mr. Reed expresses it, were discernible before the election of 1890. But after this failure had been influencing business unfavorably for two years, Mr. Reed says that in 1892 the republicans had to meet "the unrest that comes slowly with too uniform prosperity." Thus the republicans were slaughtered "a-comin' and a-gwine." In 1890 the Baring failure made times hard before it occurred, and in 1892 the too uniform prosperity that the people had enjoyed after the failure made them smite the republican party hip and thigh.

This reasoning will strengthen the current opinion that Mr. Reed is first of all a humorist. This is further reinforced by his saying that the republican party suffered in 1892 from gerrymanders of the worst character, though it is known that gerrymanders do not figure in the choice of presidential electors, in which respect the defeat of the republicans was most conspicuous. Nor did the gerrymanders prevent the republicans from getting a great majority of congressmen at the last election.

It is unfortunate that Mr. Reed was not able to finish his article in the philosophical strain in which he began it; but the reason is clear enough. There was a war between Mr. Reed, the philosopher, and Mr. Reed, the candidate for the presidency. The philosopher said enough in the beginning to warn the republicans that their landslide of 1894 may not avail them in 1896, but the candidate felt impelled to tell them at the close that they will continue to rule the country, "it may be for years, and it may be forever." For all that the application of Mr. Reed's facts shows that the result of the election of 1896 is as doubtful as future events generally are; and it is equally doubtful whether a republican victory in that year would inure to the benefit of Mr. Reed.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

CHEAPER CLOTHES.

Beneficent Effects of the Democratic Tariff on Wool.

With the beginning of the new year the democratic tariff on wool and on clothing takes effect. The provisions of this democratic measure take off the duty on wool and reduce the duty on manufactured clothing. The effect of this measure will be to reduce the cost of the clothing of the people of the United States the amount of two hundred million dollars a year. This is the equivalent of the duties levied on wool and woolen cloths by the McKinley tariff and of the reduction made by the democratic tariff.

It will be easy for anyone who uses wool in any way as an article either of manufacture or personal apparel to prove the amount of this reduction by the difference in the market price, not only in the trade, but in the retail stores. Blankets, clothing of all kinds and every other manufacture made of wool are prompt to show the beneficent effects of the democratic tariff.

This reduction has been accomplished without the closing of any mills or the reduction of any workingman's wages. The American manufacturer and the American workingman is capable of competing with all the other manufacturers and workingmen of the world if he has his raw materials and his sources of production free from taxation. The McKinley tariff put the burden of its high taxation on the raw wool. That increased the price to the manufacturer and made it necessary for him to recoup himself by a tariff on his product. This tariff compounded by interest and profits piled up so high that the American manufacturer was not able to compete in finished cloth in the markets of the world.

Now that wool is free the American manufacturer and the American workingman are unfettered. Not only do the consumers get every article of woolen goods they use at a low rate, but the manufacturers are enabled to compete in the markets of the world and thus give employment to additional workingmen and to return to himself additional profits.—Albany Argus.

THE MEANING OF DEMOCRACY.

Purposes and Principles Based Upon National Welfare.

There were some years in the history of the party when it earned the appellation of bourbon and the definition of the word, one who never learns and never forgets. It grew to be considered the conservative party of the union, using the word in its sense of resistance to every progressive movement. It was officered by a lot of eminently respectable old fossils who could not bear the strain on their nerves and intellects that a consideration of any new and better way of doing things involved. They were the statesmen of the rut. They dominated the party before and for long after the war. Principles were too vigorous and exacting for them; they preferred the "lean and slippered pantaloon" of policy.

Judging from words spoken and printed now, there are men who think that they are democrats who assert that the party can have nothing to do with any of the new questions that are coming on, as they have always come on, and always will among progressive races; but that the party must assume a position of opposition and hostility to them. They prate about the traditional policy of the party assuming that its traditions bear no older date than the fifties. They are evidently ignorant that the party in this country had its birth in the first progressive movements that sought to break the crust of federalism. The founder of the party was the radical of his day. He stirred the country with new ideas. He was born a revolutionist, and many of our most fixed policies are the children of his revolutionary brain. The divorce of church and state, the blow at oligarchy which his abolition of the law of primogeniture struck are some of these. It was not until in recent years the party shook off the lethargy of the conservatives and became progressive that it has come up out of it deserved subordination. It was when the mossbacks were sent to the rear that the party inspired the confidence that gained its recruits and gave it victory.

There is no room in any nation for two conservative parties to co-exist. The republican party lost years ago its initiative of progress, and has been contented to merely administer the government, meeting the exigencies as they arose as best it could by temporary expedients. It had a spasm of progress along its chosen line of policy in 1890, but the evidence is plentiful that it regrets the advance it made, and will retreat from it when again in power. It will accept the tariff act of this congress; it will abjure force bills, and it will dodge and hedge on the currency.

This leaves the democracy only the avenue of meeting the new questions of the day frankly, bravely and with a view to examine and test and approve if they chord with the basic principles of the party. To free trade, to the nationalization of railways, to the single-tax, the sole question is: Are they democratic? Adapting Paul's counsel, it would "prove all things; hold fast those which are democratic." Do they abridge individual freedom? Reject them. Do they take power from the state and transmute it into liberty for the citizen? Do they take from privilege the advantage it wrongfully gained and unjustly holds, and restore equality? Then frankly accept them and advocate them, assured that what is right is democratic, and the reverse, and that what is not democratic is wrong and dangerous. Whether the party does this or not, affects only the party. Any idea that establishes its right to live will find a party in good time, and it is only the worse for the party that shuts its door on it.—St. Paul Globe.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS.

——Perhaps it will be necessary to hypnotize Benjamin Harrison to get him to accept a presidential nomination in 1896. And perhaps not.—St. Louis Republic.

——Speaking of treasury depletions it has been shown that the Ohio treasury is short about $875,000. That is the treasury that is under the administration of the great William McKinley, the Napoleon of protection.—Kansas City Times.

——Gov. McKinley's presidential boom seems to have escaped to parts unknown. If it should be discovered in Kentucky, there is some doubt that Gov. Brown would honor Gov. McKinley's requisition for it.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

——Both Harrison and McKinley are quoted as willing to accept a United States senatorship if they cannot secure a presidential nomination. They belong to the Burrows class of statesmen who have a good second choice if disappointed in an effort to secure the first.—Detroit Free Press.

——The relief of the government is the relief of the people, and of all of them; and the republicans in congress should not hesitate to unite with the democrats to secure a wise, sagacious settlement of the financial question. Their making it a partisan matter and refusing to aid in any scheme of currency reform is bad politics and vicious public policy.—Philadelphia Telegraph (Rep.).

——Gov. McKinley appears to be the same kind of a financier in state affairs that he was in his own business affairs. It is officially stated that at the close of the present year the state treasury of Ohio will be not only empty but its condition will show an alarming deficit. As a candidate for the republican nomination for president McKinley will enter the presidential year with a bankruptcy record of his own and as the governor of a state practically bankrupt.—Chicago Herald.

——Some of our republican friends seem to be greatly concerned lest the democrats should have "no party behind them next year." Why should that be a cause for republican deplorings? Are they really anxious about it or are they shedding crocodile tears and trying to scare the "unterrified?" First they threaten, then they bewail and all the time they falsify. But their little scheme will not work any way. The democratic party is indestructible.—Salt Lake Herald.

——The contemplation of an early session of the Fifty-fourth congress is discomforting to the republicans. They would infinitely prefer, from the merely partisan standpoint, that the financial question should be settled at this session, for the reason that, if the responsibility for legislation should be suddenly thrust upon them, the divisions in their ranks would be found as numerous and almost as radical as those existing among the democrats.—Philadelphia Ledger (Ind. Rep.).

HE GOT THE FACTS.

Drastic Punishment Meted Out to "Old Saul Hipkins."

"Old Saul Hipkins" was not old in anything but iniquity, yet this was his neighbors' form of addressing him. He was a fisherman, who caught most of his game by night in the weirs of his neighbors.

This allegation probably deserves the qualification that everybody charged this upon him. Had the evidence been absolutely convincing they would speedily have checked him in the practice. Hemp did not grow in that portion of North Carolina where old Saul was a native, but it was cheap, and, besides, the neighbors did not "stand on expense" when a hanging was deemed a necessity to the well-being of the community.

An unwritten law prevailed that what everybody believed to be true might be an error. It was a privilege to hold fast to the opinion, but a crime to "dangle" a fellow in the absence of unassailable evidence.

Milder proofs might be accepted when the punishment was not so grave, because the community was entitled to some benefit of the doubt as well as the prisoner. The force of this logic was applicable to the courts of justice.

In short while everybody knew that Old Saul robbed the weirs nobody could prove it.

Calvin Spires, who lost fish nearly every night, decided to take the matter before 'Squire Benny Griffin, a very sensible and practicable sort of man, who paid little attention to law in his decisions, but was very proud in his "common sense way er doin'," as he was wont to put it.

The evidence was painfully weak. In fact, about all that could be proven was that old Saul was seen coming out of the creek night after night, and that Mr. Spires' weir was located up that creek; but old Saul owned a weir up there, and so did other people.

The 'squire scratched his head for some little time, being manifestly puzzled as to his duty in the premises. Finally his bright little eyes twinkled with intelligence as he cleared his throat and said with great solemnity:

"Ef there's a single man in this yere coaht thet b'lieves old Saul Hipkins wouldn't rob a weir ef he got a chance I want him to take up his hat and go right out."

Old Saul deliberately donned his own warped and worn straw headpiece and stalked toward the door, but was promptly halted by the constable and made to resume his seat. Every other person—and the court-room was crowded—remained stock still.

"Yer see, Hipkins," said the judge blandly, "while Calvin's failed in makin' a case agin you the people haint. On their righteous werdic' I sentence you to nine 'n thirty on yore bare back; vitch, considerin' yore gin'ral bad character, I consider werry mod'rit."

If there was any quality of moderation in the sentence there was certainly none in the execution of it by big Constable 'Ophilus Perry, as old Saul's roarings for mercy plainly declared while the rawhide was applied to his shoulders.—Chicago Tribune.

USES OF WOOD.

Pine Has a Varied Scope of Usefulness in Many Lands.

Pine is the wood most used on account of its abundance. The timber of the oak, which combines in itself the essential elements of strength and durability, hardness and elasticity in a degree which no other tree can boast, has been used as a material for shipbuilding since the time of King Alfred. It is also employed in architecture, cabinet making, carving, mill work, coopering and a thousand and one other ways, while the bark is of great value as furnishing tan and yielding a bitter extract in continual demand for medicinal purposes. The timber of the pine is also used in house and ship carpentry. Common turpentine is extracted from it, and much tar, pitch, resin and lampblack. Splinters of the resinous roots serve the Highlanders instead of candles. Fishermen make ropes of the inner bark, which the Kamschatdales and Laplanders steep in water and utilize for making a coarse kind of bread. The oil obtained from the shoots of the dwarf pine is a kind of universal medicine among the peasants of Hungary, while the soft-grained silver fir is in much requisition for the sounding boards of musical instruments, and the Germans employ it almost exclusively in their vast toy factories. In the manufacture of lucifer matches, and, above all, paper pulp, thousands and tens of thousands of acres of pine forest are cut down every year, and the timber, constituting the chief material of English and American builders, is more used than all other kinds of wood put together. —Detroit Free Press.

Vast Armament of Europe.

Thirteen million bayonets prop up the czar's throne. That is the full strength of the Russian army on a war footing. Germany comes next, but after a long interval, with 3,700,000 soldiers; Italy has 3,155,000, and France 2,850,000, excluding 350,000 auxilliaries. Austria's fine army, which in quality is reckoned scarcely second to Kaiser Wilhelm's, contains a maximum of 1,794,175 men. England at home and in her colonies can moblize a force of 662,000. The little martial republic of Switzerland can summon 486,000 soldiers to her banners in an emergency, and even poverty-stricken Spain boasts of 400,000. Austria, of all the powers, has the most burdensome military establishment. Her annual expenditures on her army are $255,000,000, while Russia's, with an army seven times as large, are only $186,000,000, and Germany's $113,000,000. In proportion to size England's army is, perhaps, the most costly. Her 662,000 men require $89,000,000 annually for their support, or only $88,000,000 less than the amount which provides France with an enormous host of more than four times England's numbers.—Boston Journal.

Paris Ever Famous.

Paris was a famous and cultivated city ages before Venice. If we search for them, we may find in it historical associations that may vie with those of any city in the world, except Rome and Constantinople; and even its antiquarian and artistic remains are seldom equaled or surpassed. At Rome, Florance or Venic the tourist talks of old churches, palaces, and remains; at Paris he gives himself up to the boulevards, the theaters, shops, and races. The profoundly-instructive history, the profuse antiquarian remains of the great city, are forgotten—carent quia vate sacro.—Spectator.

A Gentle Corrective

is what you need when your liver becomes inactive. It's what you get when you take Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets; they're free from the violence and the griping that come with the ordinary pill. The best medical authorities agree that in regulating the bowels mild methods are preferable. For every derangement of the liver, stomach and bowels, these tiny, sugar coated pills are most effective. They go about their work in an easy and natural way, and their good lasts. Once used, they are always in favor. Being composed of the choicest, concentrated vegetable extracts, they cost much more than other pills found in the market, yet from forty to forty-four are put up in each sealed glass vial, as sold through druggists, at the price of the cheaper made pills.

"Pleasant Pellets" cure biliousness, sick and bilious headache, dizziness, costiveness, or constipation, sour stomach, loss of appetite, coated tongue, indigestion, or dyspepsia, windy belchings, "heart-burn," pain and distress after eating, and kindred derangements of the liver, stomach and bowels. Put up in sealed glass vials, therefore always fresh and reliable. Whether as a laxative, or in larger doses, as a gently acting but searching cathartic, these little "Pellets" are unequaled.

As a "dinner pill," to promote digestion, take one each day after dinner. To relieve the distress arising from over-eating, nothing equals one of these little "Pellets." They are tiny, sugar-coated, anti-bilious granules. Any child readily takes them.

Accept no substitute that may be recommended to be "just as good." It may be better for the dealer, because of paying him a better profit, but he is not the one who needs help.

A free sample (4 to 7 doses) on trial, is mailed to any address, post-paid, on receipt of name and address on postal card.

The End is Not Yet With the Great Brooklyn Strike.

BOTH STRIKERS AND EMPLOYERS FIRM

Little Bloodshed But Rioting Continues. Cutting the Wires the Leading Idea of the Strikers—The Situation as It Stands.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., January 26.—No decided change for the better is noticeable in the trolley strike situation. The men and the companies are as far apart as ever, and there seems to be no immediate prospect of either side weakening.

President Lewis, of the Brooklyn Heights company, claims that a dozen of his old hands has applied to him for their old positions and has been reinstated.

And he expresses the opinion that this is the beginning of the end, as a general weakening in the strikers ranks might now be expected. The strike leaders emphatically deny that any such break has occurred, declaring their ranks are just as solid now as when the trouble began.

Strike of the Linemen Strengthened.

The strike of the linemen was materially strengthened yesterday, as was evident by the difficulties keeping up operations on lines where wires had been cut or burned out. Early in the forenoon wires were cut at Fulton street and Saratoga avenue, on one of the main lines of the Brooklyn Heights system. Although the company was immediately given ample police and military protection, no linemen appeared and no attempt was made to repair the wires. As a consequence that road was blocked all the afternoon. The crowd about the neighborhood was large but orderly and seemed to understand that the militia were there for business.

In the eastern district a mob of about 2,000 persons attacked seven stalled cars of the Flushing and Graham avenue line at Driggs and Manhattan avenues at 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. After dragging off the motormen and conductors the mob wrecked the cars completely.

The mob then moved on to Bedford avenue, where it demolished six more cars belonging to the cross-town road. It also cut the trolley wire for four blocks. The police charged the mob, which moved on toward Green Point.

Priest's Efforts to Keep Order.

At Nostrand and Park avenue more cars were stalled. An attack was attempted on them. For nearly an hour the police placed their clubs continually. The mob refused to budge, but after several charges they edged off. There was no militia in that region of the city. Father O'Hare, of St. Anthony's church, had assured Mayor Schieren that he would undertake to keep order in that part of the city. He was summoned to the scene of disorder to use his influence in quieting the mob. The mob, numbering several thousand, had surrounded a car and was shouting at the motorman to desert. This he refused to do. Father O'Hare pushed his way through the crowd, and jumping on board the car offered the motorman a $10 bill to leave in order to restore peace. The motorman took the money and departed. This act was received with cheers and order was gradually obtained. Just at that momsnt Father O'Hare received a message feom Mayor Schieren in which the mayor said that if order was not maintainell in Green Point he would be compelled to send the militia there.

The priest read this message aloud and then appealed to his auditors to disperse. He told them of his assurance to Mayor Schieren, and he hoped that the people would assist him in keeping order.

The First Bullet of the Day.

Special Policeman Meehan, while riding on a car on Manhattan avenue, was shot at by some one in the crowd. The bullet grazed the officer's head. Prior to this shooting the car had been stoned and every glass in it shattered.

Late yesterday afternoon a car from Newtown, containing forty non-union men, was held up near Maspeth, and a number of the men were induced to join the strikers. A detachment of the seventh regiment from Ridgwood, assisted by the police, captured a few of the non-union men and took them to the Maspeth station of the Brooklyn Heights company. The strikers claim that thirty men deserted, joined them and were sent to their homes in other cities.

In the city proper, outside of wire cutting the disorders reported were principally of a minor character.

Rumors of Dynamite Heard.

Rumors of dynamite were heard. An alleged bomb was found on the trolley tracks at Fulton street and Flatbush avenue. A man who failed to give his name carried the bomb to the first precinct station house. The suspicious looking thing was at once sent to Superintendent of Police Campbell, who, with some alarm, hurried it to the navy yard for the experts to make an examination. It was found to be a hoax.

John Strong was held in the Lee avenue court, Williamsburg, on a charge of carrying concealed weapons. The police think he is a dangerous anarchist. Dynamite bombs were found on his person.

The board of arbitration and mediation has returned from Albany in response to the resolution adopted by the legislature and will at once take hold of the situation.

G Dun & Co's. report of failures for the month and week, says: Liabilities in failures for seventeen days of January were $7,501,209 against $13,668,990 in eighteen days last year: manufacturing liabilities were $1,572,043 against $6,072,837 last year, and trading $5,348,166 against $6,809,353 last year. Failures this week have been 363 in the United States against 430 last year and 59 in Canada against 55 last year.

TRIAL OF THE TEN MURDERERS.

Alleged Alabama White Cappers and Assassins Before the Bar of Justice.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., January 26.—On next Monday Judge Speake, of the 8th judiciary circuit, will convene the Cullman county circuit court in extra session, to try ten alleged white cappers, who are under indictment for murder. The names of the defendants are Joseph Gober, Houston Holmes, John Holmes, Jonas Donaldson, —— Donaldson, Cottle, Dock Kellar, Joe Kellar, John Goodlett, Bill Goodlett and Dave Goodlett. The crime for which they are under indictment was committed in August, 1891. A band of disguised men went to the house of Monroe Evans, a few miles in the country from the town of Cullman, and killed him and his son John, under cover of night. The assassins made their escape and until last fall no clue as to their identity was found. Detectives, however, had been at work on the case and by degrees they began to unravel the mystery. At last, four men confessed to having been in the mob that assassinated old man Evans and his son. They gave the names of all who were along, fourteen in all.

ALARM IN FINANCIAL CIRCLES.

The Extraordinary Withdrawals of Gold From the Sub-Treasury the Subject.

NEW YORK, January 26.—The extraordinary withdrawals of gold from the sub-treasury is the chief topic of discussion in financial circles and even at the stock exchange the professionals who have had a monopoly of the dealings are inclined to go slow. The withdrawals of the metal yesterday amounted to $4,750,000, coin, and $1,000,000 bars making the grand total for the week thus far $12,030,000. Of this $7,200,000 will be forwarded to Europe today about equally divided between the steamers LaBourgogne and Lucania. In view of this tremendous loss of the metal, the general impression is that the administration will wait no longer for congress but will act at once. Some had it that a new issue of bonds would be made on Monday and it was this that kept the market firm thoughout the day yesterday.

BANKS READY FOR THE RUN.

Strong Banks in Binghampton Left to Bridge Over the Fright of Patrons.

BINGHAMPTON, N. Y., January 26.—The doors of the Binghampton Trust company and Binghampton Savings bank were opened promptly at 9 o'clock. At the former, just as the doors were opened, the express messenger carried a big iron box into the office. It contained $160,000, mostly in currency, all of which came from the Chase National bank in New York City. At the Binghampton Savings bank the counter and tables in the rear were covered with greenbacks and plenty of clerks stood by ready to disburse them when called for. The run continued throughout the morning, although not so extensively as on Thursday and Friday. Most of them withdrawing their funds were women who had been frightened by the sensational reports in circulation.

SOUTHERN'S TRAIN WRECKED.

The Work of Fiends Near Moorehead, Mississippi—Two Fatally Scalded.

COLUMBUS, Miss., January 26.—Southern railway train No. 62, west bound, was wrecked near Moorehead, Miss., at 1,30 o'clock yesterday morning, derailing and overturning the engine, baggage, mail and second class cars. It was the work of train wreckers who removed every spike from one of the rails. Engineer Gresham Jones and Fireman Harvey Woods, of Columbus, were caught under the engine and terribly scalded. Baggage Master John Tate, of Winona, was severely injured. Engineer Jones and Fireman Woods were brought here on a special train and are in a critical condition.

REVOLUTION ON IN BELGARIA.

Movement Aimed at the Deposition of Prince Ferdinand From the Throne.

BERLIN, January 26.—The St. Petersburg correspondent of the Francfurter Zeitung says a revolution is impending in Bulgaria. The movement, which aims at the deposition of Prince Ferdinand from the Belgaria throne, is under the concerted leadership of Ex-Premier Stambuloff and M. Sankoff, the notorious agitator who recently returned from exile by virtue of a grant of amnesty by the government.

JURY IN THE HAYWOOD TRIAL.

Only Nine Accepted From One Hundred and Twenty-Nine Veniremen.

MINNEAPOLIS, January 26.—Only one juryman has been secured from the continued examination of the venire in the Haywood trial for murder. Chas. Pribble, a farmer, was passed by both sides. He was the 129th venireman and makes the ninth juror. The defense has not exhausted 12 of its 21 peremptory challenges. Both sides believe that a full jury will be secured before Saturday's session closes.

"FRANCE SOLD TO ENGLAND."

Opposition Papers Denouncing the Prospective Ribot Ministry.

PARIS, January 26.—M. Ribot has held consultation with Ms. Poincare, Lebon, Barthou and others and will probably be successful in forming a cabinet. The opposition newspapers violently denounce the prospective Ribot ministry. LaFrance publishes an article on the subject under the caption "France Sold to England," and LaPatrie heads its article "The English in Power."

CANAL BILL PASSED

Long Parliamentary Struggle in the Senate Brought to an End.

WHAT THE NICARAGUA BILL CARRIES

Sundry Civil Bill Disposed of in the House. Two Important Changes in Legislation Made by the Bill—Other Congressional Matters.

WASHINGTON, January 26.—The long parliamentary struggle over the Nicaragua canal bill came to a close in the senate yesterday and the bill was passed by a vote of 81 yeas to 21 nays. From 2 o'clock in the afternoon until 5 the time was consumed in a discussion in which the speeches were limited to five minutes. It was some time carried on in a pretty angry fashion, but nothing very important or interesting was said on either side of the question. At 5 o'clock the talk ceased and the voting began—the result of the first vote indicating a safe majority for the bill.

Several Amendments Adopted.

Several amendments were accepted by Senator Morgan, democrat of Alabama, who had charge of the bill, and were agreed to, as a matter of course. The most important amendment was one which was offered by Senator Frye, republican of Maine, and which was amended by Senator Wolcott, republican of Colorado. This dual amendment required the work of canal construction to be divided into sections and to be given out on contract to the lowest responsible bidder after advertisement—the aggregate award not to exceed the amount of $70,000,000. The substitute offered by Senator Turpie, democrat of Indiana, requiring a preliminary survey and estimate, and a report on the practicability of the Menocal route was defeated, yeas 23, nays 29, and finally the bill was passed by a majority of ten, and will be sent to house for the action of that body.

The bill as passed provides that the capital stock of the Maritime Canal company of Nicaragua shall consist of a million shares of $100 each; it authorizes the company to issue three per cent bonds to the amount of seventy millions, which shall be endorsed and guaranteed by the treasury of the United States, and shall be secured by a first mortgage on all the property of the company. The interest on these bonds is to be paid by the company as it falls due, and on failure to do so, is to be held to pay four per cent interest to the United States. And such default shall also bring with it the right of foreclosure and sale. In consideration of the guarantee, the United States is to receive 70,000,000 in stock of the company; 6,000,000 of stock is to go to the government of Nicaragua, 1,500,000 to the government of Costo Rica and the remaining 22,500,000 is to go to extinguish former issues of stock and to the construction of the canal. Ten of the fifteen directors of the company are to be appointed by the president of the United States, with the advice and consent of the senate.

Proceedings in the House.

The sundry civil bill was taken up in the house and finally disposed of. Total amount carried by the bill as it passed was $39,037,721, a net increase of $497,000 over the amount as reported. The bulk of the increase was due to the requirement of the new printing bill. Two important changes in legislation were made by the bill. One was to restore to the secretary of the treasury the discretion that was formerly vested in him to issue notes of such denominations as he may deem best instead of being restricted to the re-issue of such denominations as may be cancelled and retired.

The other change was the abolition of gold certificates. Two amendments, offered by Mr. Combs, of New York, were adopted. One provides that no more gold certificates shall be printed, and that all such certificates hereafter received by the treasury shall be cancelled. The other provides that after July 1, 1895, gold certificates shall not be received for customs dues, not counted as part of the lawful reserve of any national bank.

M. Ribot Takes the Matter in Hand.

PARIS, January 26.—In the course of the conference which followed his being summoned to the palace of the Elysee yesterday, M. Ribot requested that he be allowed time for consultation with his friends before deciding whether to accept or decline the task of forming a new ministry.

MAY BE SENT TO SOMOA.

Gossip About Probable Orders to Vessels on the Pacific Station.

WASHINGTON, January 26.—The departure of the flagship Philadelphia to Honolulu will shortly be followed by a general movement of the other vessels of the Pacific station, which have been lying idle for many weeks in the placid waters of San Francisco bay. Now that it has been finally decided to send these vessels off on a cruise where they may be of some service to the government, it is mentioned as probable that one of them may be dispatched to the long neglected islands of Samoa, in order that the United States may live up to its treaty agreement with Great Britain and Germany for the joint protection of the existing government. The president has recommended that the United States withdraw from that agreement, but congress does not seem to be inclined to take such action.

ANOTHER ARCTIC SURVEY.

Canadian Explorer Tyrrell to Go North for the United States.

OTTAWA, Ont., January 26.—J. B. Tyrrell, head of the geological survey of Ottawa, just returned from the northern barren lands of Canada, has been asked by Professor Steins, head of the United States geological survey, to lead a party to Ellsmere Land, in the northwest corner of Greenland, across Smith's Sound from Inglefield Landing the most northern point reached by the Peary expedition, to search for two Sweedish naturalists lost on Ellsmere Land, and to survey the north and west coasts of Ellsmere Land. The party will sail to Baffin's Bay, via Davis Strait and the great Northwest Passage. The terminus will be over 200 miles further north than Peary went. Tyrrell has obtained permission from the dominion government.

FLAMES AT THE VANDOME.

A Big Colony of Theatrical People Narrowly Escape With Their Lives.

NEW YORK, January 26.—Flames swept through the top floor of the Vandome hotel, at Broadway and Forty-first street at daybreak yesterday morning and sent 300 guests and servants down into the corridors ready to rush into the street. Fire bells clanged, women fainted, policemen rushed wildly through the hotel corridors, firemen crashed in windows and doors flooding the passages with water, and half the famous theatrical people now in New York were hustled down the stairs into the steaming cafe and ground floor offices of the hotel, and the wonder is no lives were lost and no one was seriously hurt.

COL. WOMACK CONGRATULATED

The Successful Man for the Appointment of Chief Clerk of the Interior.

WASHINGTON, January 26. — Up to noon today the successor to Mr. Josephus Daniels as chief clerk of the department of the interior had not been officially announced. Colonel Emmett Womack, who is understood to be the lucky man, has been receiving congratulations on all sides, but as yet he does not concede his own selection. Mr. Daniels, the retiring chief clerk, left last night for his home, at Raleigh, N. C., to assume direct charge of the Daily News and Observer.

MEXICO'S WAR FEVER

Differences With Guatamala Cannot Otherwise be Settled.

EVERY PREPARATION FOR THE CHARGE

The First Hostile Step Will Be the Blockading of Guatamala's Ports—The Mexican Navy Not a Strong One to Begin With.

CITY OF MEXICO, January 26.—The arrival of Guatemala's reply to Mexico's final demands has caused a considerable war fever throughout this district. As yet nobody outside the foreign office, has seen the reply. Rumors of every sort are afloat, most of them to the effect that the Guatemalan government covets once more the old ground, seeking at once to evade the issue and secure delay.

Ignacio Mariscal, minister of foreign affairs, would say nothing of the document last night except that it was enormously long and would be laid before the cabinet meeting today. A statement is expected from the government soon after this meeting, although Senor Mariscal declined to say that it would be made.

The war scare has taken possession of almost everybody, foreign and native. Most of the foreign ministers here are said to have influenced their governments that the war is almost inevitable. The government is buying horses and is working its small arm factory night and day with double the usual number of men. The manufacture of ammunition is pressed forward with the equal haste. The governor of the Federal district has offered President Diaz two batalions to go to the front the moment war shall be declared. It is understood, however, that the government does not intend to begin the war on land. The first hostile step, if Guatemala still refuses to yield, will be to blockade her ports. Foreigners here express some doubt as to the effectiveness of such a blockade, since the Mexican navy has but half dozen small crafts, manned by hardly five hundred seamen and officers.

No information as to the Mexican-Guatemalan difficulty could be obtained from any trustworthy source this morning. The ministers and ministrial newspapers are entirely non-committal. The situation may not be altered by decisive action in the cabinet today. It is expected, however, that on Monday at the latest the government will declare itself.

GENERAL TRADE IS QUIET.

Outlook Favorable for Conservative Business for Some Time to Come.

NEW YORK, January 26.—Bradstreets today says:

Special telegraphic and mail advices from the more important distributing centres fail to reveal any marked improvement in the movement of merchandise and products, and the conclusion is forced that the general trade situation remains as previously characterized—by small volume, low prices, hand to mouth sales, and the outlook favorable to a very conservative trade for some time to come.

Gains in demand have been noteworthy only at Eastern woolen mills for men's wear, fabric, among Providence manufacturing jewelers, wholesale dealers in staples at Augusta, Memphis and New Orleans, and, in the west and northwest, at St. Louis, Kansas City, St. Paul and Minneapolis only, improvement being rather by contrast with recent dullness than with the volume of trade ordinarily transacted at this season. An exception is in wool sales, which have increased sharply, though prices are no higher. Mills report unexpectedly heavy orders of men's wear, woolens for fall delivery, in spite of foreign competition, clothiers having placed the bulk of overcoatings and general suitings contracts with domestic mills.

At the south collections are slow in South Carolina, Georgia, Virginia. Richmond jobbers and Charleston and Savannah respectively report fertilizers and naval stores more active. At Atlanta jobbers are awaiting results of February 1st, settlements before seeking to extend trade. At almost all southern centres general trade remains quiet and a very moderate volume.

THEY OBJECT TO THE DELAY.

New Orleans Sugar Men Want the President to Act Upon Their Claims.

NEW ORLEANS, January 26.—Sugar producers, bankers and business men generally are getting irritated at the delay in the adjustment of their grievance by congress. A delegation headed by J. T. Hayden, president of the Whitney National bank, left here today by speeial car to see President Cleveland. They will try and convince the executive that the planters are subject to great injuries, and that by the refusal to pay the bounty on this present crop of sugar manifest hardships will be worked to the planter. Mr. Hayden says:

"We will go to Washington to see Mr. Cleveland himself. We go to him direct because we think it most advisable to do so. We will put before him the sugar question in all of its aspects. Our delegation will be formed without regard to politics or party. I hope that the delegation will get away tonight, but question it, as all of the gentlemen invited have not intimated the acceptance of the invitation."

THE POSSES GUARD THE TRAINS

Passenger Trains On the Mobile and Ohio Anticipate Robbers.

MOBILE, Ala., January 26.—A special says: Passenger train No. 6, north bound on the Mobile and Ohio road was held at Whistler last night until a deputy sheriff organized a posse of five men to guard the train, three heavily armed men having been noted during the day acting suspiciously at points along the line. A like posse is on the south bound train which left Meridian, Mississippi.

Burglars Rampant in Alabama.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., January 26.—A special to the Advertiser, from Banks, Pike county, says: The store of Harris, Black & Co., was entered by burglars last night. The safe was drilled from the top and both doors blown off. The burglars were frightened away before getting the inner drawer open which contained $900.

Lumber Burned at Brewton, Alabama.

BREWTON, Ala., January 26.—Fire last night completely destroyed Cedar Creek company's new dry kiln with 125,000 feet of lumber. Loss about $4,000. No insurance.

WHERE TOBACCO STANDS KING.

Marvelous Growth of the Tobacco Industry in South Carolina.

CHARLESTON, S. C., January 26.—The News and Courier publishes today a special tobacco edition, showing the marvelous development of the tobacco growing industry in the Pee Dee section of South Carolina in the last few years. The fullest details are given as to the method of cultivation, the varieties of seed best adapted to the soil: the cost of production and the profits on the crop, and the experience of a large number of tobacco planters is related to show that tobacco is king. Tobacco growing is a flourishing industry throughout the Pee Dee section of the state, but it has had its most successful and satisfactory developments in Darlington connty, to which the News and Courier's review is largely confined. Ten years ago not one pound of tobacco was grown in South Carolina for market. Last year one million pounds were raised and marketed in Darlington county alone.

THE MOVEMENTS OF COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS, January 26.—New Orleans cotton exchange statement from September 1st to January 25th, inclusive: Port receipts 5,997,806 bales against 4,757,814 bales last year, 3,936,310 year before last, and 5,307,051 for the same time in 1892; overland to mills 886,844 against 635,547; 620,084 and 892,174; interior stocks in excess of September 1st 432,766, against 333,137; 314,183 and 515,424; southern mill takings net 393,509, against 396,837; 379,566; and 347,732; brought into sight during 147 days to date 7,710,985 against 6,123,335; 5,250,843; and 7,062,381; brought into sight for week 239,745 against 200,395, 107,099, and 99,810; brought into sight first twenty-five days in January 792,300, against 657,243; 460,388; and 616,295.

TWO TRAMPS DO THE MURDER.

Alabama Merchant Boldly Assassinated and His Store Robbed.

EUTAW, Ala., January 26.—Lew G. Wilson, a merchant of Hale county, near Evans station on the Cincinnati, Selma and Mobile railroad, was murdered last night in his store. Two well dressed tramps were seen hanging around his place and neighborhood for the last three days, and they are suspected of being the murderers. From reliable information he was robbed of at least three hundred dollars. He was found dead tied with ropes around his legs and body and three handkerchiefs stuffed in his mouth with his head buried in the mattress, where he no doubt suffocated. At Carthage a store was burglarized this week and supposed to have been done by the same parties.

CHALLENGED BY THE DEFENSE.

No Jurors Yet Accepted by Debs' Lawyers in the Trial Pending.

CHICAGO, January 26.—Three of the nine jurors accepted yesterday by the government have been peremptorily challenged by the defense in the trial of Eugene V. Debs and others. None has yet been accepted by the defense, which has exhausted five of its ten peremptory challenges. A large majority of the talesmen acknowledged to a prejudice against the directors of the American railway union. Two of these Judge Grosscup refused to excuse for cause, and they were peremtorily challenged. He announced that the jury must be selected at once.

CLEVELAND HOPES FOR PEACE.

Urges Mexico and Guatemala to Settle Their Dispute Without War.

CITY OF MEXICO, January 26.—A telegram has been received at the United States legation here from Secretary Gresham expressing President Cleveland's hope that Mexico and Guatemala would agree upon some favorable means of settling the boundary dispute between themselves or, failing in that, would agree upon a reference of the controversy to friendly arbitration. This message has been transmited to President Diaz.

BLIZZARD ON IN THE NORTH.

Sleet and Rain Storm Prevails General East of the Rockies.

WASHINGTON, January 26.—A storm of mingled sleet and rain began here about six o'clock last night and has continued steadily. The storm extends all over the country east of the Rocky Mountains and amounts to a blizzard in Missouri, Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska, Minnesota and the Upper Lake regions. Freight traffic has been suspended on the railroads centering in Chicago and passenger traffic is much delayed.

KOLB'S LAST LETTER

Urges the Enactment of a Law to Punish Usurpers.

HE SIGNS HIMSELF AS GOVERNOR.

Praying the Alabama Legislature in His Own Behalf—Message He Declares to be an Official State Paper. Advice to Lawmakers.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., January 25.—Captain R. F. Kolb has written another message to the legislature in which he urges the enactment of a law to punish usurpers. He signs himself as governor. The message was made public yesterday. The letter is as follows:

There is a consciousness of obloquy attached at this time to the unsettled conflict of title in the exalted office of chief executive of our beloved state, in which every informed and honest mind must participate. It is by suffrance of a patient people only that forms of legality are given to your proceedings.

So far as in me lies, I am resolved that in the future, as in the past, until the fact of law and order is re-established, I shall permit no timely moment to escape my earnest protest against the ignomy of the present situation.

It is incumbent upon the general assembly to take into account that in time of profound peace it became necessary for my rival claimant to the office of governor to seize the treasury and the militia to enable him to assume the duties of the office. This precaution was instigated by the admitted fact that a brave and minority of the people believe he is a usurper by the bare fact that he was not elected.

I am still deprived by the seizure of the purse and sword of the state on the part of an usurper of the benefit of the full functions of my office. But I congratulate you that the people are not only willing but anxious and determined that you shall have their countenance in such legislation as may be opportune and wise to restore the elective methods of the constitution and their full enjoyment. You cannot deny, gentlemen, that ultimate anarchy is the only alternative to the continued suppression of the constitional safeguard thrown around the franchise in Alabama. This is a brave and noble and happy people, slow to precipitate discord, but no man doubts the spirit which controls them when, in their judgment the time to declare and defend their liberties is at hand.

Failure on your part to make operative the constitution in all its provisions for an election of governor and other state officers will bring the merited contempt of the people. It may be said that a contest law applying to the present conflicting claims to the office of governor would partake of the character of an ex-post facto enactment. The suggestion is manifestly untimely. The right of contest existed in the constitution itself when the candidates for governor and other state officers were put forward by their respective political parties and supporters. This right is a feature of the elective system and does but terminate the methods of election put in motion at the polls.

This is the view taken in several similar cases to our own in other states, particularly as to Tennessee—in the contest, Turney vs. Evans, now pending.

All precedent establishes your duty to make operative the constitution in authority when the election for 1894 for governor and other state officers transpired. There can be no escape in honor from that palatable and weighty duty on the part of this now-living general assembly. It will not do to trust to the spiritless motives of the people to paliate neglect of so paramount legislation.

I desire to express my cordial approbation of any sufficient statue which will punish usurpers of office in this state.

When the system established in the organic law to secure fair elections shall have been executed in all its provisions and the result ascertained, the usurper shall deceive no quarter.

This rule should apply to all elective offices, and when usurping governors or legislators become amenable to it the revenge of an outraged state should be realized. (Signed.)

R. F. KOLB, Governor.

Montgomery, Ala., January 24, 1895.

TRIAL OF THE TEN MURDERERS.

Alleged Alabama White Cappers and Assassins Before the Bar of Justice.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., January 26.—On next Monday Judge Speake, of the 8th judiciary circuit, will convene the Cullman county circuit court in extra session, to try ten alleged white cappers, who are under indictment for murder. The names of the defendants are Joseph Gober, Houston Holmes, John Holmes, Jonas Donaldson, —— Donaldson, Cottle, Dock Kellar, Joe Kellar, John Goodlett, Bill Goodlett and Dave Goodlett. The crime for which they are under indictment was committed in August, 1891. A band of disguised men went to the house of Monroe Evans, a few miles in the country from the town of Cullman, and killed him and his son John, under cover of night. The assassins made their escape and until last fall no clue as to their identity was found. Detectives, however, had been at work on the case and by degrees they began to unravel the mystery. At last, four men confessed to having been in the mob that assassinated old man Evans and his son. They gave the names of all who were along, fourteen in all.

THE POSSES GUARD THE TRAINS

Passenger Trains On the Mobile and Ohio Anticipate Robbers.

MOBILE, Ala., January 26.—A special says: Passenger train No. 6, north bound on the Mobile and Ohio road was held at Whistler last night until a deputy sheriff organized a posse of five men to guard the train, three heavily armed men having been noted during the day acting suspiciously at points along the line. THE CHRONICLE

C. C. DuBOSE, Editor and Proprietor.

COLUMBIANA, JAN. 31, 1895.

We should exercise charity toward others, remembering that no one is without faults.

Secrets are but poor property; if you circulate them you lose them; and if you keep them you lose the interest on your investment.

Would it not be a good plan for our legislature to pass a law to hold our state and national elections on the same day? It costs more to hold two elections than one.

May be Mexico's military ferment will explain the ferocity of some senators in congress. As that country is part of our boundary, this nation is now bordering on a state of war.

The West Alabama Breeze has changed hands. Mr. John C. Lawrence, the old proprietor, disposing of the plant to Mr. J. C. Brown, of Tuskaloosa. We welcome Mr. Brown to our ranks, and extend to him the hand of fellowship.

The legislature now in session should not fail to pass the bill now pending to exempt from taxation for ten or twenty years, all the new cotton mills located in the state. To be exempt from state, county and municipal tax, is an important consideration in the location of a mill.

The passage of the Nicarauga Canal bill in the senate, will certainly give satisfaction if for one reason only, that an obstruction is a length out of the way. The bill will probably fail in the house to be revived again in the next congress, and it is not necessary to prolong its discussion now.

Let the people of Alabama extend the right hand of fellowship and encouragement to all the people who will come and invest capital here. Let it once be known that the general assembly is friendly to manufacturing enterprises, and they will come. The time is ripe to hold out the hand and capitalists will take hold of it.

State Mine Inspector, J. D. Hillman, has sent in his annual report, for the year 1894, to the governor, which gives the comparison with 1893 as follows: It shows that last year 4,246,736 tons of coal were mined and 9,280 men were employed, as against 5,270,042 tons and 10,280 men for 1893. The big strike last summer caused the falling off, but the daily output now is the largest in Alabama's history.

The "run" on the gold reserve in the United States treasury has assumed such alarming proportions that President Cleveland on Monday sent a message to congress urging that body to take prompt measures to relieve the pressure on the treasury. The gold reserve has reach the lowest point since the resumption of specie payment. Whether or not the present congress has patriotism enough to stem the tide remains to be seen.

In ten years the English society for the prevention of cruelty to children has rescued 109,000 little children from the inhumanity of their parents. Of these 25,437 were victims of violence; 62,887 were suffering from neglect and starvation; 12,663 were compelled to beg; 4,560 young girls were rescued from a life of shame; and 3,205 children were taken from traveling shows, where they were engaged in dangerous performances or as monstrosities.

A rich find of gold has been discovered near Langston, Jackson county, this state. The mine, so far as has been tested, bids fair to yield as large an output as most of the paying mines of California—running from $8.00 to $15.000 per cubic yard in pure gold. It is estimated that the mine can be worked at comparatively small cost, as great quantities of gold are lying in the sand. Quite a considerable quantity of money has already been invested in lands there, which shows faith in the discoverers in the find.

Southern farmers may as well make up their minds that, if the out-put of cotton this year is not materially reduced, they must prepare to get three cents per pound for what they have to sell next winter. The Liverpool buyers do not believe a word you say about acreage reduction and are already placing their bets that cotton can be bought a year from now at that figure. We have before us the circular of Messrs. Beer, Cowell & Co., of date of January 15, which puts the case plainly: "Since our letter of December, 12, in which we referred to the continued selling of new crops, there has been a further decline, and cotton for 1895-96 is selling here on a basis of about 4 cents on plantation in America; the sellers of these positions are very aggressive, and reports being current that another large crop will be planted, feel confident that they will be enabled to re-purchase their present sales at a profit of 1 cent or more. In other words, they expect that farmers will be ready to part with the next crop at 3 cents and below. Of course there is little or no doubt that if it is left to Liverpool merchants and Manchester spinners, prices will rule very low, and it would be unfortunate if we should get another enormous crop; even 8,000,000 bales would be a great deal too large for the world's requirements when we consider that the English spinner is by no means in a good position, although continental trade conditions—France, Germany, Austria and Russia—we beg to say are fairly favorable."

HELP THE DROUGHT-STRICKEN WEST.

A movement has been started in Columbiana, and we hope it will spread to every town and community in this county, to raise funds, food and clothing for the starving thousands in the West, who are absolutely without money, food or clothing. Their condition is appaling, and having exhausted every resource at their command, they appeal to the country at large to come to their rescue.

While we in Shelby county are not rich by any means, still we have an abundance of the necessaries of life, have plenty of fuel, and most of us have comfortable clothing and dwellings. Contrast our situation with that of the people who are without money, no employment, and in the coldest of climates where the thermometer even now is many degrees below zero, without fuel of any kind and many living in sod houses. Do you not feel like contributing something to keep these people alive until spring opens so they can find work, and earn a living? The accounts published in the papers of the suffering among the destitute are heartrending. The relief committee for this place are urgently requested to meet at the Methodist church tonight, when prompt steps will be taken to raise a relief fund for these people.

Appeals that are extremely pathetic in character, are in circulation in many parts of Nebraska, which alone would be sufficient to set all doubt at rest as to the true situation and the urgent need of help. Here is one issued by the Callaway (Custer county) central relief committee:

"The drouth in Western Nebraska has reduced the farmers' condition to one of abject poverty, and hundreds of families that have labored assiduously to raise a crop, are at this time on the verge of starvation.

Many have been assisted and have gone to their friends and relatives in other states, but hundreds of them here are without friends and their only home is the sod houses on the farm, divested of all comforts; without food and without sufficient clothing to protect them from Nebraska's freezing blasts.

There is no employment here by which they can earn a living, and many, driven to desperation, have left the mother and children destitute, and gone in quest of work only to join the surging mass of unemployed. The mother unable longer to hear the cries of her children for food, is begging for help. Local relief is not equal to the demand upon it, and the relief committee is empty-handed ere the winter has begun.

An appeal for aid from the public seems our last and only resort. The press has endeavored to suppress the misfortune and misery of our people, no doubt from a desire to preserve the fair name of our state; but the pangs of hunger leave us without pride, and we humbly ask you to contribute something to these suffering people. Second-hand clothing or anything that will ameliorate their distress, will be thankfully accepted.

These people in want and misery are not idlers, but on the contrary are honest, energetic and industrious farmers who have lost their crops for two years in succession. Their condition is simply appalling.

Should any doubt these assertions, we refer you to our county or district judge; or better still, we invite you to come and witness for yourself; but your assistance we ask, for, without it, when winter sets in, the suffering will be indiscribable if the poor mortals do not actually starve to death. Address all donations to

The Callaway Central Relief Committee, Calloway, Custer Co., Nebraska.

In another column will be found an article written by Col. W. T. Smith, of Wilsonville, to the Manufacturers' Record, advocating the establishment of small plants to spin thread and make the coarser grades of cloth, in connection with ginneries. He takes the position that these small plants could be run at a very moderate cost, as in most cases they could utilize the idle power now wasted. As these gins are run at most only about one-third of the year, the addition of a limited number of spindles would greatly enhance the value of the product of the plant.

The plan seems practical, and we see no good reason why it would not work admirably. There is one point settled beyond dispute and that is that the South is wedded to cotton, and as long as existing conditions last, this section will continue to produce a large and constantly increasing quanty of the staple. This being true, why not get all the profit possible out of it? If Col. Smith's plan is found to yield satisfactory results, it will go a long way towards solving the problem. The manufacture of cotton goods by eastern capital, will not help the farmer in the least, except in the immediate vicinity of the factories. If we are to get the full benefit of our staple crop, we must adopt some plan like the one suggested above. In other words, we must utilize home capital and home labor if we would reap the full reward of our labor.

We must say candidly, that our opinion of the plan outlined in Col. Smith's article is worth little, as we have had no practical experience in that line, but we are glad the subject of home manufacture is being agitated. It is sure to bring lasting good in the end, for a plan can and will be found to accomplish the much to be desired result.

According to the Koran, the angels who gave warning of the coming destruction of Sodom were Isafeel, Gabriel and Michael.

INTENSIVE FARMING.

The Montgomery Advertiser gives the farmers of Alabama some very good advice on the subject of farming. With regard to the size of farms, or the number of acres a man can cultivate with profit, it is our idea of farming exactly, and experience has proven that a few acres well cultivated yields better returns than a large acreage only half cultivated. The article is as follows:

"Intensive farming is far preferable to extensive. Southern farmers are fast discovering that a few acres well cultivated pay much better than many, poorly worked. In a state like Alabama, where two, three, and sometimes four crops can be raised in a season, a small farm, properly fertilized, and with intelligent crop rotation, will make the owner independent in a few years. The same money put into fertilizers for half the acreage now worked, would, in many cases, produce nearly as much as is now raised upon the larger tract, while the cost of working would be reduced about one-half. Even five-cent cotton would pay if double the amount was raised to the acre, while the system of rotation that intensive farming would engender is worth more than the crops. On the small farm, the farmer can study the characteristics of his soil, and in a short time will be able to evolve a system of rotation that will constantly increase the fertility of the land.

True farming is a science, and study is as much needed to master it as it is for any other profession. The farmer who thinks, reads, and watches his land as a chemist watches the different stages of his analysis, is the one who will succeed. All should get the Experiment Station bulletins, as knowledge of great value to the practical farmer is contained therein, the experiments being conducted for the purpose of getting authentic information for the farmers of this locality. Fertilizers should be mixed to suit the land, there are none that are good for any and all soils or crops. By buying different ingredients and mixing them, the farmer accomplishes two good objects; he gets a practically pure fertilizer, and he can vary the proportion of the different ingredients to suit each section of his land and the crop he intends to plant thereon. A small farm, well cultivated, with good buildings and fences, is a source of pleasure to all who see it, and is both profitable and pleasant to the occupant, but the large, unkept, half-tended, run-down farm is an eye-sore, and will soon ruin the owner if it has not already done so. Peter Henderson, the veteran seedsman, said: "Ten acres are enough," and while we do not advocate quite such small farms, we do maintain that the most profitable farming is that which does not plant one foot more of land than can be thoroughly and properly cultivated."

IN THE INTEREST OF THE PEOPLE

Is the Bill to Exempt New Enterprises from Taxation.

The following from the Talladega Mountain Home, hits the nail square on the head, and we hope it will be read by and receive a careful consideration of the members of the General Assembly. Such a law would be of incalculable benefit to every section of the state, and should be passed. It is certainly a most clear-cut, convincing appeal.

"It is not necessary to go into a strained examination of the constitutional maxims and quibbles for which our cotemporary so volumniously and assiduously contends. All our readers are familiar with the principle of equal and uniform taxation laid down in the constitution of every state in the union. Nor shall we trouble ourselves about the proposition that the state is the creature of the people, its citizens and tax-payers. Nor yet do we take issue with the fact that the state should not undertake the sustenance of its citizens. The people of Alabama are confronted with a critical situation, and it is proposed, following our own precedents and the example of neighboring states whose constitutions differ in no material point from our own, to help the people of Alabama on their way to material prosperity. There is no doubt that the next few years will definitely fix the location of the cotton manufacturing centers of the world. The past five years has been a season of unexampled progress in this direction, but Alabama, with superior natural advantages, has been outstripped by Georgia and South Carolina, whose people have exerted themselves to welcome long estranged capital in the manner now proposed in Alabama. The state's and the people's interests are identical. When the people's interests are advanced the state cannot suffer. As a community, we have already exempted these industries from county and municipal taxation, because we believed the welfare of the people could be best promoted by such a course. The Home would not abrogate one jot or title of the constitution to the injury of the people or without their consent expressed in the manner prescribed in the instrument itself. But the people's interests are directly and immediately involved in the legislation advocated and no violence will be done the organic law of the state. Certainly the purpose and spirit of that instrument, shaped for the good of all the people, will be promoted. Every cotton mill brings with it remunerative employment for worthy labor with a consequent benefit to every business and profession in the community, and it need scarcely be said that the people of Alabama are sadly in need of agencies of this character. The field for the location of these industries is almost unlimited, and while the inducements furnished our people by nature are wonderfully potent, we are admonished by the experience of our lagging development that we are not to rely upon our stars, but upon ourselves."

COLONEL SMITH'S PLAN.

Can Small Mills Connected With Ginneries be Made Profitable.

From the Manufacturers Record.

Wilsonville, Ala., Jan. 8, '95.

Knowing your sincere good will for the South, and something of your untiring efforts for the welfare and upbuilding of her people, I write to you as an advisary friend suggesting an idea, and earnestly soliciting your counsel and careful consideration of the subject. To wit:

All over the cotton belt there are good, roomy gin-ghouses and ample steam power to run considerable machinery. The houses are empty and the machinery idle eight months in the year. Can there not be spindles in a limited capacity put into these gin-houses and run by their idle power to spin a part of each crop, and thereby enable us to retain in our section a little more of the money in our cotton than we now do? Cotton at five cents and yarn at fifteen cents, to spin it, increases the market value 300 per cent., or it would put into our pockets $3.00 to $1.00 as it is now; or, to be more easily understood, a bale of cotton that now leaves $25.00 in our hands would leave $75.00 with us if turned into thread.

All the labor needed is already domiciled around the gin-house, and can be used with but little cost to the spinner and to great advantage to the operatives, as they are idle and a dead weight, save in picking cotton.

Of course, I understand that one with practical experience must superintend the work, but we can readily master the situation on that score.

The problems to solve and to which I invite your attention are: First, small outfits of improved (not worn machinery, cleaned and burnished) machinery for spinning, capacity of fifty to 100 or 500 pounds of cotton per day; second, arrangements by lien or otherwise to enable ginners to purchase on living terms.

To these ends may not honest, fair-dealing manufacturers of spinning machinery be induced to put up outfits, taking a small cash advance and a lien on machinery, with their obligations to take the yarn at a contract price, thus securing themselves and aiding the purchaser? Start the ball in motion; looms will soon be added, and every neighborhood in the cotton belt will, ere long, be spinning and weaving cotton.

By utilizing the capital already invested in house and steam power, we would thereby invest several millions of dollars in the manufacture of cotton that we cannot raise in any other way, and directly interest in the work, thousands of people who will never subscribe a farthing to big concerns to be swallowed up by bigger fish, and by this method we can put in motion 1000 spindles to every 100 that would move by big stock companies.

Enable us to keep in the South one-half the money actually in the cotton we produce, and questions of tax on imports, tax on state banks, the demonetization of silver and five-cent cotton will not disturb us nor hold us down long.

If from the crude suggestions you can evolve something practical, and then bring the manufacture of spinning machinery and our ginners together on equitable terms, in my humble opinion you will have solved the financial problem that now confronts the South, for which generations yet unborn will rise to call you blessed.

This question has been mooted often in the past. Nothing practical grew out of it. The time had not come, but now "the fields are white unto the harvest."

To make our cotton leave more than five cents per pound in our hands is a necessity realized by every sane producer of cotton. We cannot discontinue the production.

We will not permanently diminish the area planted to cotton, nor can we live on five cents per pound for raw cotton.

We must find new outlets or uses to increase the price of the raw material, or to some extent, manufacture it to increase the aggregate of money it leaves in our section. It is useless to approach the question from any other standpoint.

To urge a reduction of area to cotton in the United States is a bid for an increase in other countries. It would only temporarily improve the price, that is until other cotton-producing countries could supply the shortage, while in lieu of cotton we are urged to produce food supplies, and thereby rob the great Northwest of so much patronage.

Any proposition based upon the theory of curtailment of farm products or manufactured products in our country is impracticable, injurious, narrow, selfish, and un-American.

W. T. Smith.

THE OLD-TIME FIRE.

Talk about yer buildin's.
That's het up by steam—
Give me the old oak fire
Where the old folks used to dream.

The rickety dog-irons
One-sided as could be;
The ashes banked with 'taters
That were roasting there fer me.

The dog on one side, drowsin',
Or barkin' nigh the door;
The kitten cuttin' capers
With the knittin' on the floor.

An' me a little towhead
By mamma's side at night;
With both my cheeks a-burnin'
From the red flames leapin' bright,

These steam-het buildin's make me
Jest weary for the blaze
That was heap more comfortable
In my childhood's nights and days.

And I'd give the finest heater
In the buildin's het by steam,
For the old-time chimney corner
Where the old folks used to dream.

FAIR ELECTIONS.

From the Birmingham News.

Senator Sayre, framer of the Sayre election law, which has gone further towards promoting fair elections in Alabama than any statute yet enacted in this state, has introduced a bill in the senate "to further regulate elections in Alabama." The bill embodies the principal features of the present law, as to the mode of conducting elections and the machinery, and makes some amendments which are needed to perfect the existing statute and satisfy complaints against certain features of it.

Among other things, the bill proposes the abolishment of the registration certificate. It allows no one to interfere with the elector in the preparation of his ballot, and gives him a (marker, or fixer,) of his own selection. The inspectors chosen must be able to read and write, and not more than two of them shall be of the same political party. It makes the registration lists open to inspection as soon as filed with the probate judge. The state and federal elections are, according to the provisions of the bill, both to be held on the same date, that of the last named election being selected. This will reduce expenses and is in line with Governor Oates' recommendation.

Mr. Sayre has also introduced a bill providing for the contest of future elections. Both of these bills are pronounced by those who have studied them, as containing the essential provisions necessary to insure an absolutely fair election and a contest for any state office. The News has not seen copies of either bill, but the facts given above as adduced from the new election bill, indicate that its provisions are on the right line, and they should be carefully considered. It is possible both bills may need some amendments, but laws along that line must be enacted by the general assembly before adjournment. The ballot is sacred, and every safeguard possible should be thrown about it. It is imperative for the legislature to act in this matter, and the News believes it will.

There is reason good for the popularity of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Davis & Buzard, of West Monterey, Claion Co., Pa., say: "It has cured people that our physicians could do nothing for. We persuaded them to try a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and they now recommend it with the rest of us." 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Parker & Armstrong.

"When I am alone," the editor replied.—London Tit-Bits.

AYER'S

THE ONLY

Sarsaparilla

ADMITTED

READ RULE XV.

"Articles that are in any way dangerous or offensive, also patent medicines, nostrums, and empirical preparations, whose ingredients are concealed, will not be admitted to the Exposition."

Why was Ayer's Sarsaparilla admitted? Because it is not a patent medicine, not a nostrum, nor a secret preparation, not dangerous, not an experiment, and because it is all that a family medicine should be.

TOWN AND COUNTY NEWS.

Rev. T. K. Roberts spent Sunday in Shelby.

J. T. Leeper returned Monday from Opelika.

Charlie Duran, of Calera, Spent Friday in town.

Dick McLendon, of Calera, spent Sunday in town.

John Edwards, of Childersburg, was in town Tuesday.

Judge Leeper visited Talladega on business Monday.

James Harris, of beat 4, spent Monday in town on business.

Miss Ella Tallant paid a visit to friends at Wilsonville this week.

Frank Bates, of Creswell Station, was in town a few hours Tuesday.

Miss Belle Barnet visited Wilsonville friends the fore part of the week.

Horace Hammond spent Sunday with his father's family in Wilsonville.

J. F. Duran spent the first of the week in town with relatives and friends.

Messrs. Bowdon, McClinton and Moss, of Calera, were visitors in our city Sunday.

Burrel McMath, of Gurnee, spent last week with his mother, Mrs. D. B. McMath, of this place.

Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Martin, of Maplesville, Ala., are in town on a visit to the family of W. G. Parker.

H. E. Reynolds went to Montevallo, Tuesday, to be present at the funeral of his cousin, H. M. Reynolds.

J. W. Bolen, a live farmer and most worthy gentleman from Wilsonville, paid us a pleasant call Tuesday.

Evander Morrison, formerly of the Kingdom neighborhood, has moved to the Weaver place on the mountain. We are glad to welcome his family to our town.

Misses Clemmont and Georgia Cromwell took in the entertainment at Wilsonville, Tuesday night. Miss Clemmont remained for a few day's visit with her friend, Miss Bessie Nimmo.

A crowd of Columbiana young men and maidens went up to Wilsonville Tuesday night to attend the minstrel show. They left here at 5 o'clock in the afternoon, and arrived in Wilsonville at 10, or thereabouts, just in time to see the curtain go down on the last act. But they had a whole "passel" of fun though.

DIED—At Montevallo, Ala., on Tuesday morning last, Hugh McLure Reynolds, oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Reynolds, aged 22 years. The deceased was a bright young man just verging on manhood, and his parents have the cordial sympathy of friends all over the county in this their deep affliction. The funeral occurred on Wednesday morning.

The bridge over Cahaba river connecting Shelby and Jefferson counties, has been completed. The bridge spans the river at a point about six miles south of Birmingham, and was built by Messrs. Watkins and Hardaway, of that city, the cost being a little over $5,000, of which Shelby county will pay one-fourth and Jefferson the remainder, they being joint owners. This bridge will be a great convenience to the people of Cahaba valley, as it will give them a direct route to the Iron City.

Rev. S. P. West, who travels in the interest of the Methodist Orphans Home, preached an interesting sermon at the Methodist church last night, after which a collection was taken up for the home.

Walter McAdams (colored) who killed his wife about a year ago, near Wilsonville, was arrested Monday in Bessemer by deputy sheriff H. A. McKenney, and was yesterday brought here by Jailor Scale and safely landed in jail.

The members of the Presbyterian church will give a "Pound Party" at the residence of Rev. W. I. Sinnot, to-morrow, (Friday) evening. Everybody, no matter to which church they belong, are cordially invited to attend. Each one will be expected to carry not less than a pound of some useful article, but there is no limit as to the number of pounds. Let everybody attend and make the minister feel good—and also spend an enjoyable evening.

Saturday, Feb. 2nd, is ground-hog day, the old German sign day for an early or late spring. If he, the hog, should come out of his burrough and should happen to see his shadow, he will immediately return and remain in his snug winter quarters for six weeks thereafter; but, if on that day, the sun cannot be seen, the aforesaid weather prophet will bring out all his household and personal effects and remain as an outsider, when an early, joyous, glorious spring may be looked for. Watch the day.

From Saginaw.

Rev. Zwingle preached an interesting sermon Sunday at the Presbyterian church.

Almost every house in Saginaw is now occupied.

Mrs. Leila McBride visited relatives here last week.

Mr. Rufus Lester, of Columbiana, was here Sunday.

Henry Wilson honored Saginaw with his presence Sunday.

Mr. Geo. Nabors, of Birmingham, is visiting relatives here.

Some of our merchants don't seem to know that the tariff has been taken off of goods. They are selling flour at one dollar per sack and axes at $2.25, and all other goods in the same proportion, and are paying only 90 cents per day for labor. What will the poor laborer do? F——.

Columbiana Literary Society.

Our Society met on Friday evening last at the residence of Mr. W. G. Parker. Notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather, the attendance was very good.

The program as arranged for the evening was well executed, with a few exceptions.

Several visitors were present.

An interesting talk was made by Mr. H. E. Reynolds, for the good of the order.

Hereafter the Society will meet every week on Friday evening.

Our society still continues to grow in numbers, and the interest still remains unabated.

A very interesting program has been arranged for the next meeting, and we hope to have a large attendance.

Visitors will be at all times gladly welcomed to our meetings.

The Society will meet on next Friday evening at the residence of Mr. J. W. Johnston.

The Starlight Minstrels.

On last Tuesday evening we wended our way to Wilsonville to witness a performance of the Starlight minstrel troupe. We arrived in due time and were pleasantly entertained by friends until the performance began, and when we arrived at the hall we found that good seats had been reserved for ourself and party, for which we were very grateful, as the house was crowded.

The show was a good one, surpassing many more pretentious troupes of that class.

While all the performers were good those who assumed the difficult parts were especially good and deserve special mention.

Messrs. Ed Cosper and Walter McGowan filled the roles of end men very creditably, their jokes and witty sayings being new and appropriate to the times, and provoked rounds of applause.

Ed Williams filled the part of interlocutor in such a manner as to lead one to think that was his business.

The song by Will Smith was well rendered and received a favorable encore at the hands of the audience.

Last, but not least by any means, was Charlie Arnold, who, with his comical make-up, was the principal fun-maker of the evening. He exhibited some genuine talent for the minstrelsy, and a short training with a professional troupe would make a first-class comedian of him.

But all did exceedingly well, there being no prompting necessary, no long waits, nothing said or done to offend the most critical, in short it was a performance that could be seen without anything to mar one's pleasure.

We again thank the troupe for their kindness to ourself and party, and especially to Mr. J. H. Welden, who so kindly took us under his protecting care and housed us for the night, do we return our sincere thanks.

The troupe exhibits at Childersburg tomorrow (Friday) night, and we bespeak for them a crowded house.

We hope to be able to announce a date for them at Columbiana in the near future, when we feel assured they will receive a rousing reception.

RESOLUTIONS OF REGRET

On the Removal of Rev. T. M. Wilson from Montevallo to Columbiana.

MONTEVALLO, ALA., Jan. 23, '95.
For the Shelby Chronicle.

WHEREAS the Rev. T. M. Wilson has been called to labor in another part of the Master's field we, the Montevallo Christian Endeavor Society, are thereby deprived of his valuable services and companionship, and also of that of his two daughters, Misses Emma and Lula, we do hereby as a small token of our regard and Christian love, RESOLVE, That while we fully realize and regret the loss of their valuable services to the Montevallo Christian Endeavor Society, we know they will always be found laboring in the Master's field wherever they may go. And in their removal each and all of us feel a personal loss.

THAT we do sincerely recommend them to all C. E's and other christian people as worthy their love and confidence and as faithful Endeavorers.

THAT they have the best wishes and prayers of this Society both collectively and invividually.

THAT a copy of these resolutions be spread on the minutes, and also one sent to the family and one to The Shelby Chronicle for publication.

How a Great Story Was Written.

The history of any great and successful undertaking is always interesting, therefore, at the risk of being accused of violating personal confidence, we tell our readers of the origin of a famous story of the late war. The publishers of the Chicago Ledger wanted a story which, besides being a love story of great merit, should vividly describe the thrilling events of the battle of Gettysburg and the siege of Richmond. One after another failed in the work, and at last the famous St. George Rathburne was approached on the subject. He demanded a fabulous price for the work, but it was paid, and the story was actually written to order. It is, however, printed under the pen name of "Hugh Allen." It is declared by critics, who have been shown the advanced sheets, to be the best story of the war ever written. The first installment of it appeared in No. 3, Vol. XXIII, of the Ledger, and at once attracted the greatest attention. A private letter from the editor informs us that, in order to reach all classes of people, the publishers of the Ledger will mail the opening chapters of the story free of charge to all who send in their names at once. The Ledger is a great paper, and each week gives story matter enough to make a dollar book.

Woman to the Rescue.

The above is the subject selected by T. K. Roberts for a lecture to be delivered Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, to the lady members of the Christian Endeavor Society, at the Methodist church. This lecture will undoubtedly prove highly interesting and instructive, and we hope every lady member will be present. The male members of said society will meet in the Presbyterian church at the same hour. Every member of both sexes are earnestly requested to be present.

Mrs. I. W. Bailey, of Calera, has been visiting her father's family in Columbiana for a few days, returning home Sunday afternoon.

CIGARETTES AND THE TEETH.

A Dentist Says the Nerves In Them Are Killed by Nicotine Poisoning.

"There is one bad result of constant cigarette smoking that very few people know anything about," said a Brooklyn dentist. "The result itself has been apparent to me and to all dentists for a long time, but the cause has been a mystery until very recently. For years the nerve of teeth in every other way perfect has been found dead. A careful examination of a dead nerve found in an unexposed tooth recently revealed the fact that it had been poisoned by nicotine, and thereby the mystery referred to was solved. Nicotine poisoning from cigarette smoking is killing the nerves in the teeth of smokers. It is a most serious state of affairs, although most people will not understand. They think a dead tooth is as good as a live one. They will find their mistake some day.

"A young woman whom I have known for some time came here the other day and wanted a tooth attended to. I worked on the tooth some time, and some of the instruments I used should have made her scream a little bit. But she never made a sound, and I naturally concluded that the nerve of the tooth was dead. It surprised me because the tooth was a good one and the nerve unexposed. Well, I extracted the nerve, and the minute I saw it I knew what was the trouble.

"'Do you want a live nerve left in your head?,' I asked.

"'Why, of course,' she replied.

"'Then stop smoking cigarettes,' I said.

"'Why, doctor, what do you mean?' she began. Then she put on a great show of indignation.

"'My dear young lady,' I said 'what's the use of talking so? I'm a dental surgeon and know a thing when I see it. You have been smoking cigarettes for a long time, and my advice was given in a perfectly friendly spirit. Well, she collapsed then, acknowledged the truth of what I had said, and that ended it. I don't think that cigarette smokers figure this result of nicotine poisoning in with the many other injurious effects of the weed, but to my mind it is the most dangerous of all."—New York Sun.

Four at a Birth.

Dr. W. S. Gramling, of Flomaton, was present when a lady in that neighborhood gave birth to four children. Dr. Gramling said two of the children lived only a few minutes after birth, and the other two were dead when born. They were all of good size and well formed. The mother, a Mrs. Toiler, was a delicate looking woman, but survived the ordeal, and when he left was doing well. This is a very rare occurrence; only a few physicians ever have an opportunity of witnessing it in a lifetime of practice.—Greenville Advocate.

The young women sent out as wives for the Virginia colonists in 1620 brought from 120 to 160 pounds of tobacco apiece, the tobacco being worth 3 shillings a pound.

JUST TEN YEARS

Since a Remarkable Happening.

An Interesting Interview With a Prominent Commercial Traveller.

The newsgatherer on his daily search for items of interest often comes across happenings of more than passing note. It was during a recent conversation wth Mr. A. H. Cransby, the well-known commercial traveller, with the Cochran Lumber Company, that a reporter of the Commercial learned of a wonderful case. Mr. Cransby is well known in Memphis and surrounding country, and now resides at 158 Kerr street.

"Just ten years ago," said he, "my wife noticed a small lump in her breast. She thought nothing of it, but it increased in size rapidly, and soon broke through the skin, and commenced to discharge. She was put under treatment of the best physicians, but they very soon found that they could do her no good, and simply prescribed antiseptics to keep the place clean. Both her grandmother and aunt, by the way, had died with cancer, and when apprised of this fact, the doctors told me that they would not attempt to save her; that she was incurable. Although the cancer had by this time become deep seated, and her health very low, I had one of the most noted specialists of New York to treat her. After treating her awhile, this doctor admitted that the case was hopeless and further treatment useless. It is difficult to imagine how despondent we all became, knowing that she must die, and unable to give her any relief. I had spent over five hundred dollars with the best medical skill to be had, and felt that there was no further hope.

"One day I happened to read an advertisement of S. S. S., recommending that remedy for cancer, and in view of the failure of the most eminent physicians in the country, I confess I had little faith left in any human agency. However, I purchased a bottle of S. S. S., and to my delight, it seemed to benefit her; after she had taken a couple of bottles, the cancer began to heal, and astonishing as it may seem, a few bottles more cured her entirely. You can probably better understand how remarkable this cure was, when I explain that the cancer had eaten two holes in the breast two inches deep. These healed up entirely, and although ten years have elapsed, not a sign of the disease has ever returned, and we are assured of the permanence of the cure, which we at first doubted.

"I certainly regard S. S. S. as the most wonderful remedy in the world, and it is truly a God-send to those afflicted with this terrible disease. Yes sir," he concluded, "you may be sure that I shall always be grateful to that remedy, for without it my home would now be desolate and my children motherless."—Memphis, Tenn., Commercial.

The Greatest Medical Discovery of the Age.

KENNEDY'S MEDICAL DISCOVERY.

DONALD KENNEDY, of ROXBURY, MASS.,

Has discovered in one of our common pasture weeds a remedy that cures every kind of Humor, from the worst Scrofula down to a common Pimple.

He has tried it in over eleven hundred cases, and never failed except in two cases (both thunder humor.) He has now in his possession over two hundred certificates of its value, all within twenty miles of Boston. Send postal card for book.

A benefit is always experienced from the first bottle, and a perfect cure is warranted when the right quantity is taken.

When the lungs are affected it causes shooting pains, like needles passing through them; the same with the Liver or Bowels. This is caused by the ducts being stopped, and always disappears in a week after taking it. Read the label.

If the stomach is foul or bilious it will cause squeamish feelings at first.

No change of diet ever necessary. Eat the best you can get, and enough of it. Dose, one tablespoonful in water at bedtime. Sold by all Druggists.

LINGERIE FOR THE SEASON.

The Smallest Sum for Which One Can Be Daintily and Comfortably Clad.

It is the theory of gentlewomen of the old school that the woman of refined instinct will display a nun-like austerity in her outer garments, provided that she may thereby be as dainty as she pleases as regards underwear, rather than vice versa. And it is certainly true that women who have no temptations to spend money at the silk and lace counters find it very difficult to pass the underwear department without buying something. But daintiness in underwear consists not so much in having elaborate things as in having a large enough supply to wear fresh ones continually. Even a tolerably poor woman can manage to do this if she will expend enough care and forethought to make up for the little money which she has to spend.

She needs a dozen pair of stockings and six of all other articles of underwear. This will allow for no "reserve" stock, for the dozen pairs of stockings and the other things will be in constant use. Stockings should be changed every day and white underwear every other day.

The most expensive item in this list will be the six union suits. They will cost from $2.50 to $15. The first represents a very fair quality of wool and cotton; warm and unshrinkable, but not fine. The last is a tolerably heavy quality of silk, warm and deliciously soft. Stockings are equally varied in quality and price. At sales it is sometimes possible to get a pair of fine cotton or lisle thread stockings for 33 or 35 cents. Fifty cents will always buy a fair quality of stockings.

Drawers of white muslin, of a good quality, trimmed with little bunches of tucks, cost 40 cents a pair, except at special sales, when they may sometimes be had for 30 cents. White muslin skirts trimmed with tucks and one-tucked ruffle cost 75 cents each. Nightgowns may be bought from 59 cents up. The cheapest corset covers that are worth buying, cost 35 cents. Very good dark skirts, of which every wardrobe should contain at least two, may be had for $1.50 each. If the woman who desires to be daintily clad buys the cheapest sets of underwear, her union suits will cost her $15; her stockings, $2.10; her drawers, $2.40; her corset covers, $2.10; her nightgowns, $3.54; her white skirts, $4.50, and her dark ones $3.00. Besides these she will probably need a pair of equestrian tights, which will add another dollar to the sum total. The whole amount will be $33.64. It is a considerable sum for a girl who earns very little money and a very insignificant one to a woman who wouldn't mind paying as much for a petticoat, But it is the least one can get along with, and it is enough to keep one perfectly fresh and dainty at all times.

Young women who have time and skill buy cambric undergarments made perfectly plain and proceed to make them as frivolous and pretty as possible with embroidery, ribbons and lace. That is certainly the cheapest way of getting dainty underwear.—N. Y. World.

TIGHT SHOES.

The Tendency of Girls to Ill Use Their Feet.

We are very thoughtful about our hands, while we often treat our feet as though we were ashamed of or had a grudge against them, and wished to make them as uncomfortable as possible. Think of the number of girls who, in choosing a pair of shoes, consider the shoes and not the feet! And so they crowd the poor little members into pitiless boots that are too short or too narrow, and must be "broken in," which dreadful phrase simply means that the imprisoned foot must rebel and stretch and strive till it pushes the leather away or subdues the stubborn resistance of seal and sole. A week of torture, and then nature takes her revenge, and Minnie has a corn, and Susie has a bunion, and Laura an ingrowing nail, and all because the boots were not selected according to common sense.

Sometimes a girl insists on wearing a very high-heeled slipper, which tilts her forward and gives her an unbecoming paddling sort of a walk, distressing to herself and absurd in the eyes of her friends. A slipper of that sort is a distortion and very unlovely.

There are feet which can not be properly fitted at the shoe shop. For these a last should be made and every pair of boots fitted individually. This costs more at first, but shoes thus built to order outwear others, and are a comfort from their first to their final day. "As easy as an old shoe" is a proverb, but I like new shoes to be just as easy as old ones.—Harper's Young People.

Capes and Collars.

Many of the Vandyke collarettes on capes for dressy evening wear are made of very delicate fabrics, contrasting with the heavy velvet cloth brocade or repped silk of the wrap itself. Thus, on a green velvet cape that reaches the hips in length is a rich-looking collarette of heavy ecru guipure lace. The cape is lined with yellow moire. A slightly longer cape of claret velvet has a spreading cape collar of accordion-pleat jet net. The fronts are heavily trimmed with jet ornaments and Vandyke points. A black velvet cape is lined with yellow moire, and the fronts, standing collar and collarette are edged with narrow baby ermine fur. These capes are lovely additions to an evening toilet for a ball, reception, or the opera, and if the fabrics are purchased and made up by a competent dressmaker, the cost is trifling compared with the price of the same wrap bought outright.—N. Y. Post.

Laundering Collars and Cuffs.

A word about the laundering of collars and cuffs. It is better, if possible, to have the linen done up at home, as it is then washed clean and it does not receive the high polish in ironing that so many laundries put on—and put on, indeed, over the dirt very often. The cuffs should be ironed flat, so that when the links are put in they will have a flat, oval shape. The points of the cuffs should be sharp. The linen of a well-dressed man never shines. It should be simply a dead white. If one has to send linen to the laundry the laundry people should be told that "polish" is not desired. Almost all laundries, if they are requested to do so, will iron linen with what they call a "domestic finish."—Harper's Bazar.

ACUTE DYSPEPSIA.

Sympathetic Heart Disease Often Attends It.

The Modern Treatment Consists in Removing the Cause.

(From the Republican, Cedar Rapids, Iowa.)

Mrs. V. Curley, who has resided in Clarence, Iowa, for the past twenty-two years, tells an interesting story of what she considers rescue from premature death. Her narrative is as follows:

"For ten years prior to 1894 I was a constant sufferer from acute stomach trouble. I had all the manifold symptoms of acute dyspepsia, and at times other troubles were present in complication—I did not know what it was to enjoy a meal. No matter how careful I might be as to the quality, quantity and preparation of my food, distress always followed eating. I was despondent and blue. Almost to the point of insanity at times, and would have been glad to die. Often and often I could not sleep. Sympathetic heart trouble set in, and time and again I was obliged to call a doctor in the night to relieve sudden attacks of suffocation which would come on without a moment's warning.

My troubles increased as time wore on, and I spent large sums in doctor bills, being compelled to have medical attendants almost constantly. During 1892 and 1893 it was impossible for me to retain food, and water brashes plagued me. I was reduced to a skeleton. A consultation of physicians was unable to determine just what did ail me. The doctors gave us as their opinion that the probable trouble was ulceration of the coats of the stomach, and held out no hope of recovery. One doctor said: "All I can do to relieve your suffering is by the use of opium.

About this time a friend of mine, Mrs. Symantha Smith, of Glidden, Iowa, told me about the case of Mrs. Thurston, of Oxford Junction, Iowa. This lady said she had been afflicted much the same as I had. She had consulted local physicians without relief, and had gone to Davenport for treatment. Giving up all hope of recovery, she was persuaded by a friend to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The result was almost magical.

I was led to try them from her experience, and before many months I felt better than I had for a dozen years. I am now almost free from trouble, and if through some error of diet I feel badly, this splendid remedy sets me right again. I have regained my strength and am once more in my usual flesh. I sleep well and can eat without distress. I have no doubt that I owe my recovery to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I only wish that I had heard of them years ago, thereby saving myself ten years of suffering and much money."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are for sale by all druggists, or may be had by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y., for 50c per box, or six boxes for $2.50.

HOW I MADE $1,200

By not sowing Salzer's seeds! That is what a jolly farmer said as he entered our sanctum. How is that? Why, says he, Salzer's seeds not only grow but they produce enormously. Had I planted a few acres more of his oats, wheat, corn, potatoes, grass and clover seeds, I would have had to double the capacity of my barns; that would have cost me $1,200. It is a fact that if you want big, rousing farm, grass and vegetable crops, you must sow Salzer's seeds. IF YOU WILL CUT THIS OUT AND SEND IT with 7c postage to the John A. Salzer Seed company, La Crosse, Wis., you will get free a sample of GRASS AND CLOVER MIXTURE and their plant and seed catalogue. [K]

THERE is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address, F. J. CHIVALRY UNREWARDED.

The Scaly Trick of a Conscienceless Country Huckster.

It was 7 o'clock one Thursday night. The shades of night had settled over Third street. A few hours before brokers, intent upon turning a handsome deal in stocks or bonds, were rushing madly along the street, and delivery carts and big transfer wagons were rumbling over the stony pavements. All was life and bustle and activity.

But now the street was silent and deserted. Not even the musical cry of a newsboy was heard in the vicinity of the Merchants' exchange. The only sound that shattered the stillness was the lumbering of a solitary huckster's wagon that was bumping its way south over the pavement across Oliver street.

It was a country huckster's two-horse wagon, arched with hickory bows and covered with muslin, and loaded to the guards with a choice assortment of potatoes, eggs, butter, cabbage heads, pecans, chickens, ducks and geese. A brown, curly-haired dog, which was tied to the rear of the wagon with a small chain, trotted along under the hind axle, apparently as contented with the panicky world as the honest, weather-beaten old farmer who held the reins over the horses and urged them on with a friendly "git-ep!"

The silence of the night was disturbed by a sudden crash of broken timbers and butter crocks accompanied by the cackling of chickens and geese, and the loud quacking of ducks. The right hind wheel of the country huckster's wagon had broken down, and the rear end of the wagon bed had fallen with a mighty crash on the stony pavement. The curly-haired dog, with that peculiar quickness of instict given him by nature, knew there was danger above when the crashing first begun, and he jumped backward to the full length of his chain just in time to save his life.

But above the cackling of the geese and chickens and the quacking of the ducks there was heard a pitiful cry like that of a woman. Three or four brave firemen came running over from Engine-house No. 23, near by, and a half dozen belated pedestrians appeared on the scene. The pitiful cry of the woman came from beneath the debris of the broken-down wagon and its load of truck.

"Is that a woman under there?" asked one of the firemen.

"Yes," replied the old huckster, who was highly excited and entirely beside himself.

The brave firemen ran hurriedly to the engine-house and brought over the jack-screws to hoist the wagon and release the poor woman, who was imprisoned beneath the debris of broken wheels and crocks and chicken coops. All this while the pitiful cry could be heard, and the firemen worked with great haste in hoisting the wagon in order to save human life.

In a jiffy the wagon was raised and the debris cleared away, when out hobbled an old gray goose, still squaking and giving that pitiful cry.

"Where's the woman?" asked one of the firemen.

The old huckster, who had now regained his senses and knew what he was saying, replied: "Why, mister, thur ain't no woman under there!"

Then everybody laughed, and the curly-haired dog looked up and wagged its tail.

The firemen carried their jackscrews and a fit of disgust back to the engine-house. Each one is still wondering if that old huckster is "nobody's geese."—St. Louis Republic.

QUEER PISCATORIAL FACTS.

Ohio's Troutless Streams---Dainty Muskellunge---Pickerel That Burrow.

A singular fact in connection with distribution of fish is that no stream flowing northward into Lake Erie from Ohio have brook trout in them naturally, and only one has been artificially, said a pisciculturist recently. "All of the Michigan streams emptying into Lake Erie have trout in them. There are two St. Joseph's rivers in Michigan, one entirely in the state and the other having its head waters there. The two streams rise in the same hills, almost within a stone's throw of one another. One flows westward through the state and has an abundance of trout in its upper waters. The other flows south into Ohio, and its waters reach Lake Erie through connection with the Maumee river. There are no trout in it and it is the only stream in Michigan that has no trout. Coscalia creek, in northern Ohio, is the one stream in that state in which there are brook trout. This creek is the outlet to a vast spring or lake which, nearly a century ago, appeared on a farm in that part of the state in a single night. The trout the creek now contains are the result of artificial stocking, which was done a few years ago. They have thrived amazingly, but only under the strictest protection and care. The creek is the property of a private fishing club. No member is permitted to fish more than two days a season on the stream, and then only with the fly.

In the Monistique region there is a lake which contains the biggest kind of muskellunge, but the only way they can be taken by the angler is by baiting with brook trout. The big fish disdain anything of less quality than trout. The streams flowing into that lake are alive with trout, and the muskellunge have become so fine in their taste that only the dainty brook trout will satisfy their palates.

There is another lake in that region the fish in which have quite curious ways. Nowhere is that lake more than four feet deep as to water, but it has a tremendous depth of bottom. This bottom or bed is so soft that a twenty-five foot pole thrust down into it has not reached hard pan. The lake is the home of big pickerel, hungry fellows, that bite ravenously at anything. The peculiarity of these fish is that the moment one is hooked it dives into the soft bottom so deep that sometimes it has to be mined out by the fishermen with poles. I have dug these fish out of that queer lake bottom from a depth of four feet. The bed is not mud or mire, but a soft pulpy mass that resembles tapioca pudding more than anything else I can think of.—Chicago Times.

GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY

Many years ago Dr. R. V. Pierce, chief consulting physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., compounded this medicine of vegetable ingredients which had an especial effect upon the stomach and liver, rousing the organs to healthful activity as well as purifying and enriching the blood. By such means the stomach and the nerves are supplied with pure blood; they will not do duty without it any more than a locomotive can run without coal. You can not get a lasting cure of Dyspepsia, or Indigestion, by taking artificially digested foods or pepsin—the stomach must do its own work in its own way. Do not put your nerves to sleep with so-called celery mixtures, it is better to go to the seat of the difficulty and feed the nerve cells on the food they require. Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Biliousness and Nervous Affections, such as sleeplessness and weak, nervous feelings are completely cured by the "Discovery." It puts on healthy flesh, brings refreshing sleep and invigorates the whole system.

MRS. K. HENKE, of No. 896 North Halsted St., Chicago, Ill., writes: "I regard my improvement as simply wonderful. Since taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery in connection with his 'Pleasant Pellets' I have gained in every respect, particularly in flesh and strength. My liver was dreadfully enlarged and I suffered greatly from dyspepsia. No physician could give relief.

Now, after two months I am entirely relieved of my disease. My appetite is excellent; food well digested; bowels regular and sleep much improved."

VOICE OF THE WOMEN

A Parliamentary Order of Things in the Suffrage Convention.

DR. ANNA SHAW UPON HAWTHORNISM.

The Female Divine Classed the Distinguished Baptist as Beneath the Notice of the Convention—Routine Work of the Body.

ATLANTA, February 2.—In calling the Woman's Suffrage convention to order yesterday morning, Miss Anthony used a gavel that was made from a piece of wood that grew on the homestead of George Washington at Mount Vernon. She called attention to this fact and stated that the yellow ribbon attached to the gavel signified wisdom, a virtue that was deficient in American congress. Two or three interesting reports were read, one from the corresponding secretary and one from the treasurer. The treasurer's report showed that $8,825 had been put into the treasury during the past year.

An invitation was extended to the delegates by Mrs. W. A. Hemphill to meet the ladies of the Woman's department of the Cotton States and International exposition at her residence Saturday afternoon between the hours of five and seven o'clock. This invitation was unanimously accepted.

Dr. Anna Shaw Creates a Sensation.

Dr. Shaw created a sensation by stating that she considered the criticism of Dr. Hawthorne beneath the notice of the convention since he refused to give any reason for his attack upon a body of strangers. Her speech created intense enthusiasm and seemed to voice the spirit of the convention.

A telegram was received from the editor of the Idaho Statesman notifying the convention that the Idaho legislature had passed a bill submitting the right of woman suffrage to a vote of the people.

In the afternoon Mrs. Mary G. Hay, the chairman of the committee on railroad rates, requested all the delegates to sign the slips that were given to them in order that she might certify as to their attendance on the convention.

Miss Clay, of Kentucky, and Mrs. Meriwether, of Tennessee, read interesting reports of the suffrage work in the south and in the state of Tennessee, respectively.

Studying the Science of Government.

In behalf of the committee appointed to suggest a plan of work for the year, Mrs. Chapman Catt submitted a report to which the appointment of a standing committee on organization was recommended. The committee shall have power to organize suffrage movements in the various parts of the country, and $5,000 was the sum of money specified for their use during the year. A course of study in the science of government was recommended, to be conducted on the chautauqua plan. The report of the committee was unanimously adopted.

Then followed a collection to raise the needed sum of money. In the course of only a few minutes nearly $2,000 was subscribed. The remainder can be easily raised among the suffragists so-called throughout the country.

ALL THE GOVERNORS INVITED.

From Every State to Participate in the Chickamauga Military Park Dedication.

WASHINGTON, February 2.—Secretary Lamont, in pursuance of the Act of Congress providing for the dedication of the Chickamauga Military park has addressed an invitations to the governors of all the states being the first event of a military character connected with the war to which the governors of all the states have been invited. The invitation reads:

"Under an Act of Congress approved December 15, 1894, it is provided that the dedication of the Chickamanga and Chattanooga National Military Park shall take place at Chickamauga, Ga., and Chattanooga, Tenn., the 19th and 20th of September next, and that the secretary of war shall invite the governors of state and their staffs, and the survivors of the several armies engaged in the battles of Chickamauga and Chattanooga to participate in the inauguration ceremonies.

"I have therefore, the honor to request your presence and that of your staff, together with such further representation from your state as the Legislature thereof may see fit to authorize, at such dedication. No appropriation has been made by congress for paying the expenses of state representatives. It is hoped however, that the state will make early provision for a large attendance of its citizens at this national dedication."

Secretary Lamont also addressed a letter to Speaker Crisp requesting the participation of congress in the ceremonies.

THE HOUSE BILL THE SAFEST.

The Nicaragua Canal Bill First Reported by the Commerce Committee.

WASHINGTON, February 2.—The house commerce committee yesterday adopted a resolution that the Nicaragua canal bill previously reported from that committee be adopted by the house as a substitute for the bill which passed the senate last week. The debate attending the consideration of the resolution was brief, and the generally expressed sentiment of the committee was that the house bill is a safer bill; that it is more carefully guarded in detail, and that it only gives the Maritime company $5,500,000 in stock as against $11,500,000 in the senate bill.

The Steamship Kingdom Apparently Lost.

CHARLESTON, S. C., February 2.—Street Brothers, consignees of the steamship Kingdom, which is reported missing, state that they have heard nothing of the vessel. The Kingdom sailed from Hamburg with a cargo of kanit for Charleston. She put in for coal at Shields, which place she left forty-one days ago.

For Dry Dock and Naval Station.

WASHINGTON, February 2.—Mr. Mallory, of Florida, introduced in the house yesterday a bill appropriating $1,050,000 for the establishment of a dry dock and naval repair station on the government reservation of the Island of Key West, Florida.

BOOKS AND RECORDS LOCKED.

Sensational State of Affairs in the Whiskey Trust Matter at Peoria.

PEORIA, Ill., February 2.—All the books and records of the whiskey trust are locked up in the company's vault in the office here and the man who holds the combination is in Chicago. This state of affairs is very likely to land some one in jail and to lead to sensational features when the trust case comes up for hearing in Judge Grosscup's court in Chicago today. Yesterday Judge Grosscup issued an order that any stockholder in the company should be allowed access to the books. When Mr. Bijur, the New York counsel of the majority stockholders, yesterday made formal demand to see the books he was told that they were locked up and that the only man who knew the combination was out of town.

HON. N. H. R. DAWSON DEAD.

One of Alabama's Most Distinguished Citizens Passes Away.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., February 2.—Hon. N. H. R. Dawson died at his home in Selma at an early hour yesterday morning. He had been one of the most distinguished figures in Alabama for many years. He was commissioner of education under Mr. Cleveland's first administration. He had held many positions of trust and honor in this state and was a splendid gentleman of the old school. He was born in Charleston, and was a descendant of General Paul Hamilton, secretary of the navy in 1812 and of several early colonial governors of South Carolina. He was also a brother-in-law of President Lincoln, their wives being sisters.

STAND BY A COUNTRY'S CAUSE.

The Union Labor Men of Mexico Will Spill Their Blood If Need Be.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., February 2.—A City of Mexico special to the Globe-Democrat states that various industrial organizations of that republic and of border points in the United States are making elaborate preparations for an immense demonstration in favor of the Mexican government with its dealings with the Gautemalan question. The fifty or more unions which will take part will be called to order as a congress in that city on February 4th, and their members will be asked to enlist as volunteers to fight for the republic in the event of war with Gautemala.

CRATHIE'S OFFICERS TO BLAME.

The Wholesale Loss of Life in the Elbe Disaster Laid at Their Feet.

PARIS, February 2.—The greater part of Paris newspapers' comments on the loss of the Elbe is unfavorable to the officers and crew of the colliding ship, the Crathie. La Lanterne violently condemns those on board the ship, saying that English seamen are proverbially brutal. The Pugard and La Lanterne both denounce the British captain, remarking that his conduct was just what might have been expected of an English sailor.

BURIED IN BURNING RUINS.

Hospital Fire in Cleveland, Ohio, in Which Four Lives Were Lost.

CLEVELAND, O., February 2.—The Deaconness hospital, on Jennings avenue, South Side was destroyed by fire at noon yesterday and four persons are known to have been burned to death. The bodies of a child, two men and one nurse had been recovered at one o'clock. It was not known at that hour whether there were any more bodies in the building and it will not be known until the roll of the saved ones is called.

SMALLPOX IN TURF CIRCLES.

Race Track at Madison, Ill., Closed on Account of the Malady.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., February 2.—Dr. Julius Kohl, member of the state board of health and Deputy Sheriff England, of Madison county, Ill., yesterday went to Madison, Ill., and closed the race track there, on account of the presence of smallpox. Six weeks ago a jockey brought the contagion to Madison from the Roby track, since when, fifteen cases have developed.

Germany's Donation to the Elbe Sufferers.

BERLIN, February 2.—A committee who formed yesterday with Dr. von Boetticicher, imperial Minister of the Interior, as president, to appeal to the public for funds for the relief of the families, and other dependants of the Elbe disaster.

Ex-President Putnam Sentenced.

CONCORD, N. H., February 2.—In the United States Circuit Court yesterday afternoon Judge Aldrich sentenced Warren F. Putnan, convicted on two counts of embezzling funds of the National Granite State bank, of Exeter, while its president, to five years in the state prison at Concord.

No Election Yet in Delaware.

DOVER, Del., February 2.—Three additional ballots for United States senator were taken by the legislature yesterday and all resulted thus: Higgins, 9; Addicks, Massey, 4; Walcott, democrat, 6; John R. Nicholson, democrat, 2; Tunnell, democrat, 1; absent 2.

Another Wall Street Failure.

NEW YORK, February 2.—The failure of Brouwer and McGown, of No. 2 Wall street has been announced to the stock exchange. Brouwer has been a member of the stock exchange since 1881. The firm was heavily interested in the New York and Perry coal company.

Cotton Declines Several Points.

NEW YORK, February 2.—The Sun's cotton review says: Cotton declined 5 to 6 points and closed steady, with sales of 97,000 bales. Liverpool declined ½ point and closed barely steady, spot sales were 7,000 bales at unchanged prices. Manchester was dull.

Appointments Among Southern Attorneys.

WASHINGTON, February 2.—The president yesterday nominated Holmes Conrad, of Virginia, to be solicitor general, J. M. Dickinson, of Tennessee, to be assistant attorney general.

WILL LOOK TO KOLB

Attorneys for Byars Will Ask Him for Executive Clemency.

SHERIFF WILL RECOGNIZE ONLY OATES

The Matter Promises to Develop a Sensation in Alabama, and Bring About a Contest of the Gubernatorial Election In That State.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., February 2.—The attorneys of Eugene Byars, who is under sentence to hang on the 8th of this month will petition Captain Kolb to pardon him. Governor Oates has declined to interfere. Captain Kolb claims that he was elected governor last August, and has addressed two messages to the legislature. If he signs a pardon, the sheriff will ignore it, then the attorneys will go before one of the judges and sue out a writ of habeas corpus. If the judge declines to grant it an appeal will be taken to the supreme court.

There, the friends of Captain Kolb think the election of last August will be investigated and he will get what he has been demanding—a contest of the election.

Sheriff Morros says he will hang Byars unless Governor Oates interferes.

HAWAII THE CAUSE OF IT ALL.

Story of the Personal Encounter Between Breckinridge and Heard.

WASHINGTON, February 2.—The personal collission between Representatives Breckinridge, of Kentucky, and Heard, of Missouri, on the floor of the house yesterday, continues to be the sensation in legislative circles.

Hawaii, which has been the occasion of some of the most tumultuou scenes in the fifty-third congress, was the indirect cause of the altercation, surpassing in sensational features anything seen on the floor of the house for years. It was brought about by an effort by Mr. Heard to cut off debate on a resolution reported from the committee on foreign affairs by Mr. Hitt, republican of Illinois, asking information respecting the connection of British subjects with the recent attempted revolution in Hawaii, at a time when Mr. Breckinridge was attempting to get the floor to speak on the resolution. Mr. Heard was anxious to proceed with the consideration the District of Columbia business, for which the day had been set apart, and demanded the previous question. Mr. Breckinridge went over to Mr. Heard's seat and was seen to engage in a heated conversation with him of which only the words "liar" and "scoundrel" could be heard more than a few feet. Then the burly and venerable looking Kentuckian was seen to lunge forward to strike Mr. Heard, but several members threw themselves upon him, and prevented a collission by a severe struggle. Both gentlemen were ordered under arrest by the speaker and appeared later at the bar of the house where they made explanations which ended the incident for the time being. Mr. Heard's statement was not satisfactory to Mr. Breckinridge and common friends undertook to adjust the difficulty. The result of their labors was shown later in the day when Mr. Heard rose and stated that his friends were of the opinion that he had not withdrawn the language offensive to Mr. Breckinridge after that gentleman had disclaimed the language which gave him (Heard) offense; he would then do so, saying he had intended to do so in the first instance, Thereupon, Mr. Breckinridge expressed his satisfaction, renewed his apologies to the house for the scene and begged the pardon of all concerned.

The whole matter was, upon the motion of Mr. Goodnight, democrat of Kentucky, ordered to be omitted from the record.

THE DEBT STATEMENT OUT.

Showing Net Increase in Public Debt Less Cash in the Treasury.

WASHINGTON, February 2.—The debt statement issured yesterday afternoon shows a net increase in the public debt less cash in the treasury during January of $13,542,673 The interest bearing debt increased $5,155,172. The non-interest bearing debt decreased $314,-172. and the cash in the treasury decreased $8,734,275. The balances of the several classes of debt at the close of business January 31, were: Interest-bearing debt, $684,323,710; debt on which interest has increased since maturity, $1,792,490; debt bearing no interest, $382,933,173. Total, $1,069,049,-573. The certificates and treasury notes offset by an equal amount of cash in the treasury outstanding at the end of the month were $578,777,914, a decrease of $11,356,190. The total cash in the treasury was $761,470,332. The gold reserve was $44,705,967. Net cash balance, $99,897,337.

THE DECREASE IN FAILURES.

Dun & Co's. Report for the Week and Year and Comparisons.

R. G. Dun & Co., in their report of trade for the week says:

Failures during the month of January have been much less important than were apprehended and aggregate liabilities for twenty-four days have been $10,685,060, against $25,811,-340 last year, only $2,479,193 being of manufacturing concerns, against $9,124,562 last year, and $8,165,267 being trading concerns, against $14,758,263 last year. The heavy decrease, particularly in manufactures, will attract attention. Failures in the past week have been 354 in the United States, against 370 last week and 32 in Canada against 52 last week.

The Seaboard Wreck Near Auburn.

ATLANTA, February 2.—A bad wreck occurred on the Seaboard Air Line near Auburn, Ga., Thursday night. A freight train jumped the track and thirty cars were demolished. The fireman was painfully but not fatally hurt.

The Death of Michael Kelly.

CHARLESTON, S. C., February 2.—Michael Kelly, a prominent iron manufacturer of this city died suddenly last night from a hemorrhage of the lungs. His remains will be taken to New York for interment.

WHY MAXWELL QUIT OLNEY.

The Disruption Leading to the Resignation of the Solicitor General.

WASHINGTON February 2.—Solicitor General Maxwell, of the department of justice, has left the city, previously tendering his resignation to the president. Attorney General Olney yesterday politely declined to either affirm or deny the report. It is well understood, however, that the resignation of Mr. Maxwell was brought about by a personal and official disagreement concerning the income tax cases now pending in the United States supreme court. A motion to advance the cases so as to bring the constitutionality of the tax before the supreme court immediately on Monday last by Mr. Bristow, counsel for the plaintiffs and acquiesced in by Mr. Maxwell on behalf of the United States, is said to have been the immediate cause of disagreement. But all persons so far assigned for the disagreement come either directly or indirectly from Mr. Maxwell or his friends, as Attorney General Olney declines absolutely to discuss the question.

HANDLE MOSTLY IN NEW YORK.

None But the Rothschilds and Morgans Will Take Any United States Fours.

LONDON, February 2.—Renewed representations in behalf of the United States government have been made to prominent London financiers that a bill would be brought in for a satisfactory arrangement of the currency as soon as possible after the assembling of the next congress. In the meantime, it was represented that the government could only issue four per cent bonds, of which, a large portion would be taken in New York. London houses have promised to take part of the bonds issued, but to a much less amount than will be taken in the United States, which the United States agents said that they expected would amount to about $25,000,000. It is stated that the firms in London which have agreed to to take the bonds are the Rothchilds, Morgans and Raphaels.

PROGRESS OF EASTERN WAR.

The Enemy in the Vicinity of Ying Kow Exceeds Twenty Thousand.

LONDON, February 2.—A dispatch from Tokio to the Central News says: General Negi reports from Kalping under date of January 31, that the enemy in the vicinity of Ying Kow exceeds 20,000 men. Scouts report that the Chinese have occupied Laoyabio. The enemy west of that place is gradually advancing southward. Advices from Hai Cheng report that there are no Chinese troops on the New Chwang road, and reports have also been received by General Nogi that all is quiet at Feng Whung.

AGAINST THE TROLLEY LINES.

Presentment Handed Down by the Grand Jury of Kings County.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., February 2.—The grand jury of Kings county handed in a presentment against the trolley lines yesterday in the court of sessions. The alarming increase of accidents since trolley cars took the place of horse cars is noted and the following recommendations are made;

That the schedule be changed so that the cars will be run at legal speed: that they go no faster than eight miles an hour; that the passengers be prohibited from riding on the front platforms; that speed indicators be placed on every trolley car and kept in plain view; that the executive officers of the road be condemned for violating the speed law.

ENVOYS READY FOR BUSINES.

Japan's Representatives in the Peace Negotiations Now Appointed.

LONDON, February 2.—A dispatch to the Central News says that the Chinese peace envoys were received by Premier Ito at the offices of the prefecture yesterday. Viscount Mutsu, minister of foreign affairs, and the official of the foreign office, were present and examined the credentials of the envoys and members of their suite. Beside the envoy only two Chinese councillors and two interpreters will be admitted to the conferences. The Japanese government has appointed Premier Ito and Viscount Mustu as representatives of Japan in the peace negotiations.

TURN IN THE TIDE OF GOLD.

First Day in Several Weeks That the Treasury Made a Gain.

WASHINGTON, February 2.—A turn in the tide of gold exports occurred yesterday and for the first day in several weeks the treasury gained instead of lost gold. The net gain for the day was slight, being only $545,500, but it increased the reserve to $42,915,467. This increase was brought about by the return of $1,800,000 in gold to the New York sub-treasury by exporters and bankers who had taken it out earlier in the week. The withdrawal, however, continued on a diminished scale, amounting for the day to $1,257,500.

SENATOR WILSON, OF SPOKANE.

The Congressman Now Elected to a Seat in the Senate From Washington.

OLYMPIA, Wash., February 2.—The action of the republican caucus last night was formally ratified in joint session of the legislature today, Congressman John L. Wilson, of Spokane, being elected United States senator to fill the vacancy caused by the failure to elect a successor to John B. Allen two years ago. The vote stood: Wilson, republican 80; J. H. Wescott, populist 24.

Snow Throughout the South.

WASHINGTON, February 2.—Forecast: For Tennessee, snow flurrie followed by fair except snow flurries in east portion cold wave, northwest to north gales. For Georgia, rain, turning to snow in northern portion, colder with a cold wave in northern portion, northeast winds. For Alabama, rain, clearing in the interior, cold wave, north winds.

The Central Reorganization Off.

SAVANNAH, Ga., February 2.—News has just been received here to the effect that the proposed reorganization plan of the Central railroad has fallen through.

TELLER ALSO TALKS

The Financial Debate Airing the Individual Views.

THE CREDENTIALS SIGNED BY KOLB.

Colonel Reese, Who Claims Election to the United States Senate From Alabama, Before That August Body. Other Congressional News.

WASHINGTON, February 2—The consideration of the District of Columbia appropriation bill by the senate yesterday again involved an interesting financial debate, the principal speaker being Senator Teller, who, referring to Senator Gorman's remarks Thursday, commented rather vigorously upon the assertions of the Maryland senator that there was a treasury deficiency of $100,-000,000 and contrasted them with the president's message saying there was a "comfortable balance" in the treasury. Senator Teller said the surplus was not there, and he thought it was right for the senate to be told by the treasury the truth about the matter.

The financial debate for the day was closed by a short speech from Senator Call, who deprecated the attacks made upon the president and the secretary of the treasury, though he declared himself a believer in the free coinage of silver.

The credentials of Senator Chandler for his second term was presented by his colleague, Senator Gallinger, and placed on file.

The Credentials Signed by Kolb.

Senator Allen presented what he called "the credentials of Warren S. Reese, senator-elect from Alabama," and asked that they be placed on file, after being read.

The paper was read. It consists of a square of parchment on which is written within border lines of red ink the following:

State of Alabama, Executive Department.
This is to certify that on the 28th day of November, in the year of our Lord, 1894, Warren S. Reese was duly elected by the legislature of Alabama a senator to represent said state in the senate of the United States for the term of six years, commencing the 4th day of March, 1895.

Witness, His Excellency, Our Governor, R. F. Kolb, and our seal herewith affixed, at Montgomery, Ala., this 8th day of December, 1894.

(Signed) R. F. KOLB, Governor.
J. C. FINVILL, Secretary of State.

After a lengthy discussion the credentials were laid on the table, there to remain until Senator Allen addresses the senate upon the subject next week.

The Administration Bill.

The new currency bill prepared by the committee on banking and currency was reported by Mr. Springer in the house branch and leave given the minority to file their individual views on the measure. The report accompanying the measure is supplemented by a copy of the president's message, which was read to both houses of congress on 28th ultimo. The report states that the message sets forth clearly and forcibly the seasons for the passage of the bill.

HAD A DEPRESSING EFFECT.

The Uncertainty as to the Outcome of the Financial Situation on Trade.

NEW YORK, February 2.—Bradstreets says:

Special telegrams from many of the more important points of distribution throughout the country make it plain that the uncertainty as to the outcome of the financial situation based on the rapid withdrawals of gold from the treasury, has had a depressing effect on general trade. Mercantile collections at the best are characterized as fairly satisfactory but in most instances are slower than usual at this season. This is emphasized by the fact that Baltimore jobbers are waiting results of sending out bills for last fall's business before determining as to credits to be granted.

In textiles there is little change or prospect of early improvement. General lines of fancy printed fabrics are going from jobbers' hands fairly well, and print cloths are a shade better than a week ago. Every eastern city reporting specifies a moderate volume of business, or that general trade is quiet with a hand to mouth demand. Providence reports a fair outlook for woolen goods manufactures and manufacturing jewelers, but the only line in Philadelphia reporting any like activity is dry goods

At Pittsburg there is encouragement because of the outlook for iron and steel. At the south a better distribution of shoes, clothing, rubber goods and groceries is satisfactorily conspicuous at Chattanooga and Galveston to mark trade at those point an exception to the rule throughout the South Atlantic and Gulf states. The movement of hardware and dry goods from New Orleans has increased but trade in general is of only moderate proportions.

THE SITUATION IN BROOKLYN.

Death From Inexperienced Mortormen. Attempt to Lynch One New Hand.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., February 2.—Yesterday morning a big pole holding twenty-nine feed wires was cut down at Third avenue and Twenty-ninth street, blocking traffic on the road. The pole, when sawed off, in falling threw of the strain of the heavy wires on the iron posts, causing them to sway. Thomas Cassidy, John Murphy and Thomas Brennan, strikers, were arrested, charged with cutting the pole. Samuel Bleachy, twelve years old, while on his way to school yesterday was crushed to death by a trolley car on Nostrand avenue near Butler street. The car became unmanageable and ran the boy down. Motormen Orlando Whorthington, of Syracuse, N. Y., and Conductor Fielding, of Pennsylvania, were arrested. A crowd gathered and tried to lynch the motorman.

Hoffman's Charges Against the Crew.

LONDON, February 2.—Hoffman, who was rescued from the Elbe disaster, was greatly embittered by the loss of his wife and child. He talks continually about it and in each interview makes new charges against the crew of the fated steamer. He charges selfishness in the extreme, and says that those rescued had to rely upon their own experience, receiving no help from the crew.

Field of Appomattox into a National Park.

RICHMOND, Va., February 2.—Lee Camp Confederate veterans last night inaugurated the movement suggested by the Richmond Dispatch, to ask the government to convert the field of Appomattox into a national park.

THE JAPANESE TREATY.

Minister Kurina Has a Conference With Secretary Gresham.

WASHINGTON, February 2.—Mr. Kurino, the Japanese minister, had an interview with Secretary Gresham at the state department yesterday morning in regard to the Japanese treaty, which was ratified Thursday by the senate. Inasmuch as the treaty, as concluded by Mr. Kurino and Secretary Gresham, was amended by the senate, it will be necessary for Mr. Kurino to obtain the sanction of his government to the modification before any further steps can be taken to put the treaty into effect. It is thought there will be little delay on this account, inasmuch as the amendment does not affect any vital point in the instrument, and will probably be accepted by the Japanese government without question.

THE NEWSPAPER MEN OBJECT.

They Protest Against a Clause in the New Medical Bill.

WASHINGTON, February 2.—The publishers of the daily newspapers of this city have sent a protest to the house district committee against that clause of the new medical bill which debars a physician if he advertises his ability to cure disease. The bill places advertising in the same category with criminal offenses, and the newspaper publishers object thereto. There seems to be a disposition on the part of many members of the committee to hold to the opinion that congress has no authority to debar a doctor from practicing because he advertises. It is probable that the objectionable feature will be stricken out of the bill.

BALLEW TO DON THE STRIPES.

Two Years in the Columbus Prison for the Rome Lawyer.

ATLANTA February 2.—A. W. Ballew, of Rome, Ga., who was convicted of pension frauds several months ago, was sentenced to two years of hard labor in the Columbus, O., penitentiary, by Judge Newman yesterday. At the request of Colonel W. C. Glenn, counsel for the defendant, Judge Newman suspended the execution of the sentence for ten days in order that the necessary papers to appeal the case to the supreme court of the United States might be prepared. Ballew gave bond in the amount of $5,000 pending the appeal.

NOT DEAD BUT GOING SOUTH.

Colonel Robert G. Ingersoll Surprised at the Rumor of His Demise.

NEW YORK, February 2.—Rumor yesterday afternoon to the effect that Colonel Robert G. Ingersoll had died suddenly reached the city. Mr. Ingersoll was found at his residence about 2 o'clock and said, when asked as to how he was feeling: "Never better in my life. I am preparing to make a lecture tour in the south and I will leave here Sunday morning. It is a queer thing how rumors of my death spread abroad three times a year. I don't understand it."

WAS A SECOND STEAMER LOST?

Question Whether It Was the Crathie Which Struck the Elbe.

LONDON, February 2.—It is believed by some that the Elbe and the Crathie collisions were separate accidents, and that the boat which really struck the big liner went down when she did. An oar with "Azoria" branded on it has been picked up, but the name is not recognized in shipping circles.

Where Taylor Lost Money.

SEATTLE, Wash., February 2.—W. W. Taylor, the defaulting treasurer of South Dakota, invested $75,000 of his stolen funds in the town of Anacortes, in this state. The investment was made in 1890, when the town was on a boom. The holdings are in the name of another party, and are comparatively worthless.

Professor W. R. Perkins' Death.

HARRISBURG, Pa., February 2.—William Rufus Perkins, professor of history in the Iowa University, is dead at Erie, Pa. He was a professor of Latin and Greek in Cornell University before going to Iowa in 1888. His poem "Elusis" is regarded as a classic by many critics. He was forty-three years old.

Honoring Lincoln's Memory.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., February 2.—The Union league club, of Brooklyn, will give its sixth annual banquet in commemoration of the birthday of Abraham Lincoln, in the assembly room of the club house, on Tuesday evening, February 12.

Ice Strike Ended.

KINGSTON, N. Y., February 2.—The strike among the ice harvesters at Glasco is over, the indoor workers returning to work yesterday morning at the wages offered, $1.75 a day.

Total Loss in the Elbe Disaster.

NEW YORK, February 2.—Two pilots were also aboard the vessel Elbe making 354 persons in all. Of these twenty were saved. Total loss, 334.

No Change in Oregon Voting.

SALEM, Ore., February 2.—The tenth ballot for senator yesterday showed no changes in the situation.

BRIEF NEWS BY TELEGRAPH.

"Cherokee Bill" has been captured in Indian territory.

Large Shipment of Negroes to Mexico to Follow Farming.

IMPORTANT RAILROAD LEGISLATION.

One Brother Shoots Another—Eugene Byars Must Hang—Freight Train Collision Near Hull Station. Other Alabama News.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., January 31.—Another shipment of negroes to Mexico from here took place yesterday afternoon over the Queen and Crescent. They came from this and adjoining counties, and go to Mexico to enter farming persuits. The shipment is the result of the offer of a Mexican colonization company which proposes to transport families there free of charge, with the understanding that each one transported begins farming on the one-half shares, and that a certain sum shall be paid each year until the transportation fee is paid.

The offer is being accepted by many negroes in the rural districts, and the persons working the scheme proposes to take 10,000 from Alabama, Georgia and Mississippi during the next thirty days.

THE ALABAMA LEGISLATURE.

Bill Providing for the Holding of Stockholders Meetings of Railroads Passed.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., January 30.—The house yesterday passed the bill to provide for the calling and holding of stockholders meetings of railroad corporations in certain cases and regulating the voting, election of officers and transaction of other business at such meetings. It had already passed the senate and now goes to the governor for his approval. A hard fight was made on the bill, the opponents making the point that it was intended to permit the Southern railway to gain possession of the Alabama Great Southern road in the face of the fact that the question was now in the courts of the state.

'TWAS TRAGEDY IN REALITY.

One Brother Shoots Another While Playing Amatuer in an Alabama Town.

LAFAYETTE, Ala., January 29.—Saturday Will and Ed Adams, brothers, with their sister, went to Daviston to give a musical entertainment. A feature was a comic scene enacted by the two boys in which a pistol cut a figure. Will Adams drew a pistol, touched the trigger and his brother fell with a ball through the shoulder. He lived until Sunday morning, when death came to his relief. Each of the brothers thought the other had drawn the cartridges.

EUGENE BYARS MUST HANG.

Governor Oates Will Not Interfere in the Celebrated Alabama Case.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., January 30.—Governor Oates has refused to interfere in the case of Eugene Byars, who is under sentence to hang on the 8th of February. Byars murdered his cousin, Eugene Walker, a United States soldier on the 6th of last January. On trial he was sentenced to hang and the supreme court affirmed the finding of the lower court and now Governor Oates refuses to interfere, thus making the execution certain.

THE COLLISION IN ALABAMA.

Two Freight Trains Collide Near Hulls Station—No Fatal Result.

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., January 31.—There was a head-end collision between two freight trains near Hulls Station this morning. Through some mistake the south-bound train failed to receive orders to side-track and the trains met on a curve. The crews of both trains jumped and saved there lives, although several were injured. Both of the engines and twelve cars were demolished and as many more were wrecked.

KILLED BY A DEPUTY.

William Clark Shoots Morris Ball at Silver Run, Alabama.

ANNISTON, Ala., January 30.—At Silver Run, six miles from this city. Constable P. W. Cotton and Deputy William Clark went to the house of Armistead Miller, colored, last night to arrest his son-in-law, Morris Ball, for some offense not ascertained. When the officers approached the house Ball began shooting at Deputy Clark, who returned the fire. Ball was shot twice in the bowels and died in fifteen minutes.

Alabama Woman Killed While in Bed.

HAYNEVILLE, Ala., January 26.—While Emma Bryant was lying in her bed playing with her infant babe, a shot was fired from the outside, killing her instantly. She was married a year ago and lived only two days with her husband. He is held in jail for the murder. Evidence only circumstantial.

Alabama Immigrant Bureau Organized.

JACKSONVILLE, Ala., January 30.—The Alabama immigrant bureau was organized yesterday. General J. W. Burke, president; M. H. Lane, general manager; J. F. Crook, secretary; Geo. P. Ide, treasurer. Advisory board, T. W. Ayres, S. D. C. Brothers, James Crow, Jos. D. Arnold, S. F. Crook.

THE * CHRONICLE.

COLUMBIANA, FEB. 7, 1895.

THE Southern Pacific Express train was "held up" last Thursday night by five masked men and robbed of ten thousand dollars in cash.

LET every farmer in the South make this his motto: Raise at home everything needed as a provision crop and reduce the cotton acreage.

WARD McALLISTER, the leader of New York's four hundred, died Thursday evening, Jan. 31st. He was a native of Savannah, Ga., and was 64 years of age.

A NORTHERN immigration agent says he has the names of 4,000 people on his books who wish to move South. If the agent is wise, and desires to work for the interest of his clients, he will advise them to come to Alabama.

ALL of the leaders of the recent rebellion in Hawaii have been arrested and are being courtmartialed. Three of them pleaded guilty of high treason. Ex-Queen Lilioukalani has been arrested, charged with complicity with the insurgents.

WE are heartily in favor of the bill recently introduced in the legislature providing for holding our state and federal elections in November. As it is, we have too much politics, and we favor any measure that promises more peace and less strife. By all means let's have all our elections in November.

THE white-winged doves of peace are circulating over Mexico and Guatamala, and negotiations are pending which gives rise to strong hopes of a pacific settlement of the difficulties. The president of the Mexican republic says his country does not want war but peace, and he is using every effort to bring about that result.

NEGROES are colonizing in large numbers in Mexico. A party of 300 from Birmingham arrived in New Orleans last Sunday evening on their way to Mexico, where a colonization company has secured large concessions of the Mexican government, on the Maprino river. This is the first installment of 10,000 who will leave the South soon. The negroes will be employed in raising coffee.

THE Sultan of Turkey has issued an order prohibiting newspaper reporters from entering Armenia while the commission is sitting to investigate the atrocities there committed. His excuse is that he does not want the commission influenced by false newspaper reports, but the real truth is he wishes to keep from the world the awful horror there enacted by Turkish troops against the peaceful Armenians.

A COMPANY has been formed in Stockholm, Sweden, for the purpose of insuring the life-insurance premiums payable to other companies. In other words, by taking the place of a policyholder unable to pay the premium to keep his policy in force, this company will pay it for him, provided he has paid two years' premiums himself. No company like this has yet made its appearance in this country, but there is room for several such companies.

THE first of this week brought to the frozen north the severest cold weather for many years. At St. Paul, Minn., and other points in Minnesota and the Dakotas, the mercury ran down into the forty's below zero, and at Chicago fifteen degrees below zero, while as far south ar St. Louis the Mississippi river was frozen over solid from bank to bank, so that people crossed on the ice by the hundreds, thus saving bridge tolls. There is quite a contrast to our mild, springlike weather, with the thermometer running at a ero.

A BILL has passed the Alabama senate to limit the salary of all state officers to two thousand dollars, excepting the governor, the judges and the chancellors. The Montgomery Advertiser referring to the matter says that would reach the attorney general, superintendent of education and treasure's salaries as at present fixed, all of them getting over that amount. It would also affect the railroad commissioners, who are now getting three thousand dollars a year. The secretary of state and auditor are the only heads of departments who get less than two thousand dollars now, and as these officers are deemed of equal dignity and importance with the others, it is the desire to equalize and even up the salaries that has prompted the senate to pass the measure.

THE following from the Age-Herald in regard to the Confederate memorial building is right to the point and meets our views exactly, and we hearity endorse it: "The Confederate memorial building should be located in Birmingham. This is the central spot of the South, easily accessible, and is the home of many ex-Confederates. It is of the New South—as well as of the old. Without being the scene of a battle, it is the heir of all the battles of the war. Without being hallowed by sacred memories, it is the custodian of all those tender memories. Every city in the South will compete for the honor of having this Confederate memorial, and each will show the scars and wounds of war. All cannot get the memorial, but all can unite on Birmingham without adding to the glory of a rival. Doubtless the ex-Confederate veterans who were entertained at their reunion in this city last year will, with one accord vote for Birmingham."

THE RAILROAD COMMISSION.

The terms of two members of the railroad commission expires in a few days, and it is incumbent upon Gov. Oates to appoint their successors. The Governor is a just and fearless man and his opinion that North Alabama should be represented on the commission will not be changed by petty influences or personal friendships. The north part of the state has not been represented on the commission for years, and as it is now largely interested in railroad matters, should have a representative on the commission. Birmingham has a candidate for one of the positions in the person of Mr. Ross C. Smith. Mr. Smith should receive the appointment, as he is indorsed by the leading business men of Birmingham and has been declared the preference of all who recognize sterling merit in a representative man. Then, too, Birmingham is the largest railroad center in this state, and is so situated as to bring other railroad towns, such as Decatur, Huntsville, etc., in easy distance, in case the commissioners' presence was needed on short notice. We sincerely hope that Gov. Oates may see his way clear to appoint Mr. Smith and thus do justice to North Alabama and honor himself.

RATHER HOGGISH.

A bill has recently been introduced in the legislature by Representative Johns, of Jefferson county, the object of which is to cut off Bridgeton beat from this and add it to Jefferson county. We are informed that the people of said beat are anxious for the change, and that a petition to that effect, signed by almost every resident of the beat was sent Mr. Johns. We dislike to have Shelby dismembered in order to add to Jefferson's wealth and population, especially just at this time. Only about two weeks since a bridge was completed over Cahaba river, at a cost of $5,000, of which Shelby county paid $1,500. If Mr. John's bill passes, we will not only give Jefferson county one of our best beats, but we will actually pay our sister county a bonus of $1,500 to rob us. It will be remembered that only a few years since Acton (beat 5) was cut off from this and added to Jefferson, and now they have the supreme gall to ask us to give them another beat and we suppose the bonus will be taken in the way of perquisites. What does Jefferson want, anyway? Does she want the earth, or only that portion of it that "jines hern." Why not bring the line down a little lower and take in Calera? Then, possibly, we might get a rest on the court house question. And while they are at it why not make a good job of it and be done by taking in all of Shelby county known as Cahaba Valley? Then a small slice off of Bibb and one or two other adjoining counties would make a very respectible sized county of Jefferson. But then our neighbor is very modest. She took beat 5 first, now she wants Bridgton beat, and a few years later she will take Cahaba Valley, provided she can get another bridge bonus.

SINKING OF THE STEAMER ELBE.

The sinking of the steamer Elbe was a terrible catastrophe and it will take much inquiry before the blame can be fixed. The officers of the Elbe may have done all in their power to save the passengers, but it is not creditable to the crew that out of nineteen people saved, but three were passengers and only one of them a woman, she being picked up by the life-boat after it had cleared the vessel. Self-preservation is the first law of nature, but the training given to English and American seamen has been to give this first thought to those who have placed themselves under their care as passengers. But the Elbe being manned by Germans, it would look as though German seamen received altogether a different training. There have been many cases of acts of heroism recorded on just such occasions as this, but the records of this disaster tell no such story to place to the credit of the sailors of the Elbe, among the heroes of the sea.

The first boat cut loose from the Elbe and the only one that saved any lives carried the third officer, who was on duty at the time of the accident, and fifteen seaman, but only three passengers women and children were left on the fated ship; one boy being dragged from his place in a boat by a sailor, who took his place. It seems to have been a fight for life, where those who should have been bravest were the most selfish and most successful in making their escape from the sinking ship. It is not a mark of heroism for the officers on duty to be among the first to take advantage of the means of safety; rather it was an exhibition of selfish cowardice seldom witnessed in this age of the world. Who and where were the heroes of the Elbe who stood at their posts and went down with the ship?

Her Dig.

I've heard about the mean things woman can pleasantly say to each other but could scarcely keep my countenance when listening to two of my sex parrying verbal hatefulness the other day.

"There comes Ida Comstock," said my companion.

"Friend of yours?" I inquired.

"Oh, we pretend to be!" was the reply, "but she's a cat and she'll give me a dig before we part."

"Well, you are prepared for her at any rate," thought I but said nothing. Up floated Miss Comstock.

"Sweet day; so glad to see you," and all the rest of it. While prolonging her good-by she remarked smilingly:

"What an awful swell you are! that's such a pretty dress! that color used to be so fashionable."—N. Y. Recorder.

COLUMBIANA'S OPPORTUNITY.

On Monday, January 28th, the citizens of Jacksonville, Calhoun county, this state, met and organized a state immigration bureau, the object of which is to bring the state of Alabama before the people of New England and the Northwest as the most inviting field to those who are seeking homes and investments in the South. The Alabama Immigration Bureau was the name selected and the following officers were elected: Gen. J. W. Burke, president; Dr. M. H. Lane, general manager; George P. Ide, treasurer; J. F. Crook, secretary. Advisory Board—S. D. G. Brothers, James Crow, T. W. Ayers, Joseph J. Arnold and E. F. Crook.

Arrangements were made to have each county in the state represented by a statement of its advantages and resources, with a complete list of what property may be offered for sale in the respective counties, and each county is strongly urged to become a member of the bureau and to lend its aid in furthering the object for which it was created.

Now here is a splendid opportunity for Columbiana to let herself be known and for Shelby county's many advantages to be heralded to the world at a nominal expense. Let a mass meeting of our citizens be called and steps taken, and taken immediately, to secure some of the prizes that are dropping all around us.

Shelby county has many natural advantages for the establishment of manufacturing plants, and her farming lands are excellent, being well watered and with plenty of good timber, so it matters not whether it is the farmer or the manufacturer who may desire to settle among us we can suit him.

But there is one thing necessary and must be done, and that will be to extend the right hand of fellowship and good will to all who may come among us, make them feel at home and among friends, and not show a jealous disposition should they be more successful in business than we have been, and show to them that the people of the South, and particularly of Shelby county, bid them welcome and needs their aid, and that on them and their prosperity does the prosperity of our glorious Southern country rest.

Now, some one start the ball rolling. Let us act, be up and doing, and as sure as time passes by we will certainly reap a great reward.

THAT the South is on the boom so far as the establishment of new manufactories is concerned, the following report from the Tradesman, published at Chattanooga, for the week ending February 2d, will show: "The interest in establishing new cotton mills is now very great in all parts of the South. During the week the Tradsman has been notified of a $400,000 mill to be established near Aiken, S. C.; one with the same capital at Macon, Ga.; a $250,000 one at Baton Rouge, La.; one with $100,000 capital at Dawson, Ga.; two at La Grange, Ga., one of them with $100,000 capital; a $75,000 woolen mill at Chattanooga, Tenn.; a $50,000 cotton mill at Waco, Tex., one with $35,000 capital at Augusta, Ga., and others at Athens, Barnesville, Cartersville and Chipley, Ga., Franklinton, N. C., Laurens and Rock Hill, S. C., Belton and Temple, Tex., and Norfolk, Va. It is also reported that a large mill at New Hartford, Conn., is seeking a location in the South. Iron producers say that the unsettled condition of financial affairs is preventing large sales of pig iron, but the output has not been reduced. Coal mining is active in all southern mines, and the demand for coal and coke continues to be large. Lumber production increases and prospects are favorable. Among important new industries in the South during the week, as reported to the Tradesman, are: A phosphate mining company and fertilizer works at Charleston, S. C., with $250,000 capital; a manufacturing company with $150,000 capital at New Berne, N. C.; a $100,000 brick plant at La Grange, Ga.; a $100,000 compress at Waco, Tex.; a $100,000 land company at Columbia, S. C.; a $50,000 trunk factory at Petersburg, Va., and a $50,000 lamp-black factory at Savannah, Ga."

A Des Moines, Iowa, woman, who has been troubled with frequent colds, concluded to try an old remedy in a new way, and accordingly took a tablespoonfull (four times the usual dose) of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy just before going to bed. The next morning she found that her cold had almost entirely disappeared. During the day she took a few doses of the remedy (one teaspoonfull at a time,) and at night she again took a tablespoonfull before going to bed, and on the following morning awoke free from all symptoms of the cold. Since then, she has, on several occasions, used this remedy in like manner, with the same good results, and is much elated over her discovery of so quick a way of curing a cold. BOYS IN BLUE.

Some Interesting Statistics That are to be Found in the Pension Office.

It is shown by the records of the War Department that the whole number of men who served in the union army during the civil war, was 2,864,028, of which the northern states furnished 2,432,801. The census of 1890 showed that the total number of males between the ages of 18 and 45 years in the northern states was 4,327,000. Therefore, they furnished 56 per cent of their available men to the defense of the union, says the Chicago Record.

An examination of the military records and a comparison with the census returns, shows that Delaware furnished more troops in proportion to her population than any state in the union. In 1860, there were 18,273 white males in the state between the ages of 18 and 45, and 12,670, or 74.8 per cent of them went into the union army. The other border states also did very well. Maryland sent 50,316 troops out of a male population of 102,815, or 49 per cent. Kentucky sent 79,025 out of 180,589, or 44 per cent; Missouri, 109,111 out of 932,781, or 47 per cent; West Virginia, 32,068 out of 65,580, or 28 per cent without considering how many more of the population must have gone into the Confederate army.

Even Tennessee, which was the theater of war, contributed no less than 31,092 soldiers to the union army, and the entire slave states a total of 432,227. Thus it will be seen that at least one-seventh of the federal troops came from the South.

New Hampshire contributed only 54 per cent, a little below the general average, and Vermont and Massachusetts 58 per cent, a little above; Maine 59 per cent, a little above; Rhode Island, 66; New York, 53; Pennsylvania, 56; Illinois and Ohio, 69; Kansas, 72, and Indiana, 74 per cent of their fighting population. Deducting from their total male inhabitants the number of soldiers who went into the rebel army, it will be shown that the border states furnished more men to sustain the union in proportion to their ability than the northern states.

The pension office is a bonanza for romance writers if they only knew it, and the incidents in real life that often come to the attention of the clerks there, show how much stranger truth often is than fiction. Last week developed a romance that is uncommonly queer. A lady in Connecticut made an application for a widow's pension, and in the regular order of things it went to the files where the records are kept alphabetically, and as her name commences with X, and unusual letter, there were few applicants in her class. The record clerk glanced over the list without any particular motive, and noticed that a man with the same name was already drawing a pension, which was granted him in 1873, and is being paid through the California agency.

It required only a few minutes search to discover that the record in the two cases was identical, not only as to the same name, but as to the same regiment and company. The woman offered no proof of the death of her husband, but her affidavit set forth that she had not seen or heard of him since the war, and to the best of her knowledge and belief he had been killed in battle. A letter was written to her stating that a man of the same name and service as her husband was already drawing a pension for wounds received in the war, and by return mail came a spirited inquiry for his whereabouts. She said that she had been mourning his death for more than twenty years, and if the pension people would assist her in locating him, she would "make it exceedingly warm" for the truant spouse.

Speed of Electricity.

The fact is generally known that according to the experiments of the late Prof. Henrich Hertz, at Bonn, the velocity with which electricity is propagated is nearly identical with the velocity of light. The identity may be perfect, but experiments have as yet failed to prove it so. In a recent communication to the French Academy of Sciences, Monsieur Mascart has shown that the mean velocity of electricity, as deduced from experiments, is one hundred and eighty-five thousand miles per second. This is about one per cent greater than the velocity of light, which is one hundred and eighty-six thousand three hundred miles per second. It is believed that if light and electricity do move with exactly the same speed the velocity ascribed to light more closely represents that speed than the velocity ascribed to electricity, because the experiments are more satisfactory and probably more accurate in the case of light.—Youth's Companion.

A short harvest generally brings a higher money return than an excessive harvest, and that rule is a fairly safe one to go by. Returns give the estimated farm value of the 1,212,700 bushels of corn last year as worth within $40,000,000 as much as the big crop of 2,112,892,000 bushels harvested in 1889—the aggregate value of the crop of 1894 being $554,719,000, as against $559,918,000 for the unprecedented yield of 1889.

HISTORICAL.

The Lincoln medal, struck in honor of Abraham Lincoln, is described in a catalogue by A. C. Zabriskie, of New York, a celebrated student of numismatics. There have been 189 of the Lincoln medals struck, and no other American except Washington has received the honor.

The two houses of the Massachusetts legislature were first established in 1644. Previous to that time the general assembly had constituted one body, but an arrangement was now made for the magistrates and the deputies to assemble separately, and the measures agreed upon by one be sent te the other, and the passage of any act depend upon the concurrence of both. From that date the present parliamentary conduct was established.

The first Boston woman to devote herself to literary study was Miss Hannah Adams. In 1784 she published a learned, but, it must be said, rather stupid book, called the "View of Religions." Later she published a "History of New England" and a "History of the Jews." The former involved her in a vigorous controversy. Rev. Jedadiah Morse also published a New England history, which Miss Adams claimed to be an infringement of an abridgement or her own work, which she had arranged as a text book. It is said that the controversy was a lively one, and extended over a period of ten years. The place aux dames was not specially recognized, and the lady was compelled to assert her own right of way, a task to which she appears to have been fully equal.

How to Measure Socks.

A young man stepped up to the counter of one of our furnishing stores the other evening and called for a pair of socks. "Be sure you get them large enough," he said, "for when they are too small they always wear through at the toes." "Yes, sir," replied the polite clerk, "I'll get them right; will you please hold out your hand?" "I said socks, not gloves," answered the young man, somewhat surprised. "I know what you said," continued the clerk, "but I want to see your hand." The customer held out his hand and doubled up his fist as directed. The clerk took one of the socks from the box, wrapt the foot of the sock around the fist and guaranteed a perfect fit. "I am just as sure it will fit you as though I had measured your foot," said the clerk, "as the distance around the fist is always the length of the foot. A salesman who knows his business, always looks at a man's hands in that way, knows the size of the sock he wants."—N. Y. Graphic.

HER STAGE KISS.

A Humorous Description of Mrs. Langtry's Great Osculatory Act.

Mrs Langtry is once more in this country, and theatre-going public will have an opportunity to ascertain if she has patented any new improvements on "the Langtry kiss," which double-discounted anything of the kind ever before attempted on the American stage.

As Lady Clancarty, her husband escapes from his pursuers through an open window into her room. She stands with her back to the audience clear down the stage near the footlights. Her husband looks at her for a moment, and then rushes wildly in her arms, somewhat after the manner of "the tough girl" in Harrigan's "O'Reilly and the Four Hundred." They both swing around and expose their profiles to the audience.

Then they hold each other at arm's length. Then her bosom heaves and he pants. Her head falls upon his breast, inclining backward. Then an apparently genuine vermillion flush suffuses her face. Then he looks down at her and she looks up at him. Next comes a perceptible pressure around the waist that would do credit to a patent hay press. Then he abruptly places his lips to hers, and she grabs him around the head. There is a soft gurgling sound like water escaping from a kitchen sink, the mouth being worn large and open.

Then they are, as it were, glued together. Then all is still. Women in the audience become nervous. Bald-headed men are paralyzed. Men about town have their watches out timing them. One second, two, three, four, five, six, seven, eight, nine, ten, eleven—and then there is an explosion, as if the bung had been blown out of a beer barrel. It is all over.—Texas Siftings.

Specimen Cases.

S. H. Clifford, New Cassel, Wis., was troubled with neuralgia and rheumatism, his stomach was disordered, his liver affected to an alarming degree, he fell away, and he was terribly reduced in flesh and strength Three bottles of Electric Bitters cured him.

Edward Shepherd, Harrisburg, had a 111., running sore on his leg of eight years' standing. Used three bottles of Electric Bitters and seven boxes of Bucklen's Arnica Salve, and his leg is sound and well. John Speaker, Catawba, O., had five large fever sores on his leg; doctors said he was incurable. One bottle of Electric Bitters and one box of Arnica Salve cured him entirely. Sold at Parker & Armstrong's drug store.

LIFE SAVED BY

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL

"Seven years ago, my wife had a severe attack of lung trouble which the physicians pronounced consumption. The cough was extremely distressing, especially at night, and was frequently attended with the spitting of blood. The doctors being unable to help her, I induced her to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and was surprised at the great relief it gave. Before using one whole bottle, she was cured, so that now she is quite strong and healthy. That this medicine saved my wife's life, I have not the least doubt."—K. MORRIS, Memphis, Tenn.

TOWN AND COUNTY NEWS.

Levi Craddock, of Shelby, spent Sunday in town.

Mr. Whorley, of Birmingham Junction, spent Tuesday in town.

R. M. Borum, of Harpersville, was in town a few hours Tuesday.

E. S. Lyman, of Montevallo, spent Tuesday in town on business.

James Gwinn, of Wilsonville, spent last Thursday evening in town.

A. P. Longshore returned Sunday from a business trip to Montgomery.

Frank and Fred Walburn, of Shelby, visited Columbiana friends Sunday.

Divine services were held at the poorhouse and also at the jail last Sunday.

Miss Bertie Allen, of Montevallo, spent Saturday and Sunday with her aunt, Mrs. Henry Wilson.

W. C. Cannon, of Sylacauga, was in town a couple of days this week looking up insurance business.

Wm. Gorman and Dr. T. G. Nelson, of Harpersville, are spending a few days in town visiting friends.

Miss Clemmont Cromwell returned last Friday evening from a delightful visit of a few days at Wilsonville.

Leah, the little daughter of W. B. Greek, who has been quite sick for some time, is reported as improving.

Neil McMillan, who has been teaching school at Talladega Springs, has returned home, having finished the term.

Subject of discourse at the Baptist church on the 2nd Sunday in February: The Great Question, and same answered.

Mrs. W. S. Meroney returned to her home in Blockton last Friday, after a delightful visit to relatives and friends in this place.

Mr. and Mrs. George Kinkle, of Kentucky, after a week's visit to his sister, Mrs. J. H. Newton, returned home Friday.

Tom Weaver has pitched his photographic tent on Main street in the business part of the town, and is now ready for business.

Mrs. Emma Cater, we are glad to note, is slowly improving. We hope to be able soon to write her complete restoration to health.

Miss Grace Walker, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Maggie Weaver, for sometime, returned to her home in Jacksonville, Monday.

T. K. Roberts delivered a most instructive lecture to the ladies of the Christian Endeavor Society, Sunday afternoon. It was well attended, and most heartily enjoyed by all.

Miss Jane Nabors, who has been employed at the Orphans' Home at Summerfield, has returned to her home in Columbiana, having resigned her position in that institution.

Editor Graham, of the Calera Sentinel, paid Columbiana a visit last Tuesday. We expect he came up to see the court house, having given up the idea of ever seeing one in Calera.

A special meeting, for ladies only, was held at the M. E. Church last Sunday evening at 3 o'clock at which a pledge was passed among the congregation, quite numerously signed by the young ladies, which binds them not to associate with young men who drink liquor.

Last Saturday was ground-hog day, and if Mr. Hog did not oversleep himself and was not attending to business, he certainly saw his shadow, consequently look out for six weeks more of rough weather.

As we go to press this morning, (Thursday) a regular blizzard is in progress. It commenced about 1 o'clock last night, the rain turning to sleet, and by morning the snow was flying thick in the air and the wind blowing a perfect hurricane, and growing colder fast.

Mrs. Emily Thorne, who resides at Toledo, Washington, says she has never been able to procure any medicine for rheumatism, that relieves the pain so quickly and effectually as Chamberlain's Pain Balm, and that she has also used it for lame back with great success. For sale by Parker & Armstrong.

Last Friday night the weather was very bad, very bad, indeed, so that few people could get to the "Pound" party. However a few did go, and some who could not get there, sent in their contributions, so it was far from a failure. We suggest that we try once more, and give those an opportunity who could not go to the first.

There is a class of young men, or would-be young men, who have a habit of disturbing divine services at almost every evening service, much to the annoyance of the ladies and gentlemen in attendance. Now, if these would-be young men wish to see their names in print, with a few appended remarks, just let them continue on as they have been doing.

O. W. O. Hardman, Sheriff of Tyler Co., W. Va., appreciates a good thing and does not hesitate to say so. He was almost prostrated with a cold when he procured a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. He says: "It gave me prompt relief. I find it to be an invaluable remedy for coughs and colds." For sale by Parker & Armstrong.

The Christian Endeavorers of Shelby observed "Christian Endeavor Day" by a special order of service last Sunday night in the Congregational Church of the Covenant. The young people's Baptist Union and the Epworth League joined in the services, and the church was filled with an interested audience. The Juniors have taken up the Chatauqua course of Bible Normal study as a part of their work.

A collection was taken up in our town for the suffering people of the northwest. A large box of clothing and quite a large lot of meal, meat, flour, etc., together with $17.50 in cash was the result. If other towns no larger than this will only do as well, the wants of the poor people in the drought-stricken regions will be relieved to a great extent if not entirely. We feel prouder of our town than ever.

Last week The Chronicle job office turned out a handsome little Pamphlet of ten pages entitled "The Modern Dance." T. K. Roberts, principal of our school, is the author, and he handled his subject with consummate skill and ability. It is written especially for young, thoughtless persons, who dance but are ignorant of the pernicious effects sure to follow. This pamphlet should be read by every young man and lady, and it can be had for ten cents by addressing the author, at this place.

On last Friday evening it was planned to have a pound party at the residence of Rev. W. I. Sinnot, for his benefit, as he has lately begun housekeeping, having brought his mother and two adopted children to the home he has recently purchased for them in Columbiana for this purpose. The hard rain that evening kept away a number who intended to attend, but while their presence was absent their presents were present. Mr. Sinnot desires to express his grateful appreciation of this kind remembrance, and to thank all who showed their good will to him in this substantial manner.

Miss Nellie Parker gave a pleasant birthday party last Friday night, it being the fifteenth anniversary of her birth. Notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather, quite a number of her young friends gathered at her father's residence to pay their respects to the young lady, and after a short time spent in congratulations and friendly conversation, they were invited to the dining room where a bountiful supper had been prepared and to which the guests did ample justice. After supper all repaired to the parlor where games and other social amusements were indulged in until a seasonable hour, when the guests departed to their homes, returning many thanks for their evening's entertainment and wishing Miss Nellie many many more happy birthdays. Miss Nellie is the only child of Joseph Parker, our popular druggist, and is a bright and winsome young lady and enjoys the friendship and esteem of a large circle of friends.

EAST LAKE, ALA, Jan. 30, '95.
EDITOR CHRONICLE.—
DEAR SIR:—Please publish in your paper that Messrs. W. A. Gorman and Mallory Singleton, of Harpersville, J. W. O'Hara, of Columbiana, and H. C. Reynolds, Jr., of Montevallo, are on the Honor Roll of Howard college for the six weeks ending Jan. 25, 1895.
Yours Truly,
A. W. MCGAHA, Pres't.

Items from Lewis.

David Spearman, Sr., is erecting a new dwelling house.

J. L. Riddle and R. Albright are on the sick list this week.

Miss Hattie Thomas has entered the Four Mile High School.

Most of our farmers are preparing for the planting of another cotton crop.

Prof. Dorough, who is attending school here, will visit his mother near Leeds Sunday.

Geo. Powell will leave Sunday for Fayetteville, Ala., where he intends to enter business. George is a promising young man and we wish him success.

We have seen in "Rumblings from Beat 9" that "Schoolboy" anticipates some more weddings. We are all listening and waiting for the announcement.

From a letter recently received from Alexander City, Ala., we learn that Joab Jackson is improving. His many friends wish for him an early recovery. His brother, W. J. Jackson, is visiting him this week.

Prof. S. S. Crumpton has a flourishing school at Four Mile. He has between fifty and sixty pupils, and, patrons of this school, if you would only put your shoulders to the wheel and erect a new school house and furnish it, you could have as good a school as Columbiana or Wilsonville.

A PRIZE OFFER.

Wishing to stimulate intensive farming and crop diversification, The Advertiser has decided to offer a series of prizes to be contested for by its farmer readers.

The following are the competitions it has arranged, and the only condition necessary to become a competitor is, that the contestant shall be a subscriber to The Semi-Weekly Advertiser at the time of the award, and for the six months preceding:

For the largest crop of corn per acre, not less than five or more than twenty acres..... $75
For the largest crop of clover, any variety, including Mellilotus, under the same conditions..... $75
For the largest crop of oats, same conditions..... $75
For the largest crop of cotton under the same conditions and the following additional one, viz: that the contestant shall not plant more than half the acreage in cotton this season that he did last year.....$100
For the largest crop of all four, same conditions governing each $100
For the largest aggregate weight of five dressed hogs..... $75

It will be necessary for each contestant, when making a return of his crop for these prizes, to furnish a full description of his method of cultivation, and feeding depth of plowing, kind and quantity of fertilizer used, age of hogs, together with an affidavit stating the size of his crop, number of acres, the amount received if sold, and in case of cotton, the acreage planted last year. This affidavit must be sworn to by the contestant and two witnesses, before a duly authorized officer. In case of a tie in the amount produced per acre, the largest tract will have the preference, if tracts are the same size, then the superior method of cultivation as decided by the faculty of the Agricultural College.

The Advertiser is fully convinced that intensive farming is the most profitable, and that deep plowing and rotation are an absolute necessity. It offers the foregoing prizes with the hope that all farmers in Alabama, Georgia, Mississippi, Louisiana, Texas and Florida, to which states it is confined, will compete and discover it is right in its convictions. Whenever it is possible, we would like each contestant to strive for all of the prizes and learn how profitable it is to be prepared for any turn of the market.

The award will be made January 1st, 1896.

The Hat He Wears.

A very good way to judge a man is by the hat he wears to a social gathering. If he wears his new hat, it indicates that he has faith in his fellow men and that he believes he will return home with the same hat. He shows, by this sign, that he is an optimist, looking on the bright side of things and thinking only of the nobler side of human nature. In theology, he would be called Armenian; in politics, a democrat, and in business a boomer.

On the other hand, the man who wears his old, battered hat, is a pessimist. He believes in the total depravity of human nature. With the Psalmist he says "all men are liars." He sees the warts on the nose of human nature, and recognizes none of its virtues. If a novelist, he would be of the realistic school, of which Howels is the head. If a theologian, he would be Calvanistic. If a politician, he would be a populist.

But worst of all, is the man who wears a little, old, monkey cap, and stows it away in his overcoat pocket. He is a rascal himself and believes all men are thieves.—Age-Herald.

Don't judge a man by the noise he makes in this world. Two silver dollars in the pocket will make more jingle than $20,000 in bills.

A man by the name of Corn was married at Rochester, Ill., to a lady by the name of Wheat. The fool choir sang "What shall the harvest be?" A boy in the gallery yelled "Nubbins!"—and they cast him out of the synagogue.—Exchange.

Some Time.

Last night, my darling as you slept,
I thought I heard you sigh,
And to your little crib I crept,
And watched a space thereby;
And then I stooped and kissed your brow,
For oh, I love you so—
You are too young to know it now,
But some time you shall know.

Some time when in a darkened place,
Where others come to weep,
Your eyes shall look upon a face
Calm in eternal sleep;
The voiceless lips, the wrinkled brow,
The patient smile shall show—
You are too young to know it now,
But some time you shall know.

Look backward, then, into the years,
And see me hear tonight—
See, O my darling, how my tears
Are falling as I write;
And feel once more upon your brow
The kiss of long ago—
You are too young to know it new,
But some time you shall know.

—Eugene Field.

The experience of Geo. A. Apgar, of German Valley, N. J., is well worth remembering. He was troubled with chronic diarrhœa and doctored for five months and was treated by four different doctors without benefit. He then began using Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy, of which one small bottle effected a complete cure. It is for sale by Parker & Armstrong.

The above sale has been postponed until February 11th, 1895.

THE PISO COMPANY.

The above is the style of the firm which manufactures Piso's Cure for Consumption and Piso's Remedy for Catarrh, at Warren, Pa. The company was recently incorporated, succeeding E. T. Hazeltine, under whose name the business has been conducted for many years. In fact the business was established in 1864, when $25 was paid for the first barrel of sugar bought, that was 33 cents a pound; other things were proportionately high, as much of the Piso Cure is now sold for 25 cents as was then for $1.00.

While the firm has been a very persistent advertiser in newspapers, its aggregate outlay annually has been comparatively small, so that the steady and rapid increase in sales to their present large proportions certainly indicates that Piso's Cure for Consumption possesses high merit as a remedy for coughs, colds and throat and lung troubles generally. The pleasant taste of the cure has doubtless contributed materially to its popularity.

Growth in business has necessitated the invention of numerous labor-saving machines. Notable among these are apparatus for washing, filling, corking and sealing bottles with which three men easily turn out 2,000 bottles an hour. In the advertising department improved machines in the bindery finish 100,000 Pocket Book Almanacs in a day with only twenty operators. Another labor saver is the box machine on which one man puts together a thousand cartons daily which are filled with a dozen Piso's Cure for Consumption by another man in the same space of time.

The Piso Company gives steady employment to a small army of workers, of both sexes, and its uniform liberal treatment of employes is a topic of much favorable comment among the citizens of Warren. Altogether the prosperity of the company appears to be peculiarly deserved.

The reader of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.

Mr. Cleveland Urges Congress to Relieve the Treasury.

The Depletion of the Treasury Reviewed. Suggests Another Bond Issue and Recommends That All Import Duties Be Paid in Gold.

Washington, Jan. 28.—The President today sent to Congress the following special message on the financial question:

To the Senate and House of Representatives: In my last annual message I recommended to the serious consideration of the Congress the condition of our national finances and in connection with the subject indorsed the plan of currency legislation which at that time seemed to furnish protection against impending danger. This plan has not been approved by the Congress.

In the meantime the situation has so changed that the emergency now appears so threatening that I deem it my duty to ask at the hands of the legislative branch of the government such prompt and effective action as will restore confidence in our financial soundness and avert business disaster and universal distress among our people. Whatever may be the merits of the plan outlined in my annual message as a remedy for ills then existing and as a safeguard against the depletion of the gold reserve then in the Treasury, I am now convinced that its reception by Congress and our present advanced stage of financial perplexity necessitates additional or different legislation.

With natural resources unlimited in variety and productive strength and with a people whose activity and enterprise seek only a fair opportunity to achieve national success and greatness, our progress should not be checked by a false financial policy and a heedless disregard of sound monetary laws, nor should the timidity and fear which they engender stand in the way of our prosperity.

It is hardly disputed that this predicament confronts us today. Therefore, no one in any degree responsible for the making and execution of our laws should fail to see a patriotic duty in honestly and sincerely attempting to relieve the situation. Manifestly, this effort will not succeed unless it is made untrammeled by the prejudice of partisanship and with a steadfast determination to resist the temptation to accomplish party advantage. We may well remember that if we are threatened with financial difficulties all our people in every station of life are concerned, and surely those who suffer will not receive the promotion of party interests as an excuse for permitting our present troubles to advance to a disastrous conclusion. It is also of the utmost importance that we approach the study of the problems presented as free as possible from the tyranny of preconceived opinions, to the end that in a common danger we may be able to seek with undeluded vision a safe and reasonable protection.

The real trouble which confronts us consists in a lack of confidence, widespread and constantly increasing, in the continuing ability or disposition of the government to pay its obligations in gold. This lack of confidence grows to some extent out of the palpable and apparent embarrassment attending the efforts of the government under existing laws to procure gold, and to a greater extent out of the impossibility of either keeping it in the Treasury or canceling obligations by its expenditures after it is obtained.

The only way left open to the government for procuring gold is by the issue and sale of bonds. The only bonds that can be so issued were authorized nearly twenty-five years ago, and not well calculated to meet our present needs. Among other disadvantages they are made payable in coin instead of specifically in gold, which in existing conditions detracts largely and in an increasing ratio from their desireability as investments. It is by no means certain that bonds of this description can much longer be disposed of at a price creditable to the financial character of our government.

The Drain of Gold.

The most dangerous and irritating feature of the situation, however, remains to be mentioned. It is found in the means by which the Treasury is despoiled of the gold thus obtained without canceling a single government obligation and solely for the benefit of those who find profit in shipping it abroad or whose fears induce them to hoard it at home. We have outstanding about $500,000,000 of currency notes of the government for which gold may be demanded; and curiously enough the law requires that when presented and in fact redeemed and paid in gold they shall be reissued. These same notes may do duty many times in drawing gold from the Treasury; nor can the process be arrested as long as there are private parties who profit by it or otherwise see an advantage in repeating the operation.

More than 300,000,000 of dollars in these notes have already been redeemed in gold, and notwithstanding such redemption they are all still outstanding.

Since the 17th day of January, 1894, our bonded interest bearing debt has increased $100,000,000 for the purpose of obtaining gold, to replenish our coin reserve. Two issues were made, amounting to fifty millions each—one in January and the other in November. As a result of the first issue there was realized something more than fifty-eight millions of dollars in gold; between that issue and the succeeding one in November, comprising a period of about ten months, nearly one hundred and three millions of dollars in gold were drawn from the Treasury. This made the second issue necessary, and upon that more than fifty-eight millions in gold was again realized. Between the date of the second issue and the present time, covering a period of only about two months, more than sixty-nine millions of dollars in gold have been drawn from the Treasury.

These large sums of gold were expended without any cancellation of government obligations or in any permanent way benefiting our people or improving our pecuniary situation.

The financial events of the past year suggest facts and conditions which should certainly arrest attention. More than one hundred and seventy-two millions of dollars in gold have been drawn out of the Treasury during the year for the purpose of shipments abroad or hoarding at home, while nearly one hundred and three millions of this amount were drawn out during the first ten months of the year, a sum aggregating more than two-thirds of that amount, being about $69,000,000, was drawn out during the following two months, thus indicating a marked acceleration of the depleting process with the lapse of time.

The obligations upon which this gold has been drawn from the Treasury are still outstanding and are available for use in repeating the exhaustive operation with shorter intervals as our perplexities accumulate.

Conditions are certainly supervening, tending to make the bonds which may be issued to replenish our gold less useful for that purpose.

An adequate gold reserve is in all circumstances absolutely essential to the upholding of our public credit and the maintenance of our high national character.

Revenue Not In Question.

Our gold reserve has reached such a stage of diminution as to require its speedy reinforcement.

The aggravations that must inevitably follow present conditions and methods which will certainly lead to misfortune and loss, not only to our national credit and prosperity and to financial enterprise, but to those of our people who seek employment as a means of livelihood, and to those whose only capital is their daily labor.

It will hardly do to say that a simple increase of revenue will cure our troubles. With the apprehension now existing and constantly increasing as to our financial ability, it does not rest upon a calculation of our revenue. The time has passed when the eyes of investors abroad and our people at home were fixed upon the revenues of the government. Changed conditions have attracted their attention to the gold of the government. There need be no fear that we cannot pay our current expenses with such money as we have. There is now in the Treasury a comfortable surplus of more that 63,000,000 of dollars, but it is not in gold, and, therefore, does not meet our difficulty.

The Silver Jumping Jack.

I cannot see that differences of opinion concerning the extent to which silver ought to be coined or used in our currency should interfere with the counsels of those whose duty it is to rectify evils now apparent in our financial situation. They have to consider the question of national credit and the consequences that will follow from its collapse. Whatever ideas may be insisted upon as to silver or bimetallism, the proper solution of the question now pressing upon us only requires a recognition of gold as well as silver and a concession of its importance, rightfully or wrongfully acquired, as a basis of national credit, a necessity in the honorable discharge of our obligations payable in gold and a badge of solvency.

I do not understand that the real friends of silver desire a condition that might follow inaction or neglect to appreciate the meaning of the present exigency, if it should result in the entire banishment of gold from our financial and currency arrangements.

Besides the Treasury notes, which certainly should be paid in gold, amounting to nearly 500,000,000 of dollars, there will fall due in 1904 one hundred millions of bonds, issued during the last year, for which we have received gold, and in 1907 nearly 600,000,000 of 8 per cent bonds issued in 1877. Shall the payment of these obligations in gold be repudiated?

If they are to be paid in such a manner as the preservation of our national honor and national solvency demands, we should not destroy or even imperil our ability to supply ourselves with gold for this purpose.

While I am not unfriendly to silver, and while I desire to see it recognized to such an extent as is consistent with the financial safety and the preservation of national honor and credit, I am not willing to see gold entirely abolished from our currency and finances. To avert such a consequence, I believe thorough and radical remedial legislation should be promptly passed. I therefore beg the Congress to give the subject immediate attention.

More Bonds Necessary.

In my opinion the Secretary of the Treasury should be authorized to issue bonds of the government for the purpose of procuring and maintaining a sufficient gold reserve and for the redemption and cancellation of the United States legal tender notes and the Treasury notes issued for the purchase of silver under the law of June 14, 1890.

We should be relieved from the humiliating process of issuing bonds to procure gold to be immediately and repeatedly drawn out on these obligations for purposes not related to the benefit of our government or our people. The principal and interest of these bonds should be payable on their face in gold, because they should be sold only for gold or its representative, and because there would now be difficulty in favorably disposing of bonds not containing this stipulation.

I suggest that the bonds be issued in denominations of 20 and 50 dollars and their multiples, and that they bear interest at a rate not exceeding 3 per cent. per annum. I do not see why they should not be payable fifty years from their date. We of the present generation have large amounts to pay if we meet our obligations and long bonds are most saleable.

The Secretary of the Treasury might well be permitted at his discretion to receive on the sale of bonds the legal tender and Treasury notes to be retired, and of course when they are thus retired or redeemed in gold they should be canceled.

More Bond-Based Currency.

These bonds under the existing laws could be deposited by national banks as security for circulation, and such banks should be allowed to issue circulation up to the face value or any other bonds so deposited except bonds outstanding bearing only 2 per cent. interest and which sell in the market at less than par. National banks should not be allowed to take out circulating notes of a less denomination than $10, and when such as are now outstanding reach the Treasury, except for redemption and retirement, they should be canceled, and notes of the denomination of $10 and upward issued in their stead.

Silver certificates of the denomination of $10 and upward should be replaced by certificates of the denominations under $10. As a constant means of the maintenance of a reasonable supply of gold in the Treasury our duties on imports should be paid in gold, allowing all other duties to the government to be paid in any other form of money.

I believe all the provisions I have suggested should be embodied in our laws if we are to enjoy a complete reinstatement on a sound financial condition. They need not interfere with any currency scheme for the increase of the circulating medium through the agency of national or State banks, since they can easily be adjusted to such a scheme.

Objection has been made to the issuance of interest-bearing bonds for the purpose of retiring the interest-bearing legal tender notes. In point of fact, however, these notes have burdened us with a large load of interest, and it is still accumulating. The aggregate interest on the original issue of bonds, the proceeds of which in gold constituted the reserve for the payment of these notes, amounted to $70,326,250 on January 1, 1895, and the annual charge for interest on these bonds and those issued for the same purpose during the last year will be $9,145,000, dating from January 1, 1895. While the cancellation of these notes would not relieve us from the obligations already incurred on their account, these figures are given by way of suggesting that their existence has not been free from interest charges, and that the longer they are outstanding, judging from the experience of the last year, the more expensive they will become.

Grover in the Breach.

In conclusion I desire to frankly confess my reluctance to issuing more bonds in the present circumstances and with no better results than have lately followed that course. I cannot, however, refrain from adding to an assurance of much anxiety to co-operate with the present Congress in any reasonable measure of relief, an expression of my determination to leave nothing undone which furnishes a hope for improving the situation or checking a suspicion of our disinclination or disability to meet with the strictest honor every national obligation.

Grover Cleveland.

SOUTHERN GLEANINGS.

What Three-Cent Cotton Means.

Hon. Hector D. Lane, of Alabama, president of the American Cotton Growers' Protective association, gives the following for publication:

"It goes without saying that if anything like three-cent cotton on plantations is witnessed next year, a general crash will ensue. Real estate and securities of all kinds will reach such a level in the south as few can imagine. European speculators are to-day selling cotton in Liverpool for delivery in October, November, December, 1895, with a price equivalent to about four cents on farms in the south, for middling, or five cents at the ports, believing that another 9,500,000, or larger, crop will be grown in America, which would insure them a profit of at least one cent per pound, which would mean to the farmer about three cents at the railroad stations next autumn when cotton is moving in large volume.

"It is not to be supposed that these shrewd European cotton people are aggressively selling the next crop at equal to four cents unless they have excellent reasons for believing that the south will plant another monster crop. They are confident, on information furnished, that Texas will not decrease its acreage; therefore, believing this to be true to such an extent that they will be able to buy back during next fall the cotton they are now selling at much lower prices, realizing thereby handsome profits.

"It remains with the farmers and merchants of the south to say whether these European speculators will be permitted to reap a golden harvest at the expense of the farms, plantations, real estate and securities of the south."

A Self-Confessed Murderer.

Several weeks ago Pinkie Hardie, who resided in the lower part of Birmingham, Ala., was shot in the breast and instantly killed. In the same room at the time of the shooting was another woman and Charles Joseph. Both of the latter were arrested, but they swore Pinkie was fooling with a pistol, and it went off. The coroner's jury, however, found them guilty, and a warrant was sworn out against them. At the trial before a justice of the peace they came clear. The other day Joseph walked into the police station and gave himself up, saying he did kill Pinkie, and God told him to surrender. He is crazy, the excitement of the deed and subsequent trials unbalancing his mind.

Burned to Death.

The 4-year-old girl of Mr. S. F. Davis, near Leola, Ky., met a horrible death. Mrs. Davis was called from the house to attend to some chores, leaving the little girl in the room by herself. In a few minutes she heard the screams of the child, and on entering the house found the child's clothes almost burned off. The mother was unable to put out the flames and the child's flesh was burned to a crisp. The child lived but a few hours, but was perfectly rational all the time, and as the flesh slipped from the bones she would ask them to cut it off, but never once complained.

Judge Key Retired.

After fifteen years of continuous service as judge of the United States district court for the middle and eastern divisions of Tennessee, Judge David M. Key has retired on full pay, he having reached the age of 70. He was succeeded by Judge Charles D. Clark, of Chattanooga. Judge Key's last act was to administer the oath of office to his successor. Judge Clark has never held a public office before. Judge Key succeeded President Andrew Johnson in the United States senate and was postmaster-general under President Hayes.

Did Not Have a Hip Pocket.

Miss Mary Lou Jones, the pretty daughter of Capt. Pembroke Jones, was accidentally shot at her home, 8 miles above Newport News, Va., the other day. She was preparing to drive to the city without a companion, and had provided herself with a revolver. As she was getting into the buggy the revolver fell from her hand, struck the buggy step and was discharged. The ball struck her pretty chin, glanced and imbedded itself in her neck, where it remained until surgical assistance could be procured. Her wound is not serious.

Death of a Georgia Jurist.

United States District Judge John Erskine, retired, died suddenly at his home in Atlanta, Ga. For nineteen years he was judge of the district of Georgia, and was a power for good in the days of reconstruction. He was a native of Ireland, a member of the famous Erskine family, and a man noted for his firmness, exact justice on the bench and his courteousness at all times. He was 82 years of age. He leaves one child, Mrs. Willard Ward, of New York city. Judge Erskine was an intimate friend of Edwin Booth.

Shot His Brother.

During a musical entertainment at Daviston, Ala., in which Will Adams and Ed Adams, his brother, took part, the audience were horrified to see Ed Adams fall mortally wounded by a shot from a pistol in the hands of his brother. They were giving a sketch in which a pistol figured, it being Will's part to fire a blank cartridge at his brother, but the weapon had a ball cartridge in it, hence the tragedy. Ed lived only a few minutes.

A Brutal Murder.

A brutal murder was committed at the levee camp at Cowpoint, Miss. George Burns, alias Frank Boyd, shot George McCoy in the neck, and then, seizing an ax, chopped off both of McCoy's legs and battered in his mouth and nose and gouged out his eyes. McCoy died almost instantly. Burns escaped.

Causing a Commotion.

The citizens of Jackson and Washington counties, Fla., are greatly aroused by the appearance of a negro who is holding meetings and advising the negroes to emigrate to Liberia.

In Financial Trouble.

Joseph Baum & Son, Meridian (Miss.) merchants, have failed; liabilities, $175,000. They sold to Mobile (Ala.) parties to settle a $40,000 mortgage.

Demolished by a Cyclone.

A cyclone passed over the northeastern portion of Pike county, Miss., demolishing the house of John Manning and injuring his wife and children.

Prof. Ephraim Smith.

Prof. Ephraim Smith, aged 85, died at Lexington, Ky. For thirty years he was principal of the commercial college of the Kentucky university.

Suicide by Shooting.

Mrs. Saunders, wife of a prominent citizen of Marietta, Ga., committed suicide by shooting. Jealousy is supposed to have induced the deed.

Preferred Jerry.

Maria, aged 20, the deaf and dumb wife of Logan Raper, of Webster county, Ky., who is 60, eloped with their farm hand, Jerry Gallagher.

Fell Dead.

Emil Schurman, a restaurant proprietor, and one of the best-known men in the state, fell dead of apoplexy at Mobile, Ala., the other day.

ON THE ROAD to recovery, the young woman who is taking Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription. In maidenhood, womanhood, wifehood and motherhood the "Prescription" is a supporting tonic and nervine that's peculiarly adapted to her needs, regulating, strengthening and curing the derangements of the sex. Why is it so many women owe their beauty to Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription? Because beauty of form and face radiate from the common center—health. The best bodily condition results from good food, fresh air and exercise coupled with the judicious use of the "Prescription."

If there be headache, pain in the back, bearing-down sensations, or general debility, or if there be nervous disturbance, nervous prostration, and sleeplessness, the "Prescription" reaches the origin of the trouble and corrects it. It dispels aches and pains, corrects displacements and cures catarrhal inflammation of the lining membranes, falling of the womb, ulceration, irregularities and kindred maladies.

"FALLING OF WOMB."

MRS. CAMFIELD.

MRS. FRANK CAMFIELD, of East Dickinson, Franklin Co., N. Y., writes: "I deem it my duty to express my deep, heart-felt gratitude to you for having been the means, under Providence, of restoring me to health, for I have been by spells unable to walk. My troubles were of the womb—inflammatory and bearing-down sensations and the doctors all said, they could not cure me. Twelve bottles of Dr. Pierce's wonderful Favorite Prescription has cured me."

BUNCHING THEIR REMARKS—The suburbanite who had been waiting at the station for the gates to open was preparing to grasp a big and cumbrous bundle of luggage in such a way as to lift it when the sarcastic traveler near the radiator remarked: "That isn't exactly what you would call an easy-pick-up, is it?" "I think, sir," replied the suburbanite, eying him sharply, "you will find I'm able to budget."—Chicago Tribune.

WHO WINS THE $300?

A novel way to obtain a suitable name for their great, yes, wonderful new oats, has been adopted by the John A. Salzer Seed Co. They offer $300 for a name for their new oats; their catalogue tells all about it. Farmers are enthusiastic over the oat, claiming 300 bushels can be grown per acre right along. You will want it.

Farmers report six tons of hay from Salzer's Meadow Mixtures; 112 bushels corn per acre in a dry season, and 1,161 bushels potatoes from two acres.

IF YOU WILL CUT THIS OUT AND SEND IT with 10c postage to the John A. Salzer Seed Co., La Crosse, Wis., you get free their mammoth catalogue and a package of above $300 PRIZE OATS. [K]

MR. GOODCHILD—"Yes, I do feel in good spirits this evening. My boy has passed his examination!" The Earl—"Well, I don't see anything in that. So has mine." Mr. Goodchild—"Er—Indian civil?" The Earl—"No; bankruptcy!"—Punch.

SUITOR—"I have come to ask for your daughter, sir." Father—"Take her, young man. You are the only one who wanted more than my daughter's hand."—Syracuse Post.

Out in the Cold.

Political candidates may be unexpectedly left out in the cold when the returns come in, but people who elect to use Hostetter's Stomach Bitters for dyspepsia, liver, kidney or bladder inactivity, constipation, malarial complaints or nervousness, are never left in the cold or elsewhere. Well may physicians lend their unqualified sanction to this time-honored and unfailing medicine.

"WOMAN," said the sentimental boarder, who is unmarried, of course, "woman is the sweetest fruit of civilization." "Yes," assented the cheerful idiot, "she does make a great jam at the bargain counter."—Cincinnati Tribune.

STORM SWEPT NORTH

In all the States the Worse Blizzard in Time's Record.

LATE TRAINS ALL OVER THE COUNTRY.

Where the Drifts are Highest and the Weather Coldest—Accidents in New York and Brooklyn—Street Railroad Matters in Brooklyn.

NEW YORK, February 9.—The great snow storm that raged in this vicinity yesterday was worse than that memorable blizzard of March 12-15, 1888 in three ways—in wind, temperature and area affected. Only in snow fall was the storm of 1888 greater than yesterday's. The wind yesterday averaged sixty miles an hour against fifty in the blizzard of 1887, the temperature yesterday hovering about were, while in 1888, it was five above; five and a half inches of snow fell yesterday against two feet then.

In the area of the storm, however, in the greatest difference noted. The blizzard yesterday swept almost the entire country instead of the mere radius of four hundred miles around New York then covered.

The storm swept down on the city early Thursday night and by yesterday morning was in full possession. It did not settle down softly and quietly in nice big flakes. On the contrary, it was driven along with blinding force by a furious northwest gale of bitter coldness, in minute particles that seemed to be covered with sharp points, like the end of a needle and stung the faces of belated pedestrians as they toiled along through the drifts. It was so dry and light that it was piled up in great heaps and ridges in every sheltered point, for wherever the gale had full play it swept the streets and sidewalks clean. Under these conditions it was no wonder that this city was at sixes and sevens yesterday. Snow was drifted high in the streets, traffic on surface and elevated lines was impeded: tanks and pipes were frozen, persons were overcome by the cold and frost bitten noses, bars and hands were plentiful.

Day With the Brooklyn Cars.

In Brooklyn but few street cars are running, and the elevated roads could not work as well as usual. Outlying wards and neigbboring Long Island towns are completely cut off in many instances from communication with the outer world. There were lards fields of ice in the bay and several ships were caught in them. Other vessels were frozen fast at their docks.

The narrows were gorged with ice, and it was impossible for any craft, big or little to navigate there without taking big risks.

Traffic of the different ferries were seriously impeded. Both the north and east rivers were filled with huge masses of drifting ice, and the utmost care had to be exercised in taking the boats across.

Late in the afternoon the Hamilton, South Wall street and Thirty-ninth street ferries stopped running on ac count of the ice.

The only serious accident thus far reported, and which was attended with probable loss of life, occurred late last night in the lower bay, where a fishing schooner, the Emma capsized. Four of her crew took to a boat and attempeed to reach shore but have not been heard from since. Three others remainsd in the rigging four or five hours and then reached shore nearly frozen in a small boat.

All of the railroads entering this city were practically tied up. A few trains got through but they were mostly local.

The Through Train Service.

The through train service on the New York Central was resumed with the departure of the North Shore limited at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon, and every effort will be made to get the trains through to Chicago without delay. Local trains on the Hudson river division are running regularly and it is expected that tomorrow all through trains on this line will be running as usual.

All the mails due here today were delayed. Some are reported stalled along the routes.

The mails from New England states due here at 6:42 this morning are reported stalled in Connecticut. The western mails from Washington and Maryland, are also behind time. The trans-continent mail due here at 8:35 a. m., from San Francisco is reported eight hours late.

The mails from the North and Canada are scheluded as two hours late.

The storm en Long Island was unusually severe. Travel is blocked nearly everywhere. Much suffering is reported.

Reports From Along the Line.

Reports from Rockaway Beach, Coney Island, Fire Island, Sag Harbor, East Hampton, Greenport, Northport, Freeport, and many other points, say the storm is the worst known in many years. Fire Island reports that two schooners are ashore near there, one at Point of Wood, the other at Lone Hill. The crew of the schooner ashore at the first named place were safely landed, but at last advices the crew of the other schooner had not yet been saved. They are lashed to the rigging and must suffer intensely.

Far Rockaway reports that a steamer is said to be ashore at Long Catch, but cannot confirm the statement.

Far Rockawaw also reports a serious accident near that place. An engine on the Long Island railroad was derailed an overturned. The fireman was killed outright. The engineer was caught under the wreck and badly scalded and held fast until he died. The temperature at the spot was eight below.

Gold Reserve Forty-one Million Dollars.

WASHINGTON, February 9.—No further gold withdrawals were reported to the treasury at the close of business yesterday. The gold reserve remains at $41,000,040 in round numbers.

GROVER WARNS CONGRESS.

Will Put Out the Four Per Cent Bonds If Nothing is Done.

WASHINGTON, February 9.—The house yesterday entered upon the consideration of the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill for the year ending June 30th, 1896, but made little progress.

The messages from the president announcing the sale of bonds and the protest of this government against the execution of the court martial sentences upon citizens of the United States who engaged in the recent revolt in Hawaii, were received and referred—the former to the committee on ways and means, the latter to the committee on foreign affairs.

Two very important communications from the president were presented to the senate yesterday and were referred their appropriate committees. The first notified congress that, as a precaution against its failure to give legislative aid to the treasury, arrangements had been made for a four per cent "coin" bond, to run thirty years, at a premium which would make the actual interest 3¾ per cent, but coupled with it the condition that if a three per cent "gold" were authorized by congress within ten days, they would be substituted for the four per cent bonds, thus saving $539,159 in actual interest, and saving $16,174,770 in interest for the full term of thirty years. The other had reference to the death sentences imposed on the persons convicted of engaging in a revolutionary movement in Hawaii.

SUFFERING UNPRECEDENTED.

Shortage of Fuel Gas, Frozen Pipes, Scanty Supplies Adds to the Trouble.

PITTSBURG, Pa., February 9.—The suffering from cold is widespread, principally on account of unprecedented shortage of fuel gas. Coal dealers are overwhelmed with rush orders and are working night and day to meet the over increasing demands. The run on the charitable institutions in the city continues. Produce dealers report a scarcity of supply, with no receipts and prices are advancing. The extensive plant of the Westinghouse Electric company at Brinton is closed down, and the thousands of employes are idle on account of frozen water and steam-pipes. Teams are crossing the rivers on the ice drawing heavily loaded wagons. The river men are convinced that river property will be in great danger of destruction when the heavy ice breaks up. The Ohio river is closed between Pittsburg and Wheeling.

THE COLDEST EVER KNOWN.

New Orleans Suffering From the Falling of the Mercury.

NEW ORLEANS, February 9.—This is the coldest spell that has visited this section since the winter of 1886. On the 9th of January of that year, the thermometer dropped to 15 degrees and a minimum was reached here last night of 16 degrees which to be noted, came dangerously near touching the very best record ever made by New Orleans. The local observer said yesterday morning that he feels confident that his instruments did not register the exact temperature as the observatory is on the top of the Custom house, and in his opinion, the heat from the building which is kept perfectly warm during the night had more or less effect upon the instruments and probably caused them to record a degree or two above what was correct. He is under the impression that this is as cold as it has ever been known before in New Orleans.

GALVESTON BAY IS FROZEN.

Millions of Fish Frozen on the Jetties and Reefs Along the Edges.

GALVESTON, Tex., February 9.—For the second time in the history of Galveston, the bay froze over. The first time was January 1886, and since then the thermometer never fell so low as it did yesterday when it stood 15 above zero, which was 1 point lower than Thursday. Millions of fish were frozen and the jetties and reefs along the water's edge are lined with them. Thousands of fish were gathered up by the poor. The bay did not freeze as completely as 1886.

DAMAGE TO GROWING CROPS.

Reports From Savannah That Planted Truck Has Been Killed Outright.

SAVANNAH, Ga., February 9.—Farmers report that the English pea crop was the only large crop planted here and it was killed by the cold. Some potatoes were in the ground but being planted deep are not damaged. Cabbages and a small lot of other vegetables which were up were killed outright. As the large proportion of the spring vegetable crop had not been planted the loss will not be serious.

To do a Large Trucking Business.

WAYCROSS, Ga., February 9.—A company has been formed in this city for the purpose of doing an extensive truck and poultry business. A site for the farm has been selected near Kettle Creek on the Waycross Air Line. The farm will be put in order at once, and the business will be managed by experienced persons.

Little Boy Died in the Snow.

GALLIPOLIS, O., February 9.—Lewis Henry, a four-year-old boy living in Huntington township, wandered away from home last night while his parents were absent. He was overcome by the cold and perished, being found dead in a ravine at 1 o'clock covered with snow.

Business Suspended in Montgomery.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., February 9.—Thermometer reached 6 degrees above zero here last night. This is lowest since January 86, when mercury recorded 5 degrees. Business has been practically suspended.

Buildings Swept by a Tidal Wave.

BOSTON, February 9.—A Halifax dispatch to the Globe says: One hundred houses and business buildings have been swept away at Cape Brenton by an awful tidal wave. It is believed many lives were lost.

FIGHT OVER THE LINE

Serious Difficulty Between Two New Orleans Universities.

EIGHTEEN STUDENTS ARE EXPELLED.

Sensation Sprung in Which College Classes Figure—Boys Who Will Not Beg Pardon for What They Have Done. How the Matter Stands.

NEW ORLEANS, February 9.—Eighteen of the students at Tulane University were rather harshly treated by the faculty because they declined to apologize for pranks by which they had offended the students and faculty of the Leland University, a colored institution adjoining the Tulane.

The Carrollton Railroad company has been establishing small platforms at intervals along its route and in most places has been painting the posts white and red. Platforms were erected in front of Tulane and in front of Leland. Recently the Tulane students were surprised to observe that the posts in front of Leland had been painted with the colors of the Sophomore class of the Tulane, although the colors of the Leland are different. Some of the Tulane students are assuming that the painting of the posts with the Tulane colors was intended as an insult to the latter and had been inspired by the students of the colored University were naturally and boyishly indignant. Last Saturday night some of the more venturesome spirits of Tulane painted the Leland posts in black and that is how the trouble came about.

How the Troubles Began.

The Tulane faculty immediately took up the matter and the offense was charged against the Sopomore class but the class in meeting denied that it had authorized the painting of the posts.

The class, in a series of resolutions, however, expressed its readiness to assume the responsibility and indorse the action of those students who had painted the posts.

There was considerable correspondence betwen the students and the faculty and the Tulane faculty called on the Leland faculty and apologized and offered to foot all expenses.

In the meantime, however, the college paper of Leland appeared using some strong language against the Tulane students. The paper calls Tulane a "Sister University," and declared that Paul Tulane did not leave his money to educate such "vandals and hoodlums" as the students who had painted the posts had proved themselves to be. This insulting and abusive editorial naturally provoked the white students and when the faculty of Tulane desired to have the boys sign a paper practically apologizing in the face of this insulting article the sophomores stood on their dignity and declined to do as the faculty desired. The faculty was resolute in its stand, however, and insisted on the apology. Yesterday the sophomores were brought before President Johnson and the following repudiation of the paint placed before them for signatures:

The Request Ungranted.

"We, the undersigned, members of the sophomore class of Tulane University, regret the resolutions forwarded to the faculty on Wednesday, and sincerely disapprove of the affair at Tulane University on Saturday night."

The young men were given until two o'clock to sign the paper, and at that time 16 signed and 18 refused. A refusal to sign it meant suspension and probably followed by expulsion from the University.

Those eighteen young men represent some of the best families in this city. One of them is the son of the president of the chamber of commerce and one is the son of M. Dudley Coleman, late republican candidate for congress in the second district.

BYARS' DENIAL TO THE LAST.

Went to the Gallows Protesting Innocence in the Murder of His Cousin.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., February 9.—Eugene Byars, who on January 6th, 1894, murdered and robbed his cousin, Eugene Walker, a seargeant in the United States army, while the latter was enroute from Fort Niobrara, Neb., to Eldridge, Ala., his home, with a thousand dollars in his pocket, was hanged today in the jail yard in the presence of a hundred people. Byars protested his innocence to the last. The hanging passed off quietly.

SUFFERING IN BIRMINGHAM.

People With Scant Means Have a Bitter Experience During the Cold Snap.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., February 9.—The unprecedented cold spell has continued almost unabated. At midnight Thursday night the thermometer registered 11; at 1 a. m. 10; at 2 a. m. 8; and at 3:30 5½, the lowest record. At 8 a. m. yesterday it stood at 8 and continued to rise until 3 p. m. when it reached 22½, after which it began falling and at 9 p. m. it registered 18½. At daybreak this morning 10. Stock and the poor people have had a bitter experience.

Seven Below at Knoxville.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., February 9.—The mercury registered seven degrees below zero yesterday morning, the lowest on record, with one exception, in twenty five years. The mean temperature for the last twenty four hours is one degree above, marking the coldest day since the weather bureau was established here in 1874. Several cases of frost bites are reported.

Frozen to Death in His Room.

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., February 9.—Christian Staub, for twenty years an employee of Hall, Spear & Co, plow manufacturers, was found dead on the floor of his room yesterday. He had evidently fallen out of bed during the night and was frozen to death. He was in well-to-do circumstances.

No Election In Delaware Yet.

DOVER, Del., February 9.—There was no change in the balloting for United States senator yestedray.

THE WEEK IN TRADING CIRCLES.

Cold Weather and High Winds Restrict Orders in All Staple Lines.

NEW YORK, February 9.—Bradstreet's review today says; Extremely low temperature, snow and high winds have visited the greater portion of the country this week and exercised a marked influence by restricting orders received by jobbers in all staple lines. But they have tended to stimulate purchases of seasonable goods.

General trade at larger eastern centers remains unchanged. Philadelphia reports continued free sales of dry goods. At Baltimore bills sent south and southwest have been paid more promptly than expected.

Among southern cities, Chattanooga reports that the volume of trade there for January in spite of the range of prices is equal to that for 1894. In contrast is a decrease in all lines at Augusta, with commercial collections unsatisfactory. Business has fallen off at Atlanta, but at Savannah the situation is unchanged, with jobbers cautious as to opening accounts. A fair volume of business is doing at New Orleans, but collections are poor because of nonpayment of sugar bounties. No important changes are reported from Memphis, Richmond, Charleston or Galveston.

The damage by the Florida feeze was exagerated. A large portion of the orange crop had already been marketed. Late crop, and that held for higher prices, was caught and destroyed. Some young trees were hurt, but old groves were practically uninjured. Heavy losses fell on large growers. A good but small crop is expected this year. Results of Florida naval stores and phosphate industries, truck and berry farming are said to have been satisfactory.

R. G. Dun & Co's weekly report says: Apart from the gold and bond issue questions the domestic money market is decidedly encouraging, with a fairly hopeful increase in transactions of commercial paper, though receipts of money from the interior continue surprisingly large.

THE BOND ISSUE READY.

Contracts Signed for the Four Per Cents. Ten Days Given Congress to Act.

WASHINGTON, February 9.—Unless congress in ten days passes a law authorizing the issue of gold bonds bearing three per cent interest running thirty years, or otherwise relieves the treasury in the replenisment of the gold reserve, Secretary Carlisle will, by direction of the president, sell four per cent bonds to the amount of $62,400,000 for gold. Arrangements whereby this can be done and $65,000,000 in gold be received for the bonds have been perfected, and the contingent contract signed. In the official memorandmm of the transaction, made public at the treasury yesterday, is the following:

"The contract was made with August Belmont & Co., of New York, on behalf of Messrs. N. M. Rothschild & Sons, of London, and J. P. Morgan & Co., of New York, on behalf of J. S. Morgan & Co., of London, and themselves and provides for the delivery to the United States of 3,500,000 ounces of standard gold coin of the United States to be paid for in United States four per cent bonds. A large number of other banks and financial institutions are interested in the transaction, but their names are not mentioned in the contract itself. The department does not know in what proportion the various parties are to furnish the gold coin or receive the bonds, as this is a matter for arrangement between themselves."

WROUGHT HAVOC IN FLORIDA.

Young Vegetables and Fruits Killed—Other Damages.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., February 9.—The blizzard has wrought havoc in Florida. Thousands of acres of young vegetables are killed. Orange trees are worse hurt than in the freeze of December on account of their being filled with spring sap. Many were just budding. Even strawberries were killed. The mercury touched 14 yesterday at Jacksonville or the same as recorded in the freeze of December 29. At other points in the state it was relatively as cold. At Jupiter, three hundred miles south of Jacksonville the mercury was 23, Titusville, 150 miles south, 18 and Tampa, 225 miles south, 22 degrees. At Tampa, Clearwater and vicinity it snowed from 6 a. m. to noon and the inhabitants marvelled at the unprecedented freak of king winter.

Playing Around Zero in North Carolina.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., February 9.—Business here has been hung up since Thursday afternoon when the ground was covered with snow and ice. The mercury yesterday way one degree above zero. This morning it is 9 above, four higher than at the same hour yesterday morning.

Ways and Means Committee in Session.

WASHINGTON, February 9.—Representative Wilson, of West Virginia, the chairman of the ways and means committee, to whom the president's bond message was referred yesterday, called the committeee together at 10 o'clock this morning. No action as yet made known.

Hearing of Deb's Case Adjourned.

CHICAGO, Ill., February 9.—On account of the illness of juror J. C. Coe, the hearing of the Debs case was adjourned until Monday morning. Both sides wanted to go on, but Judge Grosscup held that such a proceeding would be invalid.

All South Carolina Vegetables Destroyed.

CHARLESTON, S. C., February 9.—The thermometer here reached twelve degrees this morning, the lowest on record for February. Everything in the way of vegetation is destroyed.

Navigation Stopped at Memphis.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., February 9.—The thermometer here reached 2 2-20 below zero yesterday. The river is full of heavy ice and navigation is stopped. All trains are on time.

Three Killed, Fourteen Injured.

PARIS, February 9.—An explosion occurred in a foundry at Joineville in the department of Haute-Marne, yesterday, killing three men and injuring fourteen.

TRAINS ALL DELAYED

Blocks of Ice and Snow Stop Transportation.

CRIPPLED THROUGHOUT THE COUNTRY

Especially Felt in the North, Where the Roads are Covered With Drifts and Avalanches—Serious Results From Cold Continues.

PHILADELPHIA, February 9.—The entire Pennsylvania railroad system to Washington in the east and as far west as Pittsburg is seriously crippled because of snow drifts. In some places, particularly at Mifflin, forty-nine miles west of Harrisburg, the snow has drifted as high as the car tops. A few trains on the various divisions departed from Philadelphia yesterday morning, but the drifts interrupted their progress at intervals on every few miles. Thus far no accidents have been reported.

The Western, Southwestern and Pacific express trains which left here Thursday night at 8:50, 10:25 and 11:30 o'clock respectively were snow bound all night in the neighborhood of Downington. Yesterday morning workmen succeeded in clearing the tracks and the trains proceeded slowly, arriving at Harrisburg shortly before noon. It is not believed that they can get farther west than Mifflin as several trains have been snow bound there since Thurday. The snow has drifted badly on the famous "horseshoe curve" which is in the Allegheny mountains, five miles west of Altoona, and a freight train was stalled throughout the night at that place. As a liberal supply of coal was put on all trains before their departure there was no suffering among the belated passengers or train crews.

Surmounting Cliffs of Ice.

On the New York division and on the Maryland division the situation is practically the same as on the main line as regards irregular train service, although the drifts are not so bad.

The high winds blew the snow into heaps on the tracks almost as fast as workmen could clear it away, and the cold is growing more intense hourly.

Luckily the telegraph wires over the Pennsylvania road are in fairly good shape, thus making it possible to direct the movements of trains from central points and lessening the possibility of accidents.

The Reading road is also in bad shape, particularly at Reading and in the coal regions.

An east bound passenger train on the east Pennsylvania road is snow bound near Lyons station and is almost completely hidden from view. There are only a few persons on the train besides the crew.

The Blizzard Coupled With Snow.

The trains on the main line between Pottssville and Philadelphia are all more or less late. The mail train which is due in Philadelphia at noon from Pottsville, is fast in a big drift near Hamburg.

The Wilmington & Northern trains are all snow bound and traffic has been brought to a standstill.

The Schuylkill and Lehigh branch is snowed up completely and no attempt was made to start trains.

The Reading & Columbia branch is also snow bound and traffic is at a standstill.

There is apparently no let up in the storm and the air is filled with flying snow. Railroadmen say the conditions are equally as bad as in the blizzard of March 1888.

DAY WITHOUT SENSATIONS.

The Progress of the Hayward Trial Now on in Minneapolis.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., February 9.—There was little excitement at the Hayward trial yesterday. Blixt was not present and Attorney Erwin's chair was empty. Neither did Adry Hayward appear to go on the stand in the forenoon and the witnesses who were called were the small fry of the state and did not hold the attention of the crowd. Charles Anderson, the brother-in-law of Mrs. Blixt, who was called to the stand last night, was placed on the stand in the morning. The story of the witness was largely corroborative of the former testimony given by Blixt, his wife and Barlow.

Frank Tucker, elevator boy at the Ozark flats, was the next witness. He saw Hayward in the basement on the evening of the murder, talking to Blixt. He had instructions from Hayward not to run to the basement but to stay on the first floor. He saw Blixt go out on the evening in question.

Frank McCormick, a bar-tender, testified to having sold Hayward a bottle of whisky on the morning of the murder.

STUDENTS GIVEN LIBERTY.

Mexico's Young Patriots Go Free After an Executive Lecture.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., February 9.—A special to the Globe-Democrat, from the City of Mexico, says that by order of the governor of federal district, the students arrested for the riot Sunday night have been given their liberty. They were given a hearing at the municipal palace before the governor and having explained that their transgressions were but the result of patriotism, and being admonished by the governor to be more careful in their future demonstrations were allowed to go.

The Mexican warship Saragossa is lying in the harbor of Aculpulco on the Pacific coast, waiting orders from the general government.

DEATH FOR THE AMERICANS.

United States Government will Stay the Execution—Serious State of Affairs.

WASHINGTON, D. C., February 9—The president has sent to congress the latest telegram from minister Willis and secretary Gresham's instructions in reply, showing more serious condition of affairs than reported in press dispatches. The dispatches are as follows:

Mr. Willis to Mr. Gresham:

Honolulu, January 30, (San Francisco, February, 6.—Revolt over 9th. Casualities, Government, one, Royalists, two. Court martial convened 17th.; has tried thirty eight cases; two hundred more to be tried and daily arrests. Gulick, former minister, and Seward, minister, major in federal army, both Americans, and Rickard, Englishman, sentenced to death: all heretofore prominent in politics. T. B. Walker, formerly in the United States army, imprisonment for life and $5,000 fine. Other sentences not disclosed, but will probably be death. Requested copies of record for our government to determine its duty before final sentence, but no answer yet. Bitter feeling and threats of mob violence which arrival of of "Philadelphia" yesterday may prevent. Liliuckalani made prisoner 16th: on 24th, relinquished all claims and swore allegiance to the public, imploring clemency for Hawaiians. Government replies to Liliuckalani: — "This document cannot be taken to exempt you in the slightest degree from personal and individual liability," for complicity in late conspiricy: denies that she had any rights since January 14th, 1863, when she attempted new constitution.

"Fully appreciates her call to disaffected, to recognize republic and of consideration of unselfish appeal for clemency for participants.

(signed) ALBERT S. WILLIS.

Mr. Gresham to Mr. Willis:

Department of State, Washington, February 7.

Cooper, United States Despatch, Sanfrancisco, Cal.: Forward following by first steamer to A. S. Willis, United States Minister, Honolulu.

"If American citizens were condemned to death by a military tribunal, not for actual participation in reported revolution but for complicity only, or if condemned to death by such a tribunal for actual participation but not after open fair trial with opportunity for defense, demand delay of execution and in either case report to your government, evidence relied on to support death sentence.

DECREASE IN ALL FAILURES.

That in Manufacturing Lines Most Noteworthy—Dun's Report.

NEW YORK, February 9.—R. G. Dun & Co. in their report on failures, say: The failures reported for the month of January show an aggregate of $15,103,209, liabilities against $29,843,028 last year, and in manufacturing only $3,728,587 against $11,589,715 last year, while in trading the liabilities were $11,055,105 against $17,234,537 last year. The remarkable large decrease in manufacturing failures deserve the more attention because prices of manufactured products have so greatly declined during the year, and the output has been greatly reduced. Failures for the past week have been 201 in the United States, against 385 last year, and 58 in Canada against 60 last year.

STAMPEDE IN A COURT HOUSE.

Roof fell, the Building Ignited, and Serious Personal Injuries Sustained.

CLARKSVILLE, Tenn., February 9—During a trial in the circuit court room at the court house yesterday the roof of the structure fell, causing a panic among the crowd in attendance at the trial. The building instantly caught fire and in the rush for safety, William Joslyn's leg was broken and a number of other persons sustained serious injuries. Judge Wilson jumped from a window to the ground, a distance of thirty feet, and was slightly hurt. Owing to the intense cold weather the firemen had hard work fighting the flames. The loss is probably $15,000.

PERSONS FATALLY BURNED.

The Cold Weather Results in Bereaving Many a Home.

NEW ORLEANS, February 9.—Mrs. Jacobs and her six-year-old child Stella, were fatally burned yesterday at their home on St. Thomas street. The child's dress was ignited by a grate fire and the mother, in endeavoring to quench the flames, was also badly burned. The charred remains of Charles Seymour, an aged stableman, were founed in the ruins of a fire that occurred yesterday. He was not missed until the body was found.

ICY WEATHER IN COLUMBIA.

The Lowest Temperature Ever Known in South Carolina Recorded.

COLUMBIA, S. C., February 9.—Yesterday was the coldest day known in Columbia, the mean temperature for 24 hours being only 14 degrees, far below any previous record. The thermometer is now sixteen degrees, one lower than the same time Thursday night. Trains from the north are about nine hours behind schedule time. Business has been practically suspended all day hereabouts, the people remaining indoors.

THROUGH ALABAMA

Governor Oates Does Not Interfere in the Byars Case.

HONORABLE N. H. R. DAWSON DEAD.

An Atlanta Editor Thought to Have Killed Himself at Montgomery—Castleberry Infested With Burglars. Other State News.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., February 7.—Eugene Byars will hang tomorrow at noon in the yard of the Jefferson county jail. He was tried and convicted about a year ago for the murder of a cousin, a United States soldier, at Beherens park, on the outskirts of this city. His attorney appealed to the supreme court, but that body sustained the decision of the lower court. Governor Oates was appealed to on two separate occasion, but he declined to interfere. The following letter explains the last appeal and his final decision:

State of Alabama, Executive department, office of the governor, Montgomery February 6. Geo. Morrow, sheriff of Jefferson county. Sir—I have duly considered all the applications made to me to interfere with the sentence of the court in the case of Eugene Byars. I have twice heretofore decided not to interfere.

I am now appealed to for a postponement of the day of his execution for thirty days on the ground that he has not had sufficient time to prepare for death. I find that the sentence of the court is affirmed by the supreme court on December 20th, last, some six weeks ago which has given him ample time to realize his situation and I must decline again to interfere with the sentence of the law.

You will please communicate this fact to the prisoner, to Rev. Dr. Morris, and to the relatives of the prisoner without delay.

Wm. C. Oates, governor..

HON. N. H. R. DAWSON DEAD.

One of Alabama's Most Distinguished Citizens Passes Away.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., February 2.—Hon. N. H. R. Dawson died at his home in Selma at an early hour yesterday morning. He had been one of the most distinguished figures in Alabama for many years. He was commissioner of education under Mr. Cleveland's first administration. He had held many positions of trust and honor in this state and was a splendid gentleman of the old school. He was born in Charleston, and was a descendant of General Paul Hamilton, secretary of the navy in 1812 and of several early colonial governors of South Carolina. He was also a brother-in-law of President Lincoln, their wives being sisters.

AND HE HAILS FROM ATLANTA.

N. M. Brown, Editor, Thought to have Killed Himself in Montgomery.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., February 7.—N. M. Brown came here from Atlanta, some time ago. A few days ago he started an afternoon paper here and printed it two days. Yesterday Mr. Tenant Lomax received a letter from Brown through the postoffice saying that his (Brown's) life had been a failure throughout and he intended to drown himself in the river. Since that time nothing has been heard or seen of him. He cannot be located by wire in Atlanta. His wife and two children, one three weeks old, are here in destitute circumstances and are much distressed over his disappearance.

BURGLARS' REIGN IN ALABAMA.

Depot and Express Office and Several Residences Entered at Castleberry.

CASTLEBERRY, Ala., February 6.—The depot and express office at this place was broken open last night and robbed of over $300. Stores and residences in the neighborhood have been robbed frequently for the last two years and it is thought there is a regular gang with headquarters in that section.

Killed in the Privacy of His Home.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., February 7.—News has just reached here that on Saturday night last while Joseph H. Hurst, a good citizen of Choctaw county, was bathing his feet preparatory to retiring, an assassin fired a load of buckshot into his head, killing him instantly. There is no telegraphic commodation with the place, and further particulars cannot be learned.

THE Alabama legislature will adjourn on Monday of next week. It can be depended upon that none of the members failed to draw their salaries.

THE Philadelphians are finding it difficult to live up to their new city hall. It will cost $7,000 to furnish the three council chambers with chairs at $123 each, desks at $174, and carpets at $6.00 a square yard. The figure of William Penn is out of place over this monument of extravagance, and it should come down to be replaced by some historic plunger.

THE estimate of the corn crop in the southern states this year is 490,000,000 bushels, an increase of 50,000,000 bushels over last year. Here is a gold mine, the yield of which can be made better and better if planters can only be persuaded to drop cotton to some extent. The day ought to be near at hand, also, for the South to pack its own hogs by the aid of cold storage.

THE French line steamer, the La Gascogne, which was nine days overdue, reached New York harbor last Sunday evening. There were 450 people on board. There was great rejoicing when the vessel reached port: strong men breaking down and weeping like children, so great was their joy at the sight of the steamer bearing their loved ones, who had almost been given up for lost.

THE state of Georgia gallantly gives in pensions to the widows of Confederate veterans about $100,000. Besides this, it pays about $300,000 to maimed veterans who were in the Confederate service. This is creditable to the people of Georgia.—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

Time was, and not long since, when this information would have aroused the most intense indignation in the Inter-Ocean office, and would have furnished the text for a malicious attack on the South for "maintaining a stubborn faith in its own disloyalty." But times have changed, and there is no stronger evidence of it than this commendation from the Inter-Ocean of Georgia's patriotic generosity to its old soldiers.—Chattanooga Times.

THE republican speakers and newspapers are charging the entire responsibility of the failure of congress to pass the bill to relieve the treasury to the democrats. It is a fact the democrats should have passed the bill and thus gained the credit for patriotic action at a time when it would have resulted in more than ordinary good to the whole people, yet the republicans contributed all they could to that failure, and showed, by their action, that their love of party was far greater than that of country. It must be remembered that ninety-two democrats voted for the relief measure, while only forty-two republicans out of the ninety-eight voting, recorded themselves for it, the other fifty-six voting against it, and at the same time refusing to join in formulating any other plan that might bring relief.

THE cold wave which struck this part of the country last Thursday morning, proved to be the most severe the South has ever experienced, the thermometer falling to zero at many places where 10 and 15 degrees above was considered the coldest. The cold spell was the most general ever known, having extended all over North America, and extending to Europe, and even in southern Italy the cold was most intense.

The weather moderated somewhat by Sunday, and Sunday night it commenced to rain, which froze as fast as it fell, covering the country with a mantel of ice, breaking the limbs off of trees, and in many instances breaking down the trees entirely. This was followed on Tuesday by a severe snow storm, which in some places in Mississippi and Georgia, was to such an extent that snow covered the ground to the depth of three and four inches on the level.

HENRY WATTERSON, the light of the South, and more generally quoted than any other American editor, has put the Courier Journal among the gold standard papers. He says there is no longer any doubt of it, only one standard is possible, and that must be the standard adopted by the world. He might have added that no other is possible with a debtor nation like ours when its creditor is a gold standard nation. We must pay according to the stipulations of the contract or repudiate. The contract calls for gold and gold it must be, no matter what our wishes may be in the matter. When a man gives his note for a hundred dollars, he can't pay it off in potatoes just because he has potatoes to spare. Democrats have this consolation, and that is the republican party made the debt and not the democrats. It is true Cleveland has issued gold bonds to the amount of one hundred million dollars, but it was to pay republican debts payable in gold, if not directly, then ultimately so. If the country was out of debt, and the people were out of debt one money would be as good as another if of general use. But through republican extravagance as a people we have suddenly become a nation and a race of debtors, and until we dig out, if ever, we can do nothing but comply with the terms of the securities. The impatience of the people has taken the country out of the hands of their benefactors and we have little to look forward to in the way of relief, from those who imposed these burdens on us—Talladega News-Reporter.

SILVER AND PRICES.

One of the most frequent plaints of the free silverites is that the present low prices of agricultural products are due to what they call "the demonetization of silver."

In the New York Journal of Commerce we find the following clear and practical remarks on the subject:

"What legislation has there been to reduce prices? The charge of contraction, whether in the aggregate or per capita, is easily disproved. There is no truth in it. We have recently shown how much more silver has been used for monetary purposes since 1873 than in the eighty years preceding. But gold has been made the single standard. That is substantially true. But it has not thrown silver or paper out of use: there has been no cutting of the volume of money in two as we are so often told. If all currency except gold had been abolished, it might plausibly have been charged that the fall of prices was due to the reduced volume of circulation, but no such state of facts exists.

"If we assume that additional supplies of metallic currency would stay in the country, which our experience under the Sherman law does not justify, and if we assume that such additional supplies raised prices, which is very doubtful, for prices have been going down while the production of gold was very rapidly increasing and the per capita circulation was rising, we may then ask what has been accomplished for the public benefit. The prices of all the planters' supplies would be increased; the inducement to raise more cotton would be greater than ever, and the Georgia planter would devote all his lands to cotton and be more dependent upon purchased supplies from the West than ever.

"The substitution of the silver for the existing gold standard would drive all gold out of circulation as suddenly as the issue of the "old demand" notes in the fall of 1864 forced the suspension of specie payments by the New York banks. This would be, as it was then, acute contraction. There would then be, as there was in 1861, a real scarcity of currency, which is not the case now, as is shown by the amount of money lying idle and seeking investment.

"But the advocates of silver, without exception, declare that in silver-using countries prices have not advanced in the past twenty years; that a rupee or a dollar buys as much as it ever did. This is only very partly true, and it is true as an exception only because those countries are semi-barbarious; but it is the claim of the silver advocates. What then would be the effect in Georgia of putting the country on the silver basis? With the price of cotton stationary, but expressed in a currency which would buy about 50 per cent less in the markets of the world than the existing currency which stands at par in gold, how much better off would the Georgia planter find himself?

"The financial problem is not a question of nominal price, but a question of real price; it is not a question of the number of monetary units, but a question of the amount of other merchandise, all necessary to him, which the cotton planter can get for a given weight of cotton. In this respect, he certainly needs relief, but it cannot be afforded by legislation that shall make the dollar worth about half as much as it is now.

"One lesson of history ought to be remembered, and that is that the rich can always "hedge" against depreciation of the currency, and speculators generally succeed in getting a profit for it. But the men who work for wages, and the men who raise crops to be turned into a small sum of money to be expended in procuring food and implements and groceries, always suffer from legislation of that character. Nothing could be more disastrous to the laboring and producing interests than to chop the dollars in two and call the half the whole in order to get more of them."

ONE FICTION OF THE WAR

The Apple Tree of Appomattox Connected With the Surrender of Lee

One of the war fictions that will not down is that Lee surrendered to Grant under an apple tree, says the Richmond Dispatch. The "Apple Tree of Appomattox" blooms perennially in newspaper literature. It can't be killed. Frost doesn't hurt it—all attempts to "freeze it out" have failed. It is proof against wind and weather, of denial and denunciation. The ax has been laid at its roots by many historians, but the tree shoots up again, instanter. The terms of surrender were arranged at the house of Mr. McLean—a gentleman who, having been driven away by battle from his farm at Manassas, sought refuge on another farm of his in secluded Appomattox county. In his home Lee and Gaant met. There they happily arranged the terms of surrender of the army of northern Virginia in a correspondence of wonderful brevity and clearness. A deed drawn in the usual form conveying an acre of Appomattox land worth $5 would have had more words in it than Lee and Grant used to dispose of the lives and fortunes of thousands of men. But there certainly was an apple tree at Appomattox, and it was incidentally connected with the surrender. Beneath this tree Lee lay and waited to hear what Grant would say in response to his (Lee's) proposition to cease hostilities. Exhausted from loss of sleep, weary from long hours in the saddle, his heart weighted with sadness, Lee rested his head and stretched his limbs under the fragrant blossoms of the apple tree. We hope that that tree still stands. When the battlefield is parked in accordance with the suggestion of the Dispatch every southerner will wish to see that tree, or, if the tree be dead and gone, the spot where it stood.

TO COTTON GROWERS.

Hon. Hector D. Lane, of Alabama, President of the American Cotton Growers' Protective Association, has furnished the following significant memorandum for publication to the people of the South.

It goes without saying that if anything like 3-cent cotton on plantations is witnessed next year, a general crash will ensue. Real estate and securities of all kinds will reach such a level in the South as few can imagine. European speculators are to day selling cotton in Liverpool for delivery in October, November, December, 1895, at a price equivalent to about 4 cents on farms in the South for middling, or 5 cents at the ports, believing that another 9,500,000, or larger crop, will be grown in America, which would insure them a profit of at least 1 cent per pound, which would mean to the farmer about 3 cents at the railroad stations next autumn, when cotton is moving in large volumes. It is not to be supposed that these shrewd European cotton dealers are aggressively selling the next crop at an equal to 4 cents unless they have excellent reasons for believing that the South will plant for another monster crop. They are confident, on information furnished them, that Texas will not decrease its acreage, therefore, believing this to be true to such an extent that they will be able to buy back during next fall the cotton they are now selling at much lower prices, realizing thereby handsome profits. It remains with the farmers and merchants of the South to say whether these European speculators will be permitted to reap a golden harvest at the expense of the farmers, plantations, towns, real estate and securities of the South.

The above statement is from me officially, and I desire that it should be presented to the public as such through the press.

Respectfully,

HECTOR D. LANE,
President Cotton Growers Protective Association.

SMALL TROUBLES.

A philosopher suggests that if you would keep a book and every day put down things that worry you, and see what becomes of them, it would be a benefit to you. You allow a thing to annoy you just as you allow a fly to settle on you and plague you, and you lose your temper and you justify yourself in being thrown off your balance by causes which you do not trace out. But, if you would see what it was that threw you off your balance, and put it down in your little book, and follow out and see what becomes of it, you would see what a fool you were in the matter. The art of forgetting is a blessed art, but the art of overlooking is quite as important. And if we should take time to write down the origin, progress and outcome of a few of our troubles, it would make us ashamed of the fuss we made over them, and we should be glad to drop such things and bury them at once in eternal forgetfulness. Life is too short to be worn out in petty worries, frettings, hatreds and vexations. Nurse virtues and reasonable recreations and keep in touch with pleasant people who are not thinking always and talking constantly of their bodily troubles.

WHEN WERE YOU BORN.

Significance of the Various Months of the Year.

From the Louisville Times.

The man born in January will be a hard worker; a lover of good wine; a fine singer; a manager of great enterprises. The woman born in this month will be affable; will have domestic tastes and will be capable of great endurance.

The man born in February will love money much but women more. He will be stingy at home but prodigal abroad. The woman will be an affectionate wife and a good mother.

The man born in March will be handsome, honest, prudent; yet he will die poor. The woman will be tall, stout and witty.

The man born in April will not necessarily be a fool, even if his birthday is the next day after the 31st of March. The woman will be a chatterbox and will have "advanced" ideas. She will be a leading member of the "shrieking sisterhood."

The man born in May will be amiable and will make his wife happy. The woman will equal him in amiability and the other above-named desirable quality.

The man born in June will be of small statue and very fond of women and children. The woman will be flighty and a high liver, but will repent and sober down at forty.

A man born in July will be of military tastes, a trifle pompous, but a good fellow withal. The woman will have a sulky temper; she will pout and be handsome.

The man born in August will be ambitious and courageous. The woman will be what New Englanders call "capable;" she will be equal to running a farm or editing a newspaper.

The man born in September will be strong and wise; he will make few mistakes and live and die rich. The woman will be loved by her friends, have many suitors and die an old maid.

The man born in October will write poetry when young, then he will dabble in politics and wind up as a reformer. The woman will be pretty and later in life an apostle of total abstinence.

The man born in November will have a fine face, great address, and, if not careful, he will be "a gay Lothario." The woman will be large, liberal minded and fond of novelty and novels.

The man born in December will have a passionate temper, yet will be the first to forgive. The woman will be a "lady bountiful" to the "deserving poor," but a terror to tramps and the "wilfully" unemployed.

PULASKI'S TWENTY-SEVEN LIARS.

The Hartwell (Ga.) Sun tells this one on Rev. Sam Jones:

An amusing incident occurred at the close of Sam Jones' sermon at Pulaski the other day. Stepping down from the pulpit, folding his hands across his breast and looking solemnly over the audience, the great revivalist said:

"I want all the women in this crowd who have not spoken a harsh word or harbored an unkind thought towards their husband for a month past to stand up."

One old woman, apparently on the shady side of 60, stood up.

"Come forward and give me your hand," said the preacher.

The woman did so, whereupon Jones said:

"Now turn around and let the audience see the best-looking woman of the country."

After taking her seat, the revivalist addressed the men:

"Now I want all the men in this crowd who have not spoken a hard word or harbored an unkind thought towards their wives for a month past to stand up."

Twenty-seven great big, strapping fellows, hopped out of the audience with all the alacrity of champagne corks.

"Come forward and give me your hands, my dear boys."

Jones gave each one a vigorous shake of his hand, after which he ranged all of them side by side in front of the pulpit and facing the audience. He looked them over carefully and solemnly, and then, turning around to the audience, he said:

"I want you all to take a good look at the twenty-seven biggest liars in the State of Tennessee."

THE YOUNG MAN WAITED.

In the room below the young man sat,
With an anxious face and a white cravat,
With a throbbing heart and a silken hat,
And various other things like that,
Which he had accummulated.
And the maid of his heart was up above,
Surrounded by hat and gown and glove
And some thousand things that women love,
But no man knows the names thereof.
And the young man sat, and waited.

You will scarce believe the things I tell,
But the truth thereof I know full well,
Though, how may not be stated.
But I swear to you that the maiden took
A sort of a half-breed, thin stove hook
And heated it well in the gaslight there
And thrust it into her head or hair!
Then she took a something off the bed
And hooked it onto her hair, or head;
Then she piled it higher and piled it higher
And drove it home with staples of wire.
And the young man anxiously—waited.

Then she took a thing she called a puff.
And some very peculiar, whitish stuff,
And, using about a half a peck,
She spread it over her face and neck.
(Deceit was a thing she hated)
She looked as fair as the purest flower,
Or a pound of lard or a sack of flour.
And the young man wearily—waited.

Then she took a garment of awful shape,
And it wasn't a waist, not yet a cape,
But it seemed like a piece of ancient mail,
Or an instrument from a Russian jail;
And then with a fearful groan and gasp,
She squeezed herself in its deathly clasp.
So fair and yet so fated!
And then with a move like I don't know what,
She tied it on with a double knot.
And the young man woefully—waited.

Then she put on a dozen different things,
A mixture of buttons and hooks and strings,
'Till she strongly resembled a notion store;
Then taking some seventeen pins or more,
She thrust them into her ruby lips,
Then stuck them around from neck to hips,
And never once hesitated.
And the maiden didn't know, perhaps,
That the man below had had seven naps,
And that now he sleepily—waited.

And then she tried to put on her hat.
Ah me! a trying ordeal was that.
She tipped it high and tried it low,
But every way that the thing would go
Only made her more agitated.
It wouldn't go straight and it caught her hair,
And she wished she could hire a man to swear,
But alas, the only man lingering there
Was the man who wildly—waited.

And then, before she could take her leave,
She had to pump up her monstrous sleeve;
Then a little dab and a wee pat there,
And a touch a two to her hindmost hair;
Then around the room with the utmost care
She thoughtfully circulated.

Then she seized her gloves and a chamois skin,
Some breath perfume and a long stick-pin,
A bonbon box and a cloak and some
Eau de cologne and chewing gum.
Her opera glass and a sealskin muff.
A fan and a heap of other stuff;
Then she hurried down, but ere she spoke,
Something about the maiden broke,
So she scurried back to the winding stair,
And the young man looked in wild despair;
And then he—evaporated.

WHEN JIMMY COMES FROM SCHOOL.

When Jimmy comes from school at four,
Jerusalem! how things begin
To whirl and buzz and bang and spin
And brighten up from roof to floor!
The dog that all day long has lain
Upon the back porch wags his tail
And leaps and barks and begs again
The last scrap in the dinner pail
When Jimmy comes from school.

The cubbord latches clink a tune,
And mother from her kitting stirs
To tell that hungry boy of her's
That supper will be ready soon,
And then a slab of pie he takes,
A cooky and a quince or two,
And for the breezy barnyard breaks,
Where everything cries, "How d'y do?"
When Jimmy comes from school,

The rooster on the garden fence
Struts up and down and crows and crows
As if he knows, or think he knows,
He, too, is of some consequence.
The guineas join the chorus, too,
And just beside the window sill
The red bird, swinging out of view
On his high perch, begins to trill,
When Jimmy comes from school.

When Jimmy comes from school, take care!
Our hearts begin to throb and quake
With life and joy, and every ache
Is gone before we are aware.
The earth takes on a richer hue,
A softer light falls on the flowers,
And overhead a brighter blue
Seems bent above this world of ours,
When Jimmy comes from school.

THE SONG WE'RE SINGING.

Oh, Dixie land is the land of cotton,
Bring 5 cents, an' the crap's forgotton,
Bring mills,
Bring mills,
Bring yer cotton mills to Dixie!

Oh, we want more mills in Dixie,
Today,
Hooray!
We want more mills in Dixie state,
Fer to weave the cotton an' save the freight
Today,
Hooray!
We want more mills in Dixie!

Oh, cotton still is a great deceiver,
But what we want is the cotton weaver.
Bring mills,
Bring mills,
Bring yer cotton mills to Dixie!

Oh, we want more mills in Dixie,
Today,
Hooray!
We want more mills fer to turn aroun',
An' take our cotton at a cent a poun',
Hooray!
Look away!
Look away down south in Dixie!
—Alabama Courier.

A Des Moines, Iowa, woman, who has been troubled with frequent colds, concluded to try an old remedy in a new way, and accordingly took a tablespoonfull (four times the usual dose) of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy just before going to bed. The next morning she found that her cold had almost entirely disappeared. During the day she took a few doses of the remedy (one teaspoonfull at a time,) and at night she again took a tablespoonfull before going to bed, and on the following morning awoke free from all symptoms of the cold. Since then, she has, on several occasions, used this remedy in like manner, with the same good results, and is much elated over her discovery of so quick a way of curing a cold. TOWN AND COUNTY NEWS.

You bet old Dixie ain't fergotton—
Mills jest makin' fer the cotton;
Here they're comin' to receive it—
Here they'll pick, and here they'll weave it;
Then the land with fat will trickle—
Pound o'cotton fer one nickel.
Look away.

Look away down South in Dixie!
—Atlanta Constitution.

This is Saint Valentine day.

Elbert McClinton, of Calera, was in town Monday.

Mrs. N. B. Mardis, has been quite sick the past week.

W. S. Meroney, of Blocton, is on a visit to relatives here.

J. F. Pope, of Wilsonville, transacted business here Monday.

J. C. Brock, of Piedmont, spent last week in town on business.

Bur Nabors, of Montevallo, spent Monday and Tuesday here.

E. W. Bell spent Tuesday and Wednesday in Selma on business.

W. M. Callahan spent Thursday and Friday of last week in Selma.

Miss Annie Woodruff, of Shelby, was a visitor in town last week.

Miss Lula Blevins, of Calera, is visiting the family of J. H. Newton.

Thompson Cooper, of Shelby Springs, spent Monday in town with friends.

A. P. Longshore and J. L. Peters are in Montgomery this week on business.

Miss Stella Onderdonk, of Calera, visited the family of J. H. Newton last week.

The February number of The Howard Magazine has just been issued from this office.

Mrs. Jim Hand, and Miss Mattie Hand, of Jemison, visited Mrs. B. L. Moore last week.

W. S. and C. W. Carey and E. S. Lyman, of Montevallo, were in town the front part of this week.

The "oldest inhabitant" will have to take a back seat now. This weather heads the list, undoubtedly.

Several of our prominent citizens have sat down on the sidewalk to reflect on things in general, and likewise to do a little "cussin'," during the icy season the first of the week.

On account of the miserably bad weather Judge Leeper adjourned county court until next regular session, as it was impossible for people living in the country to attend this week.

Live stock that is not protected by shelter are having a hard time of it this weather, and it is more than probable that many head will succumb to the rigorous winter we are now having.

The Chronicle office has had some new and tasty signs painted on its front windows. Read and reflect and bring your job work to The Chronicle office if you want neat and tasty work at low prices.

We are requested to announce that on account of the extremely bad weather the principals of the Fitting School will not attempt to teach school until next Monday. The lost time will be made up at the end of the session.

Our local columns are somewhat slim this week, owning to the inclemency of the weather, which prevented us from getting around or anyone from visiting or making any business calls in town.

Mrs. A. E. Jackson and sons, Charlie and Frank, came up last Friday from British and remained here until yesterday, when they left for Anniston, where they will reside in future. They have the hearty good wishes of our entire community for their success in their new home.

Today is Valentine day and many a tender, loving message will cupid cause to be sent to fair maidens to give them a fluttering of the heart and bring to their cheeks a rosy flush of joy that is delightful to behold: while to old maids and bachelors those three-for-a-cent kind will be received. The two bachelors composing The Chronicle force are rejoicing with exceeding gladness that there is not a valentine to be had in town.

Wilsonville Waifs.

Did you receive a Valentine?

Rev. J. M. McCord preached an interesting sermon at the Baptist church Sunday.

Mr. Benj. Lilly, after stopping in Talladega for some time, returned home last Tuesday.

Rev. F. M. Montgomery has commenced house-keeping in the house recently vacated by Dr. Boyer.

Mrs. Porter and children, of Jacksonville, visited Mr. McGowen's family, returning home Wednesday.

Miss Lizzie Arnold, after visiting friends here, returned home Wednesday, much to the sorrow of some of the boys.

The Starlight Minstrels have gone into winter quarters. Was sorry they could not give Columbiana their farewell tour instead of Childersburg.

The freeze has been furnishing fun and amusement for the boys in the way of skating, until one young man "slid up" causing him to get a bruised eye. The charm seemes to have vanished since. "BUTCH."

Items from Sterrett.

Cold, cold, cold!

The thermometer dropped to 6 deg. above zero last Friday.

Hamp Parsons, of Jefferson county, is visiting friends at Sterrett.

Miss Fannie Franklin is visiting the family of A. B. Allen, at this place.

Mrs. Kate Neal, of Easonville, was called to the bedside of her sick mother, Mrs. Mary Jarrett, last week.

Our merchants are filling their stores with their spring stock of goods to exchange for 5 cent cotton in the fall.

Mr. J. B. Skinner and Miss Dovie McGinnis were married at Blocton a few days ago and returned home Sunday.

Mrs. Dr. Kinett, of Weldon, spent last week with relatives here. Her little boy and girl, Guy and Ruth, are attending our school.

Miss Myrtie Neal, of Easonville, who has been visiting here for some time past, has returned to her home to the great regret of our young men.

We learn from letters received from our former neighbor, T. H. Baxley, now of Tyler, Texas, that he is pleasantly situated and well pleased with his new home.

Miss Alice Kinnett has arrived from a protracted visit to friends in Georgia, and will in the future reside with her father at this place. The boys already have began to smile.

Cards are out announcing the approaching marriage of our genial merchant Mr. Robert E. Cosper to Miss Laura Butler, of Jemison, on next Thursday evening at 7 o'clock. We wish for them a happy and prosperous journey through life.

DIED.—Last Wednesday night, at this place, Mrs. Mary Jarrett, who has been in feeble health for some time, was relieved from the cares, pains and trials of this life and has gone to that sweet haven of rest that remaineth for the faithful. We extend profound sympathy to the bereaved relatives. BONAMI.

Montevallo Locals.

Illness having prevented the pastor of the Baptist church, Dr. A. W. McGaha from being with us on Sunday, his pulpit was ably filled by Mr. Thames, a student of Howard college, taking his text for his morning discourse from John 14: 1-2, and in the afternoon from Genesis 3:9; "Adam, Where art Thou?" Both sermons were full of illustration and were greatly appreciated and enjoyed by all present.

The young people's society of Christian Endeavor celebrated the 14th anniversary of its organization Sunday evening, An interesting program had been arranged, and the exercises began promptly at 7:30. Mrs. C. W. Cary, who has zealously encouraged and supported this little society since its organization, five years ago, had carefully studied the program and assigned a part to each member, all of whom acquitted themselves admirably. Rev. C. L. Dobbs, pastor of the M. E. church, Mr. Zwingle, pastor of the Cumberland Presbyterian church, and Mr. Thames, representing the Baptist, were present, and each delighted the audience with a short and appropriate address. Much regret is entertained that Rev. Mr. Smith was not present to represent the Episcopal church. A good crowd was in attendance and a liberal contribution was made up for mission work, which will be divided among the four churches.

The gloom and sadness because of the sad, sad death of our friend and companion, Hugh Reynolds, pervades our community. Bright and intelligent, kind and considerate, Hugh was a young man who had many friends.

"Not now, but thro' the coming years,
It may be in the better land,
We'll read the meaning of our tears,
And then, sometime, we'll understand."

We regret that some of the young people failed to attend the sociable given by Mrs. C. W. Cary at her hospitable home some time since. Our charming hostess never fails in her efforts to entertain, and the evening so pleasantly enjoyed passed only too quickly for the happy participants. Delightful refreshments were served at 10:30 o'clock. The guests present were Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Dobbs, Misses Lyman, Bessie and Bertie Allen, Daisy Canterberry, Acker and Eunice Latham, and Messrs. Farrington, Williams, Bowdon, Nabors, McConnaughy and Hecker.

Mrs. Thomas and daughter, of Selma, are guests for a few days of Mrs. Geo. W. Canterberry. E——.

A PRIZE OFFER.

Wishing to stimulate intensive farming and crop diversification, The Advertiser has decided to offer a series of prizes to be contested for by its farmer readers.

The following are the competitions it has arranged, and the only condition necessary to become a competitor is, that the contestant shall be a subscriber to The Semi-Weekly Advertiser at the time of the award, and for the six months preceding:

For the largest crop of corn per acre, not less than five or more than twenty acres.....$75
For the largest crop of clover, any variety, including Mellilotus, under the same conditions.....$75
For the largest crop of oats, same conditions.....$75
For the largest crop of cotton under the same conditions and the following additional one, viz: that the contestant shall not plant more than half the acreage in cotton this season that he did last year.....$100
For the largest crop of all four, same conditions governing each $100
For the largest aggregate weight of five dressed hogs.....$75

It will be necessary for each contestant, when making a return of his crop for these prizes, to furnish a full description of his method of cultivation, and feeding depth of plowing, kind and quantity of fertilizer used, age of hogs, together with an affidavit stating the size of his crop, number of acres, the amount received if sold, and in case of cotton, the acreage planted last year. This affidavit must be sworn to by the contestant and two witnesses, before a duly authorized officer. In case of a tie in the amount produced per acre, the largest tract will have the preference, if tracts are the same size, then the superior method of cultivation as decided by the faculty of the Agricultural College.

The Advertiser is fully convinced that intensive farming is the most profitable, and that deep plowing and rotation are an absolute necessity. It offers the foregoing prizes with the hope that all farmers in Alabama, Georgia, Mississippi, Louisiana, Texas and Florida, to which states it is confined, will compete and discover it is right in its convictions. Whenever it is possible, we would like each contestant to strive for all of the prizes and learn how profitable it is to be prepared for any turn of the market.

The award will be made January 1st, 1896.

A Description.

Judge—Please describe the man you saw talking to the prisoner.

Witness—I don't know how to do it, yer honor.

"Can't describe him? Did he look like any of these lawyers? Did he look like me?

"No, yer honor. He looked like an intelligent gentleman."—Philadelphia Inquirer.

The experience of Geo. A. Apgar, of German Valley, N. J., is well worth remembering. He was troubled with chronic diarrhœa and doctored for five months and was treated by four different doctors without benefit. He then began using Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy, of which one small bottle effected a complete cure. It is for sale by Parker & Armstrong.

Mrs. Bilson—Mr. Gamely has lived at my boarding house for ten years.

The Coffee Cooler—He's what might be called a steady boarder, I suppose?

"Well, he's steady enough in the daytime, but he's sometimes mighty wobbly at night."

Mrs. Emily Thorne, who resides at Toledo, Washington, says she has never been able to procure any medicine for rheumatism, that relieves the pain so quickly and effectually as Chamberlain's Pain Balm, and that she has also used it for lame back with great success. For sale by Parker & Armstrong.

Non-Resident Notice.

The State of Alabama, Shelby county.
Clardie Holman, Pro ami, H. C. Brasher, Complainant, vs. I. M. Holman, Defendant.
In Chancery at Columbiana, Ala., Sixth District, Northeastern Chancery Division, Spring Term, 1895.

In this cause it is made to appear to the register, by the affidavit of John D. Strange, solicitor for complainant, that the defendant, I. M. Holman, is a non-resident of Alabama, and that his particular place of residence is unknown to affiant; and further, that in the belief of said affiant, the defendant is over the age of 21 years.

It is therefore ordered by the register, that publication be made in The Shelby Chronicle, a newspaper published in Columbiana, Ala., once a week for four consecutive weeks, requiring him, the said I. M. Holman, to answer or demur to the same within thirty days after the 15th day of February, 1895, and failing so to do, a decree pro confesso will be taken against him in said cause.

Done at office in Columbiana, Alabama, this 21st day of January, 1895.

Rev. Dr. Parker

Is the beloved pastor of the Universalist church at Fargo, N. D., and has also been a pastor in Providence, R. I., New York City and Troy, N. Y. He says:

"I regard Hood's Sarsaparilla the best blood purifier, and I have good reason for this opinion. I am now 80 years of age. Four years ago I was afflicted with rheumatism in my back and limbs, so badly that it was impossible for me to get my usual sleep at night. I had just partially recovered from the grip, which reduced my weight 40 lbs. My appetite was poor and I felt languid and weak. In fact I was in a very dilapidated condition. Having heard and read so much about the wonderful cures produced by Hood's Sarsaparilla I resolved to give it a trial. I followed the directions, and before the fifth bottle was finished my appetite was restored, I felt invigorated and strong. My rheumatic difficulty had entirely disappeared. I cannot but think very highly of Hood's Sarsaparilla." J. N. PARKER. Be sure to get Hood's.

BACK WITH RICH TROPHIES.

Last spring notice was made in these columns that Mr. Henry A. Salzer, of the John A. Salzer Seed Co., La Crosse, Wis., America's leading Seed Growers and Merchants, was in Europe in search of rare seeds and novelties for the American farmer and citizen.

Judging from their new catalogue, his trip was an eminently successful one. It is brim full of rare things. Of especial merit we name the Bismarck Apple, bearing the second year; the Giant Flowering Star Phlox, the German Coffee Berry; and for the farmer the Victoria Rape, Germanica Vetch, the Lathyrus silvestris, the Giant Spurry and Giant Incarnate Clover; Sacaline, and dozens of other rare things.

This wide-awake firm is in the van, and their catalogue, which is sent you for 5 cents postage, would be cheap at $1 per copy.

A WOMAN'S NERVES.

The Story of a Woman to Whom Noise Was Torture.

Prostrated by the Least Excitement—Physicians Baffled by Her Case.

(From the Gate City, Keokuk, Iowa.)

Mrs. Helen Meyers, whose home is at 3515 Vernon Avenue, Chicago, and whose visit to Keokuk, Ia., will long be remembered, was at one time afflicted with a nervous malady which at times drove her nearly to distraction. "Those terrible headaches are a thing of the past," she said the other day to a Gate City representative, "and there is quite a story in connection with it, too."

My nervous system sustained a great shock some fifteen years ago, brought on, I believe, through too much worrying over family matters, and then allowing my love for my books to get the better of my discretion where my health was concerned. Why, whenever my affairs at home did not go along just as I expected, I would invariably become prostrated from the excitement, and I would consider myself fortunate indeed if the effects of the attack would not remain for a week. I was obliged to give up our pleasant home not far from the Lake Shore drive, because I could not stand the noise in that locality. I could find no place in the city which I deemed suitable to one whose nervous system was always on the point of explosion. To add to my misfortunes my complexion underwent a change, and I looked so yellow and sallow that I was ashamed to venture from the house at all.

"Madam," said my doctor to me soon after an unusually severe attack of the malady, "unless you leave the city and seek some place of quiet you will never recover." So I concluded I would visit my uncle, who lives in Dallas County, Iowa, and whose farm would surely be a good place for one in my pitiable condition. I picked up the Gate City one day and happened to come across an interesting recital of the recovery of some woman in New York State who was afflicted as I had been. This woman had been cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. I thought that if Pink Pills cured that woman they might do the same for me. I began to take the pills according to directions, and I began to feel better from the start. After I had taken several boxes of them I was ready to go back to Chicago. My nervousness was gone and my complexion was as fresh as that of any sixteen-year-old girl in Iowa, and Pink Pills is what put the color in my cheeks. No wonder I am in such high spirits and feel like a prize fighter. And no wonder I like to come to Keokuk, for if it had not been for Pink Pills bought from a Keokuk firm I would not have been alive now," laughingly concluded the lady.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are for sale by all druggists, or may be had by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y., for 50 cents per box, or six boxes for $2.50.

RAILROAD GATHERINGS.

AN express locomotive recently built at the Rochester shops of the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh railroad, from the designs of Mr. C. E. Turner, superintendent of motive power, is fitted with an electric headlight, current for which is furnished by a small motor at the back of the lantern.

THE great 2500-horse power engine by the E. P. Allis company, of Milwaukee, Wis., for the power plant in the machinery building of the Columbian exposition is now at work in the power house of the Kansas City cable Railway company at Eighth street and Woodland avenue, Kansas City, Mo.

THE shipments of standard steel rails for 1894 are said by the Iron Age to have amounted to 722,600 tons, of which 66,600 tons were the product of the Colorado mill, which is not in the combination of rail mills. This total does not include light rails, street rails or girder rails, and shipments of the latter were relatively heavy.

THE Atchison bridge over the Missouri river at the town of that name is being greatly endangered by the encroachment of the river. A canal is now being dug to divert the stream through the island above the town. This canal will be over one mile long and seventy feet wide. Its construction involves the removal of 167,000 cubic yards of material.

THE Trans-Siberian railway, as announced by the Russian government, will be opened in 1901, instead of 1904, as indicated by Gen. Annenkoff in his report. The government expects to join the Russian railway system with Irkoutsk in 1898, and in the same year to complete the Lake Baikal section. The line along the Amour will also be finished sooner than expected, as the work is advancing rapidly.

THE average pay of locomotive engineers on the New York Central railroad in the year 1894 was $1,220; firemen and wipers, $646; conductors, $961; station agents and trainmen, $633; teamsters and trackmen, $309; telegraph operators, $600; mechanics and helpers in the shops, $523; switchmen and flagmen, $500; trackmen, $419. The company employs 4,379 trackmen, 3,516 mechanics and helpers in the shops and 2,533 switchmen.

PLEASANT BITS.

"WHO killed cock robin?" "I," said the sparrow. "Well, who hypnotized you?"—Detroit Tribune.

"YES, Louie, I've begun to prepare for commencement already." "O, Nellie, dear, how are you going to have it made up? Tell us all about it, that's a good girl."—N. Y. Recorder.

JAGGS—"Did Jones tell you about that predicament he got into the other day? I'd like to hear the story from his own lips." Baggs—"He won't tell it. He's too mean." Jaggs—"Yes; too mean to tell a joke at his own expense."—Truth.

"IT'S all very well to talk about issuing bonds of $10 each," remarked Mr. Dukane, "but that is not the way to induce women to buy." "What would you advise?" asked Gaswell. "Let Secretary Carlisle advertise bonds at $9.98, marked down from $10."—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

"AN ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, ain't it?" said Meandering Mike. "Of course it is," replied Plodding Pete. "Well, dat's de reason I don't accept no job from nobody. Ef I wus workin' I might be tempted ter go on a strike. An' den see de trouble I'd be in."—Washington Star.

SOUTHERN GLEANINGS.

An Awful Suspicion.

It has been rumored at Chattanooga, Tenn., that the mortality among the children of the poor and ignorant, chiefly negroes, was far too great to result from natural causes. Many believed that this state of things was unnatural, and claimed that there were numerous instances in which parents put their infants out of the way to obtain insurance carried on their lives. The city physician has been instructed by President Plunkett of the state board of health to make a thorough investigation into the charges and discover the extent of this horrible practice, if carried on in Chattanooga.

A Disappointed Minister.

When the announcement was made that Col. Bob Ingersoll was to lecture at Atlanta, Ga., Dr. J. B. Hawthorne, D. D., at once announced his purpose to reply to the colonel's arguments. But the subject selected by Col. Ingersoll was "Shakespeare." This was a disappointment to the doctor, but he delivered his anti-Ingersoll sermon all the same. He had another disappointment in the failure of the woman suffragists to notice his attacks on their movement, especially as he expected Rev. Anna Shaw to take up the subject in her sermon. She did not refer to him on the suffrage movement.

Southern Pine Lumber Trust.

The facts have leaked out about a secret meeting in Atlanta, Ga., recently, for the purpose of forming a syndicate. The Georgia-Alabama syndicate will co-operate with those already virtually in existence in Arkansas, Louisiana and Mississippi, and the result will be the formation of a trust which will control the southern pine lumber markets. The mills represented include the vast majority of the southern plants turning out long-leaf pine. Two committees were formed to canvass for the organization in Alabama and Georgia.

Georgia Confederate Pensions.

The work of paying pensions to the confederate widows of Georgia is progressing very rapidly. Fulton county has about 170 of these widows, which will put in circulation about $11,200. The legislature appropriated $275,000 for this purpose. Besides this large pension, which is annually paid to the widows of confederate veterans in Georgia, there is $300,000 paid to maimed confederate veterans, making a total expenditure of nearly $600,000.

South Carolina Tobacco.

The cultivation of tobacco is increasing rapidly in South Carolina, though ten years ago not a pound was raised in the state for market. One county last year produced a million pounds, selling for $20,000, or three times as much per acre as cotton. The area to be planted there in tobacco this year will be increased sixfold.

The Second Elopement.

After a second elopement Miss Minnie Holmesand Mr. E. F. Reddick, of Atlanta, Ga., were married at midnight by the Methodist pastor of East Point, a suburb of Atlanta. The bride, the daughter of a distinguished family, is not over 15, hence the opposition of her parents to her marriage.

Judge Nathaniel Baxter.

Judge Nathaniel Baxter died at Nashville, Tenn, of nervous prostration, at an advanced age. He was one of the most prominent men of Nashville and father of Hon. Ed Baxter, Hon. Nat Baxter, Jr., and Col. Jere Baxter.

Salaries of City Officials Reduced.

The city council of Greenville, Miss., has made the reduction in the salaries of city officials demanded by the taxpayers. The amount saved in salaries will reach $4,000 per annum.

County Bond Sale.

Hinds county, Miss., has sold $140,000 of 6 per cent. funding bonds at premiums ranging from 101 to 101½. This is the first time in the history of the state when a 6 per cent. bond sold above par.

Inherits Five Million Dollars.

Percy Ludlow, of Sulphur Springs, Fla., formed the friendship of a Mr. Morrison, an English bachelor. Recently Morrison died and willed Ludlow more than $5,000,000.

Killed by His Negro Tenant.

Mr. Joe Hurs, a wealthy farmer of Butler, Choctaw county, Miss., was waylaid and killed by a negro named Carlisle, a tenant of his farm. The negro made his escape.

A Swell Club Goes Up.

The Moccasin club, a swell social organization of Chattanooga, has gone into liquidation. The assets will exceed the liabilities. The club had a membership of 100.

Threw Himself in Front of a Train.

Samuel A. Miller, a millionaire of Louisville, Ky., threw himself under a train at Asheville, N. C., and was instantly killed. The cause of his act is not explained.

Murdered for Seven Dollars.

Henry Woolridge, colored, was paid seven dollars for labor at Houston, Tex., and on his way home was murdered for the paltry sum, being shot in the back.

A Sermon by Telephone.

Dr. Hawthorne, the well-known Baptist minister of Atlanta, Ga., arranged for one of his recent sermon to be heard by telephone in Athens, 40 miles away.

Dwelling and Contents Burned.

The dwelling of Fielding Rice, situated near White Plains, Ky., together with all its contents, was destroyed by fire. The loss is heavy; no insurance.

GRASS IS KING!

Grass rules. It is the most valuable crop of America, worth more than either corn or wheat. Luxurious meadows are the farmers' delight. A positive way to get them, and the only one we know, is to sow Salzer's Extra Grass Mixtures. Many of our farmer readers prise them and say they get 4 to 6 tons of magnificent hay per acre from Salzer's seeds. Over one hundred different kinds of Grass, Clover and Fodder Plant seeds are sold by Salzer.

IF YOU WILL CUT THIS OUT AND SEND IT with 7c postage to the John A. Salzer Seed Co., La Crosse, Wis., you will get a sample of GRASS & CLOVER MIXTURE and their mammoth seed catalogue free. [K] a vigorous body and robust strength follow good health. But all fail when the vital powers are weakened. Nervous debility and loss of manly power result from bad habits, contracted by the young through ignorance of their ruinous consequences. Low spirits, melancholia, impaired memory, morose or irritable temper, fear of impending calamity and a thousand and one derangements of body and mind, result from such pernicious practices. All these are permanently cured by improved methods of treatment without the patient leaving home.

A medical treatise written in plain but chaste language, treating of the nature, symptoms and curability of such diseases, sent securely sealed in a plain envelope, on receipt of this notice, with 10 cents in stamps, for postage. Address, WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dixie Land a Land of Snow With a Crust of Ice From the Lakes to Mexico.

The Heaviest Storm Now On in the Recollections of the Most Aged Natives.

Want and Hunger and Suffering Felt Today Where It Has Never Been Felt Before.

ATLANTA, February 16.—The most furious snow storm ever seen here began early yesterday morning and at an early hour this morning is still raging. The ground is now covered to a depth of ten inches, eight inches representing the present fall.

Street car lines suspended traffic early yesterday afternoon. The Consolidated will be closed until rain or the sun melts the snow.

An incident of this unusual weather here is the inability of the trade to supply the demand fo rubber shoes and boots, the stock of every house in the city being exhausted.

Many broken legs have resulted from coasting.

Specials from Thomasville, Brunswick, Savannah, and other south and east Georgia points, state that the snow is the deepest ever known. Albany had sleighing yesterday for the first time in its history.

In the mountains the snow is six feet deep, and a special from Murphy, N. C., says that it is from ten to twelve feet deep in the mountains of Western North Carolina.

The signal office here says that the storm will continue until this afternoon.

Story of Suffering in Many States.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., February 16.—Tennessee, Alabama, Mississippi and Arkansas are now experiencing the most severe and protracted season of cold weather ever known in this part of the country. Suffering with man and beast is widespread. During the last forty-eight hours snow has fallen almost continuously.

At Canton, Miss., there is five inches of snow. At Birmingham, Ala., it is two feet. In the latter city seventy families suffering from the extreme cold have been located by the associated charities, and in the country districts cattle are dying in droves.

From Arkansas City, Ark., comes the report of the river being blocked with ice and many steamers, tugs and tows frozen fast. From Winona, Miss., it is reported that a farmer named Gus Thompson was frozen to death. He and a party of friends were riding in a wagon from Winona to Poplar Creek yesterday and Thompson got out to go to a neighboring farm house to get warm, saying he would catch up with the wagon, which continued with the others. He warmed himself and started out but was unable from the cold to reach the wagon. His companions growing alarmed began to search for him and after an hour's search found him frozen to death by the side of the road.

A special from Aberdeen, Miss., says a section hand on the Mobile and Ohio railroad was frozen to death yesterday.

The Great Snow Storm in Alabama.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., February 16.—It has been snowing here all day and night, but it has melted almost as fast as it fell. Several sleighs were out yesterday for merry making. State specials received at a late hour last night report snow as follows:

Tuscaloosa, Ala., snow has reached a depth of eight inches and the fall continues.

At Marion, Ala., the snow was five inches deep at sun down last night.

At Livingston, Ala., there was five inches and still snowing.

Gadsden, Ala., reports nine inches, with a prospect of fifteen, and considerable suffering among the poor class.

Dadeville, Ala., reports six inches and still falling.

Eufaula, Ala., says it is four inches deep, the heaviest on record.

Clanton, Ala., five inches and still falling.

Bozeman, Ala., six and a half inches.

Shelby, Ala., five inches and still falling.

Talladega, Ala., five inches and still falling.

Savannah Given up to Hilarity.

SAVANNAH, Ga., February 16—Two inches of snow fell yesterday morning. It was the second snow storm experienced here in many years and the city gave itself up to hilarity. Business was practically suspended during the forenoon and business men spent the day snowballing.

Snow Upon Top of Snow at Mobile.

MOBILE ALA., February 16.—Snow which fell Thursday to depth of six inches and enabled many citizens to go sleigh riding yesterday, melted considerably late in the day but at eleven o'clock last night snow began falling heavily and is still falling.

A Snow that Surprises the Natives.

JACKSONVILLE, Ala., February 16.—A snow storm of great violence set in here yesterday. Since that time it has continued without ceasing. The ground is covered to a depth of nine inches.

TO FIX THE RATIO OF METALS.

Spirited Debate in the Reichstag for a Proposed Monetary Conference.

BERLIL, February 16.—The Reichstag yesterday debated the interpellation of the government by Count von Mirbach, the agrarian leader, urging the government to call an international monetary conference with a view of remonetizing silver. Count von Mirbach held that the time was opportune for Germany to summon such a conference. The trade of the world, he said, was suffering from the disordered state of the currency of the various countries and an international agreement fixing the ratio of the metals was the sole solution of the difficulty.

Count Herbert Bismarck said that events had proved that a bi-metallic currency was the best for the interests of national prosperity. Former monetary conferences, he said, had failed because the representatives of the powers had attended them without any fixed instructions. If a new conference were arranged, Germany must come to an entente with at least one other power regarding the basis of the conference. Of England, he said that bimettallism had made great progress there and had obtained great popularity. His friend Mr. Balfour would, without doubt, be a member of the next British ministry and would help to achieve victory for the English bimetallic union.

Chancellor von Hohenlohe intimated that the government would be willing to confer with the federal governments upon the question of entering into negotiations with the powers in regard to the advisability of reconsidering the monetary system.

NOW PRINTING THE BONDS.

Every One Has to be Run Through the Press Twice or More.

WASHINGTON, February 16.—Secretary Carlisle has given orders to the chief of the bureau of engraving and printing to proceed at once to brush up the old plates and prepare new ones for the printing of the four per cent. bonds sold under the contingent agreement with the Morgan-Belmont syndicate. The old plate contains the text of the law under which the four per cent. bonds are issued. The new plate will contain the terms under which the four per cent. bond on a 3¾ per cent. interest are issued, and this surface printing will be put on the face of the four per cent. bonds run off from the old plates, requiring each bond to be run through the press twice or more.

THE WEATHER EFFECTS TRADE.

Bradstreets Review Not Encouraging to the South or West.

NEW YORK, February 16. — Bradstreets says: Mercantile collections South and West with few exceptions are slow and unsatisfactory. Southern merchants and manufacturers in some instances are making greater efforts to collect amounts due than to sell goods. As one consequence of the recent extreme weather trade at Augusta has fallen of to a marked degree, as at Birmingham, Chattanooga, Atlanta and New Orleans, merchants at the latter point finding an unfavorable influence also in the stoppage of payments of sugar bounties. Word comes from Texas that snow throughout that state has checked the volume of trade in all directions.

WILL APPOINT MATT RANSOM.

The Distinguished North Carolina Senator May Succeed Minister Gray.

WASHINGTON, February 16.—It is rumored about the capitol that the president will be urged to appoint Senator Ransom to be minister to Mexico to succeed the late Minister Gray, of Indiana, whose death was announced yesterday morning. Mr. Ransom's term of office as a senator expires with this congress and it is said that the president would be very glad to tender him this appointment.

TO SAVE THE LIFE OF HARVIE.

The American Arrested by the Chinese on Board the Steamer Sydney.

LONDON, February 16.—The Shanghai correspondent of the Central News says that the Japanese have made great efforts to save the life of the American Harvie who was arrested by the Chinese recently aboard the passenger steamer Sydney, hailing from Sydney, and was held by them on Liu King Tau in Wei Ha Wei harbor. It is not known whether they have succeeded or not.

The Smack Lost Chains and Anchor.

SAVANNAH, Ga., February 16.—The fishing smach Laura Nelson, of Norfolk, arrived here yesterday with fore and main top masts, foretop mast, head and spring stay carried away. She was struck by a squall Wednesday off the coast of Florida. She experienced stormy weather for the past week, in which she lost chains and anchor.

Analysis of the Gold Bond Vote.

WASHINGTON, February 16.—An analysis of the vote upon the gold bond bill in the house Thursday shows that the several parties were divided as follows: Democrats, for the bill 89, against 94; majority against 5. Republicans, for the bill 31, against 63; majority against 32. Populists, against the bill 10, for the bill none.

On the Cotton Markets.

NEW YORK, Febrnary 16.—Cotton advanced 1 to 3 points, but lost this and receded 3 points, closing dull but steady at a net decline of 1 to 2 points, with sales of 141,2000 bales. Liverpool was firmer but unchanged on the spot, with sales of 8,000 bales.

Macon Coated Over With Ice.

MACON, Ga., February 16. — Little snow fell here yesterday but there was considerable sleet and rain and side walks are coated with ice. Street cars ran all night to keep wires and tracks clear of ice.

Birmingham Completely Enveloped.

BIRMINGHAM, February 16.—The severe weather has culminated in a severe snow storm. It has been falling since day light yesterday and is now 9 inches on the level.

FAME THAT'S FICKLE

The Once Proud Queen Before the Bar of Justice.

THE TRIAL OF HAWAII'S EX-RULER.

The Hand That Once Swayed the Sceptre Now Pleads for Mercy at the Hands of Others—She Denies the Charge of Inciting Riot.

HONOLULU, February 8, via San Francisco, February 16.—The trial of the ex-queen upon the charge of misprision of treason, before a military commission. began on the morning of the 5th instant. Over two hundred persons were present, a majority being ladies. Nothing distinguished the entrance of the queen or the proceedings from those of any other accused person. Her aspect was depressed and her face seemed expressionless. She seemed to listen intently to the reading of the charges and at its close wiped her eyes. Her counsel, Paul Neumann, made a series of objections to the jurisdiction of the commission and to trial by its members. All these were overruled.

The charges and specifications were read, the accused being permitted to remain seated. Neumann then asked for a postponement for another day before pleading to the charges as he had not had time to formulate objections He had to be counsel for most of the prisoners, nearly all of the other lawyers being either under arrest or else taking testimony from prisoners. The case was continued to the next forenoon. The American and British representatives were present as usual; also a large number of officials and naval officers in plain clothes.

The trial continued for several days and was sensational in the extreme. Every effort to get the ex-queen to make a confession proved futile, and she denied any knowledge of the affair throughout, laying the blame for the uprising upon Samuel Nowlein.

On the last day of the trial a long statement written by the ex-queen was read in court. In it she said:

„The movement undertaken by the Hawaiians last month was absolutely commenced without my knowledge, sanction or assistance directly or indirectly and this fact is, in truth, well known to those who took part in it. I received no information from any one in regard to which men were, or which were not to be procured, nor of any men who were induced, or to be induced to join in any such uprising. I do not know why this information should have been withheld from me unless it was with a view to my personal safety, or as a precautionary measure. It would not have received my sanction and I can assure the gentlemen of this commission that had I known of any such intention I would have dissuaded the promoters from such a venture. But I will add that had I known their secrets they would have been mine and would have been inviolately preserved.

REFUNDING THE STATE DEBT.

The Disposition of the Bill in the Alabama State Legislature.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., February 16.—The bill for refunding the state debt came up in the house again yesterday. When first introduced it provided for refunding, but the gold clause was striken out.

After reaching the senate, it was amended and provisions made for small bonds and to be receivable for taxes, the gold clause being put back. The house non-concurred and asked for conference committee, which was agreed to. The conference report was submitted in the house yesterday morning. The government is to advertise for a specified period of three months for bidders in the state and then general bids. The tax receiving clause was striken out. The report was hotly debated in the house, but was finally adopted by vote of 42 for 41 against. The affirmative vote was entirely of democrats. The negative was 11 democrats, 3 republicans and 27 populists. There is no doubt whatever of its passage by the senate.

DUN'S FAILURE REPORT.

Number and the Aggregated Liabilities Much Less Than Last Year.

NEW YORK, February 16.—R. G. Dun & Co's. review of trade reports that the failures for the first week of February show liabilities of only $2,909,890, of which $729,348 were of manufacturing and $1,934,894 of trading concerns. The final report for January shows an aggregate of $15,637,933 against $29,843,028 last year; $3,992,226 were of manufacturing concerns this year, against $11,589,715 last year, while $11,826,105 were of trading concerns against $17,234,587 last year. Failures for the week were 270 in the United States against 323 last year, and 51 in Canada against 55 last year.

Home for Indigent Children Burned.

NEW YORK, February 16.—The Westchester temporary home for indigent children, in North street, about a mile east of White Plains, was burned to to the ground last night. The building contained two hundred children ranging from one to fifteen years old. Besides these there was a dozen teachers and nurses. All escaped.

Eight Inches in New Orleans.

NEW ORLEANS, February 16.—The snow which fell steadily on yestesday for sixteen hours, measured exactly eight inches, according to the report given out by Captain Kerkam, chief of the weather bureau here. This morning an appreciable amount is again falling.

Heroicly She Saved Her Honor.

DUBLIN, Ga., February 16. — Mrs. Mary Gillis was assaulted by two white men Monday night, but by heroicly defending herself saved her honor. The men were neighbors and were drunk at the time. Warrants have been sworn out for them.

Columbus Covered in Ice.

COLUMBUS, Ga., February 16.—Columbus had the heaviest snow storm in over half a century yesterday. Several inprovised sleighs were seen on the streets, and toward night the sleet ceased and rain followed which froze as fast as it fell.

GREAT SUFFERING IN EUROPE.

Deaths Accelerated by the Cold—Thousands of Idle and Penniless Workmen.

LONDON, February 16.—The coldness of the weather continues to cause widespread suffering and many deaths. The thermometer is four degrees below the freezing point today and the air is raw and penetrating. In eighty inquests held in London the verdicts have been that death was accelerated by cold.

The ice-pack in the Thames still impedes navigation. Work in the building trades has been suspended and the contractors have dismissed their men for the present. The trades unions report that 36,000 members of their unions in London are idle. The majority of these men are carpenters, plasterers and stone masons.

In Liverpool, Manchester, Birmingham and other manufacturing and trading centres the unemployed are making street demonstrations. In all these cities the soup kitchens are crowded from morning till night, yet are unable to satisfy the extraordinary demands upon them. Glascow alone is feeding more than 40,000 persons.

MISS WILLARD NOT PRESENT.

The Grand Convocation of White Ribboners and the Long Petition.

WASHINGTON, February 16. — The grand convocation of white ribboners held in convention hall in this city last night was greeted by an assemblage of four thousand people. The hall was draped with the monster polyglot petition characterizing the meaning of the various women's christian temperance unions, and was a marked feature of enthusiastic commendation. A unanimous announcement of regret met the announcement that Miss Francis E. Willard, the pioneer of the cause, was detained in Boston by illness from attending the convocation, but her address was read by her secretary, Miss Anna Gordon, and was heartily applauded. The honored veteran in the cause of womanhood, as her address indicated, had not lost an iota of her will.

JUDGE STONEY WITHDRAWS.

Colonel St. John Boyle, Judge of the Court of Appeals, Louisville District.

FRANKFORT, Ky., February 16.—Colonel St. John Boyle, the republican contestant, will be Judge of the court of appeals from the Louisville district. Judge S. B. Stoney, who was declared elected by a majority of only twenty-five votes by the county canvassing committee, came here last night and formally withdrew from the contest board. His reasons for quitting the fight are that he would not accept the office unless the board unanimously declared in his favor. Auditor Norman and Governor Brown had taken strong positions against him. Colonel Boyle is a leading republican and an able lawyer.

ALL FLAGS AT HALF MAST.

Respect Paid American's Dead Minister in the City of Mexico.

CITY OF MEXICO, February 16.—The body of the late Isaac Pusey Gray, United States minister to Mexico, was embalmed at the American hospital, where he died, and was removed at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon to the United States legation. Americans crowded the rooms to pay their last respects. A guard of honor from the 21st regiment was placed at the legation by the war minister.

This morning the entire diplomatic corps and the whole garrison, together with President Diaz, will accompany the body to the central station where it will be placed on a north bound train. President Diaz has ordered that all flags on the public buildings be kept at half mast until the body crosses the border.

VIRGINIA BANKER SKIPS.

Cashier Figgat, of Lexington, Leaves With All the Boodle.

LEXINGTON, Va., February 16.—C. M. Figgat, cashier of the Bank of Lexington, has departed for parts unknown. The bank's doors are closed this morning by the directors, pending an investigation of the bank's affairs. A deed of trust was filed yesterday in the county clerk's office for $30,000 for the benefit of his sureties. He was bonded for $30,000 which is deemed sufficient to cover all losses, if any.

WASHINGTON, February 16.—Forecast: For North Carolina and South Carolina, snows in the morning, east wind, high. For Georgia, snow, followed by fair Saturday afternoon, northeast winds. For Alabama, generally fair, preceded by snow flurries in extreme eastern portion, north winds. For Tennessee, snow flurries.

Baltimoreans Shipwrecked off Carolina.

BALTIMORE, February 16.—A private telegram was received here yesterday announcing that a party of Baltimoreans had been shipwrecked on Roanoke Island, off the coast of North Carolina. Mr. S. G. Waters, of this city, was one of the party and the sender of the telegram.

THE POST OFFICE BILL DISPOSED OF.

The Naval Appropriation Bill the Feature Now on in the House—Discussion Over the Proposed Addition of Three Battle Ships.

WASHINGTON, February 16.—The house met yesterday at 11 o'clock and after the passage of a few private bills the naval appropriation bill for the year ending June 30, 1896, was taken up in committee of the whole, after having been on the calendar three weeks, its friends having expected every week within that period to ask its consideration. The contents of the bill were explained by Mr. Talbert, democrat of Maryland. The total amount carried was $31,809,023; the estimates originally made were $30,952,090.

By agreement general debate was ordered to be closed at 2 o'clock today. The discussion yesterday was devoted to the paragraph providing for the increase of the navy by the construction of three battleships and nine torpedo boats.

A conference was ordered on the senate amendments to the house joint resolution extending for this year only from March 1, to April 15, the time in which income tax returns may be made.

The last steps were taken in the senate in the disposition of the postoffice appropriation bill, which had been under consideration every day since Monday. A final effort was made on the part of the committee on appropriations to reduce the compensation of the railroad companies for the use of postal cars, in the shape of an amendment offered by Senator Blackburn to cut down the appropriation of $3,205,000 to the extent of 10 per cent, and the senate decided against it—yeas, 19; nays 36. It had previously negatived a similar proposition which had come over from Thursday and which applied only to the fast mail service from Springfield, Mass., to Atlanta and New Orleans—the vote on that proposition being yeas 18, nays 31. Then an effort was made by Senator Bryce to have the $196,000 which is appropriated for this latter service divided with a similar fast line in the west from Ohio to Texas and Florida, but this met with no more favor than the others and was laid on the table by a vote of 32 to 33. And then the bill was passed.

The agricultural bill followed and had not been finally acted on when the senate adjourned at 5:55 o'clock.

ANXIOUS FOR ADJOURNMENT.

No Further Financial Legislation, No Extra Session, No Further Interest.

WASHINGTON, February 16.—There will be no further financial legislation attempted by the house at this session. The defeat of two banking bills and one bond bill in quick succession satisfies the democratic leaders that a majority of the house cannot be brought to the support of any measure. There is talk that some measure of financial relief might be engrafted upon the general deficiency appropriation bill when it is taken up in the senate, but it is not definitely known if this attempt will be seriously made.

The members of the house are now looking forward with impatience to adjournment, and the committee on rules is constantly importuned for special orders for certain important bills that have not yet received consideration by the house, but which it is believed can be rushed through the senate if they can reach that body during the last week of the session. One of these is the naval reorganization bill and another is the Nicaragua canal bill. All talk of an extra session has ended, and it is believed that when congress adjourns on the 4th of March next it will not be asked to convene again until the regular meeting day in December.

THERE WILL BE NO STRIKE.

However Southern Employes are Still Wrestling for a Wage Increase.

WASHINGTON, February 16. — The committee of forty, representing the employes of the Southern railroad in their demand for a restoration of wages under the schedule of 1891, are still in this city, evidently wrestling with the refusal of Third Vice President Baldwin to comply with their request. Secret sessions of the commission are in progress and no information is forthcoming for the newspapers. A conference began at 10:30 o'clock yesterday and the committee do not expect to get away from Washington short of tonight. Mr. Baldwin did not confer with the gentlemen although it is known that there was an exchange of messages between the Southern headquarters and the committee. There will be no strike.

Governor Oates Vetoes the Bill.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., February 16. — Gov. Oates last night sent to the assembly a message vetoing what had been termed the alien railroad corporation bill. This bill originated in the fight between the Southern railway and the Cincinnati Hamilton and Dayton railroad for control of the Alabama Great Southern road, running through this state from Chattanooga to Meridian.

To Compete With Southern Coal Fields.

PITTSBURG, Pa., February 16.—The Pittsburg coal operators are making an effort to form a combination by which they can put coal in southern ports in competition with the new and rapidly developing coal fields. The operators of West Virginia will be invited to join.

Demopolis, Alabama, Covered Up.

DEMOPOLIS, Ala., February 16.—Seven or eight inches snow fell here yesterday and last night, and still falling. We have had the severest cold weather for the past ten drys experienced here for many years.

STOLE SUBSCRIPTION LISTS.

Editor of a St. Louis A. P. A. Organ Experiences a Singular Robbery.

ST. LOUIS, February 16.—Three unknown men at 2 o'clock yesterday morning forced an entrance to the offices of the True American, the weekly organ of the American Protective Association on the third floor of the building corner Broadway and Market streets. In a rear room, H. Beadle, managing editor, and two attaches of the paper were asleep. The intruders placed pistols at their heads and threatened to kill them if they made an outcry, bound and gaged them. The robbers then hunted up the subscription lists of the paper, and decamped with them. It was sometime after the departure of the robbers before the trio freed themselves and notified the police.

NEGRO BOY ON THE GALLOWS.

The Execution in Kansas City of Philip Martin, a Youth.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., February 16.—Philip Martin, the negro boy who killed Eli Stillwell, on the night of July 4, 1893, was hanged at the county jail yesterday. Martin awoke at 6:30 o'clock from a troubled sleep. He fell moaning upon his bed, refused breakfast and spent the time moaning and in prayer. He was led blindfolded to the scaffold, and was so weak from terror that it was necessary to almost carry him. On the gallows he kept repeating "Have mercy," "Have mercy." The trap was sprung at 9:15 o'clock and Martin's neck was broken by the fall.

AN ELECTION PROMISED SOON.

Considerable Shifting by Democrats in the Delaware Senatorial Vote.

DOVER, Del., February 16.—Four ballots were taken for United States senator yesterday and the democratic members did considerable shifting. The first ballot resulted: Higgins, republican, 8; Addicks, republican, 5; Massey, republican 4; Wolcott, democrat, 1. Absent 2. On the second ballot one Wolcott man and three Rayard men went to Martin, making his vote five. On the third ballot Martin's vote dropped to 3 and Wolcott's increased to 7. The fourth ballot was the same as the third.

REBELLION IN COLOMBIA OVER.

Minister of Foreign Affairs Telegraps That the Revolution is Ended.

WASHINGTON, February 16.—Secretary Gresham received the following cablegram dated from Minister McKinney, at Bogota, Colombia, saying: "Minister of foreign affairs requests us to say revolution practically ended. No fears of any further trouble. Have published in interest of commerce." The commanding officer of the United States steamer Atlanta reports to the navy department from Colon under date of February 14th, that the rebellion in Colombia is considered at an end.

AMBASSADOR EUSTIS ILL.

The United States' Representative in France Quite Sick.

MENTONE, February 16.—Mr. J. B. Eustis, United States Ambassador to France, is ill at this place. When he journeyed south from Paris a week ago, in consequence of the illness of his daughter, he caught a severe cold and after his arrival here he was attacked with inflamation of the lungs. The doctors declared his condition grave for several days but today he is pronounced better.

THEY REJECT MR. TUNSTALL.

Alabama Senators Turn Down one of Governor Oates' Appointees.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., February 16. — Governor Oates yesterday sent to the State senate the names of Hon. W. C. Tunstall and Hon. Ross Smith for railroad commissioners. The senate confirmed Mr. Smith but rejected Mr. Tunstall who has been on the board for ten years and was strongly opposed for renomination.

Gold Depositories Under the Bond Deal.

NEW YORK, February 16.—Barin, Magoun & company have deposited $330,000 gold in the sub-treasury on syndicate account. Total since February 11, $5,505,000. The following banks have been named as depositories for gold under the bond deal: The National City Bank, the National Bank of Commerce, and the First National Bank. It is probable that the Chase National Bank will also be named.

Eddie Davis' Death Sentence Commuted.

SAVANNAH, Ga., February 16.—The sentence of Eddie Davis, colored, to have been hanged here for the murder of Willis Brown has been commuted to life imprisonment by Governor Atkinson. Davis was about to be hanged when he was reprieved and through efforts of his friends a commutation of his sentence was secured.

Charleston, Sumpter and Northern Sold.

CHARLESTON, S. C., February 16.—The Charleston, Sumpter and Northern railroad was sold at Sumpter yesterday for $450,000, Colonel W. C. Elliott being the bidder. Colonel Elliott is president of the Wilmington and Weldon railroad and it is generally known that in this purchase he represented the Atlantic Coast Line system.

First Passenger Through in Ten Days.

READING, Pa., February 16.—A passenger train from Wilmington, Delaware, over the Wilmington & Northern railroad, came through yesterday. This is the first train to arrive over that road in eight days. The road is now clear and trains are running on schedule time.

Minnesota Bishop Appointed by Cleveland

WASHINGTON, February 16.—The president has appointed the Right Rev. Henry B. Whipple, D. D., bishop of Minnesota, to be a member of the board of Indian commissioners, vice Charles C. Painter, deceased.

Killed Four, Injured Eight.

BIRMINGHAM'S STREET RAILWAY SALE

Celebrating Lincoln's Birthday in Birmingham—Death of J. G. Watson a Mystery—Other Interesting Alabama State News.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., February 15.—President N. N. Clements, of the Alabama Cotton Growers Protective association, has issued an address to the cotton growers of Alabama, urging decreased acreage in accordance with the general plan adopted at the convention at Jackson, Miss., as the only way by which to raise the price of cotton.

He has appointed county presidents in every county in Alabama and appeals to them to call meetings and organize. A reduction of 30 per cent, if possible 50 per cent in acreage in cotton and a general increase in the acreage of cereals is recommended. The movement, which is general throughout the south, promises to be adhered to in Alabama.

Watson's Death a Puzzling Question.

BIRMINGHAM, February 11.—An East Lake railroad train ran over the body of J. G. Watson at East Lake Saturday evening at 7 o'clock and mangled it beyond recognition. Watson was superintendent of coke ovens for the Tennessee Coal, Iron and railway company at Bessemer, Ala. He was in Birmingham as late as 6 o'clock and was to have returned to Bessemer.

Sale Ratified at Birmingham.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., February 15.—The sale of the Highland avenue and Belt railroad property of Flyton Land company, to the Columbian Equipment company, was ratified by the directors of the Flyton Land company, at a meeting held in this city yesterday.

ALABAMA NEWS IN BRIEF.

The remains of Eugene Byars were interred in the cemetery at Clifton, two and one-half miles south of Birmingham Sunday.

Mr. Sayre's election contest bill came up in the senate Monday and was passed, the populists voting with the democrats for it.

D. N. Edmonds and a man named Whitley fought near Corona Saturday night. Whitley was killed and Edmonds is in jail at Jasper.

The Huddleston house, a popular hotel at Ozark, on the Alabama Midland, was burned Sunday, including the furniture. It was partially insured.

The extremely cold weather has caused a number of ore mines to fall short of their usual output on account of the colored labor refusing to turn out of doors for work.

The Louisville and Nashville railroad company, appreciating the rapid advancement of Mobile as a port, have perfected plans for vast improvements in their property there.

In consequence of the shortage of raw material three furnaces at Bessemer Monday afternoon had to bank their fires until their stock of ore can be increased somewhat.

The mayoralty election in Attalla is warming up with three candidates in the field. Mayor Whaley, Pope Hammond and Jeptha Edwards are the candidates. There are ten candidates for aldermen.

Judge Bilbro has ordered the prisoners confined in the Cherokee county jail, nine in number, to be transferred to the jail at Fort Payne, as the Center jail is unsafe and it was necessary to keep guards all the time.

The Birmingham Age-Herald plant and franchises were sold Monday and bid in after a lively contest by Hon. Frank P. O'Brien for $20,010. Mr. O'Brien will assume editorial management, retaining Receiver Evans as business manager.

Coroner Dusenberry, at Birmingham, held an inquest over the body of J. G. Watson, the man killed by an East Lake train Saturday night, Monday, and the verdict of the jury was that the deceased came to his death by foul means, though the perpetrator of the deed was to the jury unknown.

THE * CHRONICLE.

C. C. DuBOSE, Editor and Proprietor.

COLUMBIANA, FEB. 21, 1895.

Two circuit judges, one convict inspector and a private secretary have yet to be appointed by the governor. So it will be seen he will have plenty to do for some days to come.

THE CHRONICLE is in receipt of the proceedings of the Alabama Press Association in handsome pamphlet form, prepared by Secretary J. A. Rountree, and beautifully printed by the New Decatur Advertiser office. The pamphlet contains much valuable information for newspaper publishers.

ROSS C. SMITH, of Birmingham, was nominated by the governor and immediately confirmed by the senate as railroad commissioner. He was The Chronicle's candidate, and you will notice the result. A warning to the wise is sufficient.

THE great mistake, and national disaster—the 53d congress—dies in one week from next Monday. What the next congress will do cannot even be conjectured, but it can safely be said that it can do no worse than the present one has done.

THE Alabama legislature closed its labors last Monday night at 12 o'clock midnight, and the people of the state can now breathe easier. While that body of nin-com-poops were in session, nobody knew what was going to happen, and that most unexpected was liable at any time.

IN every city and town in Mississippi immigration societies are being formed. Why not form them in Alabama? A thrifty, progressive and law-abiding population is what we want to build up our waste places and take advantage of the many blessings nature has bestowed upon us.

WHEN wheat was $1 28 you could not buy much of a suit of clothes for $50. Now you can get them at $25, same quality of goods. Modern commerce is nothing greater than savage barter revolutionized, and the exchange of a Chicago heiress with a bankrupt princelet is no difference to a Zulu swapping his cows for a wife.

THE manager of an Alabama coal mine recently advertised for fifty miners. At last reports there were only half a dozen applicants. Miners are scarce or the boys are after other employment. An advertisement for one clerk would have been answered by return mail by half a hundred applicants.—Advertiser.

SAM JONES says that he could not be a democrat after the blank record that party has made in congress. He said the democrats can't pass anything, not even a bar-room. He wasn't a populist because he wasn't a fool, and he thanked God that he had never been low enough to be a republican. Then what in the thunder are you, Sam?

ISAAC P. GRAY, United States minister to Mexico, died at the City of Mexico last Thursday evening. Mr. Gray stood high in the political world, having been governor of Indiana, and has held many political offices of trust with credit to his party and honor to himself. He was a candidate for vice president of the United States in 1892 in the democratic convention, but was defeated by Adlai E. Stevenson.

JUST prior to the adjournment of the legislature a bill was passed which will greatly enhance the usefulness of the county court. The bill provides that said court is to be held four times in each year, and there are to be two juries instead of one as now. Also said bill gives to every other term of the court two weeks instead of one. We see no good reason now why the docket of our county court should not be kept reasonably clean.

GOVERNOR OATES has vetoed the alien railroad bill, and with it he sent a strong, vigorous message condemning the legislature for passing a bill so unconstitutional and peculiarly class in its workings. Had this bill become a law, it would have been impossible to get foreign capitalists to invest money in Alabama, for they would have been deprived of the right of control of their own affairs. The people of the state have cause for congratulation that they have a chief executive so clear-headed as to determine the rights of all and so courageous as to do the right thing at all times and under all circumstances. The interests of the people of Alabama will be well and zealously looked after so long as Wm. C. Oates is governor.

LAST Monday was the one hundredth anniversary of the birth of the philanthropist, George Peabody, and memorial services were held in nearly all the large cities of the United States. It is seldom that a career marked only by the ambition to better his neighbor, is thus venerated. It is so much more in line with the vanity of the living to sound their trumpets in the temple and pour their increase before the altars of those whose glory, directed by egotism, was achieved, like that of Napoleon, with the sacrifice of millions of deluded and blinded subjects and worshippers. One hundred years ago he saw light in an humble home in New England. In 1843 he moved to London and set up as a banker, and everything he touched turned to gold. What he did with his gold the world knows. Alabama's young men and women, who owe their education to the Peabody fund, rejoiced with the nation in calling the South's great benefactor blessed.

COTTON ACREAGE IN 1895.

The question of acreage to be put into cotton this year is one that is now receiving a good deal of attention, and accompanying it the suicidal theory is being advanced that, owing to the prevailing low price, the amount of cotton planted will be greater than heretofore in order to make up in quantity what is lost in price.

It is of course impossible to arrive at any accurate average cost of producing cotton in view of the widely differing conditions prevailing in different parts of the South, nevertheless, it is hardly to be disputed that the cost in the Atlantic States is over 6 cents per pound, and in Texas, Arkansas, and the Mississippi bottom lands, probably not less than 4½ cents, or an average of probably not less than 5¼ to 5½ cents at the plantations for the whole country. With the quotation for middling in Liverpool 2 33-4d, or roughly converted into American money 5 15-16 cents in New York for immediate delivery 5⅝ cents, in New Orleans 5 cents, and in the interior towns from 4½ to 4¾ cents, it seems almost grotesque that arguments should be put forth that the South can afford to raise cotton at the present prices. Doubtless the theory that one's neighbors will plant less, may lead some to conclude that by putting in more they will reap the advantage of their neighbor's contribution to the public good, but that any such policy should actuate any grower of the great staple, under present circumstances, seems hardly capable of belief.

It is with great satisfaction to be observed that the president of the American Cotton Growers Association is making a tour of the cotton states with a view of securing a reduction in acreage of at least 25 per cent, which is a movement in the right direction, and it is to be hoped that his efforts will be crowned with success.

If, however, a large reduction in acreage be made, the question arises, into what shall the farmers of the South put their land, and out of what are they to derive a livelihood? Some of those who still retain the feeling of responsibility to those whom they employ, and who are dependent upon them, are apt to indulge the idea that work must be provided for the dependent class, and as there is nothing else they can do but grow cotton, therefore they must plant all they can, irrespective of the price it brings.

If the figures given as to the probable cost of raising cotton are correct, and which, even under the most favorable circumstances of growth show no profit, while, under less fortunate circumstances, show a positive loss, it would seem the part of prudence and good judgment if the whole cotton growing community should, with one accord, reduce their acreage, not 25 per cent but 75 per cent, thereby joining in an action to their own best interest and so reducing the supplies of the world that 10 to 11 cents per pound in New York, for four or five years to come, would be assured. By so doing, the single season of fallow land, if need be, would be abundantly recompensed in the price for cotton to be subsequently obtained. The South can well afford to do this, even at the loss that might be entailed by the support, without labor, of those who are dependent upon them if such an alternative were necessary, as the loss entailed thereby would certainly be no greater than that resulting from making cotton and selling it at the prices ruling in the world at the present day. The necessity for this severe contribution to the enhancement of the price of cotton in the future is not, however, altogether apparent; for while it is true that cotton is the great crop of the South, nevertheless, when prices have reached a level such as the present, the adoption of a policy of practically growing only such crops as are necessary to sustain life is certainly a reasonable one and the doing of which does not necessarily argue that efforts in this direction must be confined to corn and meat. There are many other articles which contribute to support life that might be grown with a net return to the planter at the end of the year fully equal to the loss entailed by the support of those dependent upon him. It is to be hoped that this view of the case may be impressed upon the agricultural community of the South, and that the preparations for the next crop will be on a very largely reduced scale as compared with that made within the past few years; for, unless something approaching to this in its radical nature is done, there is no reason to expect that even present prices will be maintained. Already, Liverpool, which market after all is the maker for cotton, being the largest consumer, is selling next crop deliveries at 3 3-32d, or 6 and 3-16 cents, which means not more than 4½ cents at the plantations, and which price is justified and will continue, with possibly even still lower prices, unless the outlook for future supplies gives promise of a very marked reduction. Nor is the making of this price the work of gamblers and therefore of public execration. If we are to have another ten million bale crop, 3 3-32d in Liverpool for October—November delivery is not unreasonable. It is because of a growing feeling that cotton can be made and sold at 5 cents yielding a profit, and that the South will plant as much or more this year than last, that such prices are made in Liverpool.

The remedy of the South is within its own keeping, let them plant but 25 per cent as much cotton as last year, planting the other 75 per cent in such things as they may, even to allowing the land to lie fallow, and their own salvation is at hand.

PHYSICAL DECAY.

William Kinnear, In Harper's Weekly.

"If the repair were always identical with the waste, life would then only be terminated by accident, never by old age." This is a fact well known to all who have investigated the subject, though Mr. G. H. Lewes, in his "Physiology of Common Life," makes the statement quoted. In early years this balance of the human system is admirably preserved. As man advances in life, however, and gets up to 50 or 60, he begins to get stiff in the joints, and experiences what he calls "feeling his age." Renovation of various organs of the body depends on the blood, and if this supply is not at all times furnished in sufficient quantity and quality, a gradual deterioration takes place. Heart and arteries become clogged, and the whole delicate machinery suffers from the lack of nourishment. Deposits of phosphate and carbonate of lime accumulate, and the change is really a chemical one, by which the blood is hindered from going to the extremities of the system, and fulfilling its work of repair and renovation. Old age, then, is the result of a change in the blood, which becomes overloaded with earthy salts, leaves its refuse matter in the system, and the valves of the heart become cartilaginous. Becoming thus, the heart is not able to propel the blood to its destination. Arteries also having become ossified, a still further obstruction takes place, and the whole body languishes. Blood is life. If it is kept continually in good order our years are prolonged. New bodies, as in youth and early manhood, do not accumulate these fibrinous and gelatinous deposits, which, as the years go by, help the gradual process of ossification and cause the decrepitude of age. Now if some means were discovered by which the blood could be kept in a condition like that of youth, it would throw off these earthy salts which obstruct the action of the heart and arteries. Our food and drink make our blood. It seems, then, that it is to them we should look primarily for the quality of it.

Without eating and drinking there is no life, but we may select certain kinds of foods containing a minimum amount of the elements which cause the ossific blockage of the system. An English physician, Dr. C. F. De Lacy Evan, who made many researches in regard to food, comes to the conclusion that more fruit should be eaten, especially apples, grapes and bananas, they being rich in nutritious elements. Being deficient in nitrogen, they are best for elderly people, as they keep the blood in a better condition than flesh. After the age of 60 people should eat less beef and mutton, and use more apples and nuts of all kinds, the latter being rich in many of the nutritious elements of meat. Fish and poultry have not the objectionable earth salts of beef. In order to retard physical decay and to keep the blood in a wholesome condition distilled water is recommended. It has solvent qualities which act upon the earth salts in the blood and expels them from the body. A goblet of this water taken three times a day, with ten or fifteen drops of diluted phosphoric acid in each glass, has a tendency to assist the blood in eliminating the obstructing salts. A man is as old as his arteries. If they are soft and compressible, the deteriorating effects of old age have not appeared.

Flourens, in his well known work on "Human Longevity," cites the case of the Italian centenarian, Cornaro, whose receipt for health and long life was extreme moderation in all things. Flourens himself insists that a century is the normal life, but that 50 years beyond, and even 200 years, are human possibilities under advantageous conditions. Hufeland, also, believed in 200 years as an extreme limit. Sir James Crichton Browne, M. D., concedes, in a late address, that Flourens was right. Duration of growth gives the length of life. Hufeland held that the human body grows till the age of 25, and that eight times the growth period was the utmost limit of man. But if 20 years be taken as the time of growth, even five times that will give us a century. According to Flourens and Cuvier, man is of the frugivorous, or fruit and nut eating class of animals, like the gorrillas and other apes and monkeys. Man has not teeth like the lions and carniverous beasts, neither has he teeth like the cows and herbivorous ones. Intestines in the man are seven or eight times the length of the body; the lion's are but three times the length of his body. Herbivorous animals, like the cow, have intestines forty-eight times the length of the body.

So, judging man by his teeth, his stomach, and his intestines, he is naturally and primitively frugivorous, and was not intended to eat flesh. Fruit is aperient, and apples act on the liver, and are good brain food, also, as they contain much phosphoric acid. As to the effect of certain climates, perhaps too much stress has been laid upon that. We find that Thoms Parr, who lived in England, died in his 153d year, and was dissected by the celebrated discoverer of the circulation of the blood, Dr. William Harvey (who expressed no doubt of his age,) was never out of his native country. Accounts of men who have lived to extreme age in Ecuador and Mexico indicate possibilities. A climate that allows much outdoor living is the best for health. More depends on food than on any climate. Exercise, fresh air to live in and to sleep in, daily bathing, and freedom from medicine, are the most important things. In July, 1893, the Courier-Journal, of Louisville, published a long account of James McMallin, who died in Carlisle county, Ky., at 117 years of age. When Buffon, Hufeland, Flourens, and men of that class, who had studied the subject, believed in the possibility of 150 or 200 years of life, the subject is not to be laughed at.

TO COTTON GROWERS.

Hon. Hector D. Lane, of Alabama, President of the American Cotton Growers' Protective Association, has furnished the following significant memorandum for publication to the people of the South.

It goes without saying that if anything like 3-cent cotton on plantations is witnessed next year, a general crash will ensue. Real estate and securities of all kinds will reach such a level in the South as few can imagine. European speculators are to day selling cotton in Liverpool for delivery in October, November, December, 1895, at a price equivalent to about 4 cents on farms in the South for middling, or 5 cents at the ports, believing that another 9,500,000, or larger crop, will be grown in America, which would insure them a profit of at least 1 cent per pound, which would mean to the farmer about 3 cents at the railroad stations next autumn, when cotton is moving in large volumes. It is not to be supposed that these shrewd European cotton dealers are aggressively selling the next crop at an equal to 4 cents unless they have excellent reasons for believing that the South will plant for another monster crop. They are confident, on information furnished them, that Texas will not decrease its acreage, therefore, believing this to be true to such an extent that they will be able to buy back during next fall the cotton they are now selling at much lower prices, realizing thereby handsome profits. It remains with the farmers and merchants of the South to say whether these European speculators will be permitted to reap a golden harvest at the expense of the farmers, plantations, towns, real estate and securities of the South.

The above statement is from me officially, and I desire that it should be presented to the public as such through the press. Respectfully,

HECTOR D. LANE,
President Cotton Growers Protective Association.

A BUSINESS VIEW.

The New York Price Current, one of the most influential among the trade journals, is very complimentary to the South. It says: "Capital is rapidly flowing to the South. The remarkable industrial progress in the southern states is attracting considerable attention among New York capitalists, and giving stability to southern railroad stocks. It is only a question of time when southern railroad securities will dominate Wall street, instead of the great Pacific roads of the far West, which pass through farming country and depend upon movement of the crops for earnings. Northern capital is pouring into the southern states and transforming the broad acres into workshops and villages, expanding the iron and cotton manufacturing industries, assisting railway equipment, pushing electrical construction and promoting new enterprises in the hardware, lumber, phosphate, machinery, building and many other lines. As the South has made a splendid record in such industries as iron, cotton oil, sugar, naval stores, phosphate, fertilizers, tobacco, peanuts, oysters, etc., why should not good progress be made in the more recent departures? Northern capitalists have confidence in southern manufactures, and that is the secret of their great interest in the welfare of that section. They realize the fact that a large field is ripe for profitable investment, and are acting accordingly, instead of risking capital on foreign ventures. The question of railroad freights may soon be settled to the satisfaction of manufacturers, as considerable railroad construction is found necessary in the more progressive states to meet the demand for increased transportation. We have always believed in the South as an industrial center, and it is some satisfaction to see the fondest hopes almost realized."

THE OIL FIELDS IN OHIO.

A number of very valuable oil fields have been discovered in Ohio the past year. The income from these wells, based upon their present output, promises to make an appreciable addition to the oil interest of the country. One of the new wells, known as the Kirkbridge, produces 310 barrels of crude oil per hour, or 7,440 barrels per day of 24 hours. Another single well averages over 1,200 barrels per day. To do the work of collecting, refining and shipping this immense product, an elaborate system of pumping stations, tanks, piping and other forms of machinery have been provided.

It is not generally known that the oil interests of Ohio have developed very rapidly of late, and that Ohio, as an oil producing state, promises to rival Pennsylvania. In a single county, Wood, the pipes for carrying the oil consist of 340 miles of 2 inch pipes, 70 miles of 3 inch pipes, 125 miles of 4 inch pipes, together with other sizes, making a total of some 800 miles of pipe, and representing an outlay of $15,773,000. In addition to this, the oil territory contains 260 storage tanks which have cost $6,000 each, and there are besides immense outlays necessary for bonuses, rentals, labor and building. At present the storage tanks of Wood county contain about 8,000,000 barrels of crude oil, valued at $4,4000,000. During the past year the output of oil from Wood county alone has been 20,000,000 barrels of oil. In other counties of Ohio the interests are also very large. There are at present some 17,500 oil wells in Ohio. Of this number over 3,000 have been drilled during the past year.—Scientific American.

STATE OF ALABAMA,
OFFICE OF EDUCATIONAL DEP'T,
MONTGOMERY, ALA., Jan. 28, 1895.

TO TEACHERS AND COUNTY SUPERINTENDENTS IN ALABAMA.

I adopt this method of answering many questions propounded to this department during the past month, relative to pay-rolls, the delay of funds, etc.

By reference to the public school laws of the state, page 32, under act passed by the General Assembly 1886-7, and amended 1888-9, will be found the law governing the making and forwarding pay-rolls to this department, and the duties of this department pertaining thereto. While the form of making the pay-roll has been changed to some extent, the law governing it is substantially the same as it was in the beginning. Many teachers complain of having been left off of the pay-roll during the past and previous quarters, and from their own statements, shows the fault as purely their own. By reference to this law, it will be seen that on the 15th days of March, June, September and December of each year, the law requires the county superintendent to make his pay-roll out and forward the same to the state superintendent. The law requires that this pay-roll shall be made in duplicate and the original shall be forwarded to the superintendent of education, and the duplicate copy retained by the county superintendent. In making up this pay-roll the county superintendent has no right to place any teacher's name on it unless he has a contract on file and approved by him, showing that the teacher is engaged in teaching, and, according to the terms of the contract, the superintendent must estimate the amount that will be due the teacher, provided no time be lost to the time of payment.

When the county superintendent has made out his pay-roll as prescribed by law, he must append thereto an affidavit that the same is correct. This means that the county superintendent has taken the contracts on file in his office on the 15th of the month preceding pay day and has carefully estimated as per the terms of the contract the exact amount that will be due the teacher, provided no time be lost, to the time of payment or the close of the quarter. As the county superintendent is required to make a sworn statement, you will readily see he can not afford to place any teacher's name on the pay-roll who has not a contract on file and approved at the time of making this pay-roll. If the teacher has his contract on file and approved by the county superintendent as required by law, then he would have a remedy against the county superintendent in case the county failed to make the proper estimate and pay him as prescribed by law.

When the county superintendent has made his pay-roll and has forwarded same to this office, it becomes the duy of this department to examine the same, and if found correct, it shall be approved by the state superintendent, and filed with the auditor of the state. Here the duty of the state superintendent, relative to the pay-roll, ceases until the pay-roll is returned by the county superintendent, receipted. When the auditor receives the pay-roll from the office of state superintendent, it becomes his duty to immediately draw a warrant on the state treasurer in favor of the county superintendent, sending the pay-roll with 4 per cent thereon for an amount equal to the amount estimated to be due, and forward the same by exchange or express at the expense of the state to the county superintendent.

The foregoing is the law relative to county superintendents. In case of city superintendents, where payments are required by law to be made monthly, all that has been said relative to the duty of the teacher and superintendent is true when applied to the city, except that the pay-roll should be made on the 20th of each month, under all the prescriptions given in the foregoing.

Yours very sincerely,
JOHN O. TURNER,
State Sup't of Education.

A Des Moines, Iowa, woman, who has been troubled with frequent colds, concluded to try an old remedy in a new way, and accordingly took a tablespoonfull (four times the usual dose) of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy just before going to bed. The next morning she found that her cold had almost entirely disappeared. During the day she took a few doses of the remedy (one teaspoonfull at a time,) and at night she again took a tablespoonfull before going to bed, and on the following morning awoke free from all symptoms of the cold. Since then, she has, on several occasions, used this remedy in like manner, with the same good results, and is much elated over her discovery of so quick a way of curing a cold. TOWN AND COUNTY NEWS.

J. L. Peters visited Montgomery last week.

It is now the City of Columbiana, thank you.

W. W. Walls spent Sunday in town with his family.

Rufus Lester spent last Thursday and Friday in Jemison.

Z. H. Clardy, of Talladega, was a visitor in town this week.

M. M. Kuffner, of Brierfield, paid us an appreciated call Tuesday.

Ed. Walls returned Tuesday after a visit to relatives in Anniston.

Dr. T. G. Nelson and Walter Hubbard, of Harpersville, were in town Monday.

J. W. Johnston ran up to Anniston, Tuesday, on business, and returned yesterday.

Snow, slush, slop, and the end is not yet. The "ground hog" evidently knew his business.

And Columbiana is to have a free school and a city government. But ain't we flying?

Miss Earl Anchors, who has been visiting friends for the past week at Shelby, returned home Tuesday.

Who will enjoy the distinguished honor of being Columbiana's first mayor? Announce early and avoid the rush.

T. K. Roberts spent last week with his parents in Sylacauga, and returned Monday accompanied by his mother, who will spend a short time with her two daughters, Mrs. J. R. White and Mrs. A. M. Elliott.

Some men endeavor to do a large business without letting the great mass of mankind know it, and they succeed about as well as the woman who tried to cook without provisions, or, like that business man who tried to run a store in southeast Missouri, and who was found dead in his store one morning, having been accidentally discovered after being dead four days.

Attention is directed to the call of President H. C. Reynolds, of the American Cotton Growers' Protective Association of Shelby county for a meeting of the cotton growers, leasers, and merchants who furnish supplies for cotton growers, to meet at the court house, in this place, on Monday, March 4th, for the purpose of organizing. This is an important matter and the meeting should be largely attended. Good is certain to result from systematic, organized effort, and we hope this meeting will accomplish much good.

St. Valentine day passed off as usual, with many a sweet and tender message being sent on its way to gladden the heart of some one, while to others came the work of the artist who certainly must have been laboring with a large case of jim jams. Our bachelor force crowed too soon, for the paper had hardly been put on the press before the visions seen by an artist with the nightmare, and tender, loving epistles, began rolling in. John Cromwell, our efficient night watchman, received a handsome crayon portrait of himself, accompanied by a few appropriate verses, over which he was so elated that he put it in the fire to prevent his family from having it framed, as they have no good picture of him. He gives A. B. Milner and Clem Greek the credit for the artistic work and the poetical effusion, and we guess he is about right.

On last Thursday, Feb. 14, at the Jemison Baptist church, Mr. R. E. Cosper was married to Miss Laura Butler, of Jemison. The ceremony was witnessed by a large circle of friends from home and abroad. Mr. Rufus Lester, accompanied by Miss Mattie Hand, represented Columbiana. The groom is a young and active merchant of Sterrett, while the bride is one of Alabama's fairest young ladies, handsome and accomplished. She is well fitted to grace the pleasant home the happy groom had already prepared for her. After a short wedding trip the happy couple will settle down at Sterrett. May a long life of happiness be their lot is the earnest wish of The Chronicle.

The heaviest snow storm that ever fell in this section of the country, covered the ground last Friday and Saturday. It was so deep that a few improvised sleighs were built, and a few people enjoyed their first sleigh ride. The livery man fitted up a two-seated sled for the convenience of his patrons, and it was kept busy all day Saturday, being filled with happy young people enjoying the novelty of a sleigh ride in Alabama. No one person was allowed to monopolize the sleigh, so several of our young men were given the privilege of giving their lady friends a ride on the beautiful snow. Hand sleds were quickly made and the hills were soon alive with the boys riding down hill, while others hitched horses to their sleds and thus had their fun. Snow balling was the order of the day and woe to the luckless man who was compelled to cross the street. Take it all in all, last Saturday was a day almost entirely given up to enjoyment, and it will be a day long to be remembered by all who participated.

The City of Columbiana.

The bill to incorporate the city of Columbiana and to make this a separate school district so that we may have a free school, passed the legislature and is now a law. We cannot give all the features of this bill, as we have not the data at hand, but as soon as we possibly can we intend to publish it in full. The main features so far as we can learn are these. The city of Columbiana is to have a mayor, five aldermen and a marshal, and the incorporate limits reach one mile from the court house. The election for city officers will be held in April, and there is no provision in the bill for salaries, except of course in the way of perquisites (?)

The school district embraces a territory of five miles square, and the property included therein is subject to a tax for school purposes up to the constitutional limit, one half of one per cent, but this does not include farm property. In other words the rate of tax for school purposes is discretionary within the constitutional limit. It is estimated that a tax of one-fourth of one per cent would yield about $800. To this amount would be added $250 public money and about $150 raised by poll tax, and we would then have a fund of $1200, or more, to start with. Pupils from outside the district would no doubt increase this to $1500. So it is a settled fact now that we are to have a school—a free school—and a first class one, too. The burden of extra taxation will be light because it will be borne in part by the entire community, and it will be far cheaper than paying tuition.

Columbiana is beginning to hump herself, and to throw aside old methods for newer and better ones, and ere a few months will be putting on city airs. Watch us.

To the Cotton Crowers and all Interested in Shelby County.

MONTEVALLO, Feb. 15, '95.

Having been appointed president of the Cotton Growers Protective Association of Shelby county, and having in view the perfection of a county organization, electing delegates to the state convention, and such other business as may be deemed necessary, I earnestly request all growers of cotton and all who lease land or furnish supplies for that purpose, to meet me at the court house, in Columbiana, on Monday, the 4th day of March next. It is especially desirable that all parts of the county be represented.

Believing as I do, that great good will result from "unity of action," I hope and trust our county will not fail to give this important business the attention it certainly deserves.

Respectfully,
H. C. REYNOLDS.

Wilsonville Waifs.

The snow is now a thing of the past.

Horace Hammond spent Sunday at home.

Comic valentines were the order of the day last Thursday.

There were no services in town Sunday, and Sunday school only at the Baptist church.

Mr. Alwin Oden, of Childersburg, is holding the depot down during Mr. Williamson's absence.

Several of the young people enjoyed a treat in the way of a sleigh ride during the late snow fall.

Messrs. Henry and Orland Jackson will begin merchandising soon, they having already purchased a nice bill of goods.

School begins this morning, (Monday) after an intermission of one week on account of the disagreeable weather last week.

Mr. E. Williamson took his departure Sunday evening for Plantersville to spend a few pleasant hours with his old friends (so he said,) but he can't stuff "Butch" with anything like that, as he has been there "afore—aw."

The most disgusting sight we ever saw was an old lady, who came up Saturday morning on the passenger train, and, after "taking in" the town, she was seen making her way down the railroad track so drunk she could hardly stay on the track.

Two of our young men are contemplating a prospective trip to the Indian Territory with "lurge ideas" in their heads. They will make their trip an object to arouse the sympathies of the people—especially the girls, but if they should get off, we wish them a barrel of happiness and success among the Indians.

Your correspondent is laboring under many disadvantages and difficulties in representing Wilsonville in the correspondence columns of The Chronicle. It seems like that, if news don't pick up soon, "Butch" will have to go the same route as did the minstrels. There is nothing of interest here to write about, and nobody will do anything commendable to write about, not even a wedding, a visitor, fight, or politics to write about. Do something that I may have to write about besides the little "snapshots" I can pick up.

BUTCH.

Shelby Siftings.

It is reported that the Shelby Iron Co. has orders for 50 cars of iron.

Mrs. Chas. Bowles is very ill, and grave fears are entertained concerning her recovery.

Prof. Franklin did not teach school last week on account of the very inclement weather.

Aunt Dilsie Stone, an old colored woman of our town, had the misfortune to slip down and break her leg during the recent snowy weather.

Mr. Editor, have you heard of any valentines being received by some young men who were, on a recent Sunday night, visitors of "our city and our girls?" If not, enquire after them.

Mr. David Carver, an old gentleman, for whom Uncle Ben Cardwell has long been caring, is very low with softening of the brain. The old gentleman and his wife are over 80 years of age.

During the recent snow, Messrs. Louis Christian, Sam Harrell and others, made a sleigh, and in company with Misses Riddick, Bell and Harrell, took a tour of the city, snowballing all who were so unfortunate as to cross their route.

Mrs. Rusian Gunn died near Fayetteville on the 8th inst from blood poison. She was only 18 years of age, a beautiful woman, and heretofore the picture of health. She leaves a wee babe and a sorrowing husband to mourn her loss. Mr. Gunn has returned to his father's three miles west of here.

All is lonesome around the furnace now. Mr. Craig and Arthur Carter only are employed in the shops. The whole scene savors of that reflection of Grey:

"All the air a solemn stillness holds,
Save where the owl to the moon
Complains of such as wandering near her secret bower,
Molest her ancient solitary reign."

The Shelby Literary and Debating Society held its meeting last week, notwithstanding the disagreeable weather. Quite a spirited debate was indulged in on the subject: Resolved, that "'Tis better to have loved and lost than never to have loved at all." The decision was unanimously in favor of the affirmative. A fuller account of the proceeding will be given next time.

Harpersville Echoes.

HARPERSVILLE, Feb. 18, 95.

MR. EDITOR:—We are not sick, nor frozen, but are next neighbor to it. Have you got any snow down your way? If you have not, just come up here and we will divide. Tom Nelson is almost crazy to go to Columbiana, but the snow prevents him, but look out for him in a few days any way. Rabbits and birds are seeing sights just now, and it is thought by some that seed-ticks and red-bugs are all frozen out, and also Kolb and his miserable party. Cow feed is getting very scarce, and if it is a late spring a good many old cows will be found weighed in a balance and found wanting. It has been Sunday here with us for the last 13 days. Col. Kidd had two Jersey yearlings to freeze to death last week. They died because they got too cold. "JAKE."

Items from Lewis.

We are glad to note the change from very cold to warmer weather.

Miss Myrtle Jackson, who has been quite sick for a few days past, is reported as improving.

DIED.—On the 6th inst., the three year old son of Mr. B. Bradley, who has recently moved to this settlement.

Although sickness and death has visited our community, the young people enjoyed an entertainment given by B. B. Crumpton last Saturday night.

J. M. Davis is spending the winter with his daughter, Mrs. J. L. Riddle. Mr. Davis is 83 years old and is as lively and active as most men of forty Prof. J. A. Spearman visited his many friends on Four Mile Saturday, and while here invited the Four Mile school to his exhibition to be given on the night of the 15th inst.

Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Burgess, who has been visiting relatives in this community, have returned to their home in Sylacauga.

We learn that Prof. D. M. Spearman anticipates going with his sister, Mrs. Jas. Finley, to the Indian Territory, where he will continue his profession.

SUNFLOWER.

O. W. O. Hardman, Sheriff of Tyler Co., W. Va., appreciates a good thing and does not hesitate to say so. He was almost prostrated with a cold when he procured a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. He says: "It gave me prompt relief. I find it to be an invaluable remedy for coughs and colds." For sale by Parker & Armstrong.

The Delineator for March

is the great spring number, and in our opinion is the finest issue of this popular magazine that has yet been published. All the departments are unusually well filled, and the fashions have an increased value through being the first authoritative pronouncement of the spring modes. The chief feature of the literary matter is a most comprehensive chapter on Cards: their Uses and Etiquette, by Mrs. Roger A. Pryor, this being the first of a series entitled the Social Code. There is also a very interesting first article on the Experiencies of Life at a Training School for Nurses, with an introduction by Mrs. Frederic Rhinelander Jones. Woman as a Musician is the subject of a "Conversation" between Edith M. Thomas and Dr. S. R. Elliott, to which is appended a delightful bit of verse by Miss Thomas. Mrs. Carrie M. Dearborn, ex-Principal of the Boston Cooking School, writes of the Teaching of Cookery as an Employment for Women, and Josephine Adams Rathbone of A Girl's Life and Work at the University of Michigan. Mrs. Longstreet has an instructive paper on the Care of the Hands and Feet, Mrs. Maude C. Murry contributes another chapter to her interesting series on the Relations of Mother and Son, and Mrs. Witherspoon continues her entertaining gossip in Around the Tea-Table. Pleasurable and profitable employment is found in Burnt Work—H. K. Fobes, Venetian Iron Work—J. Harry Adams, and Crepe and Tissue Papers—Tillie Roome Littell. The housewife will find much of value in the Care of Silver, Cookery for the Month and Hints on Serving Lemons, and the fancy worker will appreciate the new designs in Knitting, Netting, Tatting, etc. Begin a subscription with this number.

A PRIZE OFFER.

Wishing to stimulate intensive farming and crop diversification, The Advertiser has decided to offer a series of prizes to be contested for by its farmer readers.

The following are the competitions it has arranged, and the only condition necessary to become a competitor is, that the contestant shall be a subscriber to The Semi-Weekly Advertiser at the time of the award, and for the six months preceding:

For the largest crop of corn per acre, not less than five or more than twenty acres..... $75
For the largest crop of clover, any variety, including Mellilotus, under the same conditions..... $75
For the largest crop of oats, same conditions..... $75
For the largest crop of cotton under the same conditions and the following additional one, viz: that the contestant shall not plant more than half the acreage in cotton this season that he did last year.....$100
For the largest crop of all four, same conditions governing each $100
For the largest aggregate weight of five dressed hogs..... $75

It will be necessary for each contestant, when making a return of his crop for these prizes, to furnish a full description of his method of cultivation, and feeding depth of plowing, kind and quantity of fertilizer used, age of hogs, together with an affidavit stating the size of his crop, number of acres, the amount received if sold, and in case of cotton, the acreage planted last year. This affidavit must be sworn to by the contestant and two witnesses, before a duly authorized officer. In case of a tie in the amount produced per acre, the largest tract will have the preference, if tracts are the same size, then the superior method of cultivation as decided by the faculty of the Agricultural College.

The Advertiser is fully convinced that intensive farming is the most profitable, and that deep plowing and rotation are an absolute necessity. It offers the foregoing prizes with the hope that all farmers in Alabama, Georgia, Mississippi, Louisiana, Texas and Florida, to which states it is confined, will compete and discover it is right in its convictions. Whenever it is possible, we would like each contestant to strive for all of the prizes and learn how profitable it is to be prepared for any turn of the market.

The award will be made January 1st, 1896.

THE SHELL.

A shell upon the sounding sands
Flashed in the sunshine, where it lay,
Its green disguise I tore; my hands
Bore the rich treasure trove away.

Within, the chamber of the pearl
Blushed like the rose, like opal glowed;
And o'er its domes a cloudy swirl
Of mimic waves and rainbows flowed.

"Strangely," I said, "the artist-worm
Has made his palace-lair so bright!

Was born and died in eyeless night.

"Deep down in many-monstered caves
His miracles of beauty throve;
Far from all light, against strong waves,
A castle beautiful he wove.

"Take courage, Soul! Thy labor blind
The lifting tides may onward bear
To some glad shore, where thou shalt find
Light, and a friend to say 'How fair!'"

The Fight for Honest Money.

That the pending bond issue, like its two predecessors, will prove but a temporary makeshift, is conceded. It is not expected to stay for any length of time the drain upon the treasury gold reserve. It merely tides over the crisis. The battle for sound money, for the national credit, for the people's interest, in short, for the popular loan, is yet to be fought out, and we have no doubt as to the final result. For three months a similar conflict was waged in the senate over the repeal of the ruinous silver purchase law, but the silver maniacs and the foes of sound money were at last forced to succumb to the popular sentiment they had defied and to consider the public interests they had disregarded. As the will of the people and the credit of the nation then prevailed, so they eventually must in this struggle. —New York Herald (Ind.)

REPUBLICAN CONSPIRATORS.

Plotting to Undo the Work of the Democratic Congress.

The republicans in both houses of congress are putting partyism before patriotism as usual in these latter days.

When the president sent in his special message last Monday the sound-money republicans seemed disposed to join the sound-money democrats in affording relief to the treasury in the manner proposed. They seemed disposed to admit the truth of the president's statement that the treasury was in its present predicament not because of the insufficiency of the revenues, but because the laws relating to the currency were unwise and inadequate to the protection of the gold reserve.

Now all is changed. Although less than a week has elapsed, and although the business public has rallied to the support of the president with remarkable promptness and unanimity, we are told that "the party leaders in both house and senate are firmly convinced of the fact that the only difficulty at present lies in a lack of revenue."

And it is more than hinted that these leaders have come to an understanding not only that they will do whatever may be necessary to defeat the proposed legislation by this congress, but that in the next congress they will first pass a bill increasing the tariff rates and refuse to do anything to improve the currency system unless the president signs that bill.

In short, the plan is to force the president to accept a McKinley tariff or bankrupt the government and allow the country to lapse to the silver basis.

Of course, this diabolical programme has not been openly announced, nor will it be. But that it has been agreed upon is a fair inference from Senator Allison's recent remarks in the senate. After referring to the fact that the treasury had been running behind for some time he said: "The first duty of congress is to raise revenues as well as to appropriate for necessary expenses. The tariff bill has largely increased the free list, and brought in foreign articles with lowered duties. There is, therefore, ample means of increasing our revenue by a small increase of tariff rates. This should be done instead of drawing from the treasury reserve to pay current expenses. If a surplus had been maintained the gold reserve would not have been trenched on to meet the treasury notes."

Mr. Allison calmly ignores the fact that the treasury began to run behind before the end of the Harrison administration, and Mr. Foster, Harrison's secretary of the treasury, had made every preparation to issue bonds under the resumption. He seeks to place upon the democratic party the blame for the deficit and the run on the treasury for gold, both of which were due to republican legislation, and began before the close of the last republican administration. But let that pass.

The first thing to be done, Mr. Allison tells us, is to increase the tariff rates. But he cannot expect this congress to revise the tariff upward, especially as it will expire a month from now. He cannot mean to postpone remedial legislation until the new congress meets next December, for it will then be too late for such legislation, and there will be no excuse for increasing the tariff, because the present law will be producing revenue far in excess of the expenditure.

It is as plain as possible, therefore, that the republican programme hinted at by Mr. Allen is to force an extra session by preventing the passage of any measure of relief this session. Then the first thing, as he expressly states, will be to revise the tariff. That, judging from the past, will take at least six months. In the meantime nothing whatever will be done for the protection of the treasury. Probably nothing will be done afterward, for Mr. Allison voices the republican opinion that if the income exceeded the outgo the gold reserve would not be trenched upon to meet the treasury notes.

And so the diabolical republican scheme to force McKinleyism upon the country again or destroy the public credit by sinking us to the silver basis is completely exposed. But the scheme will not work. The administration will protect the treasury and the national honor by issuing bonds under the resumption act. The president will not call the new congress together to resume the agitation of the tariff. The new congress will not meet till December, and by that time there will be a surplus instead of a deficit, and there will be no excuse for reopening the tariff question.

The conspiracy of the republicans to force McKinleyism upon the country again or destroy the public credit and disgrace the nation will not be permitted to succeed.—Chicago Herald.

POINTS AND OPINIONS.

——The indorsements which the president is receiving from all over the country in respect to his financial proposition afford gratifying evidence that the people are all right upon the question. What is needed, however, is action on the part of congress; and this seems to be as far off as ever.—Detroit Free Press.

——During President Harrison's administration eighty-two million dollars, being all but eight million dollars of the gold surplus above the reserve, disappeared from the treasury. That was the first stage of the panic. It was republican in its origin; the result of republican quack legislation on the coinage and the tariff.—Chicago Herald.

——Looking at the matter from a strictly partisan standpoint, as most of the republicans in congress have insisted on looking at it, it would be better for the republicans that the present congress should take some definite action on the financial question than that it should be left entirely to the next congress. The republicans are about as badly split up on monetary matters as the democrats are.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

——The other day the French government condemned and humiliated a traitor, and all civilization pronounced benedictions on the act. But Capt. Dreyfus neither designed nor performed the harm to the French government and people which the republican senators and members of congress perpetrated on the people of this country in putting themselves in the way of relief from the damaging influences of their own unwise legislation. Benedict Arnold was a patriot compared with the conspirators who delayed the restoration of prosperity, while millions of people were suffering from hunger in this land of plenty.—Kansas City Times.

LEGISLATION ON CURRENCY.

Republicans Responsible for the Existing Conditions.

The most interesting fact in national politics is the obvious improvement in the republican attitude on the currency question. Heretofore the disposition has been on the part of the prominent men in that party to act simply as obstructionists, to treat the grave situation by which the country is confronted as a matter of interest only to the democracy, and to prevent the latter—so far, at least, as mere inaction would go—from any solution of the problem. The effort has been, in a word, to embarrass the democracy with a view to the manufacture of partisan capital; and there have not been wanting leaders and organs to openly proclaim that this is good politics for republicans. Now, however, there seems to be a disposition on the part of the better class of republican leaders to recognize the fact that they have a responsibility to the people as well as to the party, and to lend their aid in the direction of giving the country the financial legislation it so much needs.

It hardly needs to be said that republicans in congress are under obligation to pursue this course, not only as statesmen and public servants, but as partisans. The pretense that the condition which demands a change is of democratic creation is of the flimsiest. Very largely, it is the direct result of improvident and injudicious legislation for which the republican party is directly responsible. In a measure, it is due to the Sherman silver act, the effects of which are still felt, though the act itself has been repealed. It is due still more largely, perhaps, to the failure to pass long since an act providing for the issue of bonds on short time at a low rate of interest—a failure which has compelled the government in the replenishment of the gold reserve to utilize an act providing for bonds at too high a rate of interest and to borrow therefore at great disadvantage. But still more it is due to the policy inaugurated long since by the republican party of reissuing the greenbacks and keep the government, to that extent, in the banking business. This is really the source and origin of all the financial woes from which the government is suffering to-day; for if the government were not compelled to maintain a reserve for the redemption of these greenbacks—which, as a matter of fact, are only redeemed to be at once reissued and again made an outstanding obligation—the large exportation of gold and the depletion of the treasury stock of that metal would be of comparatively little importance.

But if the republicans are really in earnest in their professions of readiness to act, with reference to the solution of the financial problem, and not for the mere making of partisan capital, it is needless to discuss the question of responsibility. The bill introduced by Senator Sherman indicates that he is at least in earnest; and the favor shown it by members of his party entitle them to a similar presumption. It does not go quite far enough in that it fails to provide for the retirement of the greenbacks. But it is excellent as far as it does go; and it ought not to be a difficult matter to amend it in the particular named, or to supplement it with another act expressly designed for the purpose of retiring the greenbacks. The provision for a short-time bond at a low rate of interest is in harmony with the recommendation of the president; and that for the issue of notes by the national banks up to the par value of their bond deposits accords with the views of most financiers who have been heard from on the subject. This bill, or something like it, should be taken up at once and made a law, as it easily can be, before congress adjourns. The senator or congressman who opposes it in the belief that he can thereby deprive the democratic party of any credit, or embarrass the administration, is not only unpatriotic, but exceedingly short-sighted. The people are not likely to hold in very high esteem the partisans who take such a view of their duties as public servants; and the discredit they bring on themselves as individuals their party will surely suffer for.—Detroit Free Press.

THE DEFICIENCY IN REVENUE.

Republican Misrepresentations Regarding the Gold Outflow.

The republicans have been persistently asserting that deficiency of revenue is the only trouble with the treasury; that the reason Secretary Carlisle cannot retain gold is that he is obliged to pay it out to meet current expenses. When Mr. Wilson said in the house the other day that the treasury was not on the verge of bankruptcy but tending toward a surplus, he was met with a storm of republican jeers.

No doubt, there are republican congressmen so ignorant as not to know that Mr. Wilson was telling the truth. But there are many others who understand the real situation who are unwilling for the people to understand it. Now, it happens that the real situation is such as to be easily misrepresented.

It is true that the monthly expenditures have lately been larger than the revenue receipts. For July, August and September the two were nearly equal. In October, November and December the expenditures were much larger than the receipts for revenue. During January the receipts greatly increased, but, as it is not yet out, the exact figures cannot be given. A much larger increase of revenue is expected during the remaining months of the fiscal year. At all events, the present condition is well understood to be temporary, as the stocks of sugar and whisky on hand at the passage of the tariff bill cannot last always, and when they are exhausted two large sources of revenue will again be open. Besides, there is the income tax, which has not yet yielded a dollar.

While all this is true, the treasury has had recently a cash balance besides the gold reserve, quite sufficient for the present, even if the expected increase in the revenues should not be realized. The recent gold drafts have, doubtless, added to this. There is, therefore, no occasion to use the gold reserve for the payment of current expenses.

The gold reserve has gone out for two purposes: To furnish gold for export, and to increase the gold holdings of the New York banks. This gold is not, however, given away. The government gets currency for it, and as the reserve decreases the cash balance, less the reserve, increases. For this reason Mr. Wilson is right when he says the treasury is tending toward a surplus. It is the lack of gold to redeem its notes that is the sole cause of the treasury embarrassment.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

RATES FOR CLERGYMEN.

A number of the eastern railroads having on January 1, 1895, changed their rules regarding the issue of reduced rates to clergymen, and unauthorized statements as to the reasons for making the change having been published, considerable correspondence between the clergy and the railroads has resulted. The recent letter from Hon. Chauncey M. Depew, President of the New York Central, corrects certain erroneous impressions and states that company's position in the matter very clearly. The letter is as follows:

New York Central and Hudson River Railroad Co., Grand Central Depot.

NEW YORK, January 19, 1895.

Rev. Newton J. Conklin and H. H. Stebbins, D. D., Committee:

GENTLEMEN.—I am in receipt of your letter of January 15th, enclosing the resolutions of the Presbyterian Ministers' Association of Rochester.

The resolutions are based upon a misapprehension of the facts. The press dispatch announcing that the New York Central had withdrawn the ministerial half-rate tickets "because some of the ministers had abused the privilege, loaning their permits to unauthorized persons, and sometimes even selling them," was wholly unauthorized. No such information or notice was given to the press or to anyone else by any officer of this company. There was also an interview reported with me on this subject, making similar, if not more serious charges, but no such interview ever took place.

I deeply regret the publicity which was given to this matter and the discussion which has grown out of it before we had really arrived at what was the best policy for this company and its associates in the Trunk Line Association to pursue. It had been developed that very great abuses existed in the issuance and use of the so-called ministerial ticket. It was not, however, the fault of the ministers. So far as I can ascertain, no clergyman of any church has been guilty of any impropriety in the use of this privilege. Like most departures from regular rules, this one led after awhile to serious demoralization of passenger rates. The privilege of the ministerial order became extended to all persons who had ever been ordained as clergymen, whether they still had any charge or performed any ministerial services or not. Many who had gone into business claimed and received the order. Then it was extended to missionaries and officers of the Salvation Army, of the Y. M. C. A., and of other religious or semi-religious organizations. This enabled railway officials who desired to do so to issue the half-rate ticket to almost anybody.

I am sorry to say that some railways do not treat their agreements with each other with the same sense of honorable obligation which the officers would observe in their individual transactions. We were amazed to discover that in order to increase their business without apparently cutting the rates a few of the roads placed the ministerial tickets in scalpers' offices for sale. In this way they came into the hands of the general public. It frequently occurred that the conductor, when calling upon some passenger whom he did not think was a minister to produce the ministerial order which every clergyman carried, was met by a flat refusal, simply because the passenger was not a minister, had no order and had received or purchased the ticket in some one of the ways which I have described. Or, the conductor would find that under the guise of a missionary or an officer of one of these organizations he had received the order and ticket or else had bought a ticket which some one who could not be vouched for as a clergyman with a charge had secured, and then placed in a scalper's office for sale.

Of course the essential principle at the bottom of the relations between the railways and the public is that everybody shall be treated alike; that the railway fare shall be like the postage of the government, the same to everyone who boards the train and becomes a passenger between the same points. The wisdom of the prohibition of discriminations in favor of one person as against another, or of one shipper as against another, or of one locality as against another, is now universally admitted, and is incorporated in the railway laws.

The ministerial ticket was issued at a reduced rate, not as an act of charity, as some have alleged, but because it was believed that the clergy and the church performed an essential service which was felt throughout the vast employment of these corporations.

Personally, I would be very glad if the privilege could be continued under restrictions which would confine it within legitimate bounds. You will see, however, from the explanations which I have given, how difficult a problem this is.

Yours very truly,
(Signed) CHAUNCEY M. DEPEW,
President.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

THE LATE CZAR'S NURSE.

Beloved by the Family and Tenderly Cared for.

The day before Alexander III. was born an English nurse entered the service of the imperial family. I forget her full name, says a writer in the "Scotchman," but in the palace she was always known as "Kitty." A God-fearing woman, she exercised a powerful influence on the children under her care, and they returned that care with unbounded love and respect. In her old age the czar allotted her apartments in what answers in Russia to the English Hampton court—the winter palace—for since the death of Alexander II. it is no longer used as an imperial residence, though it still serves for some of the state ceremonies. Here rooms, a carriage, servants and everything that thought could devise, made the old nurse's declining days easy. The walls of her room were crowded with birthday and other presents from every member of the great family she had so faithfully served, and in these surroundings, rather less than two years ago, the time came for Kitty to die.

Again and again the emperor would come and sit by her bedside to read her a chapter out of the English Bible that she had so often read from to him when he was a little child; for to her early endeavors he had owed the strengthening of whatever was good and gentle in him; and he repaid her with almost the affection of a son to his mother. The last time he came to see her the old nurse was past consciousness, and failed to give him her usual smile of recognition. Alexander bent down over the dying face and asked her tenderly if she did not know him, but Kitty never spoke again. Her life's work was done.

The morning of the funeral found the emperor and some other members of the family in the room, with the British chaplain of St. Petersburg and the undertakers. As the moment came for putting the body into the coffin the men stepped forward to do so, but the czar motioned them back. "No; no one shall touch her but ourselves," he said, and then, beckoning to his brother, the grand duke Sergius took the feet and he lifted the head, and they gently laid the remains in the coffin.

It was a miserable winter day, but Alexander III. followed the coffin for two miles from the winter palace, through the streets of Petersburg to the cemetery beyond the Neva, to see his old English nurse laid in the grave. Who will not feel that such a man had a true and noble heart? And who will refuse him now that it must soon be "the darkened heart that beats no more, a tear of sympathy?"

THE ONWARD MARCH

of Consumption is stopped short by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. If you haven't waited beyond reason, there's complete recovery and cure.

Although by many believed to be incurable, there is the evidence of hundreds of living witnesses to the fact that, in all its earlier stages, consumption is a curable disease. Not every case, but a large percentage of cases, and we believe, fully 98 per cent. are cured by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, even after the disease has progressed so far as to induce repeated bleedings from the lungs, severe lingering cough with copious expectoration (including tubercular matter), great loss of flesh and extreme emaciation and weakness.

Do you doubt that hundreds of such cases reported to us as cured by "Golden Medical Discovery" were genuine cases of that dread and fatal disease? You need not take our word for it. They have, in nearly every instance, been so pronounced by the best and most experienced home physicians, who have no interest whatever in misrepresenting them, and who were often strongly prejudiced and advised against a trial of "Golden Medical Discovery," but who have been forced to confess that it surpasses, in curative power over this fatal malady, all other medicines with which they are acquainted. Nasty cod-liver oil and its filthy "emulsions" and mixtures, had been tried in nearly all these cases and had either utterly failed to benefit, or had only seemed to benefit a little for a short time. Extract of malt, whiskey, and various preparations of the hypophosphites had also been faithfully tried in vain.

The photographs of a large number of those cured of consumption, bronchitis, lingering coughs, asthma, chronic nasal catarrh and kindred maladies, have been skillfully reproduced in a book of 160 pages which will be mailed to you, on receipt of address and six cents in stamps. You can then write those cured and learn their experience. Address WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Buffalo, N. Y.

Do You Wish the Finest Bread and Cake?

It is conceded that the Royal Baking Powder is the purest and strongest of all the baking powders.

The purest baking powder makes the finest, sweetest, most delicious food. The strongest baking powder makes the lightest food.

That baking powder which is both purest and strongest makes the most digestible and wholesome food.

Why should not every housekeeper avail herself of the baking powder which will give her the best food with the least trouble?

Avoid all baking powders sold with a gift or prize, or at a lower price than the Royal, as they invariably contain alum, lime or sulphuric acid, and render the food unwholesome.

Certain protection from alum baking powders can be had by declining to accept any substitute for the Royal, which is absolutely pure.

The Senate Going Along Slowly With Appropriation Bills.

WASHINGTON'S MEMORY IN CONGRESS.

In the House the General Deficiency Bill Held the Boards—Much Debate But Little Progress Made—Other Congressional Matters.

WASHINGTON, February 23.— Washington's birthday furnished the staple of the chaplain's opening prayer in the senate yesterday. His petition was that the influence of that noble character should be transmitted the life and character of every American boy and man in this and all future times.

Senator Gorman made another proposition that there should be a night session on Tuesday for the consideration of bills on the calendar not objected to—each senator to have an opportunity to call up one bill. It was also acceded to.

The senate then proceeded with the consideration of the Indian appropriation bill and the remainder of the day's session was taken up almost exclusively with the consideration of that bill.

When the senate adjourned at 5:35, the appropriation bill (after three days being devoted to it) was far from finished, and a proposition that the final vote be taken upon it before adjournment today (requiring unanimous consent) was promptly negatived with an objection from Senator Chandler.

Senator Call's Warning.

With business matters in this very unsatisfactory position, and notwithstanding a warning from Senator Call—in charge of the Indian appropriation bill—that if that bill was not passed a t night or early today, some of the great appropriation bills would fail, the senate quietly proceeded to the consideration of executive business and at 5:35 adjourned.

The senate confirmed the nomination of Erskine M. Ross, of California, to be United States circuit judge for the ninth judicial circuit, and Gideon D. Bantz, associate justice of the supreme court of New Mexico.

The house yesterday observed Washington's birthday by meeting an hour earlier than usual. At 11 o'clock Chaplain Bagby invoked Divine blessing, there were about a score of members present, but this attendance was rapidly increased, and while business was being considered under requests for unanimous consent probably 100 were in their seats on the floor.

The senate concurrent resolution expressing the gratification of congress at the high honors paid the late Minister Gray by the government of Mexico was laid before the house and agreed to.

The Day in the House.

The house, in committee of the whole, resumed consideration of the general deficiency appropriation bill for the current year.

The bill had not been disposed of at 5 o'clock when, under the rule a recess was taken until 8 o'clock. There were two matters which gave rise to extended debate. The first was the paragraph appropriatiug $140,000 to be paid by the attorney general for expenses in enforcing the orders of United States courts for the protection of property in the hands of receivers during the railroad strikes of last summer. This was antagonized by Messrs Livingston and Boatner, and criticised by Mr. Breckinridge in charge of the bill, and advocated by Messrs Sannon, republican of Illinois, Henderson, republican of Iowa, and Sayers. An amendment was agreed to on motion of Mr. Baker, republican of New Hampshire, directing the attorney general to report in detail to congress the disbursements under the appropriation, and in that form the item remained in the bill.

The other matter was a proposition to pay W. Jasper Blackburn salary as a representative from a Louisiana district from March 4, 1867, to April 1868. This led to a long discussion on a point of order, as to whether or not a vacancy existed in a district for that period, inasmuch as the state was not given representation in congress under the reconstruction acts, until the latter date. The amendment was ruled out.

Mr. Baldwin has had the wage dispute in charge and as he is thoroughly familiar with it the committee desires to treat with him. The time of Mr. Baldwin's return is uncertain.

HEAVY CROP NOT THE CAUSE.

Senator George's Report Upon the Conditions, Etc., of the Cotton Crop.

WASHINGTON, February 23.—Senator George, chairman of the senate committee on agriculture has made a report to the senate on the condition of the cotton crop, the causes for existing depression and the remedies that should be applied.

The investigation was made under authority of a senate resolution of April 19th, 1892. The cotton report is divided into five parts, the first being devoted to the financial condition of the farmer is bad, a very large per cent insolvent, and that very few indeed are substantially increasing in the possession of property. Second, that with the prices prevailing in the years 1891, '92, '93, in nearly every part of the cotton producing region the cost of production equalled, if it did not exceed, the value of the cotton raised. The result has been to produce widespread discontent among cotton producers, and a disposition to discredit their old time conservative methods and to induce a too ready acceptance of plausible relief.

With regard to the causes of the low prices, the report says: "It is conceded that the obvious, apparent and proximate cause is over-production. Since in the main, with deviations produced by abnormal conditions, price is regulated by supply and demand—a full supply with relatively diminished demand, bringing low prices, and a great and active demand with diminished supply bringing higher prices—where there is an annual increasing demand.

Statistics are produced to overthrow the theory of over-production being the cause of the low prices.

Under part four, the demonetization of silver is discussed, this being a cause for the low price of cotton in the estimation of the committee, as more potent than any. There are many printed pages of arguments in favor of the rehabilitation of silver and the prevention, thereby, of falling prices by the opposition of gold. The committee also finds that the importation of gold from Europe other than by the regular commercial methods tends to depress the price of cotton as it lessens the amount of money in the market which fixes the price of cotton.

The report concludes with a division devoted to remedial legislation. The conclusions reached by Senator George chairman of the committee are nonconcurred in by his republican associates. His great remedy is the remonetization of silver, but he admits there is no immediate prospect for its realization. Other remedies suggested by the report are the repeal of the duty on cotton manufacturing machinery, and especially spinning machinery, the accomplishment of which the report admits, is unlikely.

SONS OF DIXIE IN GOTHAM.

Gather at the Banquet Board and Honor the Name of Washington.

NEW YORK, February 23.—The sons and the descendants of the sons of fair Dixie gathered last night in the banquetting hall of Sherry's to celebrate their ninth anniversary and ninth annual dinner, and also to do honor to the memory of Washington. The company gathered around the bounteous board was a truly representative one. They were a truly patriotic crowd, and every mention of that grand name that had made a nation, and who was a son of southern soil, was greeted with the wildest applause. The guests were seated around a horse shoe shaped table from which there branches a smaller table going down the center of the hall. All about the room "Old Glory" was draped, and the beauty of the scene was enhanced with many growing and flowering plants.

It was nearly 10 o'clock, for the members had dallied long over the viands, that the president of the society and the president of the dinner, Mr, Chas. A. Deshon, arose and in a short address introduced the first speaker of the evening, Hon. William Everett, who responded to the toast "Washington."

There was great cheering at the conclusion of the address and other speeches were also enthusiastically received.

"The empire state" was responded to by James C. Carter; "the Southerner in New York" by Dr. William L. Polk; "Southern Characteristics" by Rev. J. J. Lafferty; "the Journalist in Politics" by John Kendrick Bangs; "the City of New York" by Job E. Hedges.

"Dixie," "Old Folks at Home," and the "Old Kentucky Home," were sung with a vim that only the southerner knows how to impart to these songs, and when the ninth dinner of the Southern society came to an end long after Washington's birthday, it was voted the most successful in the society's history.

FIGHT IN THE FAMILY

Populist Editors Disagree and a New Party Will Evolve.

THE REFORM PRESS CONVENTION ON.

Headquarters to be Moved From Washington to Some Western City—New Populist Daily to be Established at Kansas City, Mo.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., February 23.—What was probably the first gun in the inevitable battle between the new third party being formed in Washington and the straight out populist was fired here yesterday when the fourth annual meeting of the National Reform Press Association began in the Centropolis hotel.

The association is formed of the editors of the populist papers in the United States. Representatives of 1,500 papers are at the meeting. A dozen of them are women. Trouble started when Mr. Clairborne, of Kansas, in a brief speech upon "how can we get telegraphic news independent of the monopolistic, plutocratic press association," reflected upon the honesty of H. F. Taubeneck, chairman of the national populist committee. The speaker was applauded.

The Fight is On.

This pressages the fight which is sure to come before the meeting adjourns between the friends and enemies of Taubeneck. Some of the leaders of the populist party, among them Dr. S. M. McLallin, editor of the Topeka Advocate, accused Taubeneck of designing to betray the populist into the hands of the new third party, called the silver party. Taubeneck is also accused of wanting to side track the old Omaha platform on which the populist party has fought, and substitute a silver platform.

The association decided to establish a new daily paper in this city, to be the national organ of populism. The paper will be under the editorial management of Paul J. Dixon, of the Missouri World, of Chilicothe, Mo., and the plate service and the syndicate letters under charge of S. W. Morgan, of Hardy, Ark., will also be issued from here. It is intended to continue the publication of the National Reformer, now the organ of the association and Morgan's buzz saw in this city. The convention will, undoubtedly pass a resolution providing for the moving of the national headquarters from Washington to some western city. This was agreed upon by the executive committee and leaders in a caucus of the association yesterday morning.

The Western Headquarters.

Kansas City, Omaha, Topeka and St. Joseph are candidates. A bureau of press information will be established in Washington. The chief point of discussion is the proposition in which the silver question should be placed in the platform—next year. Many are in favor of making silver the only issue of the party in the next campaign. The association, however, will probably insist upon the entire Omaha platform. Taubeneck, Weaver and others are in favor of confining the issues to the silver proposition in deference to the proposed silver party, now being formed among Washington senators and representatives and claim to be assured of the abandonment of the old parties by over 150 representatives and senators in congress.

BUT THEY TOOK A VOTE.

And No Change as Yet in the Delaware Senatorial Deadlock.

DOVER, Del., February 23.—Despite the fact that yesterday was a holiday the general assembly remained in session and took one vote on the senatorial question. There was no change except the slight changes made by absent members. The vote was: Wolcott, democrat, 7; Higgins, republican, 7; Addicks, republican, 6; Massey, republican, 3; Martin, democrat, 2; Tunnell, democrat, 1; Bayard, democrat, 1. Absent 3.

THE ADULTERATION OF FOODS.

Senator Moody's Pure Food Bill as Passed the North Carolina Legislature.

RALEIGH, N. C., February 23.—Senator Moody's bill, to prevent the adulteration and mishandling of foods, and sales thereof, which passed the senate yesterday, is exactly similar to the Hatch bill now before congress except in regard to drugs, as North Carolina already has a pure drug law. It provides that all mixtures, compounds, and blends of any articles of food shall be plainly labeled so as to indicate what they are.

THE NATIONAL CAUTAUQUA.

First Meeting in the Interest of the Augusta Enterprise Held in That City.

AUGUSTA, Ga., February 23.—The first meeting in this city in the interest of beginning the National winter chautauqua assembly was held last night. A mass meeting was addressed by trustees. A large sum of money was arranged to be raised in this city to aid the enterprise. One of the largest suburbs of the city has been in large part given to the enterprise by the citizens of Augusta.

Escaped the Gallows at the Last Moment.

DENISON, Tex., February 23.—Hunt, the murderer who was to have been hanged here yesterday, escaped the gallows at the last moment, the governor having commuted his sentence to life imprisonment.

NEWS NOTES IN BRIEF.

Ex-Premier Giolitti, has been given twelve days of grace in which time to appear in court in Rome to answer the writ served upon him. The trial of the Crispi cases is fixed for July 28.

Sixty guineas percentage has been paid to reinsure the British steamship Istrian, which sailed from Liverpool for Newport News on January 24, and consequently is about two weeks overdue.

CONGRATULATE EDITOR SCOTT.

The Last Day's Work of the American Newspaper Publishers in Convention.

NEW YORK, February 23.—The American newspaper publishers association met again yesterday at the Hotel Brunswick. It was the third and last day of the publishers annual convention. The morning was spent in the discussion of business affairs relating to the organization. The meeting was held with closed doors and it was said that there was nothing of public interest done. At the afternoon session the existing libel laws of the several states were discussed behind closed doors. It was decided that the laws now in vogue based upon the English common law, were antiquated and should be revised to meet the requirements of the present age. No formal action was taken upon the matter as there are bills pending before the legislatures of the many states for needed revision of libel laws. The following resolution upon the retirement of James W. Scott, the outgoing president, was adopted:

Resolved, That the members of the American Newspaper Publishers association in convention assembled join in extending greeting and congratulations to James W. Scott on the successful outcome of negotiations which give to him the control of the Chicago Herald, Post, and Chicago Times.

Resolved, That this association take this occasion of retirement of Mr. Scott from the presidency of this association to record its full appreciation of the great energy and zeal which he has always manifested in promoting its welfare during the past six years in which he has rendered such eminent service.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be transmitted to Mr. Scott, with the heartfelt thanks of all.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: C. W. Knapp, of the St. Louis Republic, president; J. A. Butler, Buffalo News, vice-president; W. S. Bryant, Brooklyn Times, secretary; H. F. Gunnison, Brooklyn Eagle, treasurer.

THE GEORGIA HUSSARS WIN.

They Gain the Shoot With the New Jersey Guardsmen by Forty-One Points.

SAVANNAH, Ga., 23.—The picked rifle team from the Georgia Hussars, Troop A., First regiment Georgia Cavalry, won the shoot with the New Jersey Guardsmen yesterday by forty-one points. The match was shot at Wormsloe, a suburb of Savannah, the country home of Mr. G. W. Berenne, who royally entertained the Hussars and their guests from New Jersey. The riflemen went on the ranges about 12:30 o'clock and finished the shoot about 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

Ten shots were fired by each man, both at the 200 and 500 yard ranges. The ranges were entirely new to both contesting teams. The light on both targets was good as the day was moderately cloudy with no sunlight and it was uniformly distributed. There was considerable wind when the men began on the 200 yard range, and it gave them a little trouble as it came in gusts, but it had almost entirely died down when they went on the 500 yard range, and the scores on that were about as good as on the former.

TO SUPPRESS THE CRUELTY.

Turkish Authorities Trying to Bribe the Outraged Families.

LONDON, February 23. — Professor Minas Tcheraz, editor of Armenia, is informed by correspondents in Armenia that the Turkish authorities are making every effort to bribe the families who suffered most keenly from the outrages last fall. They are said to have promised the Armenians in Sassoun to return the booty, taken by the Kurds, to pay them 500 pounds indemnity and to relieve them of taxes for several years in case the Armenians keep from the commission of inquiry all revelations concerning the abuses of Turish rule. At Amassin, Professor Tcheraz is informed, the jailors scourge the Armenian political prisoners daily.

SERIOUS FIRE AT DARLINGTON

Warehouse and Prize Room of the Darlington Tobacco Co. Destroyed.

DARLINGTON, S. C., February 23.—The warehouse and prize room of the Darlington Tobacco company, were destroyed by fiire yesterday morning at four o'clock. The warehouse was all ablaze when the watchman sounded the alarm and it burned like tinder. The prize rooms stored tobacco were very near and these with their contents were also entirely destroyed. It is not known how the fire originated and the loss will be over ten thousand dollars, only partially covered by insurance.

Chicago's Populist Ticket.

CHICAGO, February 23.—The populists of the city met in convention yesterday evening. A reform platform calling for honest politics was adopted and the following ticket nominated for the coming election: Mayor, Dr. Bayard Holmes; treasurer, W. W. Beaver; attorney, Seymour Stedman; clerk, Jacob Rothberger; judge of the circuit court, E. E. Leinen.

Marine Hospital at Savannah.

WASHINGTON, February 23. — The house committee on public buildings and grounds yesterday ordered a favorable report on the bill appropriating $150,000 for a marine hospital at Savannah, Ga.

Clemson College Opens Well.

CALHOUN, S. C., February 13.—Clemson college opened yesterday with 231 students present, seventy-six of them being new. About one hundred more are expected.

Murderers of Miss Lawrence Captured.

ALLENDALE, S. C., February 23.—Detectives have the murderers of Miss Carrie Lawrence spotted without a doubt and hope to have them captured today.

Generally Fair.

WASHINGTON, February 23.—Forecast: For Georgia and Alabama, generally fair Saturday, variable winds. For Tennessee, fair, north winds becoming variable.

The Maher-Hall Fight a Draw.

BOSTON, February 23.—The Maher-Hall fight last night was declared a draw at the end of the sixth round.

LEFT STAGE FOR RUM

John L. Gets Gloriously Drunk in Jacksonville and Quits.

MEMBERS OF HIS COMPANY STRANDED

Many of Them Making Every Effort to Get Back to New York—Sullivan's Backer Will Take Him to Cuba Now, and Organize Again Soon.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., February 23.—John L. Sullivan played here Thursday night in "A True American," and the box office receipts were about $1,000. After the performance he took in the town and proceeded to celebrate in the style peculiar to himself. His company was booked for Macon Friday night and should have left here at 11 o'clock Thursday night, but the Boston boy was having too good a time and flatly refused to go and said he would go the next morning. It was the same thing over again when the early train left and John L. spent the day taking in the different saloons in a carriage and making the streets lively generally. Members of his company yesterday decided that they have had enough of the ex-slugger's continuous and damaging sprees and are now hustling around trying to get back to New York at reduced rates. Bobby Mark, the comedian, stated that this thing has been repeated all along the route, and that Sullivan has corralled the receipts and squandered them in riotous living, leaving the company practically unpaid for the past six weeks. He says that they positively will not go further with him and will get to New York from this point the best way they can. W. J. Wright, of the Phœnix Browning company, Pittsburg, Sullivan's backer, stated yesterday that he will take John L. with him to Cuba and afterwards to Spain, and next spring will reorganize the theatrical company in New York.

MYSTERY BURIED IN THE GRAVE

The Remains of the Secretary of the Russian Legation, a Suicide, Interred.

WASHINGTON, February 23.—As a result of cable communication with his relatives in Moscow, the remains of Mr. Pierre Bogdanoff, first secretary of the Russian legation, were yesterday quietly interred in Rock Creek cemetery in this city. Mr. Bogdanoff, suffering intensely from neuralgia, shot himself in his bed chamber on Wednesday morning last, leaving a note, saying that "to a long time dead soul" he found the body "too heavy a task," and therefore destroyed himself. What mystery if any, lay behind this tragic taking off, is probably buried with him. The note which he left for relatives has been forwarded to them unopened. A priest of the Greek church came on from New York and conducted at the home of the deceased the simple ceremonies which under the circumstances were all that could possibly be done in the way of religious ceremony. Prince Gantacuzene, the Russian minister, all the members of the Russian legation, and many other diplomats attended the service, but only a few personal friends followed the remains to the grave.

DUN'S REVIEW OF TRADE.

Indications Point to the Beginning of a Recovery From Commercial Inertness.

NEW YORK, February 23.—R. G. Dun's weekly review of trade says:

The surprising success of the new loan, and the great confidence it has given to investors on both sides of the waters, and to business here, encourage many to hope that it may be the beginning of a real recovery. In twenty-two minutes here subscriptions are supposed to have been at least five times the amount of bonds offered, and in two hours, at London, they were twenty times the amount there offered. Considering the power the control of these bonds gives to regulate foreign exchanges, and to prevent exports of gold, the transaction has indeed greatly changed the financial situation, in spite of the fact that the government revenues are still deficient, and that domestic trade shows scarcely any gain as yet. The industries are not enlarging production, nor have prices of farm products improved. But a very important source of apprehension and hindrance has, for the time at least, been removed.

The failures for the first half of February show liabilities of $5,550,986 against $8,534,072 last year; of manufacturing concerns $1,592,319 against $3,749,845 last year, and of trading concerns $3353,019 against $4,703,749 last year. The failures for this week have been 302 in the United States against 288 last year, and in Canada 36 against 51 last year.

BLOOD IN THE SENATE AISLES.

Disgraceful Row in the Upper Branch of the Colorado Legislature.

DENVER, Col., February 23.—A disgraceful row occurred in the state senate yesterday. Senator Mills in the course of debate called Senator Peace a liar. Mills then threw a paperweight at Peace and the senators clinched and fought viciously. The result was four black eyes and a lively flow of blood. The contestants were finally separated. The senate ordered an invstigation of the fracas and adjourned.

KILLED HIMSELF FOR HIS WIFE.

Missouri Stock Raiser Suicides That His Wife May Marry the Man She Loves.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., February 23.—H. J. Milhouse, a stock raiser, living near here, yesterday had his wife arrested on a charge of bigamy. Yesterday he committed suicide leaving a letter in which he declared that he took his own life in order that his wife might be free to live with the man whom she had married in violation of the law.

Invitations to Miss Gould's Marriage

NEW YORK, February 23.—Invitations were sent out yesterday by Mr. and Mrs. George J. Gould for the marriage of Miss Anna Gould to Count de Castellac. The ceremony will take place at noon on Monday, March 4th, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Gould.

Washington's Birthday in Tennessee.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., February 23.—Washington's birthday was celebrated here by the city schools yesterday. Last night a banquet was given by the sons of the revolution and a reception by the woman's relief corps.

CAROLINA'S ELECTION LAW.

The New Plan Adopted by the Fusion Legislature.

RALEIGH, N. C., February 23.—The house has passed the new election law for the state by a party vote, the populists and republicans voting for it and the democrats against it.

A salient feature of the law is that there shall be in each precinct a registrar representing each political party. There shall be poll holders also representing their political parties. These election officers are to be recommended by chairmen of township committees to the chairmen of the state executive committees of each party, and the state chairmen are to make the appointments for their respective parties.

Resignation books are to close in county precincts at 4 o'clock p. m. on Saturday preceding election, and in cities and towns at 9 o'clock p. m. on the same day. One box must contain all ballots cast. An agreement has been reached on the much mooted and discussed county government question.

The bill, when completed, will provide for five commissioners for each county, three of whom are to be elected by a vote of the people and two of whom are to be appointed by the resident judge of the district. The appointees are not to be of the same political party as the elected commissioners. The consent of four members of the board is necessary to any action involving the levying of taxes or the expenditure of money.

AND GAINESVILLE WILL FIGHT.

Mr. Herbert's Bill of Assumpsit for Damage Amounting to $15,000.

GAINESVILLE, Fla., February 23.—A new feature of the financial differences between P. O. Herbert, the waterworks contractor, and the city of Gainesville was developed yesterday, when the United States marshal served a summons upon Mayor J. F. McKinstry for the city to appear in the clerk's office of the United States circuit court and answer to P. O. Herbert's bill of assumpsit, in which the plaintiff claims damages to the amount of $15,000.

W. W. Hampton and Mr. Liggett, of Jacksonville, represent the plaintiff, and filed their bill some days since. This matter has been pending for two years. According to the report of the city engineer Mr. Herbert is entitled to but $700 in round figures. The dispute is over a bill for extras, which the contractor charged after the city had caused him to change the route of the main pipe from the city to the water station.

Many of the most prominent citizens claim that Mr. Herbert did poor work. Whether Mr. Herbert is responsible or not, Gainesville has a very inferior waterworks plant. The machinery is all of the very best, but it has been poorly put up. The main pipe was laid through a swamp, and instead of a good foundation under it, the pipe was placed upon wooden skids, which are rapidly decaying and letting the main sink in the mud and water.

MADE TO PREVENT FRAUD.

The New System of Book-Keeping in South Carolina Dispensaries.

COLUMBIA, S. C, February 23.—Yesterday Dispensary Inspector Scruggs returned to the city to remain here until next week for the purpose of putting the new system of bookkeeping devised by him into practice in all the dispensaries of the state. Mr. Scruggs says all the books for the new dispensary system of bookkeeping, which are being printed and prepared in Charleston will be ready and delivered by Monday. They will at once be sent to all the county dispensaries, and the dispensers will be instructed to begin the use of the system. Inspector Scruggs has not yet completed the inspection of the Charleston dispensaries. The appointments of the new Orangeburg board of control have been held up until the difficulties about the matter of the St. Matthews dispensary shortage are adjusted.

WOMEN FIGHT IN CHURCH.

One Sat So That the Other Could Not See the Minister.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., February 23.—There is trouble in the Tabernacle Baptist church, colored, of this place. Women had almost a pitched battle there yesterday. Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Bocks, both members, were present last evening. Mrs. Smith sat in front of Mrs. Bocks, who ordered her to get away, so that the latter could see the minister. This Mrs. Smith refused to do, so Mrs. Bocks' hand landed on the side of Mrs. Smith's face. Mrs. Smith slapped back, and then Sonny Smith slapped Mrs. Bocks. He was arrested and fined $5 by the mayor today. A warrant was sworn out for Mrs. Bocks for assault and battery. The case was continued by the mayor.

OCALA'S COUNCIL FOR BONDS.

By a Vote of 4 to 2 It is Determined to Call An Election.

OCALA, Fla., February 23.—At last the city fathers have decided to issue bonds to relieve the present financial embarrassment of the city, and to take up all outstanding script. This was decided upon at their regular meeting last night by a vote of 4 to 2. An ordinance was at once prepared by City-Attorney O. T Green empowering the mayor to call an election for the purpose of having the voters to pass upon their action. The election will no doubt prove a very interesting one, as one of the aldermen present at the meeting who voted against the issuing of same was heard to say he would spend $5,000 to defeat the project.

Landsberg's Pardon.

ATLANTA, February 23.—Hon. Charles Bartlett, heading another delegation of well known people of both Macon and Atlanta, held a second conference with Governor Atkinson yesterday in behalf of the application for the pardon of James Landsberg. Governor Atkinson has, however, given no intimation as to when he will render his decision in the case.

THROUGH THE STATE

The Alabama Legislature Adjourns Sine Die.

NEGRO CONFERENCE AT MONTGOMERY.

Providence Interferes in a Murder Trial. A Fatal Accident at Brewton. Other State News Condensed in Short Paragraphs.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., February 20.—The Alabama legislature adjourned at 12 o'clock last night. The bill for refunding state debt in gold bonds has been signed by the governor.

Most of the bills of general interest became laws. Those not acted on are generally of local character.

The legislation, it is believed will be of great benefit. The contest laws and the changes in election laws are fairly acceptable to the populists, the democrats originated and supported both measures.

The vote on sustaining governor's veto of alien railroad bill was 42 democrats, 20 populists and 1 republican.

Nomination of Harvey E. Jones for railroad commissioner was confined by vote of democrats and populists alike. He is Governor Oates' private secretary and is very popular throughout the state. President Shorter holds for two years longer.

IN THE INTEREST OF THEIR RACE

Prominent Negroes in Annual Conference at Montgomery, Alabama.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., February 21.—The fourth annual session of the negro conference was held under the auspices of the Tuskegee Normal and Industrial Institute yesterday. Professor Booker, of Washington, presiding. About 350 farmers representing Alabama, Georgia, South Carolina and Mississippi were present. Among the distinguished people from abroad were Dr. Frissell, of Hampton Institute, Virginia; Anna Dawes, Pittsfield, Massachusetts, daughter of ex-Senator Dawes; Rev. W. P. Dillingham, of New York City; Rev. Dr. Chancy, of Richmond; Rev. Dr. John, of Clark University, Atlanta. After five hours earnest discussion the following declarations were unanimously adopted as to the sense of the conference:

"The seriousness of our condition lies in that in the states where the colored people are most numerous, at least ninety per cent of them are in the country, they are difficult to reach, and but little is being done for them. Their industrial, educational and normal condition is slowly improving, but the masses are still slaves of poverty and ignorance, and are sadly wanting in real character.

"We urge all to buy land and to cultivate it thoroughly; to raise more food supplies; to build houses with more than one room; to tax ourselves to build better school houses and to extend the term to at least six months; to give more attention to the characters of our leaders, especially ministers and teachers; to keep out of debt; to avoid law suits; to treat our women better; and that conferences similar in aim to this one be held in every community where practicable.

BESET WITH DRAWBACKS.

Alabama Murder Trial That Would Come to an End But For Providence.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., February 22.—The trial of the Huey-Cocks case at Marion, Ala., seems to be beset with trouble. When the Huey's killed ex-Sheriff Cocks some two years ago, there was great excitement throughout the state, as all the parties were well known and had many friends. The preliminary trial was extended through a six week's session. A special term of court was ordered some weeks ago with Judge Tyson on the bench to try the case. Ten days ago a child of the presiding judge died rather suddenly which caused an adjournment. Yesterday morning when the attorney for the defense had been speaking a short time the death of a child of one of the jurors was announced and court had to adjourn again. It is now thought the case will be completed if the hand of providence does not again interfere.

FATAL ALABAMA ACCIDENT.

Loaded Gun Discharged and Instantly Killed the Owner.

BREWTON, Ala., February 19.—While returning from a camp hunt the horses of J. T. Booth took fright and began to run. He reined them into an obstruction and the sudden stop precipitated him and John Franklin, Jr., to the ground. A loaded gun in the buggy was discharged by the concussion and struck Franklin near the heart, causing instant death.

THEY REJECT MR. TUNSTALL.

Alabama Senators Turn Down one of Governor Oates' Appointees.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., February 16.—Governor Oates yesterday sent to the State senate the names of Hon. W. C. Tunstall and Hon. Ross Smith for railroad commissioners. The senate confirmed Mr. Smith but rejected Mr. Tunstall who has been on the board for ten years and was strongly opposed for renomination.

The Alabama Division of the T. P. A.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., February 18.—The Alabama division of the Travellers' Protective association, met here Saturday in annual session, elected officers and passed resolutions condemning cutting operators on contract goods and fixing limit of credit to merchants to 60 per cent.

Coal Famine at Gadsden.

GADSDON, Ala., February 18.—A coal famine is on at this place. Not a ton can be had for love or money, and in consequence the water works company have been unable to pump water in the reservoir, which is empty, and the city is at the mercy of the fire fiend.

THE * CHRONICLE.

C. C. DuBOSE, Editor and Proprietor.

COLUMBIANA, FEB. 28, 1895.

THE Missouri legislature has voted to remove the state capital from Jefferson City to Sedalia.

HAD the father of his country been a city father the story of the hatchet would never have been accepted.

WE are very glad that politics will now have a much needed rest. Business can now have a chance. But few will regret when congress adjourns and national legislation, or rather the lack of it, is over.

THE successful test of Alabama coal in the navy will not only give a new and valuable customer, but it will advertise the coal in the islands of the seas and in foreign lands. Each vessel of the navy will be a traveling salesman of the coal.

THE cry of "rebel brigadier" does not seem to have any terrors for President Cleveland a bit, for he has just appointed Senator Ransom, of North Carolina, to be minister to Mexico to succeed Isaac P. Gray, deceased. The appointment of Senator Ransom meets with the approval of the entire country.

IT DID not take long for Governor Oates to put a quietus on the rumor that Reuben F. Kolb was about to establish a dual government. The governor simply stated that any attempt at such a proceeding would be firmly and promptly met in its incipiency, and its instigators dealt with according to law. That ended it.

DR PARKHURST says a woman's life is bound up in three D's—dress, diseases, domestics. These three well represent the three cardinal virtues. Faith in the set of her dress, hope in conquering disease, charity to the cook. But to these three D's may be added two more in which some women's lives are bond—dancing and dudes.

UNDER the terms of the new law for funding the Alabama bonds in a new series, the people of the state are to be offered the first opportunity for purchase and in accordance with the law. The bonds offered in the state will take somewhat of the nature of a popular loan. They are to be of small denominations to bear 3 per cent interest and coupons to be receivable for taxes.

THE state of Alabama will not be represented at the Atlanta exposition this fall unless it is done by private subscription, as the legislature refused to appropriate money for a state exhibit. Alabama will thus miss the opportunity of a lifetime to advertise her resources and natural advantages, for had an adequate sum of money been appropriated for that purpose the state would have been benefitted to a great extent, and no money could possibly have been invested that would have brought larger returns.

THE running of a state government is just as much a matter of business as running a big dry goods store. In every state campaign each party claims that it can run the state government more economically than the opposition. One of the principal arguments of the democratic party in Alabama since reconstruction is that it has largely reduced the cost of running the state government. In this view of the matter it is interesting to compare Alabama with other states. The cost of the state government per head is in New York $1.67, in California $6.58 and in Alabama 50 cents. —Age-Herald.

ON THE anniversary of the birth of George Washington and General Robt. E. Lee, the North Carolina legislature refused to adjourn out of respect to their memories, although Washington's birthday is a national holiday. The other day Fred Douglas, the noted colored orator and politician, died. Immediately upon hearing the tidings a motion to adjourn was made and carried; republicans and populists voting solidly for adjournment. The democrats alone voting against it. While it is true Fred Douglas was a leader of his race and a smart and learned man to have been born in slavery, he was in no way the equal of Washington or Lee, and the action of the North Carolina legislature is to be severely condemned, and it is a species of negro worship that should be severely condemned, and it is a species of negro worship that should be frowned down with contempt wherever it may be found. The intelligent people of that state are to be pitied that they are governed by a class of people who sacrifice the honor and dignity of the state in order to pander to a mawkish sentiment and make political capital with a certain class of ignorant voters.

THE COMMERCIAL CLUB

Of Birmingham Issues an Address to the Press of Alabama.

TO THE PRESS OF ALABAMA:—

Perhaps at no other period in the history of the South have there been given so many and such favorable notices of this section as have been voluntarily bestowed by the press of the North, East and West during the past twelve months. These notices have set forth in the most attractive and valuable manner, being altogether free from speculative or pecuniary influences, the great resources of the South and the manner in which her enterprises and people have withstood a financial crisis without parallel in our country's history.

These utterances have been productive of results, the value of which rests with the people of the South alone to reap and determine. They have turned the eyes not only of our own country to this section, but the entire world has had its attention directed hitherward, and the South is offered capital without limit for the development of that wealth so lavishly bestowed upon this fair land.

There is a movement that promises the almost complete deportation of an industry from New England of which it has had a practical monopoly since the foundation of the government. This movement must necessarily attract with it increased agricultural development, with enhanced values of commercial and industrial products for every branch of enterprise. This movement may well evoke the keenest interest from all classes and portions of the South, and there is an awakened recognition generally to its importance, still there is much to be done by our own people before we can ever hope to realize from this movement its fullest fruition. Alabama is first on the list of our sisterhood of states, and is likewise first in all those natural gifts which should render her first in the wealth and prosperity of her people. With climate the most salubrious and healthful, with soil the most fertile and productive, with minerals rich and abundant, with fields and forests, hills and dales, valleys and plains, with fruits and flowers rare and beautiful, truly nature has bestowed upon Alabama all that the heart of man should wish as an earthly dwelling place. The blessings, however, have their greatest value in proportion as they are shared by our fellow men and freed from untoward conditions by statutory restrictions and governmental policy.

The press of the land is the great medium by which such blessings are made known, as well as the custodian of that sentiment which is even more potent than laws or forms of government. The press of Alabama is confronted with a grave and responsible duty, and the Commercial Club of Birmingham, having an earnest desire to see our great state take that position in the land to which she is so richly entitled, confidently makes this appeal to the newspapers of the state to inaugurate a campaign of education, whereby our own people shall be inspired with a spirit of appreciation of the blessings we have and the greater possibilities resulting from their wider distribution and better administration. The press has done and is doing great service in this direction. Still there is evidence that much more is needed, and now is the opportune time for such work to be done. Capital is halting at our borders and immigration is knocking at our doors, doubtful of the protection that will be given to the one or the welcome accorded to the other.

There is need to create the strongest sentiment possible that capital invested in the development of Alabama shall have every reasonable protection which law, sentiment and a patriotic press can throw around it, while the people should be made to feel that an intelligent and thrifty class of immigrants will bring greater blessings to the state than is possible without them. The settling among us of a farming class will bring increased value to lands and expanded trade for merchants and railroads, and this is easily obtainable if only assured of a proper reception and protection on arrival and settlement among us. This Club urges upon the press of Alabama such a campaign as will accomplish these results. Let us have less of politics and more of business hereafter. On that platform all our people should stand, and if any there be who refuse to do this, let them be made to realize that they are in the path of the state's progress and will be relegated forever to the shades of oblivion unless they speedily get out of it.

It's a pretty hard job sometimes for a man to be a "good fellow" and a good father and husband at the same time.—New York Recorder.

WHAT PEOPLE WILL EAT A CENTURY HENCE.

According to Professor Berthelot, the distinguished French chemist, the time may be approaching when the farmer will go out of business, and bread and beef and milk, or their equivalents, will be produced artificially in the laboratory of the chemist. It is true that we have not yet got beyond the first steps in the process, but according to Professor Berthelot, who is entitled to speak with authority, these first steps are a guarantee of extended triumps in the same field.

The professor, as reported by Henry J. W. Dam, in McClure's Magazine, said that "new sources of mechanical energy would largely replace the present use of coal, and that a great proportion of our staple foods which we now obtain by natural growth would be manufactured direct through the advance synthetic chemistry, from their constituent elements, carbon, hydrogen, oxygen and nitrogen." He continued: "I not only believe this, but I am unable to doubt it. The tendency of our present progress is along an easily discerned line, and can lead to only one end. I do not say that we shall give you artificial beefsteaks at once, nor do I say that we shall ever give you the beefsteak as we now obtain and cook it. We shall give you the same identical food, however, chemically, digestively, and nutritively speaking. Its form will differ, because it will probably be a tablet. But it will be a tablet of any color and shape that is desired, and will, I think, entirely satisfy the epicurean senses of the future; for you must remember that the beefsteak of today is not the most perfect of pictures either in color or composition. There is a distinction which I would like to make at this point between the laboratory stage and the commercial stage of any given discovery in food making. From the scientific point of view, the laboratory results is the important one. As you and all the world know, the commercial result follows inevitably in time. Once science has declared that a desired end is attainable, the genius of invention fastens upon the problem, and the commercial production of the result slowly attains perfection by gradually improved processes at less and less cost. Take aluminum for instance. Once a very expensive metal, its steadily decreased cost in production is bringing it within the reach of all. The use of sugar is universal. Sugars have recently been made in the laboratory. Commerce has now taken up the question, and I see that an invention has recently been patented by which sugar is to be made upon a commercial scale from two gasses, at something like one cent per pound. As to whether or not the gentlemen who own the process can do what the inventor claims, it is neither my province nor my desire to express an opinion."

The professor here cited as an instance of laboratory products, the dye stuff alizarin, the coloring principle of madder, which was formerly a great agricultural industry, but which is now almost wholly supplanted by the artificial product from coal tar. The chemists, he said, have succeeded also in making indigo direct from its elements, and artificial indigo will soon be a commercial product. "Tea and coffee could now be made artificially, if the necessity should arise, or if the commercial opportunity, through the necessary supplementary mechanical inventions, had been reached. The essential principle of both tea and coffee is the same. The difference of name between thein and caffein has arisen from the sources from which they were obtained. They are chemically identical in constitution, and their essence has often been made synthetically. The penultimate stage in the synthesis is theo-bromine, the essential principle of cocoa. Thus, you see, synthetic chemistry is getting ready to furnish from its laboratories the three great non-alcoholic beverages in general use. And what is true of food substances is equally applicable to all other organic substances."

As regards tobacco, the professor said: "The essential principle of tobacco is nicotine. We have obtained pure nicotine, whose chemical constitution is perfectly understood, by treating salomin, a natural glucosid, with hydrogen. Synthetic chemistry has not made nicotine directly as yet, but it has very nearly reached it, and the laboratory manufacture of nicotine may be expected at any moment. The tobacco leaf is simply so much dried vegetable matter in which nicotine is naturally stored. * * * * Perhaps the greatest importance, and certainly the profoundest charm, in the study of synthetic chemistry is the certain evidence which it offers of the discovery and manufacture of many compounds now entirely unknown, whose effect upon human health, human life, and human happiness no one can possibly conjecture."

As regards the future supply of heat, which is no less important than that of food supply, Professor Barthelot speaks confidently of improved appliances enabling man to make use of the illimitable supply of the earth's central heat. In conclusion, the professor says: "If one chooses to base dreams, prophetic fancies, upon the facts of the present, one may dream of alterations in the present conditions of human life so great as to be beyond our cotemporary conception. One can foresee the disappearance of the beasts from our fields, because horses will no longer be used for traction or cattle for food. The countless acres now given over to growing grain and producing vines will be agricultural antiquities, which will have passed out of the memory of man. The equal distribution of natural food materials will have done away with protectionism, with custom houses, with national frontiers kept wet with human blood. Men will have grown too wise for war, and war's necessity will have ceased to be. The air will be filled with aerial motors flying by forces borrowed from chemistry. Distances will diminish, and the distinction between fertile and non-fertile regions, from the causes named, will have largely passed away. It may even transpire that deserts, now uninhabited, may be made to bloom, and be sought after as great seats of population in preference to the alluvial plains and rich valleys."

THE TEN COMMANDMENTS.

Revised and amended by Ebenezer Thickhide.

1. Thou shalt wash thyself three times a day.

2. Thou shalt keep sober, if possible; if not, get drunk, but don't become a boozer.

3. Thou shalt earn thy own living by the sweat of thy brow, but, if it can be accomplished easier, why then take advantage of it.

4. Thou shalt, if thou art a master, allow thy servant that rest which is needful for the mind and body.

5. Thou shalt honor every man according to the length of his purse, and the number of his virtues.

6. Thou shalt be generous to the clergy at Christmas and Easter, for they cannot live on a volume of wind.

7. Thou shalt, if thou art a parent, give thy child the best possible training and a limited quantity of birch, as there is too much tannin in birch to do a boy's constitution any good.

8. Thou shalt respect thy neighbor's good name, his convenience, his property and his opinions; and, if he is short of any one of these qualities, lend him one.

9. Thou shalt be sincere, and not lie, because hypocrisy is an offence against thyself and thy fellow man; but, if thou art a woman, this clause may be suspended.

10. Thou shalt always be ready to learn, because to pretend to know too much, renders either a man or woman ridiculous, and their company is sure to be shunned.

11. Thou shalt not wrong thyself nor allow others to do so if in thy power to prevent it. As this commandment is the quintescence of all the former ones after being boiled down in a stew-pan, thou shalt paste it in thy hat as a gentle reminder of thine duty to thine God, thine country, and, above all, thine self.

Mrs. Emily Thorne, who resides at Toledo, Washington, says she has never been able to procure any medicine for rheumatism, that relieves the pain so quickly and effectually as Chamberlain's Pain Balm, and that she has also used it for lame back with great success. For sale by Parker & Armstrong.

That the day is not far distant when telegraphing will be done without wires for conducting the electric current, is fully believed by those who are versed in this new branch of physics. It is not more wonderful that such should be the case than the common quadruplex system of telegraphy by which messages are sent in opposite directions over the same wire. That the world itself is a gigantic magnet, or an electrically charged body, insulated in space, is a well-established scientific fact, and upon that is based the theory that a new system of telegraphing will soon revolutionize the whole business of communicating with distant persons.

When that time comes, when any man, with an instrument in his own house, can talk with any one else on the continent, what will become of our present mail facilities? Henry George, in one of his books, holds that it will not be long before we shall be able to navigate the air, as we now do the ocean, and when that time comes every square foot of ground will be a port of entry, and he asks how then will the government be able to collect import duties, or "protect infant industries," unless the whole country be roofed over like the palace of mechanic arts at the World's fair?

These and similar questions are by no means futile, for, while these accomplishments may not be immediately realized, others as startling will be. There is no limit to scientific accomplishment in mechanics, and as evidence of this fact the question of heating the whole inhabitable surface of the globe by the heat at its center is being discussed. It is only a simple question of mechanical engineering to bore to the center of the earth, and, once there, the heat can be withdrawn readily enough.

Already we do by chemistry what the farmer used to do by his labor. Not many years ago thousands of acres were devoted to the culture of the indigo plant; now the die is all made by chemical processes and the indigo farming has ceased, and the same is true of many other staples. There is hardly an article of food we use that cannot be made chemically, and many chemists go so far as to say the time is near at hand when the raising of grain and cattle for food will be abandoned and the laboratory will take the place of the farm.

So rapidly are we advancing in the mechanic arts and chemistry that we fail to notice how very near we are to discoveries that will change the whole business of life on the globe, and when luxuries shall cease to be more than the commonest necessaries of human existence.

A cold snap—Breaking an icicle.

"ABIDE IN ME, AND I IN YOU."

THE SOUL'S ANSWER.

The mystic word of thine, O sovereign Lord,
Is all too pure, too high, too deep, for me,
Weary of striving, and with longing faint,
I breathe it back again in prayer to Thee.

Abide in me! I pray, and I in Thee,
From this good hour, O leave me never more!
Then shall the discord cease, the wound be healed,
The life-long bleeding of the soul be o'er.

Abide in me! O'ershadow, by thy love,
Each half-formed purpose and dark thought of sin;
Quench, ere it rise, each selfish, low desire,
And keep my heart as thine—calm and divine.

As some rare perfume in a vase of clay
Pervades it with a fragrance not its own;
So, when Thou dwellest in a human soul,
All heaven's own sweetness seems around it thrown.

The soul alone like a neglected harp,
Grows out of tune, and needs that hand divine,
Dwell thou within it! Tune and touch the chords,
Till every note and string shall answer thine.

Abide in me! There have been moments pure
When I have seen thy face and felt thy power;
Then evil lost its grasp, and passion hushed,
Owned the divine enchantment of the hour.

These were but seasons, beautiful and rare;
Abide in me, and they shall ever be.
I pray Thee, now fulfil my earnest prayer,
Come, and abide in me and I in thee.

The experience of Geo. A. Apgar, of German Valley, N. J., is well worth remembering. He was troubled with chronic diarrhœa and doctored for five months and was treated by four different doctors without benefit. He then began using Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy, of which one small bottle effected a complete cure. It is for sale by Parker & Armstrong.

To the Cotton Growers and all Interested in Shelby County.

MONTEVALLO, Feb. 15, '95.

Having been appointed president of the Cotton Growers Protective Association of Shelby county, and having in view the perfection of a county organization, electing delegates to the state convention, and such other business as may be deemed necessary, I earnestly request all growers of cotton and all who lease land or furnish supplies for that purpose, to meet me at the court house, in Columbiana, on Monday, the 4th day of March next. It is especially desirable that all parts of the county be represented.

Believing as I do, that great good will result from "unity of action," I hope and trust our county will not fail to give this important business the attention it certainly deserves.

Respectfully,
H. C. REYNOLDS.

La Grippe.

During the prevalence of the grippe the past season it was a noticeable fact that those who depended upon Dr. King's New Discovery, not only had a speedy recovery, but escaped all of the troublesome after effects of the malady. This remedy seems to have a peculiar power in effecting rapid cures, not only in cases of la grippe, but in all diseases of throat, chest and lungs, and has cured cases of asthma and hay fever of long standing. Try it and be convinced. It won't disappoint you. Free trial bottles at Parker & Armstrong's drug store, Columbiana, Ala.

The Song of the Hog.

It seems that The Dothan Siftings wants a hog law: at any rate, it prints this catchy song:

Oh, the hog, the beautiful hog, curving his back as he watches the dog;
defying the law for his bread and meat;
roaming at large through every street;
hunting, grunting, nosing around,
'till the open front gate is sure to be found—with its hinges broken and ruined quite; by the lovers who hung there Sunday night: it won't stay shut, it won't hang level, so in walks the hog and raises the ——.

O. W. O. Hardman, Sheriff of Tyler Co., W. Va., appreciates a good thing and does not hesitate to say so. He was almost prostrated with a cold when he procured a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. He says: "It gave me prompt relief. I find it to be an invaluable remedy for coughs and colds." For sale by Parker & Armstrong.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."
DR. G. C. OSGOOD, Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."
DR. J. F. KINCHELOE, Conway, Ark.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."
H. A. ARCHER, M. D., 111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

TOWN AND COUNTY NEWS.

A WISE TOAD.

A knowing toad one summer's day
Unto a fly was heard to say:
"You're pretty sure to find me here
Before this store year after year."
"But," said the fly, "it seems to me
That you demolished soon will be
By people passing in and out.
And ground to dust without a doubt."
"Oh," smiled the toad, in all things pat,
"I never am afraid of that.
Amid the city's whir and din
To purchase here but few pass in.
The reason's plain, if you but think;
This merchant shunneth printer's ink."
—Printer's Ink.

Circuit court will convene here March 25th.

Dr J. H. Gann, of Calera, was in town Monday.

T. K. Roberts spent Sunday at Shelby Springs.

Pete Roland, of Talladega, was in town yesterday.

Dick McLendon, of Calera, spent Sunday in town.

Jim Seale, of Childersburg, spent Sunday in town.

C. J. Christian and wife, of Shelby, are in town on a visit to relatives.

Miss Elva Greek visited friends at Shelby Springs Saturday and Sunday.

Prof. S. S. Crumpton, of Lewis, was a caller at our office, Tuesday morning.

Herbert Reynolds was in Montgomery the first of the week on business.

E. D. Hall and family are in New Orleans this week on a visit to relatives.

Mrs J. W. Johnston left Monday for New Orleans to attend the Mardi Gras.

Miss Alma Finley, of Calera, spent last week with the family of Geo. Vasser.

Mrs. B. F. Oglesby, of Centerville, is on a visit to the family of James H. Strickland.

Miss Eva Weaver, returned Monday after a delightful visit to relatives and friends in Calera.

Miss Ola Edwards, of Childersburg, spent a few days with relatives here, returning home Monday.

Mrs. T. P. Roberts returned Monday to her home in Sylacauga, after a visit of several days to relatives here.

We regret to learn that Mrs. James H. Strickland is quite sick, but hope soon to report her complete recovery.

Mrs M. M. Baker and little son, formely of Shelby Springs now of Rome, Ga., spent Monday last in town.

Mrs. Henry Wilson and little Joe Peters are spending a few days in Mobile. They were on the L. & N. train that was wrecked three miles below Greenville Saturday morning, but fortunately escaped injury.

Next week The Chronicle will publish the bill incorporating the city of Columbiana, and we would suggest that it would be a good idea for every subscriber in this place to file this copy as it will be of value to them in the future.

A Columbiana young fellow, while out walking with his best girl the other day came across a patent medicine sign advertising a hair restorer. He said he would purchase her a bottle, and remarked that she must be careful and not get any on her upper lip or else she would have a moustache. "I've often had a moustache on my lip," she quietly replied, and the young man fainted away.

Elsewhere in this issus will be found a list of the grand and petit jurors drawn for the spring term of circuit court. We noticed in looking over the venire that every man on the list is a farmer, which is a little out of the ordinary, to say the least.

W. R. A. Milner, our efficient county clerk, moved into his cozy new residence Tuesday. When the finishing touches are put on and the painter completes his work, Mr. Milner will have one of the prettiest and most comfortable dwellings in the city. Why shouldnt he have a house-warming.

It's the editor's business to lie for you to any extent in saying nice things, but he musn't tell the truth about you when it isn't complimentary. In return for this, when he has said everything nice about you that he can, you will of course send your pay patronage away, or take it to his rival to tickle him into a kind word that you wouldn't get without paying for it.

The Chronicle is heartily in favor of the movement to build an iron bridge over School creek at Montevallo. This is a very important bridge and owing to the low cost of structural steel, a good bridge can be built for a very small sum comparatively. A new bridge there is a necessity and a good steel bridge will last a hundred years. And we may say that we are in favor hereafter of building every bridge in the county of steel just as Talladega, Walker, Jefferson and other counties are doing. It is certainly true economy in the end. Suppose our commissioners adopt this policy, and as each bridge is compelled to be renewed, build it of steel. They will never regret in and will be entitled to the gratitude of the tax payers.

Columbiana Literary Society.

The Columbiana Literary society met on the evening of the 22d of February, 1895, at the residence of Mr. J. W. Johnston. The programme was executed with great credit to all participants. The most interesting and instructive feature being an oration by T. K. Roberts and an essay by Miss Luella Teague. These were both rare productions and reflect great credit on their authors.

After the programme was completed we were honored by a short talk from N. C. McMillan, complimenting the society upon the work it has already accomplished, and wishing it great success in the future. This meeting was universally pronounced the most interesting and instructive yet held. The society then adjourned to meet on Friday night, March 1, at the residence of J. R. White.

Harpersville Echoes.

Last Sunday was a beautiful day.

Our farmers are sewing oats this week.

There won't be near the guano planted here this year as was last.

Rev. Mr. Howell filled his regular appointment at the Methodist church last Sunday.

Our school is progressing finely, and we notice several pupils from abroad in attendance.

Tommie Martin returned home last week from Texas, where he had been for the last two or three months.

Mr. Holland, the mule drover, has been in Harpersville for several days exchanging mules for beef cattle.

There will be preaching at the Baptist church next Sunday, at which time a new pastor will be elected.

Rev. Mr. Parker has been confined to his bed for several days by sickness, but we are glad to state he is better now.

W. T. Seale is now in Sananglo, Texas. He writes that coal is selling for $11 a ton and flour from $5 to $7 per barrel, and every thing else equally as high.

Tax Assessor Hammond was in Harpersville last Saturday, and, by the way, he is the best assessor that Shelby county has ever had since the late J. L. Elliott was assessor.

JAKE.

Shelby Siftings.

Rev. A. T. Clarke is absent from the city for about two weeks.

David Wade has secured a position as collier in Georgia, and will probably move his family soon.

Neil McMillan and Ham DuBose, of Columbiana, were in the city Saturday. Ham received a valentine.

The program for the literary and debating society, will consist entirely of literary features at the next meeting on February 28th.

David Carver, the old gentleman whom we mentioned in our last items as being quite sick, has since died. He was 85 years old.

C. J. Christian and wife have bidden our little town adieu. They are to spend a few days with Mrs. Christian's father in Columbiana and then go to Bessemer, where Mr. C. has secured a position.

John Thompson is now a resident of Columbiana. He has been our returning officer in elections for lo! these many days, and Columbiana must send him back in time for the next "Lections."

A mad dog played destruction with his brother canines in the Cardin neighborhood last week. He "took in" the entire neighborhood, biting indiscriminately, and as a result twenty-three suspicious curs have fallen victims of the shot gun.

F. A. Fort and family leave Thursday for Meridian, Miss., where they expect to make their future home. Mr. Fort will very likely enter business there. The particular line of business is uncertain with him yet, but we can heartily commend him and his wife to their new neighbors as thorough-going Christians, of whom any community may well be proud.

Our genial friend, E. W. Chapman, who for several years conducted with satisfaction the tonsorial department of Shelby, seems to have had his efficiency rewarded with better things than we could offer. We learn that he is now proprietor of a parlor in Birmingham, and will doubtless serve his patrons well. He is a splendid workman, and is worthy of all patronage that he may receive.

Mrs. Charles Bowles, of this city, died last Friday at 1:10 p. m. She had been quite ill several weeks. The town loses in her death a most excellent Christian lady, and we feel that we but feebly voice the sentiment of the entire community when we say that the family has our whole sympathy. Mrs. Bowles' mother arrived from Michigan shortly before her death. The remains were embalmed and sent north for interment.

Items from Sterrett.

J. J. Falkner has moved to South Sterrett.

T. B. Falkner was on the sick list last week.

Look out for more weddings. Who comes next?

Miss Lula Jarrett is visiting her sister at Easonville.

Our genial tax assessor, Hammond, was around last week.

Mrs. Asa Goodwin, Sr., of Hillman, came over Saturday to visit relatives.

G. M. Bilbrey and wife visited the family of W. H. Falkner last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Skinner have gone to Moody's Cross Roads to live.

I greatly sympathize with "Butch" and hope he may overcome his "difficulty."

Our farmers have not sowed oats yet, but will as soon as the land dries off some.

C. Butler has sold his "little" saw mill to a Mr. King, of Moody, Ala., and will ship it this week.

We are glad to say that Jim Payton's arm, which was broken some time ago has about gotten well.

Prof. G. H. Green, of Branchville was circulating among his many friends here Saturday and Sunday.

Chas. Cooper and J. W. Baker have gone to Anniston to work in the pipe works which has lately started up.

We hope that the recent laws past in favor of Columbiana may be a lasting benefit to the town and community.

Miss Mattie McGinnis, who has been at Blocton since last fall, has returned home, accompanied by little Burl Dyer.

Mrs. R. L. Kinnett fell and dislocated her arm during the recent snow, but we are glad to know that she is improving.

Our pastor, Rev. S. V. McGinnis, preached an able and very instructive sermon to an attentive audience last Sunday at this place.

H. A. White, formerly of Pitts, Ga., is now working on the section here. He has many friends here who welcome him back in their midst.

The many friends of J. W. Spradley, Sr., will be glad to learn that he has greatly improved from his recent severe illness. We hope he may yet be restored to health.

Bye the way Sterrett has a nice debating society which meets weekly and is becoming very interesting. It is composed of the young men of our school and community.

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Cosper visited the family of E. Cosper, at Cobb, last Sunday. They will in the future be at home to their friends in the elegant two-story building on Shelby avenue and Railroad street, Sterrett.

BONAMI.

A Des Moines, Iowa, woman, who has been troubled with frequent colds, concluded to try an old remedy in a new way, and accordingly took a tablespoonfull (four times the usual dose) of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy just before going to bed. The next morning she found that her cold had almost entirely disappeared. During the day she took a few doses of the remedy (one teaspoonfull at a time,) and at night she again took a tablespoonfull before going to bed, and on the following morning awoke free from all symptoms of the cold. Since then, she has, on several occasions, used this remedy in like manner, with the same good results, and is much elated over her discovery of so quick a way of curing a cold. For sale by Parker & Armstrong.

THE MAIDEN AND THE BURGLAR.

She was a maiden, coy but forty,
Unsullied by a dream of man;
No thought, however, slightly naughty
Had ever crossed her life's short span.

Till one dark night, when all were sleeping,
She found the wretch she long had sought;
For underneath her bed lay peeping,
A poor, lone burglar freshly caught.

She locked the door and quickly turning
Pulled forth a pistol fully cocked,
And with a voice that told its yearning,
Her prisoner's plight she sternly mocked,

"Now listen to my ultimatum;
You've got to marry me or die;
Though you're the very lowest stratum,
I'll have a husband, or know why."

Then rose the burglar, sadly speaking;
"Your proposition does not suit,
Rather than be the man you are seeking,
Why, darn you, madam, darn you, shoot?"
—Youngstown Vindicator.

Strength and Health.

If you are not feeling strong and healthy, try Electric Bitters. If "LaGrippe" has left you weak and weary, use Electric Bitters. This remedy acts directly on the liver, stomach and Kidneys, gently aiding those organs to perform their functions. If you are afflicted with sick headache, you will find speedy and permanent relief by taking Electric bitters. One trial will convince you that this is the remedy you need. Large bottles only 50 cents at Parker & Armstrong's drug store.

Clara—So Lottie is married? Is she perfectly happy, do you think? Florence—Oh, dear, yes; I am sure so. Her trousseau was faultless.

Chamberlain's Eye and Skin Ointment Is a certain cure for Chronic Sore Eyes, Granulated Eye Lids, Sore Nipples, Piles, Eczema, Tetter, Salt Rheum and Scald Head, 25 cents per box. For sale by druggists.

TO HORSE OWNERS.

For putting a horse in a fine healthy condition try Dr. Cady's Condition Powders. They tone up the system, aid digestion, cure loss of appetite, relieve constipation, correct kidney disorders and destroy worms, giving new life to an old or over worked horse. 25 cents per package. For sale by druggists.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Gives Perfect Health.

"I had been bothered with pimples on my face and body for five years. I had tried many different remedies to get rid of them but the medicine did not do me any good. I read about Hood's Sarsaparilla and bought a bottle. Since then I have taken five bottles and am glad to say that the pimples are all gone. Hood's Sarsaparilla has purified my blood and built up my system. I gladly recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla. I feel very thankful for the benefit I received from Hood's Sarsaparilla. In conclusion I would say that

THAT lizards will catch and eat butterflies is stated by Jane Frazer in an article in a London entomological journal. In the Samoan islands she saw a "skipper" butterfly when lighted caught and instantly swallowed by a beautiful golden-green lizard with a bright blue tail.

THE latest determination of the distance of the sun from the earth is from a discussion by Dr. Gill of a series of observations of the asteroid Victoria. Dr. Gill's result is 92,800,000 miles, a figure probably very close to the truth, and agreeing well with the value previously obtained by Prof. Harkness from all available data.

AN ALPENA MIRACLE.

Mrs. Jas. M. Todd, of Long Rapids, Discards Her Crutches.

In an Interview with a Reporter She Reviews Her Experience and Tells the Real Cause of the Miracle.

(From the Argus, Alpena, Mich.)

We have long known Mrs. Jas. M. Todd, of Long Rapids, Alpena Co., Mich. She has been a sad cripple. Many of her friends know the story of her recovery; for the benefit of those who do not we publish it today.

Eight years ago she was taken with nervous prostration, and in a few months with muscular and inflammatory rheumatism. It affected her heart, then her head. Her feet became so swollen she could wear nothing on them; her hands were drawn all out of shape. Her eyes were swollen shut more than half the time, her knee joints terribly swollen and for eighteen months she had to be held up to be dressed. One limb became entirely helpless, and the skin was so dry and cracked that it would bleed. During these eight years she had been treated by a score of physicians, and has also spent much time at Ann Arbor under best medical advice. All said her trouble was brought on by hard work and that medicine would not cure, and that rest was the only thing which would ease her. After going to live with her daughter she became entirely helpless and could not even raise her arms to cover herself at night. The interesting part of the story follows in her own words:

"I was urged to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People and at last did so. In three days after I commenced taking Pink Pills I could sit up and dress myself, and after using them six weeks I went home and commenced working. I continued taking the pills, until now I begin to forget my crutches, and can go up and down steps without aid. I am truly a living wonder, walking out of doors without assistance."

"Now, if I can say anything to induce those who have suffered as I have, to try Pink Pills, I shall glady do so. If other like sufferers will try Pink Pills according to directions, they will have reason to thank God for creating men who are able to conquer that terrible disease, rheumatism. I have in my own neighborhood recommended Piuk Pills for the after effects of la grippe, and weak women with impure blood, and with good results."

Mrs. Todd is very strong in her faith in the curative powers of Pink Pills, and says they have brought a poor helpless cripple back to do her own milking, churning, washing, sewing, knitting, and in fact about all of her household duties, thanks to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are for sale by all druggists, or may be had by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y., for 50c. per box, or six boxes for $2.50.

FOREIGN NOTES.

A METHOD has been devised by which aluminum may be substituted for platinum for leading wires in incandescent lamps.

PROF. GEORGE J. BRUSH, of the Sheffield scientific school of Yale university, has just been elected a foreign member of the Royal Geological society.

HENRY MORLEY'S life is to be written by his son-in-law, Rev. H. S. Solly, and will contain two fragments of autobiography and many family letters.

TELEGRAPH lines throughout the world aggregate 1,069,123 miles; of these America has more than half, 548,822 miles; Europe, 382,037; Asia, 67,875; Australia, 47,812, and Africa, 21,087 miles.

A CURIOUS biographical account of Dante, hitherto unnoticed, has been discovered by Paget Toynbee among other interpolations in the Venice edition of the "Speculum Majus of Vincent de Beauvais."

"CALENDAL," a grand opera, founded on Fredric Mistral's poem, and composed by Henri Marechal, was produced recently with great success at Rouen. Mistral made the journey from Provence to attend the first performance.

PERSONALLY conducted archæological excursions are the latest innovations. Prof. Dorpfeld, of the German school of Athens, is to lead one to Aegina next May, thence to the excavations in Attica, to the island of Delos, to Assos to view the work of the American explorers, and then by way of Ilion back to Athens.

INDUSTRIAL AND STATISTICAL.

THE harvester invented by Mr. McCormick in 1831 has been so improved that it is said it will cut and bind an acre of grain in forty-five minutes.

INCLUDING stocks and bonds, the railways of the United States are capitalized at $60,000 per mile, while those of Great Britain are capitalized at $220,000 per mile, or nearly 400 per cent. higher than in this country.

THE city of Buenos Ayres has the largest street-car system, in proportion to its population, of any city in the world. The total number of passengers carried last year was 71,846,564, while the monthly average was 5,955,547.

THE smoke from smelting furnaces is laden with metals of value, the most notable of which are gold and silver. At an American smelting works mechanical means are being taken to collect the suspended matter from the gases.

PROBABLY the highest price ever asked for a new book is the $600 demanded for the vellum edition of the Chaucer in folio, with woodcuts by Burne Jones and large ornamental borders by William Morris, issued by the Kelmscott press.

IN FOREIGN LANDS.

GEORGE OHNET and Ludovic Halevy have both completed new novels. The former calls his "La Dame of Gris," the latter's title is "Deux Jeunes Filles."

NO FEWER than 196 persons were reported during 1894 in the column of death notices in the London Times as being 90 or over. Their aggregate age was 18,203 years; 89 were men who lived jointly 8,226 years, and 107 were women whose ages amounted to 9,977 years.

MOLIERE'S "Amphitryon" is about to be produced at the Paris Renaissance theater, with Coquelin aine as Socie, his son, Jean Coquelin, as his double, Mercure, and Sarah Bernhardt as Alemene. The play, like "The Comedy of Errors," turns chiefly on the resemblance between the two men.

THE French claim that gas-making was invented by Lebon in 1802, who made gas by the dry distillation of wood.

IN Zante, one of the Ionian isles, there is a petroleum spring that is mentioned by Herodotus. It has been known for nearly 3,000 years.

THERE is a movement in North Adams, Mass., to made the town a city. With a population of 21,000, it claims to be the largest town in America, with the exception of Waterbelt, N. Y.

SOUTHERN GLEANINGS.

Cotton Factories in the South.

The interest in the cotton factory agitation in Atlanta, Ga., and vicinity has been considerably increased by the announcement that two of the mills already in existence at Atlanta had determined on new mills, increasing the spindles at work by 45,000. The Exposition Cotton Factory Co. now runs a mill of 16,000 spindles. They have let out a contract and the machinery is being made for a new 20,000-spindle mill, making the total capacity of 36,000. President Elas of the Fulton Cotton and Bagging Co., which now runs 15,000 spindles, announces the perfection of plans for a 25,000-spindle mill, making his total capacity 40,000 spindles. It is understood that the Atlanta mills, now running 16,000 spindles, will in a few days announce the plans for a new 30,000-spindle mill. The Elberton mill is to be doubled in capacity, while a new factory is nearly completed in Floyd county. The city council has taken steps to present sites to such New England mills as will go to Atlanta to establish factories.

Lincoln and Lee.

The Richmond State said editorially in a recent issue:

"The suggestion is being made in some northern papers that the birthday of Abraham Lincoln be made a national holiday. This suggestion is in the way of a tribute to an American who was made famous by the great civil war. The best qualities were given prominence by the tremendous conflict. When congress takes up this bill, however, it will be in order for some southern congressman to amend by inserting after the name of Abraham Lincoln the name of Robert E. Lee. What is the object of national holidays on the anniversaries of the birth of great men? Such are meant not only as a tribute to the illustrious dead, but as lessons to coming generations who can be benefited by their examples. The life of Lee affords such an example as well as the life of Lincoln. Furthermore, the making of a national holiday must be the work not of the people of one section, but of the entire country. It must be the voice of the people of this time, and not the voice of the people of our civil war time. If Illinois and what was called the north ask that Lincoln's day be a national day, then Virginia and what was known as the south ask that Lee's day be a national day. If the north also is to unite with that section in doing national tribute to Lincoln, then the south can with equal propriety ask a like tribute to its Lee."

Eloped with His Wife's Protege.

Mrs. Alice Whitney, of Atlanta, Ga., is a victim of ingratitude. Some time ago Mrs. Whitney took pity on Miss Buck, a young lady who was struggling for a livelihood, and took her to her home. The other day she disappeared, and with her the husband of her benefactress, who had become deeply smitten with the girl. They were located in Augusta. The man was arrested, but the girl escaped over into South Carolina.

The Only Way to Raise the Price.

President N. N. Clements of the Alabama Cotton Growers' protective association has issued an address to the cotton growers of Alabama, urging decreased acreage in accordance with the general plan adopted at the convention at Jackson, Miss., as the only one by which to raise the price. He has appointed county presidents in every county in Alabama, and urges them to call meetings and organize.

Cotton-Seed Meal for Human Food.

Dr. V. P. Clayton, of Columbia, S. C., is experimenting with cotton-seed meal as food for human beings. Mixed with corn meal it makes a most palatable brew. Cotton-seed meal sells at about one cent a pound. It is unusually rich in carbohydrates, which make bone and muscle and animal heat. The matter will be referred to the state agricultural colleges to experiment and report upon.

Bitten by a Rattlesnake.

John Stewart, colored, while hunting near Walhalla, S. C., tracked a rabbit to a clay root and run his hand in and pulled it out. Thinking there might be another he put his hand in again, and feeling something bite jerked it out and found a rattlesnake with its fangs fastened in his skin hanging to his hand. The snake was about 3 feet long. Stewart will probably survive.

A Baby Burned to a Crisp.

A woman living on the farm of J. P. Toombs, near Cuthbert, Ga., desired to leave her home for a short while. She had a baby about 12 months old and no one to leave it with. She wrapped the baby up and put it to bed. In warming the clothing before the fire she probably got a live coal in the clothing. On her return she found the baby burned to a crisp.

Will Reduce the Acreage.

At a meeting of the farmers of West Tenn., the following resolution was unanimously adopted:

Resolved by this convention of farmers, That we shall reduce the acreage for the crop of 1895 of cotton from which we have usually planted, especially the acreage of last year, to not exceeding 60 per cent. of said last year's acreage, and that we agree to abide by said resolution, and recommend every farmer, as well as all cotton growers, to abide by the same.

Thomas H. Shelby.

Thomas H. Shelby, collector of internal revenue for the Lexington (Ky.) district, died recently, aged 65. He was a grandson of Isaac Shelby, first governor of Kentucky, and related to leading families of Kentucky, Virginia and Missouri.

Killed an Old Negro.

Near Kymulga, Talladega county, Ala., Jake Hammond, a young farmer, shot and killed Jeff Davis, an old negro. It was over a couple of geese.

Discovered by His Wife.

J. J. Swanson, aged 23, committed suicide at Calhoun, Ga., the body being discovered by Mrs. Swanson. They had been married but a short time.

Burned to Death.

Near Pollard, Ala., on the Florida line, a child of Davis Steel was burned to death, and a little daughter of Wishier Jernigan was fatally burned.

Six Fervid Kisses.

Ted Hart, an Atlanta (Ga.) merchant, was arrested on the charge of assault and battery. It is said he kissed Miss Ada Kaphan, aged 16.

A Story from Georgia.

A Georgia farmer lately tamed a coon, and allowed it the run of the house. The first day it killed five cats and nearly killed three dogs.

Senator Ransom.

Senator Ransom, of North Carolina, who shortly retires to private life at the age of 70 years, has been in the senate twenty-two years.

Found His Wife Hanging.

Henry Huffs, living 3 miles west of Corinth, Miss., was awakened the other morning, and, going out, found his wife hanging to a tree.

SPORTING AND STAGE NOTES.

A ROUND in sixty-eight strokes, or nine holes twice, in thirty-four each time, was done by a professional named Aveston at the Cromer golf links on a very bad day.

MRS. LANGTRY'S eccentricities have offended finally the four hundred of New York, and she is no longer received in society, but she protests that she doesn't care a little bit—so there now.

A LADIES' football club has been organized in London, but has not yet given a public performance. The president is the eccentric Lady Florence Dixie. The club plays the "Association" game.

CHARLES FECHTER'S widow died recently in France at the age of seventy-six years. Her maiden name was Eleanor Rabut, and she made her first appearance at the Comedie Francaise, in 1835 as Hermione in "Andromaque."

CHURCH FIGURES.

THE total number of Christians in Japan is about 100,000.

IN the last 75 years the Methodist Episcopal church has contributed for missions more than $25,000,000.

GEN. BOOTH declares that of over 10,000 women rescued by the Salvation Army, 8,000 have not relapsed into sin.

IN Texas, the largest state, there are only eighteen Congregational churches, about half as many as are in Rhode Island, the smallest state.

IT is stated that forty-six Congregational churches in the state of Massachusetts received legacies last year from members who had departed this life.

DROUGHT PROOF FIELD CORN.

Here is something new. Despite 110 days without a drop of rain, Salzer's new Yellow Dent corn yielded on a large acreage over sixty-eight bushels per acre, while the department of agriculture reports the average yield on corn but a trifle over twenty bushels per acre in the United States. Now think of the possibilities of this corn in a good corn season! It will double this yield then or 136 bus.

IF YOU WILL CUT THIS OUT AND SEND IT with 14c postage to the John A. Salzer Seed company, LaCrosse, Wis., you will get free a pack of this DROUTH PROOF CORN and their mammoth catalogue. [K]

you need Pearline. And more than ever in house-cleaning. Just look over the list of things that you might use—soaps and powders and fluids and what not. Some of them don't pretend to help you as much as Pearline; some will injure paint, or surfaces, or fabrics; some are only meant to wash or clean certain things.

But with Pearline, you will save time and labor in cleaning anything that pure water won't hurt. Not only can it do no harm, but it saves useless and harmful rubbing. 462

THE AGE-HERALD TO BE RE-SOLD.

Thief Killed by the Sheriff While Attempting to Escape at Greensboro. Other State News Condensed in Short Paragraphs.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., February 28.—The Daily Age-Herald, the newspaper which was bought in at the trustees sale by Mr. F. P. O'Brien, on the 11th instant, is to be resold. The city court of Birmingham yesterday ordered that in view of the fact that the terms of the sale have not been complied with the property shall again go to the block on Monday, March 11. In the meantime the paper will continue publication under the present management of Mr. Frank V. Evans, the receiver.

TRAGEDY IN BIRMINGHAM.

Lady Killed by Jumping From Vehicle While the Horses Were Running.

BIRMINGHAM, February 26.—Mrs. H. S. Leet of Avondale, a suburb of this city, while out riding yesterday afternoon with another lady and two children, met with a casuality which resulted in death. A young man was driving the vehicle which was drawn by two spirited horses. While going down a hill, a breast strap on one of the horses broke and the vehicle running upon the horses, frightened them and they began to run. Mrs. Leet jumped from the vehicle striking on her head, the wound proving fatal. Some boys riding on horse back, saw the horses running and one of them, Billy McCulla, a postal telegraph messenger, rode up beside the horses and by almost herculean strength and remarkable dexterity, succeeded in stopping the horses in time to prevent another tragedy.

FATAL BREAK FOR LIBERTY.

Alabama Thief Killed by the Sheriff While Attempting to Escape.

GREENSBORO, Ala., February 27.—Curby Ings, wanted in an adjoining county for grand larceny was killed in an attempt to re-arrest him near this place yesterday. Ings had been arrested by the sheriff's deputy, T. L. C. Douglass, and while enroute to jail made a break for liberty. A posse started after him and when he saw capture was imminent, turned on his pursuers with a scantling threatening them. Mark Jones, one of the pursuers, fired on him, killing him instantly. Jones was arrested for murder.

FORECLOSED THE MORTGAGE.

Farmers Loan and Trust Company Against the Columbus and Western Railroad.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., February 26.—In the United States court here yesterday Judge Bruce granted a decree foreclosing the mortgages of the Farmers Loan and Trust company, of New York, on the Columbus and Western railroad. This line is a division of the Central of Georgia system and the mortgages foreclosed are on first mortgage bonds of $800,000 with interest, increasing the amount to $934,328 in total. No date of sale was fixed.

The Carnival at Moblie.

MOBILE, Ala., February 23.—The carnival in Mobile was a decided success this year and the crowd of visitors larger than ever. The parades were on a grander scale than ever before attended and nearly every one of the forty floats in the vast parades were mechanical and as they passed through the streets they moved like things of life, making the display the most realistic ever seen here.

TEXANS AFTER GREEN GOODS.

Captured in Jersey City Before They Could Meet the Swindlers.

NEW YORK, March 2.—Policeman McMahon, of the Jersey City force, arrested this morning at the Pennsylvania Ferry two tall men wearing broad-brimmed hats and heavy boots, in company with a boy, on the suspicion that the men had come to buy green goods. That such was the case the men confessed on being brought to police headquarters. They gave their names as Thomas McAdams and C. A. Jones, of Frio county, Texas, and said the boy was to take them to the green goods headquarters.

They had a quantity of green goods circulars, $100 in good money, and a slit on the inside of their boots they carried two heavy revolvers, besides being otherwise armed.

The police believe that the Texans have been in the city before, and that they were swindled, this visit being for purposes of revenge.

CARNEGIE COMPANY CHANGES.

A Rumor That the Concern Was About to be Dissolved Denied.

PITTSBURG, Pa., March 2.—Braddock furnishes a sensational report that the Carnegie Steel company is about to be dissolved. The rumor is denied by President John G. A. Leishman. A number of important changes in the management, however, dates from March 1. James Gailey, of the Edgar Thompson works, Baddock, caters the general offices, Pittsburg, as assistant to President Leishman.

Thomas Morrison, superintendent of the company's plant at Duquesne, succeeds Mr. Gailey at Braddock, and H. B. Miller, now master mechanic at Duquesne, fills Mr. Morrison's position. The changes are the result of the retirement of Chairman H. C. Frick from attending to the details of the Carnegie company's business.

EVAN P. SIGNS FIRST

Bryan's National Free Coinage of Silver Movement.

CALL FOR A DEMOCRATIC CONFERENCE

Number of the Members of Congress Sign, Others Refuse for Various Reasons, Though Favor the Idea—The Stand of the Constitution.

WASHINGTON, March 2.—Representative Bryan, of Nebraska, abandoned at a late hour yesterday afternoon his intention of securing a conference of the free silver representatives and senators with a view to issuing a call to the democrats of the country laying down a proposition that a majority of the democrats favor the free and unlimited coinage of silver, and calling upon this majority to take control of the party organization.

He decided, instead, to circulate the call among such of the house domocrats as favor the free coinage of silver with a view to securing the indorsement. About twenty gentlemen had signed at the hour of adjournment. These were representatives of fifteen states, Mr. Bryan's purpose being to widen interest in the call as much as possible. A number of democrats declined to sign for one reason or another, but Mr. Bryan believes that in the end a very considerable number will affix their signatures to the paper. A copy of the call will also be circulated in the senate today It is presented only to domocrats, and not to populists or to free silver republicans. Mr. Bryan believes that if this matter be squarely presented to the democratic voters of the country the effect will be seen in party organization in future campaigns and that it will result in giving the control of the party machinery to the men who really represent the majority, mainly the free silver element.

The call is addressed "To the democrats of the United States."

The signatures to the call were not made public, but it can be stated that Evan P. Howell, editor of the Atlanta Constitution, while in the city last night, signed the document and said the Constitution would take up the fight on the lines laid down in the call.

The Omaha World-Herald of which Congressman Bryan is editor, will also endorse it.

RANKIN MEANS BUSINESS.

The Actor Sues the Kansas City Hotel Company for His Arrest and Detention.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 2.—Wednesday night, McKee Rankin, the actor, whose company is now appearing in a revival of "The Danites" at the ninth street theatre, Miss Beatrice O'Niell, his leading lady, F. P. Johnson, property man and Barney Fuller, leading man, were arrested under the felony act on the charge of attempting to defraud a hotel, complaint being brought by the Centropolis hotel. Yesterday the case against Rankin and associates were dismissed and the actor at once employed an attorney to bring suit against the hotel company for $12,000 damages. Rankin says that he will abandon his western dates and will remain in the city to prosecute the case. Rankin conducted his own defence yesterday.

WRECK ON THE ROYAL BLUE

Thirty Passengers Had a Narrow Escape From Horrible Death.

NEW YORK, March 2.—The six o'clock express of the Royal Blue Line (New York and Washington over Jersey Central, Philadelphia and Reading, and Baltimore and Ohio) was wrecked while passing through Rayonne at 6:30 o'clock last evening. At least thirty passengers had a miraculous escape. The fireman and engineer were killed.

An accident to a coal train had blockaded the track just at the moment the express came along and the heavy train plunged into a loaded coal car at full speed. The passenger train was reduced to scrap iron.

THE CONDITIONS IMPROVED.

All Departments of Commercial Business Looking Up in the South.

NEW YORK, March 2.—Bradstreets today says:

While the course of general trade during the first two months of the current year has been disappointing, February ends and March begins with tangible though not as yet satisfactory signs of improvement. It is encouraging to note that gains are reported in the volume of trade at almost every southern city, notwithstanding advices from northern cities, whose jobbers supply southern and southwestern markets, that low prices for products had curtailed purchasing ability at the south and southwest. At the west there is less encouragement, improvement being reported only from Louisville, Chicago, St. Louis and St. Paul.

THE FIRE AT WAYCROSS.

Twenty Thousand Dollar Blaze With Many Small Losses.

WAYCROSS, Ga., March 2.—Yesterday morning about two o'clock a destructive fire occurred here. It was discovered in the grocery department of the Waresboro trading company, from which it spread. The principal losses are: The Trading company, $8,000, insurance $5,500; W. J. J. Cannon, $1,500, insurance $500; M. W. Spence, $2,000, Dr. J. M. Spence, $1,500, no insurance.

New York Ball Men Arrive in Florida.

NEW YORK, March 2.—Richard O'Gorman, the eminent Irish nationalist, scholar and orator, died at 10 o'clock last night at his home in this city, in the 75th year of his age. Two years ago he had a severe attack of the gripp and his death was the result.

CARRIED DOWN HUMAN LIVES.

The Collapse of a Large Building in New York and the Fatal Consequences.

NEW YORK, March 2.—Shortly before 10 o'clock yesterday the fourth floor of the building at 43rd street and tenth avenue known as the Old Malt house, fell with a crash, carrying down with it a dozen or more men at work upon it. Five men were killed and seven injured. The building, which was a six-story one was being torn down in order that four flat houses might be erected in its place. The workmen had taken down the two top floors and were at work pulling down the fourth floor this morning and had piled up a lot of bricks on this floor which the wheelbarrow men were carting away when, under the heavy load, the iron beams supporting the floor broke, carrying the bricks, iron rafters, beams of wood and iron, and the dozen men at work there down with it. An alarm of fire was sent in and in a few minutes two hook and ladder teams and two engines were on the scene. After a few moments work the firemen dug out a number of the unfortunate workmen who had been buried in the ruins and they were sent to the hospital. The search for those who were more deeply buired was continued and soon several men were taken out. Two of them were dead, which left little hopes for those who were still under the mass of bricks and iron girders. Several of those taken out had been badly crushed. Their legs and arms were broken and they were otherwise injured. The contractors, Patrick Keegan and George O'Keef, who were tearing down the building, have been arrested and are held on the charge of manslaughter.

HEAVY FAILURE IN MACON.

S. Waxelbaum & Son, One of the Largest Wholesalers in Georgia, go Under.

MACON, Ga., March 2.—Judge Hardeman, of the superior court, has appointed a receiver for S. Waxelbaum & Son, one of the largest wholesale dry goods houses in the state of Georgia. J. W. Cabaniss, cashier of the Exchange bank is the receiver. The application was made by S. Waxelbaum, the senior partner as against his son Joseph Waxelbaum, who wanted the business to continue. Wakelbaum and his son were burned out a short time ago, sustaining a complete loss of the stock on hand. The assets, including amount of settlement with insurance companies, are about $350,000; liabilities $210,000. Financial depression is cited as the cause for having a receiver appointed at this time.

THE FIGHT IN THE EAST.

Story of the Defeat Given the Chinese Recently Near Ta Ping Shan.

TOKIO, March 2.—Field Marshal Oyama reports that on the morning of February 24, the first division of the Japanese army about Kai Ping defeated the enemy near Ta Ping Shan. In the afternoon of the same day a force of about 13,000 of the enemy with twenty guns began an attack from Peimaitaz, Tonchahotz, Faoyanaim.

After a heavy cannonade we attacked their centre at three o'clock in the afternoon and repulsed them driving them toward Kingcow. Our loss was 20 killed, 250 wounded including seven officers. The enemy lost 200 killed. Number of their wounded is unknown. Natives state that the Chinese came in full force 20,000 strong led by Generals Sung Ma, Shang and Chang Sung.

EXECUTION OF HARRY HILL.

Not the Famous "Harry" of Georgia, But a Nebraska Murderer.

PLATTSMOUTH, Neb., March 2.—Harry Hill, the murderer of Matt Akeson, was executed at 9 o'clock yesterday. The murderer's neck was broken by the fall and he was pronounced dead sixteen minutes after the drop fell. The crime was committed on November 1, 1893. Edward Smith, alias Harry Hill and John Bentwell, alias Charles Foster, without provocation murdered Mat thew Akerson, a farmer, by whom they had been discharged, and tried to kill the rest of the family. Bentwell got a life sentence.

KILLED UPON THE TRACK.

Section Foreman of the Southern Railway Ran Over at Selma, Ala.

SELMA, Ala., March 2.—J.P. Clements, a section foreman on the Southern railway, was run over and killed by a north bound freight train near Jones switch at 2 o'clock yesterday morning. When seen by the engineer he was prostrate across the track. The engine and six cars passed over him before the train could be stopped. The body was horribly mangled. It is thought Clements was intoxicated.

THE RENO HOTEL BURNED.

The Celebrated Nebraska Inn Wrecked by Fire and Water.

NORFOLK Neb., March 2.—At 12:30 yesterday, fire broke out in the rear of the Reno hotel. The wind was blowing a hurricane from the north and for a time it seemed as though the flames would leap across Main street and destroy everything in their path. The hotel is completely wrecked inside by fire and water. Loss heavy.

LAST BILL BUT ONE

General Deficiency Goes Through With an Amendment.

THE LAST TWO DAYS OF CONGRESS.

One Hundred and Fifty Thousand Dollars Ordered Paid West Virginia, the Balance of the Direct Tax Voted Her in Ninety One.

WASHINGTON, March 2.—Yesterday's session in the house was devoted to the consideration of bills under motions to suspend the rules to pass them at one and the same time. Five propositions of this character were made and three of them were successful in securing the requsite two-thirds vote in the affirmative. These were:

House bill, authorizing the president to negotiate with Great Britain, Russia and Japan for the appoinment of a commission to make regulations to prevent the extinction of the fur seals.

Senate bill, to suppress traffic in lottery tickets between the several states and with foreign countries. Those two measures were passed without a division of the house.

The house bill directing the secretary of the treasury to pay to the state of West Virginia the balance of the direct tax voted to her in 1891—about $154,000—was passed 157 to 72.

An evening session was held under the rules for the consideration of private pension bills, and to send the general deficiency appropriation bill to conference.

The general deficiency bill, the last but one of the thirteen appropriation bills which congress has to pass every session, occupied the attention of the senate yesterday. There was but one important amendment reported to it from the committee on appropriations, and that was one appropriating $1,809,539 to pay a judgment in favor of the Southern Pacific railroad company for government transportation.

The deficiency bill was passed at 7:35, and the remainder of the night's session was given to private pension bills, and to the delivery of eulogies on the late representatives Lisle of Kentucky, Wright of Pennsylvania, Post of Illinois, and Houk of Ohio.

TO PROTECT HER COMMERCE.

Why the Proposed Increase in German Cruisers is Thought Necessary.

BERLIN, March 2.—The debate on the naval budget was continued in the reichstag yesterday. Chancellor von Hohenlohe declared that the proposed increase of the number of cruisers was necessary for the efficiency of protection of German trans-ocean commerce. Other nations, he said, had surpassed Germany in technical construction and armament of their vessels. Many of Germany's ships, which some years ago were in good condition were now of no value.

"We will not create a great navy," the chancellor continued, "but merely preserve what we have. My dreams have been aimed at a great German navy crossing the ocean, but these dreams have vanished in view of the condition of the reichstag and the state of our finances."

BEGINS EARLY IN ALABAMA.

Call Issued For a Peoples Party State Convention on March 12th.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 2.—The following call has been issued by the Peoples party, the supposition being that its object is to formulate plans for the campaign of 1896.

At the request of a caucus of the populist members of the legislature, held at Montgomery on the 16th instant, I hereby call a meeting of the state executive committee of the peoples party at Birmingham, March 12, 1895, at 11 o'clock, a. m., in the parlors of the Opera house hotel.

Every member of the committee is earnestly requested to be present, as matters of vital importance will be brought before the committee.

The candidates on our state ticket are also invited to attend this meeting.

S. M. ADAMS, chairman executive committee peoples parcy.

T. W. POWELL, secretary.
Birmingham, Ala., Feb. 23, 1895.

MURDERED FOR HIS MONEY.

Dead Body of W. H. King, of Albion, N. Y., Found on the L. & N. Near New Orleans.

NEW ORLEANS, March 2.—The dead body of W. H. King, of Albion, N. Y., was found early yesterday near the crossing of the Louisville and Nashville and the Northeastern railroad tracks. The remains were in about three feet of water and were face downward. A laboring man made the discovery and notified the police. Two officers were sent on a hand-car to the spot where the body lay. Examination disclosed three terrible gashes in the back of the head, either one being sufficient to cause death.

King was 32 years of age and has parents residing at Albion, N. Y. Robbery was evidently the motive of the murder, as the pockets of the deceased were found to be turned inside out.

Government Not Paying Expenses.

WASHINGTON, March 2.—For two-thirds of the current fiscal year (excluding the amount due the treasury sinking fund) the expenditures of the government have exceeded the receipts by $36,275,000 as shown by the treasury official statement of receipts and expenditures issued yesterday.

The Sun's Cotton Review.

NEW YORK, March 2.—Cotton advanced 1 to 3 points then lost all of this and closed steady with sales of 79,300 bales. Liverpool was steady and unchanged on the spot with sales of 10,000 bales. Futures advanced 1 to 1½ points and closed steady.

MOBILE, Ala., March 2.—Engineer William Lewis was instantly killed yesterday near Fort Deposit, Ala., by the breaking of the right hand driving rod of locomotive No. 7, same that was in the wreck on the Montgomery division last Saturday.

THE PUBLIC DEBT STATEMENT.

Thirty-Four Million Decrease Less the Cash in the Treasury.

WASHINGTON, March 2. — The debt statement issued yesterday afternoon shows a net decrease in the public debt less cash in the treasury during February of $34,033,327. The interest bearing debt increased $720,150; the non-interest bearing debt decreased $1,159,196, and cash in the treasury increased $33,594,281. The balances of the several classes of debt at the close of business February 26th, were:

Interest bearing debt $685,042,860; debt on which interest has ceased since maturity, $1,779,300; debt bearing no interest, $381,787,366; total, $1,068,610,528. The certificates and treasury notes offset by an equal amount in the treasury outstanding at the end of the month were $572,735,530, a decrease of $6,022,364. The total cash in the treasury was $798,090,901. The gold reserve was $87,085,511. Net cash balance $91,112,075.

In the month there was an increase of gold coin and bars of $41,239,508. the total at the close being $138,593,260.

Of silver there was an increase of $1,772,523. Of the surplus there was in national bank depositories $16,534,017 against $15,156,715 at the end of the preceding month.

SCENE ON SPOT OF THE WRECK

The Story of the Inter-Ocean Railway Accident—The Groans of the Dying.

CITY OF MEXICO, March 2.—The railway accident on the Inter-ocean railway Thursday occurred at a point forty-two kilometres from this city, between Temamatla and Tenango. It was a special train conveying pilgrims from America. The train was derailed on a curve in a small cut and all the cars, ten in number, were completely shattered and splintered. The accident occurred about half past two o'clock. When a special train conveying doctors Alfred Bray and Frances Crosson, and Mexican doctors, arrived on the scene at 4 o'clock, they found 65 passengers dead and terribly mutilated, their heads and limbs being torn off their bodies in many instances. The scene was terrible. Most of the dead are women and children. The survivors are bewailing the loss of their children and parents, their friends or relatives. The doctors brought into Mexico forty persons who were seriously injured and many of whom will die.

All the passengers are Mexicans. The engineer and conductor of the train escaped into the woods after the accident fearing vengeance from the crowd.

CENTRAL AMERICAN COAST.

The Cruiser Montgomery Suddenly Leaves Mobile for That Trip.

WASHINGTON, March 2.—The crusier Montgomery left Mobile yesterday for Truxillo, which is nine hundred miles due south on the north coast of Honduras. As the Montgomery had two important tests of coal yet to complete at Mobile and was expected to remain there until March 20 at least, her sudden departure was a great surprise to naval officers and naturally excited considerable curiosity. Investigation discloses the fact that secret orders had been telegraphed in cipher to Commander Davis by Secretary Herbert and that he was directed to follow them out immediately, returning to Mobile to complete the coal tests as soon as the ship was no longer needed on the Central American coast. Beyond this the instructions to Commander Davis are a mystery. Secretary Herbert absolutely declined to say anything about the mission of the ship although he intimated that she would be away over a month.

THE STORM'S SILVER LINING.

Music, Cheers, Flags and Bunting at the Arrival of the La Gascogne at Havre.

HAVRE, March 2.—The city was bedecked with flags and the quays were crowded with people yesterday as a mark of welcome to the steamer La Gascogne. The big ship entered the harbor at 1:30 p. m. A regimental band occupied a place on one of the jetties and played the Marseillaise and other patriotic airs as the vessel came in. The members of the municipality and a large number of leading citizens boarded the steamer and congratulated Captain Randelon and his officers upon their courage and seamanship in bringing the ship safely into New York. A luncheon was served on board the steamer at 4 o'clock, at which the mayor, the other members of the municipal government and a number of members of the chamber of commerce and others in commercial life, were entertained by the captain and his staff.

FORCING THE CONTRACTORS.

Aggressive Policy Pursued by the Board of Walking Delegates in New York.

NEW YORK, March 2.—The board of walking delegates began an aggressive policy in the matter of the strike at 10 o'clock yesterday. The fight is on and will be carried on with determination. Six hundred more men were called out yesterday on three up-town buildings. The men called out belong to the various buildings trades. Today more men will be called out and others will strike each day until the contractors are forced to settle.

HONOR HENRY GRADY

The Sponser of the Piedmont Exposition to be Remembered.

ONE DAY DEDICATED TO HIS MEMORY.

Other Preparations and Progress in the Great Cotton States and International Exposition Matter. Contracts for Buildings.

ATLANTA, March 2.—There will be a Grady day at the cotton states International Exposition. President Collier will fix the date, probably in October. Mr. Grady was sponsor for the first Piedmont Exposition and devoted his whole time to it while it was under way. The executive committee yesterday instructed the chief of construction to advertise for bids for the woman's building which will probably be a permant structure. Miss Elise Mercer, of Pittsburgh, is architect. Supervising Architect Gilbert was instructed to prepare plans for a tobacco building and a fire department building.

'TWAS THE METEOR PROBABLY.

Believed to be the Schooner Fired Upon Near Bluefields by a Warship.

MOBILE, Ala., March 2.—Impression here is that if any vessel was fired upon near Bluefields by British warships, it was a small schooner, Meteor, which left here February 16, commanded by David W. Davis. The vessel had a cargo of lumber and several cases labelled books, but whether the cases contained books or not is not known.

The vessel carried as passengers to Corn Island a Mr. and Mrs. Aldrich, who live at Corn Island. Aldrich had chartered the vessel for a previous voyage, when, as Captain Davis' wife, who lives here admits, the charge was made munitions of war had been carried; but her husband told her that too much was at stake to enter upon so fool-hardy a business. Nevertheless as Captain Davis was at home sick part of the time the vessel was loading, it is possible that she had war material put aboard without his knowledge. That something of the sort was contemplated is in evidence from the statement of a cousin of Captain Davis, that a proposition was made to him to take a quantity of ammunition with him to Bluefields, but he refused to do so as he was to have a lady, Mrs. Aldrich, on board. The vessel was loaded at a point three miles above the city opposite a powder magazine and was not inspected.

THE SENATE CONFIRMS WILSON.

New Postmaster General Goes Through With a Batch of Appointments.

WASHINGTON, March 2.—The senate yesterday confirmed the following nomnations: William L. Wilson, of West Virginia, to be postmaster general; John W. Showalter, of Illinois, United States circuit judge for the seventh judicial circuit; Olin Wellborn, United States judge for the southern district of California; Joseph H. O'Neil, assistant United States treasurer at Boston; United States consul, Louis M. Buford, of Illinois, at Paso del Norte, Mexico. Postmaster—Alabama, J. Walter Orr, New Decatur. All the army and navy promotions on the calendar were also confirmed.

THE SOUTHERN STILL SPREADS.

Asheville and Spartanburg and Spartanburg, Union and Columbia Roads.

ATLANTA, March 2.—The announcement is made of the sale of the Asheville and Spartanburg and also of the Spartanburg, Union and Columbia railroads, to the Southern railway company by Mr. John H. Inman, of New York. Mr. Inman and his family have for a long time owned a controlling interest in these roads. The contract price calls for the immediate payment of two milllon dollars in securities of the Southern railway company and also a large cash payment. The Southern railway company took possession of both of these properties yesterday.

WALCOTT SHOULD BE WINNER.

The Fifteen Round Contest in Boston Resulted in a Draw.

BOSTON, March 2.—Joe Walcott and "Mysterious" Billy Smith, both of this city, came together in a seventeen foot ring in Music hall yesterday evening to box fifteen rounds, and at the end of that time, after a battle royal, Referee Barney Aaron, of New York, declared the contest a draw. Both men were strong at the finish and fit to continue the battle for an indefinite number of rounds. Had the contest been decided on scientific points, the referee could have had no hesitancy in awarding the contest to Walcott.

DUN'S FAILURE REPORT.

Decided Decrease in Liabilities Over Those of a Year Ago.

NEW YORK, March 2.—R. G. Dun & Co., in their report of trade, say:

The failures of three weeks of February have shown liabilities amounting to $8,523,028 against $11,420,418 for the same weeks last year, in manufacturing $2,557,050 against $5,045,847 last year, and in trading $5,220,330 against $6,281,693 last year. Failures for the week have been 220 in the United States against 261 last year, and in Canada 38 against 42 last year.

GUBERS AND MEAN WHISKEY.

The Cause of a Negroe's Death in the Station House at Columbus.

COLUMBUS, Ga., March 2.—Isaac Terrell, colored, was found dead in his cell at the station house yesterday. He was arrested for drunkenness on the streets. The coroner's jury rendered a verdict of death from apoplexy, produced from eating gorgingly of peanuts and then filling up on mean whiskey.

Leonard Scott, the Publisher, Dead.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 2.—Leonard Scott, founder of the Leonard Scott publishing company of New York, died here last night of chronic bronchitis, aged 85 years. The remains wil be forwarded to New York today.

STATISTICS sometimes gives one the shivers, and there is always some one who takes special delight in poking figures under our eyes which though not at all agreable and pleasant, are yet so very interesting as to demand publication. For instance, it is said that at least 2,000 vessels are lost each year on the seas of the world and that 12,000 people go down in them. On the railroads in the United States alone, during 1893, the record shows that 37,984 persons were killed and injured, including employes and passengers, by various accidents. This rather appalling number of accidents appear very small, however, when compared with the millions who traverse the great waters or travel annually on our great railroads.

THERE has been a decided bettering of the business outlook since the completion of the last bond deal, and the assurances given by the administration in its contract with the Belmont-Morgan syndicate that public credits will not be disturbed by any further depletion of teasury gold for some time at least. A number of resumptions of steel and iron works are given by Bradstreets' as having recently occurred, and the general tone of business shows positively better. There has been a falling off in strikes and shut-downs, all of which shows favorably. The papers from various sections all contain cheerful news, and give indications that business and trade in the sections represented by them are picking up. The New York Financial Chronicle finds a slight improvement in the general monetary situation, and the Chattanooga Tradesman predicts an early increase in activity in many of the industries [illegible]

AN ACT

To Establish a Charter for the City of Columbiana, in Shelby County, Ala.

(Certified copy.)

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Alabama, That the inhabitants of Columbiana in the county of Shelby, be and they are hereby created a body politic and corporate under the name of the Mayor and Council of Columbiana, and by that name may purchase, receive, let or hold, sell, grant, alien or assure property, real, personal, and sue and be sued, plead and be impleaded, and do and perform any other act incident to bodies corporate, and may have a common seal which may be changed at pleasure, and shall have authority to do all acts, and pass such ordinances as may be necessary to enforce the powers granted by this act, but shall not hold property more than ten thousand dollars in value.

SEC. 2. Be it further enacted, That the corporate limits of Columbiana shall embrace an area including all the territory within two and one-half miles of the court house, at Columbiana, in said town, extending in all directions two and one-half miles from said court house.

SEC. 3. Be it further enacted: 1st, That there shall be elected yearly by the qualified electors of said town the following officers, namely: A mayor and five aldermen in the manner herein provided. All qualified electors of the state, who have resided within the corporate limits of said town thirty days preceding the election, are hereby qualified electors of said city of Columbiana. The candidate for mayor and the five candidates for aldermen receiving the highest number of votes shall be declared elected. 2nd. The first election of mayor and aldermen of said town shall be on the first Monday in April, 1895, and each succeeding election shall be held on the first Monday in April every year thereafter. The term of office of the mayor and board of aldermen shall be one year from the date of their qualification, and until their successors are elected and qualified. Said first election to be held on the first Monday in April, 1895, shall be held by three citizens of said town to be appointed by the judge of probate of Shelby county, and all subsequent elections to be held by three citizens appointed by the mayor and councilmen of said town of Columbiana. Notice of the election to be held on the first Monday in April, 1895, shall be given by the said probate judge, and all subsequent elections by the mayor of said city, by posting three or more notices in places within the corporate limits, or publication in some newspaper published in the town of Columbiana. The election of mayor and aldermen shall be governed and controlled by the laws governing state elections. The manager of the election to be held on the first Monday in April, 1895, shall certify the result of said election to the judge of probate of said county, whose duty it shall be to notify the persons chosen of their election. At all subsequent elections the managers shall certify the result to the mayor and councilmen of said town. In case two persons offering for the same office shall receive an equal number of votes, then one of the managers who shall be designated as chairman at the time of their appointment shall give the casting vote and shall give the person elected a certificate of election. The persons so elected shall, before entering upon the discharge of their duties, take and subscribe the following oath:" I, A. B., Mayor, (councilman, clerk, marshal, policeman, treasurer, as the case may be) do solemnly swear that I will to the best of my skill and ability discharge all the duties incumbent on me without favor or affection, so help me God." Which oath shall be administered by a justice of the peace, and a certificate filed with the records of the town. The mayor and councilmen shall continue in office twelve months from date of election and until their successors are elected and qualified.

SEC 4. Be it further enacted, That the ballots cast at the election held under this act on the first Monday in April, 1895, after being counted, be carefully sealed up by the judge of probate of said county of Shelby, and deposited with the clerk in charge of the papers and records of said town, when said clerk shall have been chosen, and the ballots cast at any subsequent election shall be carefully sealed up by the mayor and councilmen and by them deposited with the clerk of said town, who shall carefully preserve them for twenty days after the result of said election is declared, and then if there is no contest the said clerk shall cause the same to be burned up in the presence of himself and the mayor, but in the event of contest, shall be delivered to the court or judge trying the same.

SEC. 5 Be it further enacted, That any election held under the provisions of this act may be contested in the same manner as is or may povided by the laws of the state for contesting the election of probate judge, and all the provisions of such laws in relation to contesting the election of a probate judge shall, as far as the same are or may be applicable, apply to contests of any elections held under this act.

SEC. 6. Be it further enacted, That if the mayor or any councilman during his term of office and after qualifying shall die, remove from the corporation, resign, refuse to act or be permanently disabled from acting, the remaining councilmen shall, by ballot, elect in his stead another mayor or councilman, who shall have proper qualifications, and shall continue in office the remainder of the term, and until his successor is elected and qualified: and if any person elected mayor and councilman by the qualified voters of said town at any election under this act shall refuse to qualify, the remaining councilmen shall, by ballot, elect in his stead, if mayor, one of their own body; if councilman, some person having the qualifications prescribed for electors in Shelby county, Alabama, who shall continue in office during the remainder of the term and until their successors are elected and qualified.

SEC. 7. Be it further enacted, That the councilmen shall be the judge of qualifications of the mayor, and the mayor and councilmen be the judges of the qualifications of a councilman.

SEC. 8. Be it further enacted, That a majority of the mayor and councilmen shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business. The mayor and councilmen shall fix their own sessions, and special meetings may be called by the mayor at any time, or by two of the councilmen. In case of sickness or temporary absence of the mayor, the councilmen may appoint any one of their own number to act as mayor during such sickness or absence, and such mayor pro tempore shall exercise all the powers and perform all the duties of the mayor, but the mayor shall not vacate his office by any temporary absence from said town or state.

SEC. 9. Be it further enacted, That it shall be the duty of the mayor to attend and preside and keep order at the meetings of the council, and hear and determine all cases of violations of all by-laws and ordinances, or charter of said town, and he is hereby invested with power and authority to take jurisdiction of every violation of the laws and ordinances of said town, and to try and convict and punish the same according to the laws and ordinances of said town, and he shall have authority while holding his court to punish any contempt of his court by fine or imprisonment, or both; but the imprisonment must not exceed ten days or the fine exceed twenty five ($25.00) dollars; and the mayor may compel the attendance of witnesses on his court by fining them not exceeding ten dollars, to be enforced as other fines are enforced, if they fail to appear and testify before him after being duly served with a subpœna. The mayor shall do and perform such other duties as the council may prescribe, and before entering upon the duties of his office shall give bond to be approved by a majority of the councilmen in the sum of five hundred dollars, payable to the town of Columbiana and conditioned for the faithful performance of his duties as mayor. Appeal from any decision of the mayor of said town may be taken or had in the same as is now or may be provided for taking appeals from a justice of the peace court. The mayor shall receive such salary as the council may prescribe.

SEC. 10. Be it further enacted, That the city of Columbiana shall be a separate school district.

SEC. 11. Be it further enacted, That the police force shall consist of a marshal and such subordinate officers and policemen as the mayor and council may by ordinance from time to time prescribe; all members of the police force shall be removable by the mayor and council for good cause at any time. The marshal and all other subordinate officers shall be eleted by the mayor and council. The marshal and all other surordinate officers shall be elected for one term, or until the first municipal election after his or their election.

SEC. 12. Be it further enacted, That the mayor and city council may appoint a city clerk who shall assess the taxes in said town of Columbiana, city treasurer, and may prescribe the duties, liabilities and powers of such officers, and may require them to give bond in such sums as they see fit for the faithful discharge of their duties, and for good cause may remove them, and fix the compensation of such officers. For the breach of the bond of any of the city officers suit may be brought in the circuit court of Shelby county, Alabama. The city shall keep a record of all proceedings, orders, regulations, resolutions and ordinances of the mayor and council and signed by the mayor or acting mayor, and shall have the force and effect of a record, and a copy thereof certified by the clerk shall be prima facie evidence in any court, and said record shall be at all times open for inspection.

SEC. 13. Be it further enacted, That the mayor and councilmen of the city of Columbiana shall have full and complete power, 1st, To make and adopt by-laws and ordinances that may be necessary to carry out the powers herein granted, and for the good government and order of said city, and affix thereto such penalties for violation of the same by fine not exceeding fifty dollars, and hard labor for the city not exceeding thirty days, one or both; and all persons convicted for a breach of any by-laws or ordinances failing to pay or secure such fine may be sentenced to hard labor for the city until such fines and costs are paid in such manner and for such time as the city and council may direct, not longer than 100 days. 2d. To prevent and remove all nuisances at the expense of the person causing the same, and upon whose premises the same may be found. 3d. To license, tax, regulate or restrain theatrical or other amusements. 4th. To regulate watchmen and police. 5th. To sink, repair, regulate public wells and cisterns, to establish and regulate fire plugs and public hydrants, and to make all needful provisions for the supply of the city with water. 6th. To establish streets, avenues and alleys. 7th. To lay out, regulate, improve and control city cemeteries and burial grounds. 8th To establish, regulate and control free white public schools, and free colored public schools, either or both; to pay the teachers thereof, and to organize and establish such in connection with other schools established or organized under the direction of the board of education of the state, on such terms as may be agreed upon by them, or establish such schools independently of said board of education, provided that said mayor and councilmen of the city of Columbiana may levy, assess and collect a tax in such manner and in such amount as is not inconsistent with the constitution of the state, on all real and personal property in said city, for the support of the public schools; provided further, that they may prescribe the terms upon which non-residents of said city may be admitted to said schools. 9th. To pass all laws necessary and proper for the arrest with or without warrant all persons violating the city by-laws or or ordinances. 10th. Said city council shall have authority to levy and collect a license tax from all firms, corporations, trading or carrying any business, trade or profession, by agents or otherwise, but mechanics and painters who employ no capital but conduct their trade by their skill, shall not be subject to the payment of license. The assessment herein mentioned shall be made by the city clerk from the state and county assessment books as assessed the preceding year, and it shall be the duty of the said city council to require the city clerk to assist the county tax assessor in assessing the property of said city.

SEC. 14. Be it further enacted, That the said city council shall have authority to require all male inhabitants living within 1 mile of the court house, who have resided therein ten days and who are between the ages of eighteen and forty-five, to work upon the streets of said city for eight days in each year, under such officers as the city council may appoint, provided that any person so required to work may relieve himself from working by paying into the city treasury the sum of $3.50, one-half of which amount shall be applied toward the support of the public schools of said city of Columbiana, provided further that said persons living within one mile of the court house shall be exempt from working on public roads outside of the one mile limit.

SEC. 15. Be it further enacted, That the city council shall cause a copy of the tax lists and books of all property in the corporate limits of said city listed and assessed as appears on such tax assessors books for each preceding year, to be made and entered in a book kept for that purpose, with all additions and alterations that may have been made under the provisions of this act, provided that the city council may exempt farm lands from taxation. That as soon as said book is made and corrected it shall be filed in the city clerk's office, where it shall remain for twenty days open for inspection, and said city council shall have a meeting at leat three days before said twenty days have expired, and hear all complaint and make correction of all errors in assessment of property in said city.

SEC. 16. Be it further enacted, That a majority of the board of mayor and council shall be a quorum for the transaction of all business and as soon as possible after the lapse of twenty days said board shall levy for the current year the tax authorized by this act on all property and subjects of taxation so listed and valued in the book heretofore mentioned, corrected as aforesaid.

SEC. 17. Be it further enacted, That the taxes so levied under this act shall have the force and effect of a judgment at law against the person assessed therewith, and for said taxes so levied and for all other taxes authorized by this act the city of Columbiana shall have a preferred lien over all incumberances and securities whatsoever except state and county taxes, against the property of any person under this act, for which such person may become liable for the current year, shall be lien upon the real and personal estate of such person within the city of Columbiana from the first day of January of that year, or if brought in there after that time, the lien shall attach from the time it was brought into said city.

SEC. 18. Be it further enacted, That after the taxes shall be so fixed and levied, the mayor of said city shall certify the same at the end of the tax book, and append thereto his warrant directed to the marshal of said city of Columbiana, authorizing and commanding such officer to collect the taxes so levied, commencing on the 15th day of September and continuing until the 15th day of October, each year, after which time all persons not having paid their taxes shall be regarded as delinquent. The said marshal shall notify the public by posting notices three weeks in three public places in said city immediately preceding the 15th day of September in each year, stating that he is ready to receive payment of taxes. Taxes not appearing in this book but authorized by this act, shall be collected on the warrant of the mayor, directed to the tax collector, commanding him to collect said taxes.

SEC. 19. Be it further enacted, That after the 15th day of October each year the city marshal shall make personal demand on delinquents wherever they may be found, for their taxes; and when unable to find them in said city, shall leave a notice at the place of residence of such tax payers, requiring them to come forward and pay such taxes and costs immediately, and for making such personal demand or giving such notice he shall be entitled to fifty cents, but no demand or notice shall be necessary to tax payers who are non-residents of the city, except such as required by the general laws of the state.

SEC. 20. Be it further enacted, That the marshal of city, or such other officer as may be designated by the city council to collect the taxes, shall be charged with and accountable for the whole amount of taxes assessed for the year, and can only be discharged from such accountability by showing that the taxes unpaid could not be collected by the means given him for their collection.

SEC. 21. Be it further enacted, That all taxes laid under this act which are not paid by the first of November each year shall after that time be collected by the marshal by levying upon and seizing any personal property, if there be any, or if there be none or not sufficient personal property, then he may sell the real estate of such delinquent tax payers, as is now provided by law for collecting state and county taxes.

SEC. 22. Be it further enacted, That when real estate is levied on for taxes notice of sale shall be given by publication in a newspaper published in Columbiana once a week for two weeks, and the sale shall take place in front of the court house in the city of Columbiana. That the marshal shall bid off for the city of Columbiana on all lots and lands on which he can not get a bid from other persons for the taxes and expenses of sale, and said marshal shall issue a certificate of purchase to said city. Such real estate shall be subject to redemption as provided for the sale of lands for the payment of state and county taxes. After the expiration of two years, the mayor of said city shall make and execute the holders of certificates, deeds to each lot or parcel of land sold and unredeemed, and deliver the same to the purchaser or his assignee upon the return of the certificate and the payment of all subsequent taxes on the property and $1.00 for the deed.

SEC. 23. Be it further enacted, That the mayor and council of the city of Columbiana shall have exclusive power and authority to levy, assess and collect all poll tax from the inhabitants of said city liable to pay such tax, to be used and applied exclusively to the public schools of the city, said tax to be assessed and collected as other taxes are assessed and collected, provided that the poll tax collected from white men shall be applied to the school fund for white childred, and the poll tax collected from colored men to be applied to the public schools for colored childred.

SEC. 24. Be it further enacted, That the mayor and council of the city of Columbiana be and they are hereby created a board of trustees of the separate school district created by this act, and such board of trustees are alone authorized and empowered to employ, license or contract with teachers of any public schools in said school district established and created by this act, and that no other teacher shall be employed to teach a public school in said city, unless such teacher so employed to teach a public school shall have been duly examined as to his or her efficiency, by such authority as such board of trustees may select. That said board shall aproint a secretary and treasurer, who shall be a member of said board, and he shall give bond in such sum as the board may direct, for the faithful discharge of his duties. That the city of Columbiana as such school district shall receive its proportionate share of the public fund, including the pro rata share of the sixteenth section fund of each township that lies partly within said school district, all such funds to be drawn from the proper authorities and disbursed by the said board of trustees through its secretary and treasurer, in the same manner as county superintendents of education draw and disburse funds for their respective counties; provided that said board of trustees may at any time, after the same has been paid in, draw from the state of Alabama all school funds due said school district, for the then scholastic year, and the amount thus drawn by the said board of trustees shall be used exclusively for the maintenance of the free public schools in the city, for white or colored schools as may have been appropriated by law.

MARRIAGES IN THE YEAR 1800.

From the Washington County News.

There is an old proverb which assures us that "there is luck in odd numbers." For the past two years I have had only four daughters and have played in hard luck, but the fifth one, a fine baby with jet black hair and eyes, made its appearance Saturday night, the ninth inst, and now I hope the fickle godess will smile upon me. Some of my friends try to guy me about having so many girls and no boys; but I tell them that one girl is worth a dozen boys, and that I am satisfied with my girls and only dread that the dear son-in-law that will be on my hands in the future. Girls are not only naturally better than boys, but are more help and comfort to their parents. The first inclinations a boy has these days, when he gets to be about good yearling size, is to chew tobacco, smoke cigarettes, drink whiskey and beer, "loaf and cuss." When he has acquired all these accomplishments he then feels himself a man, and considers it beneath his dignity to work or study. Of course, there are exceptions to this general rule, and a boy who is such an exception is in striking contrast to those who are not.

I have just been reviewing Pickett's History of Alabama, and will quote from volume 2, pages 183 and 184, showing the manner in which marriages were made in the year 1800:

"Upon the Tombigby and Lake Tensaw, the people still lived without laws, and without the rite of matrimony. For years the sexes had been in the habit of pairing off, and living together with the mutual promise of regular marriage when the ministers or magistrates should make their appearance in our country. An amusing incident will here be related in which a young couple were united by a functionary not hitherto known as participating in such sacred rites. The house of Samuel Mims, a wealthy Indian countryman, was the most spacious in the country, and hither the young and the gay flocked to parties, and danced to the music furnished by the Creoles of Mobile and others, for the country abonded in fiddlers of "high and low degree." Daniel Johnston and Miss Elizabeth Linder had, for some time, loved each other. She was rich and he was poor, and of course, the parents of the former objected to a pairing.

"On Christmas night a large party was assembled at 'Old Sam Mims,' and the very forests resounded with music and merry peals of laughter. In the midst of the enjoyment, the two lovers, in company with several young people of both sexes, secretly left the house, entered some canoes, paddled down Lake Tensaw into the Alabama river and arrived at Fort Stoddart an hour before daylight. Captain Shaumberg, who had risen early to make his egg-nogg, was emplored to join the lovers in the bonds of matrimony. The proposition astounded the good-natured old German, who protested his ignorance of all such matters, and assured them that he was only a military commandant, having no authority to make people man and wife. They entreated, telling him, with truth, that the federal government had placed him there as a general protector and regulator of affairs, and that the case before him demanded his sanction and adjustment. After the egg-nogg had circulated pretty freely, the commandant placed the lovers before him, and, in a stentorian voice, pronounced the following martial speech: 'I, Captain Shaumberg, of the second regiment of the United States army, and commandant of Fort Stoddart, do hereby pronounce you man and wife. Go home! Behave yourselves—multiply and replenish the Tensaw country.'"

The happy young people of those primitive days loved each other just as well and raised just as many children as if they had been legally married. In fact, as custom makes laws, their marriage was ever considered strictly legal. The Daniel Johnston above mentioned was my grand uncle, and the grandfather of the Hon. James B. Johnston' of Shubutta, Miss. Uncle Daniel settled, about ninety years ago, the place now known as the Ketchum Place, in the now thriving village of McIntosh Bluff, then Alabama territory.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."
DR. G. C. OSGOOD, Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."
DR. J. F. KINCHELOE, Conway, Ark.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."
H. A. ARCHER, M. D., 111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

HAVE YOU READ

THE * TIMES

PHILADELPHIA

THIS MORNING?

THE TIMES is the most extensively circulated and widely read newspaper published in Pennsylvania. Its discussion of public men and public measures is in the interest of public integrity, honest government and prosperous industry, and it knows no party or personal allegiance in treating public issues. In the broadest and best sense a family newspaper.

THE TIMES aims to have the largest circulation by deserving it, and claims that it is unsurpassed in all the essentials of a great metropolitan newspaper. Specimen copies of any edition will be sent to any one sending their address.

TERMS: DAILY, $3.00 per annum; $1.00 for four months; 30 cents per month. SUNDAY EDITION, twenty-four large, handsome pages—168 columns, elegantly illustrated, $2.00 per annum; 5 cents per copy. Daily and Sunday, $5.00 per annum; 50 cents per month. WEEKLY EDITION, 50 cents per annum.

CONSUMPTION

SO PRONOUNCED

By the Physicians

SEVERE

COUGH

At Night

Spitting Blood

Given Over by the Doctors!

LIFE SAVED BY

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL

"Seven years ago, my wife had a severe attack of lung trouble which the physicians pronounced consumption. The cough was extremely distressing, especially at night, and was frequently attended with the spitting of blood. The doctors being unable to help her, I induced her to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and was surprised at the great relief it gave. Before using one whole bottle, she was cured, so that now she is quite strong and healthy. That this medicine saved my wife's life, I have not the least doubt."—K. MORRIS, Memphis, Tenn.

TOWN AND COUNTY NEWS.

The constant drop of water
Wears away the hardest stone;
The constant gnaw of Towser
Masticates the toughest bone.
The constant cooing lover
Carries off the blushing maid;
And the constant advertiser
Is the one who gets the trade.
—Wahoo Wasp.

The worst lies are half truths.

This is now "the city of Columbiana," if you please.

Dr. T. G. Nelson, of Harpersville, was in the city yesterday.

N. A. Graham, editor of the Shelby Sentinel, visited Columbiana Monday.

Miss Alice Anchors is visiting relatives and friends in Shelby for a few days.

Mrs. E. L. Spencer returned from Atlanta yesterday much improved in health.

Buck Daniels, of Wilsonville, visited his sister, Mrs. John Hall, Sunday and Monday.

W. R. A. Milner and I. D. Mason transacted business in Birmingham yesterday.

J. P. Spencer left Monday to serve as a petit juror in the U. S. court at Birmingham.

It pays to patronize a particular, prompt and progressive printer. We modestly claim these virtues.

Miss Mattie Hand, who has been visiting Mrs. B. L. Moore, returned to her home in Jemison Sunday evening.

If you are not already on our list, give us a trial order for job work and we will make you a regular customer.

The "term "art printing" as used is synonymous with inferior work. The Chronicle job department does neat work.

E. S. Strickland, of Woodstock, visited his father's family here the latter part of last week, returning home Saturday.

We have given a large portion of our space this week for the publication of the act incorporating the the city of Columbiana and establishing therein free public schools. This new law should be carefully and thoroughly studied by every citizen of our town, for it is vitally important that its provisions should be clearly understood. File your Chronicle for future reference, for you are sure to want to refer to the law often for information. We have taken special pains to publish this law in correct form, and it can be taken as absolutely true to the original. If you do not take The Chronicle and desire a copy of this law, we can supply you at 5 cents per copy. We have no copies to give away.

John Morrison, a farmer living four miles east of this place, had the misfortune to lose his dwelling and kitchen by fire Sunday night. The origin of the fire is a mystery. It occured at midnight, and when the family awoke the roof of the kitchen, which was about twenty feet from the dwelling, was burning fiercely. A strong wind soon spread the flames to the residence, and the occupants barely had time to save their clothing and household effects. The contents of the kitchen were a complete loss, and in an incredibly short time the dwelling was also a pile of ashes. The loss falls very heavily upon Mr. Morrison as he is a poor man, and a subscription was promptly taken up here for him and his family, to which our citizens responded liberally. We are informed that he has commenced already to rebuild.

The quality and style of your office stationery has great weight with your correspondents. Give us a trial order and you will stay with us.

"Whatever is worth doing at all, is worth doing well," is a maxim that few follow because many cannot. Cheap printing may serve a cheap man, but neat printing creates a favorable opinion.

Messrs. J. M. Reynolds, E. S. Lyman, C. L. Meroney, George Kroell, Robert Hall, James Harris and perhaps others, from Montevallo, came up Monday to confer with the Commissioners' court in regard to building the bridge over Shoal creek in that town. Gentlemen, you were lucky, and we congratulate you on your good fortune.

For seven years or more Mrs. W. D. Louder, of Quincy, Ky., was subject to severe attacks of cramp colic. Mr. S. R. Morse, a druggist of that place, recommended Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy, which has effected a permanent cure, saving her much suffering besides the trouble and expense of sending for a doctor, which was often necessary. For sale by Parker & Armstrong.

The Commissioners' court convened in extra session Monday for the purpose of considering the proposition to build a bridge over Shoal creek, at Montevallo. After careful inquiry and investigation they decided to build a substantial steel bridge over said creek at a cost not to exceed $3,000. Commissioners R. H. Walker ann W. C. Powers were appointed as a committee to represent the county in addition to the following citizens of Montevallo, who are to assist in getting up the plans and superintending the work: Messrs. H. C. Reynolds, George Kroell, E. S. Lyman, C. L. Meroney, C. C. Vandegrift and E. F. Vest. R. H. Walker was instructed to employ a competent engineer, who will draw up the plans and specifications, which are to be submitted to the Commissioners' court at their regular meeting in April for approval, and if found satisfactory bids will be advertised for and the contract let at as early a day thereafter as practicable. The bridge is to be sixteen feet wide and about ninety feet long, with solid masonry approaches filled in with dirt. We heartily commend the wisdom of the court in putting up a steel bridge. Its economy will be fully demonstrated later on.

Pursuant to a call by the president, a meeting of the American Cotton Growers' Protective Association was held in this place Monday, presided over by Hon. H. C. Reynolds, of Montevallo, president of the association of this county. At 1 p. m. President Reynold's called the meeting to order, the court room being comfortably filled, mostly with farmers who had come to find out the particulars as to the objects to be accomplished. These President Reynolds fully explained and earnestly urged the farmers to organize in the manner proposed in order to protect themselves from gross imposition in future. A pledge binding the signer to reduce the acreage planted in cotton at least one-fourth was handed those present for signature, and twenty-three thus signified their intention to abide by its provisions. A. W. Strickland was elected permanent secretary and treasurer. A committee composed of J. W. Johnston, C. W. O'Hara and C. L. Mooney was appointed to select an additional committee of seven farmers to co-operate with them in securing the pledge of planters to reduce the cotton acreage. Hon. H. C. Reynolds was elected as a delegate to the state convention soon to be held, after which the meeting adjourned. We earnestly hope the farmers will join this organization and will abide faithfully by its restrictions, for in so doing they are sure to be rewarded by an increase in the price of farm products, and besides they can effectually put an end to the many impositions they have been compelled to bear in the past. The movement is a good one, and every planter who refuses to give his hearty support and encouragement will stand in the way not only of his own but his fellow farmers' prosperity. Co-operation and earnest, persistent effort will prove highly beneficial to the farmers.

A severe rheumatic pain in the left shoulder had troubled Mr. J. H. Loper, a well known druggist of Des Moines, Iowa, for over six months. At times the pain was so severe that he could not get rid of it until he applied Chamberlain's Pain Balm. "I only made three applications of it," he says, "And have since been free from all pain." He now recomends it to persons similarly afflicted. It is for sale by Parker & Armstrong.

Wilsonville Waifs.

Say, Mr. Jimpson, ain't you in love?

Mr. "Buck" Daniels spent Sunday night in Columbiana.

Prof. Hammond rolled in Sunday for a few days rest.

Mr. Cain Norris, of Oxmoor, is visiting his sister Mrs. Dolsheim.

Miss Katie Bradley, of near Harpersville, is visiting friends in the village.

Garrett Brown visited home two days last week, returning to his work Sunday.

Mr. Joe Barr and his mother visited relatives in the Harpersville settlement last week.

The Gypsies are camping near here soliciting practical lessons in the art of horse swapping.

Misses. Lula Densler and Georgie Pope were the honored guests of Miss Pauline Montgomery Saturday and Sunday.

Mr. Williamson left again for Plantersville Sunday and Mr. Carley of Burnsville, is serving us as agent in the meantime.

Columbiana with all of her city airs and pretty girls cannot surpass Wilsonville in the manipulations and manipulators of private telegraph lines.

Mr. A. G. Weldon gave a nice dining Friday evening in honor of Messrs. Smith and Tinney. All the guests enjoyed the palatables to their fullest extent, which were fit to tickle the palates of the gods.

Messrs. W. R. Smith and W. J. Tinney left our town Sunday eve amid a shower of rice, old shoes and maidens tears for Ardmore, Indian Territory. Young gentlemen, as you will no doubt read this, we send this message in your wake. May success ever attend your pathway in your new field, is the common prayer and wish of all. May no brighter eyes, no fairer forms than those you leave behind steal your hearts, is no doubt the wish of the fair belles of our town, until you have made your fortunes in the Red Man's Land. Many anxious hearts await your return, and we promise you when you next go West you shall not journey alone.

BUTCH.

Harpersville Echoes.

E. V. Caldwell spent several days of last week in Talladega.

The first quarterly meeting of this circuit was held at Vincient last Saturday and Sunday.

W. A. Gorman who has been attending Howard college has come home, and will remain until fall.

Mrs. Elliott, of Wilsonville, spent several days of last week with Mrs. Thompson's family in town.

Rev. J. H. Kilpatrick, of Wilsonville, preached a very interesting sermon at the Baptist church last Sunday.

W. N. Moss has been appointed justice of peace in this beat, and it is no longer "Bill" but "Square" Moss.

Distemper is raging among the horses and mules in this community, and we have heard of one or two dying.

Kidd Collins, of Cropwell, and Miss Rosa Vincient, of Easonville, and Miss Jennie Bates, of Creswell, have all entered the Harpersville High School.

Homer, son of J. E. Elliott, aged about twelve years, was kicked by a mule last Sunday was a week ago, and died on Monday night following. He was a good boy, and we deeply sympathize with his parents in their sad bereavment.

Rev. J. M. McCord was elected pastor of Baptist church last Sunday. He received every vote cast. The church will request him to preach on their old days, the first Sunday and Saturday before: A committie was appointed to notify him of his election and to raise his salary.

JAKE.

"Perhaps you would not think so, but a very large proportion of diseases in New York comes from carelessness about catching cold," says Dr. Syrus Edson. "It is such a simple thing and so common that very few people, unless it is a case of pneumonia, pay any attention to a cold. New York is one of the healthiest places on the Atlantic coast and yet there are a great many cases of catarrh and consumption which have their origin in this neglect of the simplest precaution of every day life. The most sensible advice is, when you have one get rid of it as soon as possible. By all means do not neglect it." Dr. Edson does not tell you how to cure a cold but we will. Take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It will relieve the lungs, aid expectoration, open the secretions and soon effect a permanent cure. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Parker & Armstrong.

Deserving Praise.

We desire to say to our citizens, that for years we've been selling Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, Dr. King's New Life Pills, Bucklen's Arnica Salve and Electric Bitters, and have never handled remedies that sell as well, or that have given such universal satisfaction. We do not hesitate to guarantee them every time, and we stand ready to refund the purchase price, if satisfactory results do not follow their use. These remedies have won their great popularity purely on their merits. Parker & Armstrong, druggists.

MARCH APRIL MAY

Are the Months in Which to

PURIFY YOUR BLOOD

The Best Blood Purifier is

HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA

Which Purifies, Vitalizes and Enriches the Blood.

At this season everyone should take a good spring medicine. Your blood must be purified or you will be neglecting your health. There is a cry from Nature for help, and unless there is prompt and satisfactory response you will be liable to serious illness.

This demand can only be met by the purifying, enriching and elements to be found in Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Blood-Vitalizing

"My mother-in-law, Mrs. Elizabeth Wolfe, at the age of 72 years, was attacked with a violent form of salt rheum; it spread all over her body, and her hands and limbs were dreadful to look at. At the same time, my little daughter Clara, who was just one year old, was attacked by a similar disease, like scrofula. It appeared in

Large Sores

under each side of her neck; had the attendance of the family physician and other doctors for a long time, but seemed to grow worse. I read of many people cured of scrofula by Hood's Sarsaparilla. As soon as we gave Hood's Sarsaparilla to Clara, she began to get better, and before the first bottle was gone, the sores entirely healed up and there has never been any sign of the disease since. She is a Healthy Robust Child.

Her grandmother took Hood's Sarsaparilla at the same time, and the salt rheum decreased in its violence and a perfect cure was soon effected. It took about three months for her cure, and she ascribes her good health and strength at her advanced age to Hood's Sarsaparilla. It has certainly been a Godsend to my family." MRS. SOPHIA WOLFE, Zaleski, Ohio.

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 50c and $1 bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

A SHAKEN REED.

The Pitiable Spectacle Presented by the Ex-Czar as a Trimmer.

When the committee of ways and means took up the question of saving sixteen million dollars to the taxpayers by authorizing gold bonds for the recent loan, Mr. T. B. Reed, the republican leader, opposed the measure. When the currency bill, as amended, was before the house, Mr. Reed did not vote on the first roll call, and did not vote on the second roll call until he had had time to ascertain by a simple mathematical device that the bill was surely defeated. Then he recorded his honorable name in the affirmative. A change of a very few votes, say a dozen, with a little drumming up of dodging members, would have secured the passage of the bill. It is our impression that a much greater change than that could have been secured by Mr. Reed had he so wished. While the bill was pending in committee of the whole Mr. Reed divided the republicans who would have voted for the bill as a whole by raising the question of payment in gold. He proposed a substitute which in the midst of a number of confusing provisions included payment in coin, he at the time knowing perfectly well that payment in gold was of the essence of the measure, and that no other mode of payment would meet the requirements of the situation. Here we have the short and simple annals of the very poor statesmanship of Mr. Reed.

It is related of the once brilliant and aggressive gentleman from Maine, in the year 1890, when the Sherman bill was urged as the only means of preventing a free coinage bill, and when it was suggested that a free coinage bill would in any case be vetoed by President Harrison, that Mr. Reed remarked that he was not acquainted with anyone who knew what Mr. Harrison would do or would not do with such a bill. The president was at that time a candidate for renomination, and the significance of Mr. Reed's remark was obvious. Mr. Reed is now himself an aspirant for a presidential nomination. Is he acquainted with anyone who knows what he will do or will not do on any matter that may affect the satisfaction of his legitimate but demoralizing ambition? The doubt suggested by the question is bitter, but it is inevitable. Mr. Reed's own course compels it. The once courageous and rather contemptuous representative, who compelled admiration for his candor and respect for his sincerity, however he may have lacked in manners, has vanished, and in his place we see the halting, timid, scheming, half-suppliant politician, squirming and twisting around whatever he fancies may be an obstacle in his path.

And the element in this spectacle that is at once pitiful and grotesque is that, of all possible ways, this, for a man of Mr. Reed's mind and temperament, is the least likely to lead to success. It is the very converse of that which his great rival, Mr. Blaine, followed to tragic failure. Naturally a plotter, the latter assumed the manner and sought to make the reputation of a dashing and open-hearted leader. Mr. Reed, having shown that he is by nature a brave and spirited fighter, now seeks the advantages of a shrewd trimmer. What is common to both careers, what was fatal in one and is full of peril for the other, is the contradiction between the real character and that assumed. Mr. Blaine could not win the confidence due to a bold leader because at heart he was not one, and Mr. Reed cannot gain by the arts of the tricky politician even the advantage they are capable of giving because at heart he despises them and is unfitted for them. This fact, so obvious to those whose observation is unprejudiced, it is probably too late for Mr. Reed to recognize. But if he could get himself into the frame of mind habitual with him only a short year ago, there are some things that we should venture to call to his attention with the hope that it would not be in vain.

One of these is that on the currency question the tendency of public opinion in the United States for the past twenty years has been distinctly toward honest money, which is the same as saying, in the conditions prevailing, toward gold payments. This is shown by the fact that, though the issue has never been clearly voted on, the more nearly it has been presented, the more decided has opinion been in the right direction. If it were possible now to put the question to the people, unobscured and unconfused, the answer would be overwhelmingly for honest money. The next point to be noted is that there is a very powerful current of events tending to force this issue directly upon the country. We have paltered with it, compromised it, deferred it, over and over again. At every successive stage the result has been more disastrous. The half-blind, half cowardly hesitation in taking the final step, paying our demand notes once for all in gold, and destroying forever the last excuse for doubting the absolute honesty of the nation, has cost us, literally, two thousand millions of dollars in taxes and millions more in business losses. If the American people once clearly understand this, they will act with a swiftness and decision that nothing can withstand. In that day the leader they will choose will not be a trimmer or a schemer. They will not choose him for his skill in dodging issues or evading difficulties. They will take the man they think they can trust because he has not failed them. There was a time when Mr. Reed had given reason for such confidence in him. Lately he has impaired it. Yet a man who has the courage frankly to recognize wherein he is wrong and promptly and firmly to put himself in the right is not a man to discard. Honestly, Mr. Reed, we believe that you have still a chance.—N. Y. Times.

——Mr. McKinley said recently: "We want foreign markets for our products of agriculture and manufactures, but not at the loss of a home market." He did not go on to explain, however, how our surplus products are to be disposed of. It takes at least two nations to make commerce, and we can as easily be shut out from Europe as we can shut Europe out. And why does Mr. McKinley go back to the tariff and put off the financial problems with the meaningless equivocation that there is wisdom and patriotism enough in the country to relieve us of our monetary troubles?—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

——The people will now watch to see what the populist and republican majority of the senate will do. There has been a majority of populists and democrats for two years. Now there will be all populists and republicans. It will be interesting to see how this new mixture works.—Albany Argus.

CONDITION OF THE TREASURY.

What Is Shown by Information of an Authentic Character.

The report of Secretary Carlisle sent to the senate the other day shows only what intelligent people knew before. The difference between a senator and other people in regard to seeking information is this: When a senator is in want of information, as he generally is, he writes a resolution asking the secretary of the treasury or some other officer of the government to send it to him. When an ordinary individual desires information he hunts up official reports, and by comparing them is able to reach conclusions for himself.

Senator Gorman, as a member of the protection majority of the senate, is anxious to make the impression that there is a deficiency of revenue—not merely that there has been a deficit, which has been repeatedly officially reported, but that the deficit is likely to continue. He wishes to make the impression that the deficit causes the depletion of the gold reserve, which is known to be wholly false. But by artful manipulation of figures it is possible to make that impression on the unsuspecting.

As we have said, it has not been denied that there was a deficit in the revenue. Most of it was under the McKinley bill, but it has continued under the new tariff, because the new revenue law has not yet gone into full operation. But this deficit existed apart from the money borrowed. Counting the money borrowed, receipts have exceeded expenditures. The money borrowed was for the gold reserve, and it has been asserted that the gold so borrowed has been used to pay current expenses. The Courier-Journal has heretofore shown this to be false, and the secretary's report confirms what we said.

The secretary's report shows that since January 1, 1894, $186,862,842 of legal tenders have been redeemed in gold, and of these $79,338,903 are still in the treasury. This shows conclusively that there is and has been no necessity of using the gold reserve to pay current expenses. On the contrary, there are more legal tenders in the treasury than are needed for current expenses.

Some of the republicans have shifted their ground, and now say that if the revenue were sufficient the greenbacks could stay in the treasury when once redeemed. But they know very well the law says that they shall be reissued. How can they be reissued except by paying them out for current expenses? The law in this respect has been obeyed, but there is still a large amount of the legal tenders in the treasury. To stop the run on the treasury for gold the whole $500,000,000 of legal tenders would have to be brought into the treasury and kept there, which would provoke an outcry about the contraction of the currency.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

CREDIT OF THE NATION.

It Will Remain Intact Under Cleveland's Management.

Financial conditions in this country are humiliating to the average patriotic citizen. We have ill-advised laws and an incongruous currency system, from which relief might have been afforded but for a stupid neglect of proper legislation. Public sentiment condemns dereliction on the part of the present congress, but it goes back to the original cause of existing difficulties and finds it in legislation enacted by the party which so long had the control of our national affairs. At the critical juncture encountered with the failure of the house to pass the Springer bill or any other financial measure promising relief, the one dependence left was the executive branch of the government. It is the avowed policy of the president to maintain the credit of the nation at all costs and by every means at his command.

This policy has been pursued, and the vital necessity to which it is responsive has been met. The treasury reserve will not be fatally impaired so long as existing law under which he acts remain in force. Congress may be delinquent, but the president can be relied upon, so long as his power is equal to the demands of the recurring financial exigency.—Detroit Free Press.

PARAGRAPHIC POINTERS.

——If the republican party is sound on the money question, not one of its foremost presidential aspirants has the courage to say so.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

——From now on the people cannot hold the democratic party responsible for either the omissions or the commissions of the senate of the United States.—Albany Argus.

——The pliability of Gov. McKinley in his tariff views may cause their breaking altogether before the next national republican convention holds its meeting.—Washington News.

——A Reed shaken by the wind in the first struggle between national honesty and national shame will be poor presidential timber when logging time comes on.—Chicago Herald.

——It looks as if there was no way of placating the republican press. The able editors complained because of the deportation of gold, and now when it is reported that a bond sale promises to return all the treasure that has gone abroad within six months they are fairly frothing with indignation.—Kansas City Times.

——The man who has lost more by the recent developments in congress on the financial question than any other is Thomas B. Reed. To-day there is hardly a real friend of sound money in this country, be he democrat or republican, who is not ready to thank God that Grover Cleveland instead of Tom Reed is president of the United States.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

——Under the democratic tariff policy the secretary of the treasury, the chairman of the senate committee on finance and the chairman of the house committee on ways and means have each stated in plain and positive terms that the revenues are and will be ample to meet the current expenses of the government. These are honorable and intelligent gentlemen whose statements are entitled to respectful consideration.—Kansas City Times.

——President Cleveland responds very promptly to the action of the house in defeating the gold bond bill, but his action can hardly surprise anybody who has followed his utterances on this subject with any care. It was merely a reiteration of his determination to stand by the credit of the government and protect it to the utmost of the ability conferred upon him by existing legislation unless the power should be given him for which he asked.—Detroit Free Press.

STORY OF THE WRECK

The Aftermath of the Fatal Accident at Scotland, Georgia.

WONDER THAT MORE WERE NOT LOST.

Roland Reed, the Actor, and the Wounded Members of His Company Arrive in Atlanta for Treatment—Death of Mrs. Subers and Child.

ATLANTA, March 9.—Roland Reed and his company arrived here last night from the Southern's wreck at Scotland, Ga. Reed is not badly injured. Miss Rush is bruised on one arm. Mrs. Myers is suffering much pain and will be laid up for some time. Reed and Jack give thrilling accounts of rescues which they made.

The train wrecked was the vestibule train No 31, south bound. Conductor Hubbard, Engineer Dave Moore. The train consisted of three Pullmans, first and second class coaches, mail and express cars, every one of which was derailed, the Pullman first and second class coaches being thrown on their sides.

One of the coaches was occupied by the Roland Reed company and the others having a full complement of passengers, that there was no greater damage was miraculous.

Latest Developments.

It has developed that the schedule time of the train was thirty-two miles an hour and that the train was running on time. The switch was changed by drawing the spikes out of the track, making the rails of the track fit the rails of the siding. The lock to the switch had been tampered with, but was not broken, and a key found near the place shows that an effort was made to unlock it. Railroad men describe the changing of the switch to some party who, through motives of revenge, sought to wreck the train.

All of the cars of the train were thrown off the tracks but only the first class coach and the first Pullman turned over.

The Pullman caught fire after being turned over but the fire was stopped before any damage was done. There were seven members of the Roland Reed company in the overturned sleeper.

Among the Dead and Injured.

Mrs. Myers is probably worse hurt than any other member of the company. Her back was injured by having been thrown violently against the end of the berth partition. Miss Roush was thrown through a window and her arm was badly cut. The injuries to the other was more or less on account of the shock.

Mrs. Subers, who was killed, was riding in the first class coach and held her five year old child in her arms. They were thrown through the window and both were killed almost instantly. Her eight months old baby was sleeping on the opposite side of the coach and escaped without injury.

Three wrecking trains arrived at the scene a few hours after the wreck and travel now goes on as usual. Neither the engineer nor the fireman were hurt and the total damages to the engine will not amount to $125.

HARRY HAWARD MUST DIE.

The Verdict of the Jury in the Celebrated Murder Trial: "Guilty."

MINNEAPOLIS, March 9.—The jury in the Harry Hayward trial yesterday, after retiring, ate dinner, took one ballot and found the defendant guilty of murder in the first degree. At 2:10 o'clock it reported an agreement and at 2:30 the verdict was rendered.

When Hayward appeared he was as faultlessly dressed as usual, and apparently as cool as ever, but he was somewhat out of humor for he threw his hat down on the attorneys' table with force enough to split it. His attorneys cautioned him not to exhibit any temper and he submitted.

When the verdict was presented every eye was turned to Hayward as the clerk started to read the paper. There was nothing in his face to indicate that he had heard a word of it. He threw his head back as the word "guilty" was pronounced, but it was only to adjust his collar band. He did not change color in the slightest. Then, looking around at the crowd, he raised his eye brows inquiringly.

The court decided not to pronounce sentence until Monday. Hayward was then taken back to jail under a strong guard of officers. He grinned at the mob and appeared to be interested in its noisy demonstrations.

Two of the Hayward Witnesses Arrested.

MINNEAPOLIS, March 9.—Two of the most important witnesses in the defence of the Hayward case were last night arrested on the charge of perjury upon complaints sworn out by R. R. Odell, attorney for Claus A. Blixt, the real murderer. While the warrants were issued at the instance of O'Dell, it is the prevailing opinion that he is acting in accord with an agreement with the state's attorney.

Matter of Manufacturers Moving South.

BOSTON, Mass., March 9.—The legislative committee on Mercantile affairs continued its investigation at the statehouse yesterday as to the causes of removal to other states of textile corporations. It was the manufacturers' innings yesterday and William Levering, president of the Ark Wright Club, appeared before the committee and conducted the case for them.

Brooklyn Official Removed.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., March 9.—Police Justice Quigley was removed from office yesterday morning by an order handed down by a special term of the supreme court. Justice Quigley was charged by Mayor Schieren with official misconduct.

THE ACCIDENT UNAVOIDABLE.

Engineer Nuffer, Who Was Pulling the Inter-Oceanic Train, Explains.

LAREDO, Tex., March 9.—Engineer John Nuffer, the American, who is held responsible by many in Mexico for the wreck on the Inter-Oceanic railway February 28th, arrived in Laredo yesterday. He gives the following as the correct story of the accident:

He was pulling the first section of an excursion train, which was returning to Mexico City. There was fourteen coaches in this section. The accident occurred at 12:00, twenty minutes after he had left Tenango, in which time the train ran only seven kilometres. This, if true, proves that the train was not running at a high rate of speed as has been charged. At the point of a curve the fourth coach left the track, having broken an axle. This set the automatic brakes, the engine and first three coaches did not go forward more than twenty feet. The second coach behind the one which left the track, was what is known as an English ironclad, the framework being of steel and the sides of iron. This coach plowed through the two coaches in front of it and caused the havoc which cost many passengers their lives. The passengers in this coach all escaped.

"As soon as the accident occurred," says Nuffer, "I went to the rescue of the sufferers and while engaged in doing all I could to relieve their sufferings, was warned that I had better get away from the scene as some of the young men threatened to kill me because they had lost their relatives in the wreck. I was fired upon and slightly wounded in the hip. I immediately left the scene and escaped to Mexico City, from whence I came to the United States, and had I not been a Mason I never could have gotten out of the country. Mr. Sullivan, superintendent of the line, was with me when the accident occurred. To my knowledge there was no charges pending against me in Mexico."

ASSOCIATION REORGANIZATION

Railroad Officials Slightly Change Their Organization—The Commissioner.

ATLANTA, March 9.—The mass meeting of representatives of southern lines held in this city yesterday, resulted in the reorganization of the old passenger association under a new name and with the old articles of agreement slightly changed. The only question on which there was any considerable issue was the question how best to raise the funds among the members for the support of the association. The old system of assessment for expenses has been upon the mileage of the roads forming the association. It takes about $20,000 to support the association annually, and there being about 18,000 miles of road in the association it is easy to raise the money by a slight tax per mile. It was finally agreed to tax the roads upon a basis of competitive mileage, this being the proposition of the Louisville and Nashville, which claimed that the mileage beyond the protection of the association ought never to be taxed. This question was settled and the articles of agreement were all agreed to before the convention adjourned for the night.

Today the railroaders will meet again for the purpose of signing the agreement and electing a new commissioner. It is difficult to predict the result of the election. General Passenger Agent D. B. Martin, of the Big Four, is mentioned for the place, and the Queen and Crescent people are backing him strenuously. Commissioner Slaughter, of the old association, is favored by a great many of the lines.

COLONEL M'CLURE WELCOMED.

Birmingham Does the Philadelphia Editor Honor at His Arrival There.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 9.—It has been many a day since a private citizen was given a more royal welcome by the people of Birmingham than was tendered Colonel Alexander McClure, editor-in-chief of the Philadelphia Times yesterday afternoon. Arrangements had been made for his reception and the people knew he was coming. Three thousand of Birmingham's citizens were at the union depot to welcome him. Colonel McClure made a great speech and spoke largely upon the growth and development of the south, especially Alabama's mineral industries. It was a great demonstration.

SIX LOST IN THE DISASTER.

Five of the Drowned Bodies in the Cincinnati River Disaster Recovered.

CINCINNATI, O., March 9.—A fatal river disaster occurred near this city early yesterday morning. Five bodies have been recovered and a missing man is supposed to be drowned. At 6 o'clock the stern wheel steamer Longfellow, of the Memphis and Cincinnati packet company, left its landing at the foot of Main street and started for New Orleans. At 7 o'clock she struck the south pier of the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad bridge and sank in forty feet of water. She should have started on Thursday, but was detained by a heavy fog.

DIED AT AN ADVANCED AGE.

E. J. Hart, a Prominent Business Man of New Orleans, Passes Away.

NEW ORLEANS, March 9.—E. J. Hart, head of the E. J. Hart & Co., drug company, died at 6 o'clock yesterday. Mr. Hart was aged about 93 years. He had been in the drug business in New Orleans for nearly fifty years and has otherwise been a prominet figure in business circles. He was taken sick about a week ago with grippe, which from the first had a fatal tendency on account of Mr. Hart's advanced age.

Wholesale Discharge of Conductors.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 9.—Pinkerton's men are cutting a swath into the ranks of the conductors of the Florida railroads. Eight conductors have been discharged from the South Florida, five from the East Coast Line and yesterday five from the Jacksonville, Tampa and Key West railroad. No reason given.

No Penalty For Attacks Upon Religion.

BERLIN, March 9.—The Reichstag in committee yesterday rejected the paragraph of the anti-revolution bill imposing a penalty for public attacks upon religion.

THROUGH ALABAMA

An Escaped Alabama Murderer Surrenders to Officers.

SUICIDE OF A BIRMINGHAM CASHIER.

Officers in Pursuit of a Notorious Negro Bandit—A Tragedy Near Warrior. Other State News Condensed in Short Paragraphs.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 7.—During last summer's coal miners strike in this section, a riot between strikers and Negro laborers occurred and guards were also mixed up in it.

One of the guards and two negro miners were killed outright and several others wounded. Among those implicated in the riot was a young man named Hudson, living at Coalburg. Two deputy sheriffs, Charles Cole and John Smith, went to the Home of the Hudsons to serve the warrant. No sooner had the deputies entered the house than a general shooting began in which Cole was instantly killed and Smith received wounds from which he died in a few hours.

R. H. Hudson, father of the young man wanted, and his two sons were in the house and it was held that they did the killing.

They immediately fled to the mountains back of Coalburg and a posse, aided by a squad of military, pursued them but failed to capture them. The governor offered a reward of $400 for either of the Hudsons. The whole country was scoured and detectives went in seach of the men but they were never captured, though located several times. Finally all hope of ever capturing either of them was given up. Yesterday Sheriff Morrow received a note from R. H. Hudson saying that if he would come to a certain place, he (Hudson) would give himself up. The sheriff went there and found "old man" Hudson, as he is called, and brought him to the city. He was within three hours after being placed in jail, by agreement of his counsel and the district attorney, allowed bail in two cases in the sum of $2,500 in each case, which he gave. Hudson's voluntary surrender has caused much surprise and is all the talk here. He will, so it is understood, upon trial enter a plea of self defence. His two sons are still at large and their whereabouts is unknown.

Alabama Has Another Robber Equal to the Famous Rube.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., March 7.—For several months the freight cars of the Louisville & Nashville road have been robbed between Flomaton and Mobile. It was done by an organized band of negroes under the leadership of one called 'Railroad," who carried a Winchester and two revolvers. Two of the gang were shot, one killed and one captured in January. Yesterday at Tensaw Tank a freight crew captured the negro and got his rifle and one pistol. He broke away and began firing at the men with his remaining pistol, who quickly responded. Just then another train pulled up to the tank and the negro getting on the engine, at the mazzle of the pistol, made the engineer carry him by, at the same time shooting at the first crew as he passed, he then came back and taking a position would not let the telegraph operator enter his office. The freight crew attacked him again and the conductor shot him with a load of buckshot. He escaped to the swamp and a posse are now hunting for him.

Cashier Shropshire, of Birmingham, Tires of Life.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 6.—J. Linwood Shropshire, about twenty-five years old, cashier at freight office, this city, of the Columbus and Western railroad, committed suicide yesterday by taking an overdose of morphine. He died at 9 o'clock last night. Cause of the suicide is unknown, but it is thought there is some shortage in his accounts, which are now being investigated by experts. Shrophshire was a single man. He came to this city from Eufaula, a few years ago and was living with his father. He stood well socially, was sober and considered an exemplary young man.

It is said that he addressed letters to his family and to Agent Stephens last night, indicating his intention. He disappeared and could not be found until four o'clock yesterday, when it was learned that he occupied a room at the Metropolitan hotel which he engaged twelve hours before. Several doctors were at once summoned, but they found it was too late to save the man.

Details of a Killing That Occurred Near Warrior.

WARRIOR, Ala., March 5.—At the "Gray Goose" saloon, five miles from this place, yesterday, John Franklin, the proprietor, shot and killed William Howard. The place is in Blount county and as a law of the state prevents selling whisky within five miles of Warrior, Franklin put up a bar at the point above referred to. Yesterday among others, Howard was at the "Gray Goose" and after taking several drinks refused to pay and after a few words, knocked Franklin down and ran. Franklin grabbed a pistol and followed shooting Howard through the back and stomach, killing him. Franklin is under arrest. Howard leaves a wife and five children.

Congressman-Elect Underwood, of Alabama, Preparing for the Case.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 5.—Congressmen-elect O. W. Underwood will begin the taking of testimony in the Aldrich contest case today week. In view of the unimportant character of by far the greater portion of the testimony secured by Mr. Aldrich Mr. Underwood will cause but few witnesses to be examined. Especially will that be the case in Jefferson county, and it is expected that the investigation will continue but a few days.

DENIED IT ON THE GALLOWS.

Tom Watkins Executed at Little Rock for the Murder of O'Bannon.

LITTLE ROCK, March 9.—The execution of Tom Watkins took place yesterday, the drop being sprung at 9:55 and the body cut down at 10:10. The neck was broken by the fall and the murderer died almost instantly without a quiver. Watkins made a speech on the scaffold warning all to profit by his example and declared that he did not kill O'Bannon, but had been hired to watch the old man by William Goccio, who had told him that he was going to kill O'Bannon. He said that Goccio had done the killing, although he did not see him do it.

THE TRIANGULAR FREIGHT WAR.

Three of the Great Western Companies Waging War From the Shoulder.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., March 9.—The Mississippi Valley Transportation company, the Inter-state company and the Allchor Line Packet company are waging a triangular freight war. The war started with a reduction of ten cents per 100 pounds by the Inter-state company, on New Orleans freight, leaving the rate ten cents.

The Mississippi company first met the cut and announced a still lower rate. The anchor company fell into line to-day.

DREAMS OF A FORTUNE HUNTER

Mayne Island Shovel Men See Visions About a Dead Miner's Wealth.

VICTORIA, B. C., March 9.—Henry Chapman, the oldest settler on Mayne Island, has been chosen as the leader of fifty shovel men searching for treasures buried by Nicholson, the miser, twenty years ago. Chapman says he had a vision in which he was shown the secret treasure house; and recently, in another dream, Nicholson again appeared to him and directed him, with some show of displeasure, to the spot.

Benedict Dismisses One Hundred Men.

WASHINGTON, March 9.—Public Printer Benedict yesterday dismissed 100 employes of the government printing office, the majority of them being compositors. The removals were caused by the adjournment of congress which made a scarcity of work. Other dismissals will follow as the business of the bureau decreases.

Gilkey Nominated by the Democrats.

KALAMAZOO, Mich., March 9.—The third district democratic congressional convention was held here yesterday afternoon. Judge J. H. Shipman, of Coldwater, and P. H. Gilkey, of Richland, and A. M. Todd, of Kalamazoo, were the nominations made. Gilkey was nominated on the second ballot.

The River Allegheny Rising.

TIDIOUTE, Pa., March 9.—The ice in the Allegheny threatens danger. It broke here last night and moved down on the old gorge at Soldmon's Rock, which held it firmly, rising the water at Tidioute sixteen feet. The gorges are not frozen solid and the outlook is for high water.

The War in the East.

TOKIO, March 9.—General Nodzu reports that the first army has advanced to Kokail, where no traces of the enemy were found. The third division is encamped at Chinshinto, and the first army staff with the fifth division is encamped at Fenhwanton.

Trenton Mill Employes Strike.

TRENTON, N. J., March 8.—Over three fourths of the 700 employes of the woolen mills of Samuel M. Wilson quit work yesterday because their employer had not restored the second ten per cent reduction to which they were subjected last Summer.

As Yet No Senator Elected in Delaware.

DOVER, Del., March 9.—Yesterday's meeting of the joint session of the legislature to ballot for a senator was better attended than usual, as there was a rumor that a third man might be decided upon. Once more the crowd was disappointed. No election.

The Strike Situation in New York.

NEW YORK, March 9.—The situation in the strike of the electrical workers showed no material changes yesterday. The non union men continued to desert in small numbers and were taken to the strikers' headquarters.

Springfield Weavers Strike.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., March 9.—The weavers at the Highland Mills, Huntington, Mass., left work in a body this morning, claiming that they cannot make living wages.

LETTER FROM CURTIS

The Treasury Official Explains the Gold Situation.

ALARM SOUNDED WITHOUT A CAUSE.

Attributes the Lack of Confidence to Sensational Articles Sprung by Greedy Newspapers—The Bond Deal Fully Reviewed.

WASHINGTON, March 9. — Assistant Secretary Curtis has made the following statement:

In view of certain statements in the newspapers that treasury officials are embarrassed by an alleged failure in gold deliveries under the recent contract, and other assertions of a similar nature calculated to mislead and disturb the public mind, I wish to say that the actual withdrawals of gold from the treasury since the 1st of March, 1895, have been $355,347, of which $281,067 have been for the redemption of United States treasury notes and $74,260 for the redemption of United States notes, and divided among the cities of New York, Boston Philadelphia, Baltimore, and San Francisco St. Louis and Chicago. These are no more than the ordinary withdrawals which in the past have usually taken place at this season of the year. Moreover, during the same period the treasury has received considerable gold coin in exchange for various kinds of paper currency.

The apparent falling off in the gold reserve was caused by a misunderstanding in taking up in the gold reserve statement of the treasury department from the daily reports of transactions sent from the sub-treasury in New York, a large amount of gold which has been deposited for examination and count, and which should not have been included in the gold reserve until the final certificates of deposit upon which bonds could be issued, were delivered.

The February figures quoted in the articles as withdrawn include the heavy withdrawals of the earlier part of that month before the gold purchase contract was made, and one single large item not withdrawn for export, concerning which there has been considerable newspaper comment.

The writers of the articles evidently do not understand foreign exchange or the method of doing business therein. The treasury officials who are charged with the responsibility of those transactions have no anxiety whatever in regard to the method which is, and has been pursued by the sellers of the gold coin under the recent contract. They are satisfied to contemplate the fact that for five weeks the withdrawals of gold coin have not exceeded the normal amount, with the exception of the instance quoted above, and that no exports of gold whatever have been made during that time.

In regard to the excess of government expenditures over receipts it is well known that the latter are rapidly increasing, and that up to this time nothing has been received from the income tax and very little from sugar duty, both of which will be important elements of government receipts in the near future.

There is plenty of money in the treasury to pay the appropriations and the statement in some articles, "that if the treasury had the money, the passage of the enormous appropriation bills would lead to the immediate disbursement of immense sums of money," is totally untrue. There is a question of law as to when the appropriation for the payment of the sugar bounty becomes available and until that question is settled, it will be impossible to make any payments thereunder. Moreover, all the claims for bounty must be adjusted before payment, since payment must be pro rata if the appropriation is insufficient.

The total available cash in the treasury yesterday amounted to $83,371,495 over and above the one hundred millions allowed to cover the gold reserve, which is $89,745,594.

The treasury officials have no anxiety as to their ability to meet all obligations in the immediate future with ease, and are confident that the expected revival of business will assure the future. The prosperity of the country will be greatly hastened when some effective method is found of checking these alarmist articles written by newspaper correspondents and news gatherers, who are willing to sacrifice the truth and their own conscience—if they have any—to create a cheap sensation and play upon the feelings on an already overwrought public.

SHOWS MORE IMPROVEMENT.

Bradstreets' Review of the General Business Situation.

NEW YORK, March 9.—Bradstreets says:

The general business situation shows more improvement. From several centers this is declared to be due in part to the adjournment of congress, and to some extent to better weather. Gains are shown in increased demand for lumber and other building materials and in receipts of larger orders for structural iron and steel, together with the absorption of available stocks of bessemer pig iron. In the south August's cotton factories have received a large number of orders, most for future delivery, and in almost all directions jobbers report increased sales of staple dry goods, hats, shoes, millinery and hardware. Fine foreign woolen goods continue to attract the special attention heretofore reported, and are competing successfully with corresponding American grades. London wool sales report a moderately higher and stronger market.

Cotton goods generally are weaker and print cloths once more down to 2½ for 64s. Jobbing at Charleston is more active and a number of merchants are north to obtain goods. Improvement is shown in sales of shoes and clothing at Memphis and there is a better feeling in Louisiana since the passage of the sugar bounty act. Atlanta and Augusta report larger sales of hardware and dry goods. Trade has been quite slow at Chattanooga and Nashville, but the outlook is for improvement. At Jacksonville and Savannah business is fair and collections moderately so. Some improvement is reported from Birmingham, where collections continue slow. Galveston advices are that trade is not as good as a week ago.

THE EXPOSITION'S THE THING.

Arrangements for the Sewer and Water Made—Other Progress.

ATLANTA, March 9.—The executive committee of the Cotton States and International Exposition has accepted bids for transportation building, sewer pipe and water pipe for the exposition grounds and ordered employment of landscape gardiner to superintend the planting out of trees, shrubs, etc. Vice-President Baldwin, of the Southern Railway, reports elaborate arrangements for handling people between the city and the exposition grounds over two tracks, with four tracks in the grounds and four tracks to unload at the city station, so that trains will leave every four minutes each day.

Dr. Zeballos, envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary of Argentine Republic, also commissioner of the Argentine exhibit is here, and was called on by the executive committee at the Aragon hotel last night. Dr. Zeballos is enthusiastic over the Argentine exhibit and promises to make it one of the finest at the exposition.

A Medal For Commissioner Wright.

WASHINGTON, March 9.—The officials of the Milan exposition have awarded a diploma of honor to Col. Carroll D. Wright, the commissioner of labor, for his industrial researches.

FIGHTING THE EPIDEMIC.

Heroic Efforts in Missouri Against the Smallpox Rage.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., March 9.—The epidemic of smallpox has spread to such an extent that the city and state authorities have decided to take heroic measures in dealing with the disease. A corps of physicians visited the workhouse yesterday morning and while examining the four hundred inmates they found twelve prisoners who are said to be suffering from smallpox. They were quarantined and the remainder vaccinated. In the afternoon a thorough inspection of the public schools were made and where pupils afflicted with smallpox symptoms was found the schools were closed. The house of refuge was also visited for smallpox victims.

The state board of health met with Governor Stone yesterday at Jefferson City and issued a proclamation prohibiting sheriffs of all the counties in Missouri from bringing prisoners to the state penitentiary while the smallpox exists in so many towns of the state. The proclamation is taken as a precautionary measure. There are 122 smallpox patients at quarantine in St. Louis and four new cases were discovered yesterday.

AN EXTRA SESSION POSSIBLE.

A Significant Statement Credited to a Cabinet Officer.

WASHINGTON, March 9. — A cabinet officer, it is said, is authority for this notable statement, the accuracy of which would be questioned were it not for the source from which it comes. He said:

There is a general assumption that it is definitely decided that there will be no extra session. The decision is erroneous. Whether there will be an extra session or not depends upon circumstances. The public is not aware of the fact that the President almost decided last Sunday that there should be an extra session. The subject was considered by the cabinet. The immediate cause was the sundry civil and deficiency appropriation bills. The President was very much disposed to veto both of them. At one time he had nearly decided to do it, but he concluded that it would be better to allow the country to have rest for a time, and to await the progress of events, and not to call an extra session now. But if there shall be a run upon the treasury gold and the treasury reserve shall be depleted in spite of the arrangements which has been made to protect the gold, the President unquestionably will convene the next congress as soon as that fact shall be made clear or probable.

This statement is of much significance. The result will be that the public will watch the treasury gold reserve with increased interest.

MR. McCREARY IS HOPEFUL.

He Thinks Silver Will Be Rehabilitated by International Agreement.

WASHINGTON, March 9.—Representative McCreary, who was one of the American delegates to the Brussels monetary conference, says that he is very hopeful of the ultimate restoration of the free coinage of silver by international agreement. The fact that the silver men themselves have joined in the present movement in that direction—that senator Wolcott offered the amendment providing for delegates—is very encouraging to those who do not believe that silver can be restored except by international agreement.

Mr. McCreary says that he does not believe that there will be any further serious drain upon the gold of this country.

HE FORGED TO KEEP A GOING.

Young Western Union Employe in New Orleans in a Damaging Position.

NEW ORLEANS, March 9.—Authur S. Shaw, a young man employed by the Western Union Telegraph company, as receiving clerk and assistant cashier was held in $1,250 bond by recorder Whitaker, in the criminal district court yesterday morning on the charge of forgery. Shaw possessed aspirations to be a high roller and as his salary did not admit of this, he forged the name of Manager West and made drafts upon several banks to the amount of several hundred dollars. The evidence against him is very damaging.

THE SOUTH'S COTTON CROP.

SERVED IN TWO WARS.

The Grip Almost Won Where the Bullet Failed.

Our Sympathies Always Enlisted in the Infirmities of the Veteran.

(From the Herald, Woodstock, Va.)

There is an old soldier in Woodstock, Va., who served in the war with Mexico and in the war of the rebellion, Mr. Levi McInturff. He passed through both these wars without a serious wound. The hardships, however, told seriously on him, for when the grip attacked him four years ago it nearly killed him. Who can look on the infirmities of a veteran without a feeling of the deepest sympathy? His townspeople saw him confined to his house so prostrated with great nervousness that he could not hold a knife and fork at the table, scarcely able to walk too, and as he attempted it, he often stumbled and fell. They saw him treated by the best talent to be had—but still he suffered on for four years, and gave up finally in despair. One day, however, he was struck by the account of a cure which had been effected by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. He immediately ordered a box and commenced taking them. He says he was greatly relieved within three days' time. The blood found its way to his fingers and his hands which had been palsied assumed a natural color, and he was soon enabled to use his knife and fork at the table. He has recovered his strength to such an extent that he is able to chop wood, shock corn and do his regular work about his home. He now says he can not only walk to Woodstock, but can walk across the mountains. He is able to lift up a fifty-two pound weight with one hand and says he does not know what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done for others, but knows that they have done a great work for him.

He was in town last Monday, court day, and was loud in his praises of the medicine that had given him so great relief. He purchased another box and took it home with him. Mr. McInturff is willing to make affidavit to these facts.

The proprietors of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills state that they are not a patent medicine but a prescription used for many years by an eminent practitioner who produced the most wonderful results with them, curing all forms of weakness arising from a watery condition of the blood or shattered nerves, two fruitful causes of almost every ill to which flesh is heir. The pills are also a specific for the troubles peculiar to females, such as suppressions, all forms of weakness, chronic constipation, bearing down pains, etc., and in the case of men will give speedy relief and effect a permanent cure in all cases arising from mental worry, overwork, or excesses of whatever nature. They are entirely harmless and can be given to weak and sickly children with the greatest good and without the slightest danger. Pink Pills are sold by all dealers, or will be sent post paid on receipt of price, (50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50—they are never sold in bulk or by the 100) by addressing Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

THE WORLD OF ART.

WILLIAM L. ELKINS, of Philadelphia, offers a prize of $5,000 for the best picture painted by an American artist.

THE largest bronze statue in the world is that of Peter the Great, at St. Petersburg, which weighs about 1,100 tons.

THE authorities of Stockton-on-Tees, England, will erect a statue to John Walker, a chemist of that town, who died in 1857, on the ground that he invented lucifer matches.

ACCORDING to a recent communication made by the mayor of Bayeux to the Paris Academie des Inscriptions, the famous Bayeux tapestry, the unique representation of the Norman conquest of England, shows signs of rapid decay, in spite of the protection of the glass case.

JOSEPH JEFFERSON, during a recent visit to Washington, presented to the Corcoran art gallery a landscape painted by himself. It is in oil and represents an interior wood scene, with the pleasing effect of sky and clouds seen through the branches of a group of massive oak trees.

SUCCESSFUL illustrators evidently make large incomes. Mr. Abby is able to occupy a noble old country house in Great Britain and to scour Europe for data needed in the course of his work, while Howard Pyle lives in the Delaware home of Ambassador Bayard, a historic mansion of large rooms and ample grounds.

THE * CHRONICLE

C. C. DuBOSE, Editor and Proprietor.

COLUMBIANA, MARCH 14, 1895.

THE MAN FOR THE PLACE.

We are informed that Rev. C. W. O Hara, of Columbiana, is an applicant for the appointment by the governor to the four years' term as a member of the board of equalization of Shelby county, as provided by the new revenue law. The duties which will devolve upon this board are very important to the tax-paying people of the county. It consists of three persons: one to be appointed by the governor, one to be elected by the court of county commissioners, and the tax assessor of the county.

The board is required, upon complaint made by the proper authority, that any property has been assessed at an amount under its real value, to summon the owner of such property before it, and pass upon evidence touching the valuation of such property, and make such change in the assessment as in its judgment is just.

It is not every time that an applicant for public position is able to furnish to those whose support he seeks, the qualifications which the incumbents of the office should possess. It is therefore a pleasure to know that an applicant for this responsible and important place possesses those high characteristics which should be sought for in the man who offers himself as a candidate for public favor. A man of sterling integrity, of unblemished repute in private life, of the highest christian character, thoroughly capable and possessing in a marked degree those many virtues which adorn private character and make their possessor an ornament to society and the church.

Such a man is the subject of this article, and such a man when known needs no words of praise, but it is a melancholy fact that such men are too often overlooked by the public in the selection of persons to fill places of honor and trust. We hope the governor will do the county a favor by appointing him to this position.

THE Railway Review takes a hopeful view of the prospect in the following editorial paragraph: "All consumers of crude iron and steel are now making provision for from three to six months supplies, having secured orders for products that will keep their works employed from two to three months. In a general way the iron trade is improving. A high authority says if the projected enterprises were started our entire iron and steel making capacity would be for a time fully employed. The obstacle in the way of greater activity seems to be the doubts of our ability to protect ourselves against the dangers resulting from a deflection of the gold reserve. If this be true it is to be regretted, because there is an enormous amount of work projected in industrial lines for the coming season."

A SOUTH CAROLINIA merchant ordered a lot of canned goods from New York, and on their arrival he found from the labels that they had been packed by a canning factory in his own town. They had been shipped to New York and then freighted back to the town where manufactured. The goods paid two freights, and could have been bought cheaper from the factory at first. This illustrates the folly of the propensity for sending away from home for everything that is wanted. No country in the world is better able to live within itself than the South, and the people of the South should in self-interest buy preferably the products of their home factories.—Southern States.

THE total value of the crops of the United States during 1892 is estimated at $3,000,000,000, of which the largest item is $750,000,000 worth of hay. The animal products, including meats, dairy products, poultry and eggs, and wool, are placed at $965,000,000 more.

THE New Orleans "Times-Democrat" contains a very elaborate account of the Bessonette plan of packing cotton for shipment, which promises to revolutionize the industry and be of vast benefit to the planters. By machinery in the gin-house, under this plan, the cotton is wound as it is received from the condensor of the gin on a spindle in cylindrical form, with a pressure which secures a density one-third greater than possible by the most approved appliances for bailing now in use. At the mills the cotton is unwound from the cylinder as easily as it is put on. It will do away with bagging and ties—the latter a matter of some importance to the iron interest—substituting a bale covering made from low-grade cotton. The first shipment of cotton packed under this process from Texas to Boston was at the rate of 112 bales to the car, while the old plan of packing allowed only fifty bales. The "Times-Democrat" says the old process is on the eve of being abandoned. The new method places every station, town and plantation on an equality as to shipment. It is regarded as superior to the old plan of packing by the New England cotton spinners, delivering the cotton in much better condition. The estimate is made that it will save the southern cotton growers $40,000,000 on a 10,000,000 bale crop.

THE South is returning to its ante-bellum custom of raising its own corn and provisions. In 1890, with a population of 10,000,000, the corn product was 358,000,000 bushels. In 1894, with a population of 20,000,000, the aggregate was 483,000,000 bushels. As a matter of fact, southern farmers should return at least 700,000,000 bushels of corn from their acres and this would keep at home the $100,000,000 sent to the West for food-stuffs, as was the case last year, but there is a new order of things and the South has waked up to its coming. The agricultural advancement is giving much concern to the Western section whose market is slipping away.

THE first half year of customs receipts under the Wilson tariff bill returns $79,686,456. The first half year under the McKinley law shows an aggregate of $64,786,541—a difference of $14,899,915, something like 25 per cent. greater. Every month indicates a decided increase. The point in all this is that while the new tariff law reduces the cost of everything to the consumer it increases the revenues. Facts like these tell in the long run and provide evidence justifying tariff reform that cannot be shaken.

GOV. OATES has appointed Capt. W. J. Vaiden, of Marion, Perry county, as his private secretary, in place of Capt. Harvey E. Jones, whom he promoted to be one of Alabama's railroad commissioners. Capt. Vaiden is a native of Virginia, but has been a resident of Alabama for the last seventeen years. He was at one time captain of a military company, and has a soldiery bearing and manner, and will make the governor a good private secretary.

THE end of the world is to come on April 23, 1903, according to a German theologian, who has just alarmed Berlin by his prophecy. Among his cheerful forecasts, are a great war in 1897, the advent of a new Napoleon in 1899, as king of Greece and Syria, and a terrific earthquake in 1901. It would be well to keep the dates above mentioned in easy reach.

SIR BENJAMIN RICHARDSON, a leading English physician, says that if people lived properly and took good care of themselves, there is no reason why seven out of ten average people should not live until they had passed the century mark.

THE Ashville Ægis says "the farmers may growl about the government issuing bonds, manufacturing silver or making paper money good by putting the United States stamp on it, but if there were tons of it produced of all kinds it would not help the price of cotton."

A MAN who knows the value of advertising summed up his conclusions as follows: "A man may guy, and a man may lie, and a man may puff and blow, but he can't get trade by sitting in the shade, waiting for business to grow."

ACCORDING to an estimate by a reliable authority the private gifts to colleges, museums, libraries, etc., in this country in 1864 amounted to $19,967,116.

A KANSAS newspaper remarks that death may be contageous, but when a man dies politically his railroad pass expires also.

DON'T FORGET THE RAINY DAY.

Boys, our youth too fast is fleeting,
Life's glad morning cannot last,
And the moments swift retreating
Warn us that 'twill soon be past.
There will come a sure declining,
And I would this to you say:
While the sun is brightly shining,
Don't forget the rainy day.

Sunshine cannot last forever,
Storms will come and winds wage strife,
And as sure will dark clouds gather
On the horizon of life.
Let us, then, in youth remember
Life is not one long, bright May,
Sure will come the dread December,
Sure will come the rainy day.

As the busy bee doth gather
In bright days her winter store,
So should we for life's bleak weather
Garner ere the summer's o'er.
Yes, ere life's bright spring doth leave us,
Let us strive aside to lay
Something that may shelter give us
When shall come the rainy day.

WHY NOT BE HAPPY TODAY?

I have questioned my hopes of the future,
I have doubted my dreams of the past,
I have roamed through the realms of ambition,
With visions too lovely to last.
I have longed for youth's fondest ideals,
But those phantoms are now far away,
And at last fair philosophy whispers,
Oh, why not be happy to-day?

Though storm clouds may darken life's valley,
(And each heart has some shadows of care),
The bright sun will soon gild the heavens,
And thy troubles will melt into air.
So what is the use of repining?
Will it bless or ennoble you, pray?
No!—The world does not care for your whining,
So why not be happy to-day?

Ah, the old world at heart is too solemn,
For life is at best full of trials;
But try to be cheerful, 'twill help you,
If you brighten all pathways with smiles.
Then life will be well worth the living,
Let kindness illumine the way,
And with Hope's gilded banner before us
Let's strive to be happy to-day.

PROGRESS OF CHRISTIANITY.

The last census of the United States gives the entire church membership of the country at 20,643,000. Mr. Carroll, who had charge of that department of the census bureau, makes the following statement respecting these figures. "It indicates a religious population of 57,729,000. That is, the communicants with all adherents added constitute that number leaving about 5,000,000 to comprise the non-religious classes, including free-thinkers and infidels. In regard to the relative increase in population and of churches in the last decade, the census reports show a net gain in population of a little less than 25 per cent., while the increase in church membership during the same period has been 35 per cent."

The houses of worship belonging to the various denominations are valued at $680,000,000. When to this vast aggregate is added the thousands of schools from the kindergarten or primary institutions to the best equipped university, an idea of the working forces of Christianity in this land may be obtained. As the churches are open to all, and the instruction given in them is without price, save at the option of the beneficiary, it is easy to see what Christianity is voluntarily contributing for the promotion of the public weal. Whether regarded in the light of an agency, or from the standpoint of its results, there is certainly no influence comparable to it in power to mould the characters and direct the thoughts of the people. That the influence is for the good is equally beyond question or doubt.

Another fact notable in the census reports is that while much attention has been given through the press and by other means to dissensions in the church and attacks upon Christianity during the past ten years, the progress of the church has been rapid and the greatest advance is recorded of the leading denominations. This is a Christian country and Christianity strengthens its hold upon the people as the years go by. The gain of members in the Evangelical Protestant Churches alone from 1880 to 1890 was more than the gains of the first fifty years of this century. In 1880 the church members were not quite one in fourteen of the inhabitants, while now they are nearly one in three. The man who asserts that there is the least sign that the influence of the churches is waning betrays ignorance of the facts and history.

The rapid growth of Christianity in this, the first of nations, as well as the most thoroughly free, enlightened and progressive, is, of itself, testimony that the Christian religion, rightly taught, rivets no shackles upon the human understanding and erects no barriers to retard human progress. In this land, as elsewhere, Christianity is found to advance hand in hand with the world's best civilization, and he has been a dull student of history who does not confess that the very foundations of that civilization are laid in the religion of Jesus Christ.

AUDITOR PURIFOY ISSUES AN ADDRESS TO COLLECTORS.

State Auditor Purifoy has sent out the following:

STATE OF ALABAMA,
AUDITOR'S OFFICE.
MONTGOMERY, March 5, 1895.

To the Tax Collectors of the State:

Allow me to respectfully call your attention to the provisions of section 33, of an act entitled "An act to amend the revenue laws of the State of Alabama," approved February 18th, 1895, which was published in the Semi-Weekly Advertiser of March 1st, 1895, a copy of which, I presume, you received. In addition to naming a date on which taxes become due and delinquent, you are required to collect interest on taxes from the date of delinquency, to be collected as a part of the taxes. This part of the statute went into effect upon the approval of the act, to wit: February 18th, 1895, and you are, hereafter, to collect interest at the rate of eight per cent per annum, on all taxes which were delinquent on that date, and which continued to be delinquent thereafter, from the date of such approval.

I would respectfully urge that you preserve the copy of said act and examine carefully the provisions in it affecting your duties. Your commissions and fees are governed by the provisions of section 40 of said act.

Allow me, also, to respectfully call your attention to the fact that there are large amounts of delinquent taxes due the state, and which are needed to meet its current expenses. The provisions of law, authorizing you to enforce the collection of such delinquent taxes are ample to enable you to promptly discharge your duties. I, therefore, urge you to press collections.

Respectfully,
JOHN PURIFOY,
State Auditor.

TOLERATION.

From the Fort Payne Journal.

There is too much inclination among people to see only one side of a question and to insist that their particular ideas and views are correct and that all who differ from them are wrong. There is too much of the rule or ruin policy inherent in the human heart, and too little of that spirit of love and toleration possessed by the meek and lowly Nazarene. We have known some most excellent people who were so firmly set in their own opinions and so tenacious of their views as to be entirely unable to give justice to an opponent. This is true in all the relations of life, in politics, in religion, and in the various questions that present themselves for our solution.

This should not be. It is proper that we should rigidly adhere to what we believe to be right as opposed to what we believe to be wrong. But where there is ground for honest difference of opinion, the man who would proscribe and punish another because he cannot see as he does is a troublesome and dangerous man.

Wherever there is this room for honest differences we should be broad and liberal enough to allow to others what we insist on taking for ourselves, the right of opinion. It argues a shallow mind when we hear a man abusing and traducing the motives of another simply for not agreeing with him.

Let us cultivate a broader spirit. We should and must bear with each other's infirmities and differences if we would succeed in any undertaking. We must also have the manly courage, when convinced that we are in error, to retrace our steps and correct the wrong that we may have done. Only in this way can we hope for harmony and union in any enterprise.

The Negro and the Democracy.

From the Boston Herald.

The populist democrats who have control in South Carolina are preparing to bear harder upon the negro as a voter than any portion of the South has yet done. The populists have, in effect, taken possession of the democratic party in this state. In several of the other states of the South they have either absorbed the republican party, as in Alabama, or gone into strict alliance with it, as in North Carolina. There is reason to expect the same spirit of them in these instances. The populists in all the states of the South are largely made up of the successors of the "poor whites" of that section. The poor whites were notoriously more severe upon the negroes in the days before the war than were the classes who were above them in the social scale, and their prejudice is likely to be transmitted to their descendants. It is not affected by any changes in population which have come since, because these charges are very few, owing to the imited emigration South. There will be curiosity to see whether northern republican sympathy continues to be extended toward those nominally of its party in the southern states after repression of the negro vote they shall be adopted as part of its policy, as it is very likely to be. The negro vote, both in South Carolina and Alabama, is now inclined to turn to the old-fashioned democrats as the men most disposed to treat the colored race fairly.

A Guaranteed Cure.

We authorize our advertised druggists to sell you Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, coughs and colds, upon this condition. If you are afflicted with la grippe and will use the remedy according to directions, giving it a fair trial, and experience no benefit, you may return the bottle and have your money refunded. We make this offer, because of the wonderful success of Dr. King's New Discovery during last season's epidemic. Have heard of no case in which it failed. Try it. Trial bottles free at Parker & Armstrong's drug store. Large size 50c. and $1.00.

REMARKABLE WISDOM.

A special to the Advertiser of Sunday from Florence, says: "There is in Florence a 9-year old girl who has developed a remarkable and mysterious power which is exciting the interest and testing the credulity of the people.

Several months ago a man named Haynes visited Florence and performed some wonderful feats in mind-reading. Since then a number of Florentines have tried their hands at some of the things performed by Haynes, such as finding hidden articles, while blindfolded, opening safes, reading sealed letters, etc., and some of them have attained a certain degree of success. It remained, however, for a 9-year old girl, Lunette Price, to carry out successfully the more difficult feats performed by Haynes and to do other still more difficult things that he did not attempt.

At a public test made Wednesday night at the home of her parents, Dr. and Mrs. W. M. Price, this remarkable child did some most astonishing things. While securely blindfolded and without the slightest difficulty, she found hidden coins that had been gathered at random from the audience, told the correct date on each coin and returned them to their proper owners. A page in a book and a sentence on the page were selected by one of the audience and the book concealed while the child was out of the room. When she was led in blindfolded, she found the book at once and almost as quickly the page and passage, reading the latter by running her hand over it. She seemed to readily interpret the thoughts of those she touched with her hand and would write sentences which they would think of.

Little Lunette discovered her mysterious power while playing with a girl companion, and for the past two months she has been astonishing her parents and all before whom she has performed by her wonderful achievements."

REMARKABLE BALLOON VOYAGE.

A remarkable balloon voyage was made in Germany a few weeks ago by Dr. A. Benson, during which the balloon reached a height of 31,496 feet, or nearly six miles. The balloon was equipped with various instruments for making observations, and much of interest was observed concerning atmospheric physics. Dr. Benson retained consciousness throughout the entire voyage by breathing artificial oxygen prepared for the purpose and carried in bags, and his observations are usually complete and interesting.

It is noteworthy that up to a height of 1,569 meters the temperature rose steadily. At this elevation the thermometer indicated 5 degrees Centigrade above zero. The air meanwhile was foggy and thick clouds frequently hid the earth from view. At an elevation of 5,000 meters the temperature sank to 18 degrees below zero. The atmosphere at this height was very dry, and the sun's rays very weak. The artificial respiration was commenced at an altitude of 6,750 meters, the temperature at this height being 29 degrees below zero. When Dr. Benson found himself at 8,000 meters, he tried for a moment to breathe natural rarefied air, but found it would be impossible to retain consciousness at such a height in this way. His voice at this height sounded strangely muffled. The temperature meanwhile had sunk to 42 degrees below zero. At 9,000 meters, he passed up through the thin stratum of high cirrus clouds and found the stratum consisted of small, well formed snowflakes. The extreme height of 31,496 feet was reached two and a half hours after the start, and the thermometer at this point stood at 47-9 degrees below zero. In this extreme cold Dr. Benson suffered considerably, although he was clothed in heavy furs. Two of his fingers were frozen during the voyage.—Scientific American, March 11th.

What Free Wool is Doing.

From the Philadelphia Times.

Selling woolens in England is a new departure for American manufacturers to engage in, and yet this is the story the Consul at Bradford sends to the State Department, with the further information that American woolens are disposed of there at a profit, and that, too, in the face of the fact that Bradford is the central woolen market of Great Britain.

American woolen cloth at 50 and 60 cents a yard, which experts concede to be from goods of a superior grade, is just as much a puzzle to the English maker as it is to the American at home accustomed to paying much higher figures and to believing the tariff chaff so generally thrown out to bolster up the tariff tax bounties. The new tariff disproves the argument of the high protectionist very early in the game that a reduction of the duty on wools would ruin trade abroad and the mills at home.

Nothing of the kind follows the admission of free material, but to the contrary the mills are in possession of a stimulous, the looms and spindles are working up a new competition and American woolen cloth is now in the English markets in company with American carpets, which were there long months ago.

The prediction that American manufacturers, with the advantage of free wool, would have their goods in Bradford in six months after the new tariff bill had passed, has been more than realized. Britain is beaten on its own ground and the future is rich in promise.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."
DR. G. C. OSGOOD,
Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."
DR. J. F. KINCHELOE,
Conway, Ark.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."
H. A. ARCHER, M. D.,
111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

HAVE YOU READ
THE * TIMES
PHILADELPHIA
THIS MORNING?

THE TIMES is the most extensively circulated and widely read newspaper published in Pennsylvania. Its discussion of public men and public measures is in the interest of public integrity, honest government and prosperous industry, and it knows no party or personal allegiance in treating public issues. In the broadest and best sense a family newspaper.

THE TIMES aims to have the largest circulation by deserving it, and claims that it is unsurpassed in all the essentials of a great metropolitan newspaper. Specimen copies of any edition will be sent to any one sending their address.

TERMS: DAILY, $3.00 per annum; $1.00 for four months; 30 cents per month. SUNDAY EDITION, twenty-four large, handsome pages—168 columns, elegantly illustrated, $2.00 per annum; 5 cents per copy. Daily and Sunday, $5.00 per annum; 50 cents per month. WEEKLY EDITION, 50 cents per annum.

Sarsaparilla

ADMITTED

READ RULE XV.

AYER'S The only SARSAPARILLA Admitted at the WORLD'S FAIR CHICAGO 1893

"Articles that are in any way dangerous or offensive, also patent medicines, nostrums, and empirical preparations, whose ingredients are concealed, will not be admitted to the Exposition."

Why was Ayer's Sarsaparilla admitted? Because it is not a patent medicine, not a nostrum, nor a secret preparation, not dangerous, not an experiment, and because it is all that a family medicine should be.

TOWN AND COUNTY NEWS.

The moon was "out of sight" Sunday night.

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Christian spent Sunday in Shelby.

P. G. Trent is now with E. W. Bell as prescription clerk.

Thompson Cooper, of Shelby Springs, was in town Monday.

Hon. R. W. Cobb is with Columbiana friends this week.

Circuit court will convene here Monday week, March 25th.

Mrs. Fannie Bristow, of Calera, spent Monday in town.

J. W. Barr, of Wilsonville, gave us a pleasant call Monday.

P. G. Trent, of Childersburg, is a visitor in town this week.

Tax-Assessor Hammond spent a few hours in the city Monday.

Miss Elva Greek spent Saturday and Sunday with Shelby friends.

Miss Lucy Smith spent several days of last week in Sylacauga and Talladega.

A. P. Longshore transacted business in Birmingham the front end of the week.

Mrs. Thomas, of Talladega, is spending some time with her brother. J. L. Peters, Esq.

Mr. Pond and Murphy Baker, now of Shelby Springs, were visitors in our city Monday.

Miss Naldo Christian, of Shelby, was a guest of Miss Anna Milner Saturday and Sunday.

Misses Emma Wilson, Katie Huyett and Essie Mason were guests of Shelby friends Sunday.

"The boys" are requested to meet overseer Elliott Monday with a pick or shovel. No axes "go."

E. D. Hall and wife, accompanied by Will O'Connor, a brother of Mrs. Hall, came in Friday from New Orleans.

Mrs. J. W. Johnston returned Friday last from a two weeks' visit to her sister, Mrs. W. S. Nelson, in New Orleans.

Our job department has been run at its full capacity for the past several weeks. People are finding out where to get neat printing.

It is said that the height of a man or woman is six times the length of the foot. This certainly is a mistake else Columbiana would have several giants.

Our clever friend, E. S. Lyman, Esq., of Montevallo, is a frequent visitor to our town just now, as he is preparing for Circuit court, which will convene March 25th.

J. A. Herzfeld & Co., of Sylacauga, have an advertisement in this issue, and it will pay our readers to look it over carefully. The prices quoted are astonishingly low, and they should in these tight times, be quite an inducement.

Last Sunday was the first pretty day we have had lately, and the young people were out in force for a stroll in the mountains. It is hardly necessary to remind them that our stock of wedding cards is complete, and that they can be furnished in short order.

Saturday afternoon last about fifty citizens of this place held a meeting in the court house for the purpose of selecting a municipal ticket. The following is the result: W. B. Browne, for mayor; A. P. Longshore, E. B. Nelson, J. R. White, W. A. Tallant, B. L. Moore, for aldermen.

For seven years or more Mrs. W. D. Louder, of Quincy, Ky., was subject to severe attacks of cramp colic. Mr. S. R. Morse, a druggist of that place, recommended Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy, which has effected a permanent cure, saving her much suffering besides the trouble and expense of sending for a doctor, which was often necessary. For sale by Parker & Armstrong.

Station Agent Newton, of the L. & N. informed us yesterday that in all probability there would be two passenger trains daily over the branch from this place to Shelby, on or about the 15th instant. The trains are an assured fact, provided satisfactory arrangements can be made with the Shelby Iron Co. for the use of their train. We hope this can be done, for it will add greatly to our comfort and convenience when we wish to visit Montgomery or Birmingham.

Columbiana Literary Society.

Our society met on Friday evening last at the residence of Mr. J. R. White. The programme as arranged for the evening was well executed. Several visitors were present. An interesting talk was made by Rev. T. M. Wilson for the good of the society. Owing to the fact that our Society is large and our room very limited, we are compelled to narrow our invitation. So the Society now invites only the active members, the honorary members, the older citizens, and the young people who are eligible to membership and desire to join.

The Society will meet on next Friday evening at the residence of Dr. J. H. Williams.

JOHN S. LEEPER, JR.,
Cor. Sec'y.

"Perhaps you would not think so, but a very large proportion of diseases in New York comes from carelessness about catching cold," says Dr. Syrus Edson. "It is such a simple thing and so common that very few people, unless it is a case of pneumonia, pay any attention to a cold. New York is one of the healthiest places on the Atlantic coast and yet there are a great many cases of catarrh and consumption which have their origin in this neglect of the simplest precaution of every day life. The most sensible advice is, when you have one get rid of it as soon as possible. By all means do not neglect it." Dr. Edson does not tell you how to cure a cold but we will. Take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It will relieve the lungs, aid expectoration, open the secretions and soon effect a permanent cure. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Parker & Armstrong.

History of Shelby County.

TO THE CHRONICLE:—

I propose, as far as leisure, means and material can be commanded, to write up a succinct history of our county. 1. Its physical features, soil, minerals, water-power, etc. 2. Its people, representative men especially. 3. Courts and professional men. 4. Religious history. 5. Schools, these and like topics. Beginning as soon as may be with the first topic, presuming on their kindness and hereby request Hon. Mr. Aldrich to supply me with an account of the minerals of the county, especially of Cahaba valley; Esq. Needham Lee, of the lands and early settlement of Cahaba valley and original boundaries of the county. Mr. E. V. Caldwell of the lands, timber and minerals of Coosa valley. If this account can be made accurate, it will invite the attention of settlers, for the resources of the county are remarkable. I shall, from time to time, as the work progresses, expect every aid the older citizens can afford. Indeed the attempt will turn almost entirely on such aid.

A severe rheumatic pain in the left shoulder had troubled Mr. J. H. Loper, a well known druggist of Des Moines, Iowa, for over six months. At times the pain was so severe that he could not get rid of it until he applied Chamberlain's Pain Balm. "I only made three applications of it," he says, "And have since been free from all pain." He now recomends it to persons similarly afflicted. It is for sale by Parker & Armstrong

Wilsonville Waifs.

Did you see the moon eclipse?

Mr. H. L. Sanders now occupies the Barnett house.

Mr. James Ray thinks of locating in the "Lone Star" State.

One of our young ladies has already received an Indian relic.

Claude Jackson left yesterday to attend a business college at Tallapoosa, Georgia.

Col. W. T. Smith has accepted a position with a tobacco firm in Huntsville. We wish him much success in his new occupation.

Quarterly meeting, which was held here Saturday and Sunday, was well attended and several excellent as well as beneficial sermons, were delivered.

There was a general stampede here among the horses Saturday evening, which ended in the total destruction of a wagon and fence, besides many bridles and saddles being damaged.

Our teachers wear broad smiles and have reason to be enthusiastic, progressive workers. A library for every grade and abundance and variety of supplied busy work are rewarding them with beautiful order and remarkably regular attendance, and an occasional new pupil is of course very acceptable. You should see the pride manifested in our artistic school-room decorations. "BUTCH."

Items From Cresswell.

Mr. Leeper, of Columbiana, was in our town Tuesday on business, and went from here to Vincent.

It seems that the severe winter has gone and merry spring has taken its place. We meet it with a hearty welcome.

Mr. P. T. Pitts has returned to town from Texas, on business. He reports good business in Texas and will return in about two weeks.

Messrs. Wallis and Judge are making fine progress in their new ground. It looks like they were taking an interest in farm work.

The Baptist church at this place met in conference last Saturday and called Rev. Frank Mullen to serve them for the ensuing year. Now for a Sabbath school.

Prof. J. A. May, of Laniers, will preach at the Baptist church at this place on the 3d Sunday in this month, March 17th. Let all come out and give Bro. May a good congregation as it will be his first sermon in our town.

The farmers hereabouts are about done sowing oats. Early. They are making good use of the fine weather. They are also making preparation to raise more three and five cent cotton, using guano in abundance. But we are proud to say that the farmers of Shelby county know no hard times. They have a legal tender, sorghum and peas.

March 1st about 5 o'clock a. m. near Henryellen, and about 24 miles north of this place on the C. & W. R. R., was the scene of a severe accident causing the death of engineer McGuire and fireman Reeves. Engine 1003 pulling train No. 41, it seems gave way on the left side of fire-box, tearing off the entire end of the boiler and completely detaching the boiler from the trucks. Pieces of the boiler and cab were scattered for one-fourth of a mile. F. A. McGuire, engineer, was blown about 150 yards to the right and no doubt instantly killed. The fireman, Will Reeves, was blown near 300 yards to the left and badly mangled. One of his shoes was found in a pine tree through which he was blown.

CHOCTAW.

Harpersville Echoes.

High Court last Saturday.

"Cheap Charley" was around last week.

The fair sex have commenced gardening.

The farmers are badly behind with their plowing.

Mr. Dick Cater is very sick with little hopes of his recovery.

Messrs. Pick and Smith Rowe visited Childersburg last Saturday.

Mr. William Moore, of Louisiana, visited T. J. Martin's family last week.

The Hon. Samuel Henderson, of Roanoke, Ala., is visiting his mother's family.

Rev. Mr. Corley filled his regular appointment at the Methodist church last Sunday.

Prof. C. H. Florey, of Womack Hill, is spending a few days at Harpersville, his old home.

The mule drover left here last week with a car load of beef cattle for the Birmingham market.

Mr. Tom Bates has the contract now for filling the tanks at Vincent and Syllacauga on the C. & W. railroad.

Some of our people are of the opinion that spring will come some of these days, but we fear it will be too late to do the old cows any good.

A little son of Mr. Lee, aged 12 years, living two miles south of here, was, we are sorry to state, badly hurt one day last week while shooting a gun. The gun was torn into a dozen or more pieces, one of which fractured his skull, and he is in a very critical condition.

The following is the honor-roll of Elm Hill Academy, Harpersville, for the month of February, 1895.

Stella Posey,	E. V. Caldwell,
Kate Gorman,	Hugh Gorman,
Earl Martin,	Alice Webb,
Joe Florey,	Joe Simmons,
Frank Gorman,	S. T. Donnell,
Edward Florey,	Rosa Vincent,
Jeffie Bell.	Kidd Collins,
Samuel Caldwell,	Charley Florey,
Jimmie Kidd,	Willie Wheeler,
Wade Posey,	Leila Rowe.

I wish to say that the pupils of Elm Hill Academy are children of whom any community should feel proud. Having a high sense of honor and lofty aspirations, they strive for that which is noble and elevating. Seeing their future responsibilities, they, from a sense of duty, are well preparing for them. May God bless the students of the Elm Hill Academy in their laudable efforts.

Last year we commenced an elaborate plan of advertising, but before we were half through, OUR ADVERTISEMENTS DISAPPEARED. Why? Because WE WERE OVERWHELMED WITH BUSINESS. There was but one thing to do: withdraw the advertising and devote every energy to filling the orders with which we were flooded. This we did, and handled with reasonable promptness a most unprecedented year's business.

WITH ENLARGED FACTORIES, INCREASED FACILITIES, AND TWENTY BRANCH HOUSES FROM WHICH TO DISTRIBUTE OUR GOODS, WE CAN NOW CARE FOR ALL WHO COME. Last year we could not reduce prices because we were compelled in some way to limit the demand for Aermotor goods. We would have been satisfied with lower prices, but why create a demand which we could not supply? We have made the heaviest purchases of steel and material bought in America this year, and at unprecedented prices, and have made terms to dealers which enable them to make unprecedented prices.

In quality, character, variety, finish, and accessibility to full stock of goods and repairs, we are without competitors. In our plan of advertising last year, we proposed to furnish a feed cutter under certain conditions for $15. For reasons stated above we did not complete the advertising, and the feed cutter was not put out. We now propose to make amends in the following manner. We will announce in this paper our NEW ALL-STEEL VERY SUPERIOR FEED CUTTER, WORTH cash with order, f. o. b. Chicago. Only one to one person, he to furnish addresses of ten neighbors who ought to have something in our line. Cut, description and full information regarding it will appear soon.

$40 at $10

We especially desire to caution you against paying excessive prices for windmill outfits. The temptation on the part of the great $10 cheap price to $40 clever dealer. To be sure of proper price and articles, write us of your needs and you will be protected. We are, and always have been, believers in low prices. Because of the prodigious output of our factories we are enabled to have special tools for each piece, and thus reduce the hand labor on it to merely picking up the material and laying it down again. So small has become the cost of labor put on the material which we sell that it is not worth mentioning. We have become the largest dealers in the material, of course, in steel galvanized after-construction (tilting and fixed), tanks, pumps, etc., to such an extent has this become true, and to such an extent has the price of our goods (and on that account the volume of our business rendered competition impossible), that FOUR LARGE WINDMILL CONCERNS ARE BUYING THEIR TOWERS OF US THIS YEAR. THEY DO IT BECAUSE WE MAKE THE ONLY ABSOLUTELY RELIABLE AND SAFE TOWER; BECAUSE THEY CAN BUY OF US CHEAPER THAN THEY CAN BUILD; BECAUSE WE ALONE ARE PREPARED TO GALVANIZE EVERYTHING AFTER IT IS COMPLETED, AND COMPLETE EVERYTHING EXACTLY RIGHT.

These concerns are wise, for, even though they may not furnish the best of wheels, the wheel will have the best of supports. Send to us your name and address, and those of your neighbors who may need something in our line, and thereby do them a good turn. The Aermotor Co. is one of the most successful business enterprises which has been launched in recent times. In succeeding advertisements will be discussed and made clear the lines on which that success has been worked out. It was done by a farmer's boy. A careful following of these advertisements may suggest to some other farmer's boy a career.

THE WORLD OF ART.

WILLIAM L. ELKINS, of Philadelphia, offers a prize of $5,000 for the best picture painted by an American artist.

THE largest bronze statue in the world is that of Peter the Great, at St. Petersburg, which weighs about 1,100 tons.

THE authorities of Stockton-on-Tees, England, will erect a statue to John Walker, a chemist of that town, who died in 1857, on the ground that he invented lucifer matches.

ACCORDING to a recent communication made by the mayor of Bayeux to the Paris Academie des Inscriptions, the famous Bayeux tapestry, the unique representation of the Norman conquest of England, shows signs of rapid decay, in spite of the protection of the glass case.

JOSEPH JEFFERSON, during a recent visit to Washington, presented to the Corcoran art gallery a landscape painted by himself. It is in oil and represents an interior wood scene, with the pleasing effect of sky and clouds seen through the branches of a group of massive oak trees.

SUCCESSFUL illustrators evidently make large incomes. Mr. Abby is able to occupy a noble old country house in Great Britain and to scour Europe for data needed in the course of his work, while Howard Pyle lives in the Delaware home of Ambassador Bayard, a historic mansion of large rooms and ample grounds.

ARMY AND NAVY NOTES.

FOUR HUNDRED tons of top weight must come off of the new French battleship Brennus before she can be made seaworthy.

DREYFUS is to be sent to the Iles du Salut, off the coast of French Guiana, instead of to New Caledonia, as the chances of his escaping will be less.

BARONESS SEEFRIED now has a little girl. The baroness is Princess Elizabeth of Bavaria, who a year ago eloped with a young cavalry lieutenant, whom she married. Her mother is Princess Gisela, daughter of the emperor of Austria.

MISS ANNIE HAYES, of Forest City, Me., was examined by a board of pension surgeons recently for a pension as the dependent child of a union soldier. She weighs 488 pounds, and as a result of the surplus avoirdupois is unable to do any work, hence the pension.

A GENTLEMAN who discovered that he was standing on a lady's train had the presence of mind to remark: "Though I may not have the power to draw an angel from the skies, I have pinned one to the earth." The lady excused him.

MAMMA—"Why don't you eat your plum pudding, Richie?" Richie (grown critical with repletion)—"There's too much cologne in the sauce."

BATTLE OF THE BONDS.

Wisdom of the Administration in the Great Emergency.

The secretary of the treasury has for some months enjoyed the distinction of being the worst abused man in the country. It is not a very pleasant position to occupy, but Mr. Carlisle has maintained it with his customary dignity, and, so far as the world knows, without serious disturbance to his temper or digestion.

Mr. Carlisle did not, of course, expect to satisfy his critics when he arranged the sale of the new-bond issue. It has not astonished either him or his friends that the contract with the new syndicate has caused him to be denounced by the republican and populist orators and press from Dan to Beersheba. He has too long been their target to care for such firecracker artillery when he knows, and knows that the public knows, he has done the best possible for his country.

All the assaults made upon the government have sought to establish two things: That it was unpatriotic and unjust to American citizens to sell the bonds to a foreign syndicate, and that they were sold at too low a price. Few have the hardihood to say that they should not have been issued.

Unquestionably it would be best to place all loans with our own people, all things being equal. It is also true that a low price was realized for the issue.

But every thoughtful man who carefully examines into the condition of affairs must not only approve the sale abroad, but also the bargain made with the great banking houses which took the bonds.

By the terms of the contract the members of the syndicate obligated themselves to check the exportations of gold. The only way to do this is by keeping down the rate of exchange, both by importing gold and by the employment of such other means for influencing the markets as lie in the power of the Morgans and Rothschilds and their associates who have great credits abroad which may be drawn upon at will. This is really the principal consideration in the sale; it could have been obtained from no other combination, unless, perhaps, the associated banks of New York could have been prevailed upon to enter into such an agreement. It is unfortunate that they did not rise to the situation. The New York clearing house is made up of an aggregation of financiers who have shown themselves equal to any great emergency. While the Bank of England had to call upon the richer Bank of France for assistance after the Baring crash, the New York clearing house weathered the great financial storm of 1893 without soliciting a penny of help, and held up the whole country in so doing. Had this great association desired to help the government it could have checked the gold run on the treasury long ago. The members have not cared to assume this patriotic duty, strained relations having grown up between some of them and the secretary of the treasury, who has acted as he thought best independently of their wishes and advice. Private pique influenced them to such an extent that with over eighty-one million dollars in gold coin in their vaults and with a further stock to draw from of over five hundred million dollars scattered over America, they refused to spare one dollar to relieve the treasury.

Under the circumstances Mr. Carlisle made the best and wisest arrangement possible. Knowing that no matter at what price the bonds might be sold in this country the gold would be immediately withdrawn and again hoarded, he decided to treat with a syndicate that could not only furnish gold, but also give some reasonable guarantee of its preservation for at least a time. Only such houses as the Rothschilds and the Morgans could give this guarantee.

There is no sufficient ground for supposing that the syndicate either cannot or will not do much of what it has agreed to do. It can control hostile bankers, some of whom there must be, by indirect influences, and thus virtually secure the cooperation of the New York clearing house and the great continental and English banking institutions. The Rothschilds have branches in all the great money centers of the world—London, Vienna, Paris, Brussels and Frankfort—and through them can sell commercial bills so as to keep down on the rate of exchange in favor of a country they are helping. They have been doing this for nearly a hundred years, and this they have no doubt agreed to do again, if necessary, for the United States.

From now on we shall be able to watch for the first time, at least in many years, an intelligent manipulation of the money markets for a praiseworthy and patriotic purpose. We can hardly see how the syndicate can fail to preserve a satisfactory gold balance in the treasury for many months. There will undoubtedly be attempts to cut it down. Such a one was Russell Sage's recent withdrawal of $550,000 from the subtreasury and the efforts to force gold to a premium. But these movements will almost necessarily be individual efforts disconnected and of little consequence when exerted against the syndicate's influences. A combination to bear the government's credit would not be tolerated. The exportation of gold ceased as soon as an intimation of the contract got abroad, and there is no indication that it will be resumed, though at a time of the year when the tide sets its strongest to Europe.

If the syndicate do what it has undertake nthe value of such a service cannot be overestimated. The daily loss to business under such conditions as prevailed during the great gold run was far in excess of what the interest on the bonds for a year would be. The syndicate made the bond issue a success, and the five millions or so it may make will be fairly and honestly earned.

When this administration and the men who compose it have passed into history, it will be understood by all that Mr. Carlisle and Mr. Cleveland met the greatest emergency that has arisen since the war with courage, patriotism and wisdom.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

——Benjamin Harrison is neither making birthday speeches like McKinley, nor, like Reed and Allison, explaining how he stands on silver so as not to antagonize the other side. At the same time he is keeping his ear very close to the ground and has his finger on the pulse of Indiana.—Chicago Herald.

FINANCIERING OF CONGRESS.

Double Dealing Methods of Republicans in the House.

The administration cannot very well drive out the Fifty-third congress as Cromwell drove out the rump parliament. For one thing, the constitution is against it. Furthermore, there is in this country a rooted prejudice against calling in musketeers to expedite legislative proceedings. But it is a great pity—at least in some respects. We do not say in all.

When a house of representatives that is overwhelmingly democratic decisively rejects a proposition the adoption of which would strengthen the national treasury half a million a year for thirty years, no doubt every democrat who is also a patriot and a good citizen must for a moment chafe under the restrictions of settled constitutional practice. "We have had enough of this!" cried Cromwell, striding into the middle of the chamber. "The Lord hath done with you. I will put an end to your prating. It is not fit that you should sit here any longer. You should give place to better men." And they scuttled out before his musketeers.

Of course, we see that this was irregular and foolish. One evil cannot be corrected by another and more monstrous. But the behavior of the house of representatives in rejecting a proposition to authorize the issue of three per cent. gold bonds must, in the present circumstances, be set down as an act of such uncommon and unpatriotic madness as to call for the severest censure the people can pronounce. There would be a savage satisfaction in seeing these false servants put out—always by some safe constitutional process—if only their successors would be any better.

But what are we to infer from the conduct of the republicans in the house? Mr. Reed's behavior the other day was plainly dishonest and insincere. He professed to support the sound-money resolution, and through partisanship or a worse motive did it what harm he could. This is not of good augury for the republican congress to come.

Following this defeat of a sound financial proposition, we may expect attacks upon the gold-purchase contract just made by the administration. Ignorance and vice will cheerfully join hands in that business. It still seems to be a little difficult to convince even intelligent persons that this contract provides for something more than the sale of bonds. A study of its provisions shows that it makes provision not only for replenishing the treasury's stock of gold, but for protecting it against all preventable drains. How efficient the protection is will probably appear. It might be well for the too-ready critics to wait and see whether the government has made a bad bargain.—N. Y. Times.

M'KINLEY'S BUNGLING.

A Condition Brought About by High Tariff Legislation.

Gov. McKinley, of Ohio, the putative author of the McKinley bill, says the way to maintain the gold reserve in the treasury is to stop the deficit in the revenues. This is a strange proposition coming from that source. From the close of the war until the McKinley law became operative there was no deficit in the revenues. From that time until the day the bill was repealed there was nothing else.

At the close of Cleveland's first term in the presidency, March 4, 1889, there was a surplus in the treasury of more than one hundred million dollars, and a revenue redundancy that excited the concern of the statesmanship of the country. But in 1890 the McKinley law was enacted, and the condition was changed. In three years the surplus was exhausted, and instead, there was a treasury deficit amounting to more than fifty million dollars. In other words, the revenue deficit amounted to more than fifty million dollars a year under the McKinley law.

For Gov. McKinley to comment in the language imputed to him in regard to the revenue deficit is, therefore, to set him down as a montebank. Under the circumstances he should be modest and silent. It does not lay in his mouth to censure anyone. Whatever evils the treasury has encountered in the last five years are attributable to his bungling and to no other cause.—Kansas City Times.

POINTS AND OPINIONS.

——It is generally believed that Mr. Reed has killed his presidential chances by his course on the financial question in congress.—Wheeling Intelligencer (Rep.).

——It is to be hoped Tom Reed's neighbors in Maine will not be rude enough to ask him leading questions about his financial views.—Chicago Record.

——There is an impression that the political difficulties of Thomas B. Reed are not entirely disagreeable to his devoted friend, William McKinley.—Brooklyn Eagle.

——Mr. Boutelle's red hair is the only assurance that Maine can now give the country that she keeps a plumed knight in stock. Reed's feather is white.—St. Louis Republic.

——What would be the state of our financial affairs to-day had the administration neglected to make this (bond) bargain, depending on congress to provide for the needs of the treasury?—N. Y. Post.

——A notorious war deserter succeeded in working through congress a bill giving him an honorable discharge from the army. The bill was to lay the basis of a pension claim, and was vetoed by President Cleveland.—Chicago Herald.

——In the present bond issue the president has, we believe, done the best he could under the authority given him. It is the duty of congress to legislate on this matter, and it has shirked its duty. Upon it, therefore, rests the blame.—Toledo Blade (Rep.).

——That the administration should be charged with dishonesty in the transaction effected with the sixty-five-million-dollar syndicate is an outrage not to be excused by the utmost stretch of allowance for partisan or factional hostility.—Philadelphia Telegraph (Rep.).

——Hon. Thomas B. Reed sowed to the wind during the early part of the session and he is likely to reap the whirlwind in the end. He puts mischief in the heads of his partisan associates on the financial question, and when a patriotic impulse overtook him he couldn't get those whom it has been his pride to command to listen to his orders. Now he hasn't even the melancholy satisfaction of being with the majority even of his own party.—Kansas City Times.

A Bank Failure.

AN INVESTIGATION DEMANDED.

A general banking business is done by the human system, because the blood deposits in its vaults whatever wealth we may gain from day to day. This wealth is laid up against "a rainy day" as a reserve fund—we're in a condition of healthy prosperity if we have laid away sufficient capital to draw upon in the hour of our greatest need. There is danger in getting thin, because it's a sign of letting down in health. To gain in blood is nearly always to gain in wholesome flesh. The odds are in favor of the germs of consumption, grip, or pneumonia, if our liver be inactive and our blood impure, or if our flesh be reduced below a healthy standard. What is required is an increase in our germ-fighting strength. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery enriches the blood and makes it wholesome, stops the waste of tissue and at the same time builds up the strength. A medicine which will rid the blood of its poisons, cleanse and invigorate the great organs of the body, vitalize the system, thrill the whole being with new energy and make permanent work of it, is surely a remedy of great value. But when we make a positive statement that 98 per cent. of all cases of consumption can, if taken in the early stages of the disease, be CURED with the "Discovery," it seems like a bold assertion. All Dr. Pierce asks is that you make a thorough investigation and satisfy yourself of the truth of his assertion. By sending to the World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y., you can get a free book with the names, addresses and photographs of a large number of those cured of throat, bronchial and lung diseases, as well as of skin and scrofulous affections by the "Golden Medical Discovery." They also publish a book of 160 pages, being a medical treatise on consumption, bronchitis, asthma, catarrh, which will be mailed on receipt of address and six cents in stamps.

The Greatest Medical Discovery of the Age.

KENNEDY'S MEDICAL DISCOVERY.

DONALD KENNEDY, of ROXBURY, MASS., Has discovered in one of our common pasture weeds a remedy that cures every kind of Humor, from the worst Scrofula down to a common Pimple.

He has tried it in over eleven hundred cases, and never failed except in two cases (both thunder humor.) He has now in his possession over two hundred certificates of its value, all within twenty miles of Boston. Send postal card for book.

A benefit is always experienced from the first bottle, and a perfect cure is warranted when the right quantity is taken.

When the lungs are affected it causes shooting pains, like needles passing through them; the same with the Liver or Bowels. This is caused by the ducts being stopped, and always disappears in a week after taking it. Read the label.

If the stomach is foul or bilious it will cause squeamish feelings at first.

No change of diet ever necessary. Eat the best you can get, and enough of it. Dose, one tablespoonful in water at bedtime. Sold by all Druggists.

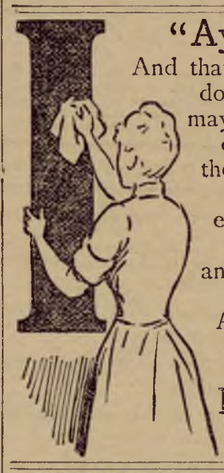
"Aye! There's the rub!"



And that ought to be enough in itself to seal the doom of bar soap. This rubbing with soap may get clothes clean, if you work hard enough, but can't you see how it wears them out?

Follow the directions that come on every package of Pearline, and you'll find that you not only do away with the hard and ruinous work of rubbing—but that you save time, and actually get better results. At every point Pearline is better than soap. But the mere fact that Pearline saves the rubbing—that ought to settle it.

BEWARE Peddlers will tell you "this is as good as" or "the same as Pearline." IT'S FALSE—Pearline is never peddled. If your grocer sends you an imitation, be honest—send it back. 463

CURRENT COMMENT.

PRESIDENT CLEVELAND has bestowed a number of rewards upon officers and vessels for rescuing distressed mariners.

BOSTON is going to build a subway for the use of electric cars through the most thickly settled and business parts of the city. The undertaking is one of great magnitude and it is estimated that before it is completed it will cost at least $30,000,000.

THE civil rights bill passed by the late Oklahoma legislature did not become a law because the governor refused to sign it. If it had become a law colored men could have obtained damages for being refused admittance to any public place.

MUCH of the trouble that was occasioned by reason of the errors and mistakes which occurred in the engrossment and enrollment of congressional measures by hand will, it is believed, be obviated hereafter by the new method of having that work printed.

IN a recent issue of the Forum Senator Lodge said the tendency of modern times was toward consolidation. Large cities were absorbing their suburbs, business was largely in the hands of great establishments, and even the libraries were uniting in order to increase their utilities.

COMMITTEES started out on the 11th in Denver, Col., to raise $2,000,000 for the national mining and industrial exposition, which it has been decided to hold there next year. All the consuls and vice consuls of all foreign nations stationed in Colorado are to be put on the board of general managers.

GEN. BOOTH, the head of the Salvation army, received an ovation when he made his first public appearance in London since his return from the United States. It was estimated that 13,000 members of the Salvation army, representing every part of Great Britain, were present, all attired in their uniforms.

THE ravages of the grip were said to be unusually severe this winter. The deaths in Russia were put at 12,000. In England, from influenza alone, the mortality had reached 5,000. Nearly 500 people had died in New York city from the effects of the grip since December, and a Berlin expert put the mortality of the world from this cause at 80,000.

GOV. RENFROW, of Oklahoma, has refused to sign the bill giving probate courts jurisdiction of divorce cases. This knocks out the divorce lawyers and compels persons seeking divorces to come into the district court in open session, instead of allowing them to get divorces on the quiet any day in the week before some out-of-the-way probate judge.

THE leading American colleges are gathering wealth rapidly by gift. A bequest to Yale of seventy-five thousand dollars was noted a few days ago, and three Philadelphia families recently made a gift of ten thousand dollars each to the university of Pennsylvania, while other contributions brought up the total to sixty-five thousand dollars.

"It will soon be two years," said the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, "since Dr. Nansen cut loose from communication with the world to test his theory that a ship placed in the ice north of Europe would be carried across the polar region and, in the course of two or three years, reach the east coast of Greenland. If the doctor comes out alive he will have a story to tell, but other Arctic explorers say he has probably perished."

THE building in New York in which was Nicolo Tesla's workshop was recently burned. Its destruction comes just when it was whispered in the scientific world that the inventor was on the eve of one of the greatest of discoveries connected with the problem of improving the electric light. It was feared that the disaster might result in the physical collapse of the great inventor. He has long been in a state bordering on exhaustion through overwork.

A SAMPLE of the illuminating gas recently discovered in New York, which can be delivered to consumers in cans, was received and partially tested at the office of the Cleveland (O.) Gas Light Co. Secretary Beardsley, of the company, said that the gas burned steadily and gave an excellent light. The material from which it is made is lime and coal dust, welded by electricity into a sort of dark brownish substance. The gas is generated by placing this material in water. The new discovery may revolutionize the present process of manufacturing gas.

PROF. W. W. KEEN, a well-known Philadelphia surgeon, had a patient, one of whose legs was paralyzed. Believing that by the use of a nerve from the leg of an animal he could restore to his patient the use of his leg, Prof. Keen sent to the city pound for a dog with which to make the experiment. The pound is controlled by the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, the president of which is Mrs. Caroline Earl White, who is opposed to vivisection, and she positively refused to permit him to have a dog, despite the fact that the life of a human being depended upon it.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., is the possessor of a great genius in the person of Alvaro S. Krolz. He has lately made what may prove to be one of the greatest inventions of the age, in the shape of an electric gun, which promises to eclipse Gatling's famous gun. The gun is 5 feet long, 2½ inches thick, with smooth ½-inch bore. The barrel is placed on a gun carriage and the electric circuit applied directly to the projectile. The number of projectiles which can be fired is limited only by the number which can be fed. There is no cartridge, no powder or dynamite or smoke, and no noise.

CAN MAINTAIN PEACE

Governor McIntire so Wires the Department of State.

ITALIAN MABASSY WIRES HIM DIRECT

Regarded as a New Turn in Diplomatic Circles—No Uprising Between Americans and Italians Feared in Colorado—The Situation.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—Yesterday afternoon the following telegram was received at the department of state from Governor McIntyre of Colorado, dated Denver:

I am just in receipt of a detailed account by telegraph from sheriff at Walseburg. It does not differ materially from the newspaper reports. Inquest held, and as I am informed, thorough investigation made. Evidence in writing subscribed by witnesses and filed in office of clerk of district court. Sheriff further reports that there has been no trouble of any kind since and no danger and that he is thoroughly able to maintain peace and no danger of uprising of Americans or Italians. Am in receipt of a telegram from Ambassador for Italy saying in part: "Please give orders for immediate action against murderers of Italians." Immediate action will be urged on proper authorities looking to an arrest and punishment of guilty persons. The acting Italian counsel informs me that he leaves to-night for Walsenburg. I have given him such letters as he asked for to the sheriff. From every source of information that everything is quiet. Have taken steps to ascertain nationality of deceased. (signed) A. W. McINTYRE, Governor of Colorado.

REPUBLICANS WILL CONTROL.

Complexion of the Senate—Butler, of North Carolina, With the Majority.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—The disappearance of eighteen Senators will make an entire change in the appearance on the senate floor when that body meets again. Instead of the majority of the desks being on the democratic side they now appear on the republican side and in this connection it is interesting to know that at the request of Senator Marion Butler, of North Carolina, his district has been placed on the republican side. Mr. Butler is a populist elected by a fusionist legislature that at the same time gave the short term to Mr. Pritchard, republican. The fact that Mr. Butler has asked to be seated on the republican side is taken as an indication that he will act with the republicans in matters pertaining to organization and such other questions as are not inconsistent with his views on peculia subjects. Senator Ransom, whom he succeeds, prophesied that Mr. Butler would at all times be found acting in harmony with the party in the senate that was antagonistic to the democrats.

FORGED COL. WEST'S NAME.

An Imposter Impersonating an Atlantian Catches New England Merchants.

ATLANTA, March, 16.—Several checks purporting to be drawn by Colonel A. J. West of Atlanta, were received here yesterday from Philadelphia and Boston. It developed that some one has been impersonating Colonel West in the north. John Wanamaker & Co., of Philadelphia, were victims to the amount of $300. Colonel West is in the city and the imposter has been arrested in Boston where he claims to be A. J. West and is supposed to be J. M. Mason, who is not known here. Further reports may develop other drafts. Colonel West is quartermaster general of Georgia, and a wealthy real estate man.

TO COLLECT FOR THEMSELVES.

Recent Important Decisions Close a Number of Press Collecting Agencies.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—The recent decision of the assistant attorney general for the post office department to the effect that the "socalled newspaper laws" circulated by publishers collection agencies were no laws at all, will have the effect of closing the business of various newspaper collection agencies throughout the country. The department will now prohibit their letters from going through the mails to the newspapers and to subscribers who have failed to pay.

BROKER McKIM MAY RESUME.

He May Settle His Obligations Some Time Next Week.

NEW YORK, March 16.—It was reported on the stock exchange yesterday that Clarence McKim, who recently failed, would settle all obligations next week and soon resume.

Brokers were rather surprised that McKim should have to go under for a few thousand dollars and sacrifice a credit worth $1,000,000. It was said he was offered all the money he needed on the morning of the failure, but declined to use it. He had issued no privileges for a week prior.

BUFFENBARGER'S MILLIONS.

The Heirs Appoint a Committee to Look Up a $16,000,000 Fortune in Brazil.

LONDON, O., March 16.—About sixty of the minor heirs of Elijah Buffenbarger, brother of the late Peter Buffenbarger, who died a few years ago in Brazil, leaving, it is claimed, a fortune estimated at $16,000,000, held a meeting at South Charleston, Tuesday. G. H. Wilkinson, of that place, was made chairman, and S. M. Hall, of Columbus, secretary. A committee was appointed to secure the fortune. The chairman will leave shortly for South America.

The Regulars Down the Seconds.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 16.—The regular and second teams of the New York ball club played again yesterday, the regular team winning. The game was without special features. Score by innings:

Regular team, 1 1 2 2 0 1 0 1 x—8
Second team, 2 0 1 0 0 0 0 1 0—4

Mr. Morton in the Adirondacks.

ALBANY, N. Y., March 16.—Governor and Mrs. Morton, the Misses Morton, Mr. and Mrs. Erastus Corning and Miss Corning and other prominent social people formed a party which left late yesterday for Loon Lake, in the Adirondacks.

MUSIC AND THE WILD WEST.

Preparations Concluded for Both Features at the Atlanta Exposition.

ATLANTA, March 16.—The executive committee of the exposition yesterday accepted a proposition for Sousa's band for six weeks engagement, beginning November 18th and lasting until December 31. Innes' New York band has already been engaged for four weeks preceding, and another famous orchestra will be engaged for the earlier period of the exposition. This completes the musical program of the exposition and will make it one of the finest features.

The offer of Saportas & Wilkins of New York for concession to operate intramural railroads was accepted. The committee also determined by formal action to have a live stock department which will be one of the finest ever seen in the world.

Agreement was reached with Nate Salisbury, manager for Buffalo Bill, for an engagement of the Wild west show, for two month, beginning November 4.

TARIFF ASSOCIATION MEETS.

Executive Committee of the Southeastern and the Agents in Session.

RICHMOND, Va., March 16.—The executive committee of the Southeastern tariff association and the local agents met in conference here yesterday. The conference was in session some two hours, and the situation and the differences between the two parties were talked over. Subsequently the committee held a session to consider the representatives of the agents. No conclusion was reached and the meeting adjourned until 10 o'clock this morning. Neither side will give any information. The differences arose out of the action of the local agents or board of underwriters, in determining to waive all rules in meeting competion of companies not in the association. This action a number of the companies in the association refused to ratify.

BUSINESS MORE FAVORABLE.

Not What Could be Considered Prosperous However—Steady Improvement.

NEW YORK, March 16.—R. G. Dun & Company's weekly review of trade says:

Substantially all indications of the state of business are rather more favorable. Farm products are a little higher, railroad earnings a shade better, clearing house exchange a small per centage larger in comparison with two years ago than in February, and most of the industries show a somewhat better front, though their gain is not large. Money markets continue undisturbed, the operations of the syndicates still prevent exports of gold and withdrawals from the treasury have of late practically ceased. There is not much enthusiams about the situation, however, because the gain is slow, and business is yet a long way from what was once considered a prosperous condition. Further, the gain is in some cases due to obviously temporary causes, and in some to causes which do not make for prosperity.

COULD NOT BREAK THE WILL.

The Negro House-Keeper of "Governor" Dye Gets the Estate of $100,000.

ATLANTA, March 16. — The efforts to break the will of the late George Washington Dye, of Elbert county, has failed in the lower court. Dye left an estate worth $100,000 to his negro housekeeper and her six children whose father he was. His relations attempted to break the will but the jury rendered a verdict yesterday sustaining it. This is in accordance with the decisions of the state supreme court. After Dye died $40,000 in cash was found packed in an old trunk. He owned 7,000 acres of land in one body and was known in his conuty as "Governor" Dye.

RETURNED TO THE OWNER.

The Seized Schooner Carolina, at Charleston, Is Given Liberty.

CHARLESTON, S. C., March 16.—United States District Judge Brawley yesterday decided the admiralty case arising out of the seizure by the State constables of the schooner Carolina, which arrived here on October 26th, with a cargo of contraband whiskey. The suit was brought by the owner to recover possession, and the court directed that he be given possession.

The court finds that section 38 of the dispensary law, under which the schooner was seized, is unconstitional and void, in so far as it applies to this case.

FAILURES EXCEED LAST YEAR.

Two More During the Week Than the Same Time Last Year.

NEW YORK, March 16.—R. G. Dun & Co's. report on failures for the week says:

Liabilities thus far reported in failures for the first week of March amount to $1,183,052 against $3,270,292 last year: in manufacturers $785,596 against $973,570 last year, and in trading $397,656 against $1,254,938 last year. The final returns for February make the aggregate $41,414,374 against $17,865,374 last year. Failures for the week have been 256 in the United States against 254 last year, and 37 in Canada against 55 last year.

Now Spain Demands Apology.

MADRID, March 16.—Mr. Hannict Taylor, American minister, presented to foreign affairs yesterday a demand from his government for apology and regret from the government of Spain on account of the Allianca affair. Taylor's action was based on a dispatch from Gresham.

Captain Cross Restored to the Force.

NEW YORK, March 16.—The general term of the supreme court has reversed the decision of the board of police commissioners dismissing Captain Adam A Cross from the police force, and restoring him thereto.

Sentence That Might Have Been Death.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 16.—At Arcadia, Fla., yesterday, Joseph Jordan, white, was sentenced to 20 years in the penitentiary for an attempt to ravish the 9 year old daughter of Mr. Charles Stephenson.

Captain Shepard Critically Ill.

WASHINGTON, March 16. — Captain Shepard, chief of the revenue marine service, treasury department, is critically ill with pneumonia and is not expected to survive the day.

BAR MEMBERS FIGHT

Sensational Scene Over the Felton-Maddox Contest.

AND MRS. FELTON MOUNTS THE STAND.

Bad Feeling Exists Between Attorney Seaborn Wright and Judge Joel Braham—Friends Interceded For Both Barristers.

ATLANTA, March 16.—During the taking of evidence in the contest of Dr. Felton for the congressional seat of Representative John Maddox, Seaborn Wright slapped Judge Joel Branham's face.

Wright, who is a lawyer, was present as a spectator and friend of Dr. Felton. Judge Branham is counsel for Maddox. He made a statement in reference to Wright which the latter contradicted. The two men advanced toward each other. Judge Branham cried, "I will slap your face." No sooner had he spoken than Wright struck him a resounding blow on the cheek. Populists and democrats lined up on opposite sides. Friends seized Mr. Wright and Branham while Mrs. Felton ascended the Judge's bench and plead for quiet.

Whether the affair will be amicably settled cannot be learned. There is intense feeling between the two parties. Wright and Branham are prominent members of the Georgia bar.

A CHAPTER OF ACCIDENTS.

At Selma, Ala., a Prominent Citizen Loses an Arm—Boy Drowned.

SELMA, Ala., March 16.—A painful accident happened to Captain J. F. Lumsden, of this city yesterday at his plantation near Safford. He had just returned from a hunt and was in the act of opening a gate when a mule which he was leading gave a jerk and caused a shotgun, which he held in his right hand to be discharged. The load almost tore away his left hand. It was amputated and he was doing well at last accounts.

Yesterday afternoon, two little negro boys, sons of Adelaide Tate, living six miles north of Salem, quarreled while crossing Beach Creek and in the scrimmage which followed, one fell in the creek and was drowned. The body has not been recovered.

CONTRARY TO ALL DIPLOMACY.

The Approach of the Italian Ambassador Upon Colorado's Governor.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—The information contained in the message received yesterday by the secretary of state from Governor McIntyre, of Colorado, saying that Baron Fava, the Italian ambassador, had addressed him directly on the subject of the Walsenburg affair, created some surprise at the state department as being quite contrary to diplomatic usage, but no official connected with the department will discuss the subject at present. It is expected that a representative of a foreign country shall transact all his diplomatic business with officials of the government, officers of state governments through the state department.

TRUE BILLS AGAINST BOTH.

Walker G. Hamner and R. H. Pannill, of Lynchburg, for Embezzlement.

LYNCHBURG, Va., March 16.—The grand jury in the United States court yesterday returned true bills of indictment against Walker G. Hamner and R. H. Pannill, for embezzlement. The cases have been set for Friday of next week. Hamner is the teller of the First National bank whose defalcation was recently discovered and Pannill was the local agent of the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad who helped Hamner get away with the bank's funds through a private business partnership.

MOBILE'S NEW TELEPHONES.

Another System Introduced With a Liberal List of Subscribers.

MOBILE, Ala., March 16.—The effect of the recent decision of the supreme court of the United States on the life of the patent in the Bane case, has had the effect of bringing into existence telephone companies in many of the southern cities. Mobile has during the past few days organized such a company which has met at once with liberal patronage. The material will be ordered at once for a complete telephone plant.

CLEVELAND'S RETURN HOME.

One of the First Matters for Him Will be the Spanish Affair.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—None of the state department officials would discuss the Spanish affair further than to admit the accuracy of the published text of the dispatch sent to Minister Taylor at Madrid. No expression could be obtained from them on Minister Muruga's somewhat drastic comments upon the action of the department. The president will be back today and further steps will doubtless be deferred until his return to his desk.

Clearing Weather, Much Colder.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—Forecast: For Georgia, rain, followed by clearing weather in northern portion, winds shifting to northerly, much colder in northern portion. For Alabama, showers, much colder, northerly winds, probably fair Sunday.

The Execution of Wash Strong.

SAVANNAH, Ga. March 16.—Wash Strong, colored, was hanged at Hogansville yesterday for the murder of Johnson Duncan in a dispute over a game of cards in December, 1890. Strong confessed his crime and met death without a tremor.

The French War on the Hovas.

PARIS, March 16.—Admiral Besnard, minister of marine, has ordered Leber rifles of marines in Madagascar.

Against the Death Penalty.

LINCOLN, Neb., March 16.—The senate has passed the bill abolishing the death penalty.

ATCHISON REORGANIZATION.

London and Amsterdam Financiers Have Completed the Syndicate.

LONDON, March 16.—The guarantee syndicate for the reorganization of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railway company has just been completed. The ordinary shares have to pay $10 and receive therefor $10 in new preference and $100 in new ordinary shares.

"A" and "B" bonds pay $4 and receive $113 and $118 respectively in new preference shares. The four per cent mortgage bonds receive seventy-five per cent in new fours and forty per cent in adjustment bonds.

London and Amsterdam financiers are the principal participants in the syndicate.

UPTACK, SAYS RUSSELL SAGE.

A Gradual Improvement in Business Has Set in—Better Times Ahead.

NEW YORK, March 16 —Russell Sage said of the business outlook to a reporter yesterday:

"While it can not be maintained that there has been any marked improvement, we have evidently touched bottom and are on the uptack. The general feeling has improved, perhaps more than actual conditions. A gradual recovery has set in and better times are ahead. Manufacturing has been exceptionally depressed on account of tariff changes, but is adjusting itself to the new conditions We may have to have an extra session if the government receipts do not increase, but the increase will come with wider business With congress out of the way the future looks more promising."

Turkish Denial About Armenia.

CONSTANTINOPLE, March 16.—The report that the alleged massacres at Sassoon have been proved true by testimony taken before the commission of inquiry is officially denied here.

Mrs. L. C. Hughes, a woman of Kansas City, Kan., tied up the Kansas legislature the other day so that it was unable to "turn a wheel." Mrs. Hughes is chief enrolling clerk of the house. She says that the state owes her $300 for extra services and when her bill came up her tactics stopped all business.

THROUGH ALABAMA

The Populist Executive Committee Convenes at Birmingham.

O'BRIEN BUYS IN THE AGE-HERALD.

Tragedy at Allinton—Preparing for the State Exhibit at the Atlanta Exposition—Free Silver League. Other Alabama News.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 14.—The state populist executive committee met in the Opera House hotel yesterday, and was in session until 11 o'clock last night. The full committee was present. Reuben F. Kolb submitted a communication in substance as follows:

I have considered it my duty to your committee in the extraordinary course of recent events, which have called you together at this time, to address you. Controversy now agitating the minds of Alabama citizens devolves upon direct and simple proposition advanced by our party that methods and procedure ordained by the constitution of the state determining an election of governor and other state officers must be observed. In non-observance we have a defacto government, but one founded alone on force.

He goes on then to refer to the usurper so-called, and how he holds office.

CAPT. O'BRIEN BUYS AGAIN.

At the Second Sale the Age-Herald Brought Thirty-five Hundred More.

BIRMINGHAM, March 12. — The Birmingham Age-Herald was re-sold at public auction yesterday by the trustees of the bondholders, Capt. Frank P. O'Brien becoming the purchaser at the sum of $23,510.00 cash, which is $3,500 in excess of his bid of a month ago. He will assume control at once, and re-organize the force. Captain O'Brien is one of the principal bondholders, and was at one time president of the Age-Herald company. He has ordered latest improved machinery and will put the paper upon a strong financial basis—improving it in every department.

THE ALABAMA EXHIBIT.

The State Commercial Association to Take the Matter in Hand.

MONTGOMERY, March 12.—The meeting of the Alabama Commercial Association, which is to be held at Birmingham April 2nd, will be a gathering of great importance to the entire state, and all sections will have representatives there. The object of the meeting is to perfect a plan for making an exhibition of Alabama's resources at the Cotton States exposition, and to appoint suitable committees to take charge of the matter, carry on the work of raising a fund for this purpose and gather the material for the exhibit.

ANOTHER ALABAMA TRAGEDY.

At Allinton a Man Crazed With Ink Shoots to Kill and is Killed.

SELMA, Ala., March 14.—Enoch McWilliams was shot and fatally wounded by George Regan, at Allinton, Saturday. Both parties were white. McWilliams was crazed with drink. Just before the shooting he attacked a negro man without provocation and cut him terribly with a large dirk. He then mounted his horse and rode through the streets at a galop, shooting right and left. On the edge of the town he met Regan and began firing at him. Regan returned the fire with the above result.

NEW BRIDGE AT TUSKALOOSA.

The Matter Finally Settled and it Will be Built at Once.

TUSKALOOSA, Ala., March 11.—The matter of the new bridge across the Warrior river at this place has been definitely settled. It will gradually displace the old bridge. The draw span, required by the government, and the span on the Northport side, will be built at once. Span number two will be put in next year, and the last span in 1897. The total cost to the county will be $40,500.

FREIGHT WRECK NEAR TROY.

Two Men Were Killed and Others Seriously Wounded—Washout the Cause.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 14. — A Special from Troy tells of the wreck of a freight train eleven miles from that place on the Central extension of the Central of Georgia. Seven box cars were wrecked and Fox Curtis, white, and a negro named Jones killed, and others badly wounded. A washout caused the wreck.

One Alabama Farmer Kills Another.

STANTON, Ala., March 14.—Five miles west of this place, yesterday, Mr. Will Martin shot and killed Mr. Walter Davis. From what could be learned Mr. Davis was advancing on Martin with an axe drawn, saying he was going to kill him, when Martin picked up a shot gun near his bed and fired, the entire load going into the neck and brain, killing him instantly.

Seeking Homes in Alabama.

FLORENCE, March 12.—A party of homeseekers from Illinois and Ohio are inspecting farm lands in this vicinity. There seems to be a very decided boom in farm lands in this section and adjoining counties and many good citizens from the north and west are being received.

Seriously Injured by Falling Timber.

STANTON, Ala., March 14.—Yesterday George Lawrence, son of R. H. Lawrence, an engineer, while playing on a chain that carries lumber from the mill to the dry house, fell off and a piece of lumber 4x6 fell on his leg, breaking both bones just above the ankle.

Alabama Free Silver League.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 12.—About fifty prominent democrats met here tonight and took preliminary steps to organize a state free silver democratic league. Captain Joseph F. Johnston presided.

The Grain and Trade Congress.

MOBILE, March 11.—The annual meeting of the South and West Grain and Trade Congress will meet in this city on April 4th.

SOCIETY AT THE CAPITAL.

The Mi-Careme Ball to be Given at the British Embassy.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—The Mi-Careme ball will be given at the British Embassy. A minuet will be danced, and the rehearsals are now in progress every afternoon in the scarlet ball room of the embassy. Years ago, in Sir Edward Thornton's time, Mi-Careme was always marked by a domino party at her majesty's legation, so the ball this time is but reviving the custom. It will be also a sort of wind-up of the gayities there, as lady Pauncefote and her daughters are going abroad in April.

The Argentine minister, Mr. Zeballos, who is about to return to his own country after three years here, will be given a round of dinners by his Spanish-speaking colleagues in the diplomatic corps. One of them will be given March 30 by the Mexican minister.

KILLED BY HIS OWN BOMB.

The Bomb, However, Was Not an Anarchists' Infernal Machine.

LONDON, March 16. — A man was blown to pieces and another, a bystander, was severely injured at Church street yesterday by the explosion of what was then thought to be a bomb. The man who was killed carried the explosive and dropped it accidentally. It has developed, however, that the supposed bomb was a cylinder of compressed oxygen intended for use in connection with a magic lantern. The force of the explosion was so great that the station suffered some damage.

DAMAGING TO NEW ORLEANS.

The Labor Troubles Have Bad Effect Upon the Commerce of the Crescent City.

NEW ORLEANS, La., March 16.—One of the evil effects the labor disturbance is having on the commerce of this city was shown yesterday when it was rumored that when the steamship Niagara finishes unloading, she will not remain at this port to take on her cargo of cotton, but will go to Galveston for it. Upon investigation the report was affirmed, and the labor troubles were cited as the cause.

Application Denied by Secretary Smith.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—The secretary of the interior yesterday denied the application of the New Orleans Pacific railway for an appeal from the department's decision holding for cancellation its indemnity section to a quarter section of land in the New Orleans, La., land district.

The Wealthy Gambler Dead.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 16.—Thos. Darras, the son of a wealthy steamboat owner of St. Louis, Mo., died here yesterday. Consumption was the cause of death. Thomas Darras was a very eccentric man throughout life. He lived up to his income, about $1,000 a month going over the gaming table.

No Revolution in Peru.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—Dr. Yrigoyen, Charge d'Affairs of the Peruvian legation, attaches no importance to a dispatch printed on Tuesday that 300 goverment troops were killed in a battle near Cabano. He says that the present revolution in Peru is a revolution only in name.

Secretary Gresham Improving.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—Secretary Gresham is convalescing slowly, though his physician says he expects it will be several days before he will be able to resume his departmental duties. Yesterday, for the first time since his illness, he was able to go out for a short walk.

Suing Secretary Carlisle.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—Michael J. Colbert, as adminsitrator of the estate of the late James W. Denver, yesterday brought suit against Secretary Carlisle in the supreme court of the district to recover what is claimed to be due the estate for prosecuting a claim for chief Blackfeather.

Effects of Italian Amnesty.

ROME, March 16.—The government's proclamation of the new amnesty law will occur today. It will liberate Captain Romani, the French officer condemned last November to fourteen months for spying, and rioters at Massi di Carrara and through Sicily.

His Life Will Pay the Penalty.

WINCHESTER, Va., March 16.—Thronton Parker, the negro who made an attempt to commit a criminal assault on Mrs. Melton, of near Middleton, on the fifth instant, was tried here yesterday, convicted and sentenced to be hanged on Friday, April 19th.

Carlisle Cannot Attend the Banquet.

WASHINGTON, March 16. — Secretary Carlisle has declined an invitation to attend the annual banquet of the Hibernian society of Philadelphia on St. Patrick's day, for the reason that he is so busy with public affairs that he cannot leave the city.

World's Hop-Skip-and-Jump Record.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—The world's standing hop-skip-and jump record was recently broken at Center College gymnasium tournament, at Danville, Ky., by Thomas A. Hendricks of Kentucky. He made 30 feet 4 inches—5 inches over the record.

Indorsing the Bimetallic Platform.

WASHINGTON, March 16. — Senator Stewart received the following dispatch yesterday from the governor of Nebraska: "Resolution of legislature indorsing Sibley and bimetallic platform passed and approved this day."

Florida Officials Arrested.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 16.—Sheriff Bethe and tax collector Peoples of Desoto county were arrested at Arcadig yesterday charged with having embezzled county funds. The amount of the defalcation is not known.

Erastus Wiman Gets a New Trial.

NEW YORK, March 16.—The general term of the supreme court reversed the judgment of the lower court in the case of Erastus Wiman, and has granted him a new trial.

THE * CHRONICLE.

C. C. DuBOSE, Editor and Proprietor.

COLUMBIANA, MARCH 21, 1895.

ACCORDING to the revised records of the war department, 2,228,948 men served in the union army during the civil war. Of these 67,058 were killed in battle; 43,012 died from wounds and 224,586 from disease. This left 1,794,292 to be mustered out. When Lee surrendered at Appomattox, he had only 60,000 men, not more than 8,000 of whom were effective as a fighting force.

THE eastern carpet makers are shipping liberally of their products to Great Britain and the continent of Europe. The great Tennessee Coal and Iron company is preparing to ship pig iron to Italy, Spain, Belgum and other European countries. The United States, in the last fiscal year, exported $8,000,000 more value of iron manufactures than they imported. We shall get there as an exporter, if the politicians will just give production and trade a good long rest.

THE hen is the true bimetallist. She maintains the parity between the gold and silver in her eggs. If she is inclined to cackle over her achievement she is excusable, for it is a problem that has confounded the wisest in all ages. The egg, with its heart of gold enshrined in its casket of silver, should be the emblem of the bimetallists. As long as the egg is sound the parity is not disturbed. When decay sets in the parity is destroyed. Fragrance is the music of the egg, smell the discord of its harmony. The goose that laid the golden egg was a goose compared to the hen, and suffered the fate that befalls all monometallists.—Age-Herald.

COMMENTING on the improvement in business all over the country, the New York World says: "Signs of improving business are seen in many directions. Architecture and Building notes an advance of 40 per cent. in the number of land purchases in New York and 70 per cent. in the number of building permits, and 25 per cent. in the land purchases in Chicago, and says that this city is likely to see more work in this line started this spring than has been undertaken in five years before. Yesterday's despatches reported other tokens of the same sort. At Uxbridge, Mass., it was said that business in the woolen mills had 'taken a decided spurt,' and they are being 'pushed with orders.' At Connellsville, Pa., the 10,000 coke workers of the Frick and Southern companies were gladdened by notice of an advance in wages averaging about 15 per cent."

HERE is a novel scheme as reported to the Advertiser to be tried by the merchants and farmers in two Mississippi counties: The merchants have agreed among themselves, and with the farmers, that after January 1, 1896, they will not sell on credit any corn, hay, oats, potatoes, peas, or similar products to any farmer. The soil of the counties is well adapted to the growing of food products, and the idea is to put the farmers under the stern necessity of raising such crops. The merchants also agreed that they will give no farmer credit or assistance who will not give attention first to food crops and raise at home all he needs for home supplies. The merchants at the same time pledged themselves that they will do all in their power to develop a home market for all agricultural products: that they will buy whatever corn, hay, peas, bacon, tallow, hides, etc., that the farmers may have to sell. Both parties to the agreement, according to the report, are thoroughly in earnest, and will endeavor to live up to the letter and spirit of the bargain. And this plan may prove the solution to the problem which has vexed our people for years right here in Alabama. A great many people may be induced by it to at least follow the "live at home" policy and when this is done this section will again become prosperous and independent.

SOUND MONEY.

From the Fort Payne Journal.

We have studied somewhat for a correct definition for the term sound money. Those papers and people who follow the president's idea of finances seem to arrogate to that particular class of financial doctrinaires the soothing solace that they are the only advocates of sound money. Wherefore we are constained to seek a concise and general definition of the term.

Are greenbacks sound money? They are simply the promise of the government to pay, and if the government was unable to pay the money would be worthless. Therefore greenbacks are not sound money we suppose. Are national bank notes sound money? No more than the other, for they are based upon the promise of the government to pay. Are bank notes sound money? Aather insurance of promises to pay and, therefore, dependent for value upon the ability of the promiser to fulfill his engagements.

So it seems that any kind of promise money is liable to doubt and fluctuation. It may be sound and then it may not. What about gold certificates? Are they sound money? In this case the gold is actually on deposit to redeem the paper. But then some rascally custodian might steal the deposit or some other government might take it by force in war. So that there are contingencies about even that. Is a gold eagle coined and in hand, of full weight and requisite fineness, sound money? Surely all will agree that this is sound and why? Because the bullion in the coin is worth its face value the world over; you may melt it, beat it out of shape, yet it has its value. Now, then, if this is the true test of sound money what is the matter with the Mexican silver dollar? Its face value as a coin and its bullion value are as nearly equal as in the case of the gold eagle. It is primary money, not redemable in any other coin. It is no promise to pay, but is money itself. You may melt it down or beat it out of shape and it still retains its value like the gold. Yet the president's admirers hoot at the idea of this being sound money.

The Mexican's silver dollar is not as valuable as the gold dollar we admit. And herein lies, as we see it, the only difference. It does not demand as much of the sweat and toil of the laborer to obtain it. It does not require him to surrender as much of his property to buy it as does the gold dollar. But it is nevertheless sound as far as it goes and answers well the purposes of money.

According to the argument of the advocates of the gold standard the dear dollar is the only sound dollar, and the dearer the sounder. If some creditor nation should invest a dollar worth as much as two gold dollars and a few European nations should adopt it, that would at once become the only sound money and gold would be discredited. The dollar that grinds the poor man and laborer and puts it out of his power to pay his debts and give his wife and children anything more than a crust and a single cheap garment is the soundest dollar. The dollar that upholds the rich and those who fatten on government salaries; that enlarges the purchasing power of the fees of those who "toil not, neither do they spin;" that grows scarcer and harder to get year by year so that the small debt owed by the honest laborer grows harder and harder to pay and finally robs him of his little home, lands him in a pauper's grave and leaves his sons and daughters the slaves of his rich neighbor; this is the sound dollar of the Shylocks.

Ah! there is a world of untold misery and human slavery in this sound money talk, but it will perhaps never be known or even guessed at by the sound money advocates. The people are patient and long suffering. "Hope springs eternal in the human breast" and so long as the laboring people have bread and clothing enough for bare existence they bear their wrongs and hope for better times. God grant that it may be put into the hearts of our rulers to look more to the interests of the toiling millions of our land, and less to the inordinate demands of a grasping money power.

NOT ELEGANT BUT FORCEFUL.

It would be a great kindness to us if some of those unscrupulous dolts who make remarks to the effect that the Standard is not worth a cent, to come forward and enrich us by their arrears. There has been one nefarious coxcomb who made a similar remark about us that by a casualty we chanced to overhear and on looking up his account found he was in debt to us for subscription since the paper first made its appearance. Any one that would ally himself to such a thing as secret calumniation would, if he could not otherwise obtain it, sell for hay, the grass on a dead relative's grave.—Newton Standard.

A severe rheumatic pain in the left shoulder had troubled Mr. J. H. Loper, a well known druggist of Des Moines, Iowa, for over six months. At times the pain was so severe that he could not get rid of it until he applied Chamberlain's Pain Balm. "I only made three applications of it," he says, "And have since been free from all pain." He now recomends it to persons similarly afflicted. It is for sale by Parker & Armstrong

DISHONESTY THE NATION'S PERIL.

N. W. Lumberman.

Anybody who has been but a casual observer of events in this country must have been forcibly impressed with the recent growing tendency to dishonesty and downright villainy in politics, official life, corporate responsibility and private business obligations. There may be as honest men in all these relations to-day as at any period of the country's history, but it looks as if there were certainly an augmenting number of rank rascals.

This is first seen in the almost entire lack of honesty, honor and patriotism among politicians, the men who run the political machinery, from the township organizations to state and national conventions. Politics has become a word to which nobody but an ignoramus or a sophisticated office seeker attributes any element but that of dishonesty and fraud. It means a scheme of designing men to get the offices and thereby the chances to deceive and rob the people. In the older days of the republic men who sought office claimed they were accorded some degree of honor and sense of responsibility to their constituencies. They were to a large degree, at least, actuated by a patriotic desire to acquit themselves so as to be considered patriotic citizens, with a good name to preserve and hand down to posterity. Probably that feeling and motive is somewhat rife in the rural communities at the present time; but in the larger cities, if any of it remains, it is neither conspicuous nor emphatic. Men now seek office "for what there is in it" to them, and with small regard to the good of their constituents. They connive and combine to get the support of the worst elements in the community, because those elements represent the greatest number of votes. They cajole and fool the ignorant, the debased, and the victims of demagogy for the sake of votes, and the selfish partisans among the so-called better classes fall into line so as to be on the winning side. Officials thus elected cannot be expected to administer public affairs with much reference to anything but their own selfish interests. It cannot be expected that they will be much better than their constituencies. The effect of this debased motive in politics is to prostitute legislation to partisan ends, which are usually those of compromise with cliques which conspire to rob the people and fatten the conspirators. It also enables a lot of mediocre or low-grade, unprincipled men to get into office, and thus the body politic is permeated with dishonesty and, what is almost as bad, brainless, conscienceless incompetency.

SHATTERING THE TARIFF IDOLS.

From the Philadelphia Times.

In the South the legislatures have fostered textile industries by releiving the burden of taxation, and the response to this beneficent legislation has been the establishment of many score of woolen, cotton and iron mills in the Carolinas, Georgia, Alabama and Tennessee. Burdensome local laws and heavy taxes have been the direct cause of northern capital seeking investments below the Mason and Dixon line, and the loss has attained such serious proportions as to lead to inquiry by a committee of the legislature of Massachusetts.

This committee leans that in the instance of certain mills the saving on the single item of fuel alone was sufficient to take the investment from Lowell and locate it anew in Birmingham and Decatur. Coal tolls in Lowell at $4.50 a ton and in Birmingham at 80 cents to $1.50 made the difference in the situation. Furthermore the committee finds that a mill that Massachusetts taxes $90,000 annually pays only one-third that burden in England.

The startling fact is likewise brought forward that the protective policy, whose ardent champion the manufacturers in the Arkwright Club have always been, even to the point of closing down their mills during campaigns, is a main cause of the deserted and desolate rural regions in Massachusetts and Rhode Island, as the high tariff has been hostile to the agricultural interests. All this is a startling object lesson presenting evidence to northern manufacturers that a free raw material in the South is an invitation the heavily taxed industries of the North cannot compete with, The same story is true in respect to the iron and steel centres of Pennsylvania where high-priced fuel and taxed ores are working out a condition of ruin and wreck of a really appalling character. What the legislative inquiry in Massachusetts develops as facts and causes would be shown by a similar inquiry in this state, and it would be wisdom and justice to engage in it, with a view to retaining what still remains of an industry that formerly ranked Pennsylvania as first in the country, for this ascendancy is no longer safe and sure.

For seven years or more Mrs. W. D. Louder, of Quincy, Ky., was subject to severe attacks of cramp colic. Mr. S R. Morse, a druggist of that place, recommended Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy, which has effected a permanent cure, saving her much suffering besides the trouble and expense of sending for a doctor, which was often necessary. For sale by Parker & Armstrong.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy gives the best satisfaction of any cough medicine I handle, and as a seller leads all other preparations in this market. I recommend it because it is the best medicine I ever handled for cougins, colds and croup. A. W. Baldridge, Millersville, Ill. For sale by Parker & Armstrong.

THE LATEST SILVER IDEA.

From the Chattanooga Times.

And now the silveroon papers are telling us that when silver went up so and so many points in the New York market, wheat and corn went along, likewise cotton, in her pretty white dress, to keep silver company, we suppose.

But there is a hitch in the business. When one comes to examine the quotations he finds that silver advanced 1.7 per cent. on the price per ounce, between March 7 and March 16; and that wheat went up in the same period 8.4 per cent.; corn about 5 per cent., and cotton a shade more than 8 per cent.

We suggest that the "friends of silver" shout to their protege to "get a move on itself," lest it be left out of sight; but maybe silver is staying lower down to enable it to boost the suffering agricultural products, that have been with it in the slough of despond, deep down, for long, for long.

But this won't do, not for the silveroon, not much. He plants himself on the position that all agricultural products have gone down, in the precise rate as silver has gone down, and all of them advance in the like proportion—this he says through his able hat; of course so great an economist and "feenance" expert, should not be troubled about statistics, or called on for figures, or asked to make his postulation consist with facts and common sense.

Seriously, such drivel as has been lately emitted by the "friends of silver," in connection with the rise in price of several leading agricultural products, disgraces the American press, by emphasizing the charge that a considerable section of it is controlled by men who are mere human parrots, repeating the conclusions of sophists and smatterers, without the least effort to ascertain whether the conclusions are drawn from facts, logically, or are the emanations of an abnormal imagination, or are simply "forced."

A single touch of statistical facts and good sense crumbles the latest silver foolishness. Wheat has gone up simply and only because the world has waked up to the truth that the feeding of many millions of bushels to stock, in this country and abroad, has cut down the supply in sight and in farmers' hands, to very low figures. Corn has risen, because the shortness of the 1894 crop is being more and more generally felt, as the weeks pass. Cotton has advanced, because of increased consumption and the practical certainty that the American supply of 1895 will be at least 3,000,000 bales short of the supply of 1894.

Then the gabble about silver having to do with the advance in agricultural materials contradicts the chief silveroon postulate, which is: "All agricultural products have steadily fallen in price, since and because of, the demonetization of silver, by the Latan Union, Germany any the United States, in 1873." The inevitable conclusion from this postulate is that only the remonetization of silver can restore the equilibrium between the prices of products and the money measure.

But silver has not been remonetized, not even in the mind of the average silverite. It has risen in market a few points, for the same reason wheat, corn and cotton rose—obedient to the law of supply and demand.

That is the whole story; and we wonder that even a man who believes the "imaged superscription" of the sovereign can make a dollar out of a rag, or out of 47 cents worth of silver, should be unable to apprehend facts that are so simple and easily understood.

"Perhaps you would not think so, but a very large proportion of diseases in New York comes from carelessness about catching cold," says Dr. Syrus Edson. "It is such a simple thing and so common that very few people, unless it is a case of pneumonia, pay any attention to a cold. New York is one of the healthiest places on the Atlantic coast and yet there are a great many cases of catarrh and consumption which have their origin in this neglect of the simplest precaution of every day life. The most sensible advice is, when you have one get rid of it as soon as possible. By all means do not neglect it." Dr. Edson does not tell you how to cure a cold but we will. Take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It will relieve the lungs, aid expectoration, open the secretions and soon effect a permanent cure. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Parker & Armstrong.

Specimen Cases.

S. H. Clifford, New Cassel, Wis., was troubled with neuralgia and rheumatism, his stomach was disordered, his liver affected to an alarming degree, he fell away, and he was terribly reduced in flesh and strength Three bottles of Electric Bitters cured him.

Edward Shepherd, Harrisburg, had a Ill., running sore on his leg of eight years' standing. Used three bottles of Electric Bitters and seven boxes of Bucklen's Arnica Salve, and his leg is sound and well. John Speaker, Catawba, O., had five large fever sores on his leg; doctors said he was incurable. One bottle of Electric Bitters and one box of Arnica Salve cured him entirely. Sold at Parker & Armstrong's drug store.

FIFTH ANNUAL CONVENTION

Alabama Christian Endeavor Union, Birmingham, Ala., May 10-12, 1895.

DEAR CHRISTIAN ENDEAVORERS:

The above announcement interests you deeply. There are 2,500 Endeavorers in our good state and we ought to have 200 at this convention.

Are you proud of Christian Endeavor? Listen! We will be tested at Birmingham, because the Epworth League and Baptist Young People's Union meet there before us. Will you do your part to make our convention the largest and best? Then plan to be there and bring a friend who is interested in the C. E. work.

Two-third rates will be secured on all railroads on certificate plan and Birmingham invites you to be guests of their homes.

Pastors and Christian workers desiring information about this great work will be treated as delegates.

Good times and good things are in store for you. Dr. Gilby C. Kelly, of Kentucky, the staunch Methodist Christian Endeavorer, a trustee of the United Society will be there. You will be glad you heard him, and sorry if you miss him. Rev. Ira Landreth, who captivated the Selma convention, promises to come again. Then you will have a chance to talk some, too. Come and have a good time.

The Boston Convention, July 10-15, will be discussed. For all informations address FRED S. BALL,
Pres. Ala. C. E. Union.

AN APPEAL FOR AID.

To the Friends of the Orphans' Home at Talladega:

It is with reluctance that the home's executive committee makes a special call for assistance for its support and maintenance at this time, but with fifty helpless orphans committed to its keeping, and with applications for many more, we deem it right and proper that the friends of this noble charity, who have during the more than thirty years of its existence so generously maintained and supported it, should be made acquainted with its present condition and needs, feeling satisfied that the responses will be prompt and full. At this time last year the treasury of the home had sufficient funds to meet its pressing demands for several months, which enabled it to successfully tide over that part of the year when but small contributions could be reasonably expected. Now our treasury is exhausted and no means at hand to furnish subsistence beyond the present month, with some charges necessarily incurred during the current quarter unpaid.

There has been some delay in forwarding the proceeds of the synod's yearly appointed collections, and it may be that there are still other of these offerings that have not been forwarded. We ask the friends of the home to make a special effort at as early a day as possible in behalf of the home. By order of the executive committee. G. K. MILLER,
Vice-Chairman.

G. R. FOSTER, Secretary.

P. S.—All contributions will please be forwarded to

J. B. MCMILLAN,
Treasurer, Talladega, Ala.

The Delineator for April

is called the spring announcement number, and is an excellent specimen of this most popular woman's magazine. Supplementary to the regular issue of patterns there is a timely article on Bicycling, with illustrations of Costumes, that will interest all lovers of the wheel. The papers on The Voice, which were interrupted by the illness of the author, are resumed; and there is begun a most practical series on Preservation and Renovation, the first instalment treating of the Putting Away and Care of Furs. Mrs. Roger A. Pryor writes very entertainingly on the Etiquette of First Calls and Introductions, giving the accepted usages and formulas; and the second paper on The Experiences of a Training School Life increases the interest already felt in the subject. The Dean of Barnard College contributes a charmingly written article on A Girl's Life and Work at the University of Chicago, of which she was a Fellow, 1893-'94; Belle Pierson Springer writes forcibly of Typesetting as an Employment for Women; and Sara Miller Kirby gives further instruction in Kindergarten Teaching. How to Make Dolls' Houses is shown in Crepe and Tissue papers, new and exceedingly pretty designs are given in Venetian Iron Work, Knitting, Tatting, Netting and Crocheting, and the chapter on Burnt Leather Work gives illustrations and information of the necessary tools and implements and advice to beginners. The Cookery article gives receips for some new dishes, there is a paper on the Serving of Pineapples and Grape Fruit, one on Table Decoration, and the usual contribution on Floral Culture. Around the Tea-Table is bright and entertaining, Mother and Son is earnest and instructive, and A Novel Salmagundi Party suggests a delightful evening's amusement. There is also a review of The Newest Books, some Instrumental Music and an Easter Carol.

Now Try This.

It will cost you nothing and surely do you good, if you have a cough, cold, or any trouble with throat, chest or lungs. Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."
DR. G. C. OSGOOD,
Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."
DR. J. F. KINCHELOE,
Conway, Ark.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."
H. A. ARCHER, M. D.,
111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

Despaired OF RELIEF. CURED BY

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

"Some time since, I had a severe attack of asthma, accompanied with a distressing cough and a general soreness of the joints and muscles. I consulted physicians and tried various remedies, but without getting any relief, until I despaired of ever being well again. Finally, I took Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and in a very short time, was entirely cured. I can, therefore, cordially and confidently commend this medicine to all."—J. ROSELLS, Victoria, Texas.

A MERCHANT'S DECLINE.

He started a six-story store,
Then dropped to five and then to four;
Could scarce believe his eyes,
And now he has a store no more,
He peddles goods from door to door;
He didn't advertise.

—Boston Courier.

Circuit court will convene next Monday.

Mrs. Arch Carter, of Shelby, spent Monday in town.

John Millstead, of Wilsonville, spent Friday in town.

Henry Fallon ran up to Anniston yefterday for a short stay.

W. A. Walburn, of Shelby, was in town Friday and Saturday.

Gen. E. W. Pettus, of Selma, was in town Monday and Tuesday.

T. J. Peter, of Brierfield, was in town a few hours yerterday.

Mrs. I. W. Bailey, of Calera, is on a visit to relations at the Central.

Hon. Cecil Browne, of Talladega, attended chancery court this week.

Judge Leeper was taken quite sick Monday, but he is some better to-day.

J. W. Bolin, of near Wilsonville, spent a few hours in town yesterday.

Horace Hammond spent Sunday with his father's family at Wilsonville.

Mrs. Robert Carter, of Shelby, visited her sister, Mrs. I. D. Mason, Monday.

More rain more loafing, more loafing more growling, more growling more rain.

Miss Ella Davidson, of Centerville, is on a visit to her friend, Miss Nora Leeper.

Yesterday the sun crossed the equator, thus making the day and night of equal length.

H. E. Reynolds returned Sunday from a two week's visit to Birmingham, Blocton and Montevallo.

Chancery court convened Monday, Hon. S. K. McSpadden presiding. The court adjourned finally yesterday at noon.

Capt. W. C. Ward, a prominent Birmingham attorney, has been here this week in attendance upon chancery court.

N. C. Curtis, for many years a resident of our town, but lately a resident of Georgia, is here on a visit to old friends.

Miss Annie Woodruff, of Gadsden, who has been spending some time with relatives in town, returned home Saturday.

Quite a number of strangers were in town the fore part of the week, most of whom were in attendance upon chancery court.

Tax Assessor Hammond will be in Columbiana all of next week, during which time all will be given an opportunity to assess their taxes.

Overseer Elliott, with a large force of hands, has been at work on our streets this week. Throw the dirt to the center of the road, Amos.

We learn with regret that Miss Birdie Teague has been quite ill the past several days. We hope soon to report her complete restoration to health.

The heavy rains of last week have left the roads in a terrible condition, making travel almost impossible, and has put a stop to all attempts at farming. This is one of the latest springs Alabama has known for years.

Dr. F. F. Snedecor, the dentist, will be in our town for a few days beginning next Monday. He comes well recommended both from the Chicago and the Philadelphia dental colleges.

Mrs. George Mason, who is spending some time with her sister, Mrs. J. Seals, near Good Hope, celebrated her 81st birthday Monday. Mrs. Mason has a host of friends who wish for her many more happy birthdays.

Delmont—crank, actor and contortionist, struck the town last Friday. He is making a tour of the world on foot. He gave a very creditable performance Friday night at the court house to an audience of six.

According to zodiacal calculations yesterday was the first day of spring. We are glad the wise almanac makers told us this for we never would have found it out by the appearance of the day, for it was cloudy, raw and cheerless.

Shelby County's Sons Ahead.

Editor Chronicle, Columbiana, Ala.:

DEAR SIR—Please publish in your paper that W. E. Breazeale, of Calera, and J. W. O'Hara, of Columbiana, are on the honor roll of Howard College for the six weeks ending March 8, 1895. Mr. O'Hara and another young man had the same mark for second highest average, 99.5.

Yours respectfully,
A. W. MCGAHA,
President Howard College.

A telegram from Heflin to the Age-Herald, dated the 19th inst., conveys the following sad intelligence: "Judge L. F. Box is seriously ill at Edwardsville, having gone there last week to hold court. On last night he had a paralytical attack and at 12 o'clock today was thought to be dying. At 7 o'clock this evening there was no change in his condition. His wife has been with him during the week. Last night they sent a telegram for his children. Judge Box is serving his third term as judge of this circuit, and is loved by the people of Cleburne county." The people will learn with sincere regret of Judge Box's serious illness, for he is universally liked and respected. We hope, however, that he may yet recover and be restored to his accustomed good health. We regret very much that he cannot preside over our court which will convene next Monday.

Items From Cresswell.

Everybody and his daddy are talking about going to Texas.

The river is rising very fast from the recent rains. Look out girls for a boat ride.

Miss Ada Cosper, of Cobb, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Belle Chancellor, near this place.

Mr. R. Wood, of Childersburg, was on our streets last Friday looking after his fertilizer business.

Our farmers are becoming very despondent over the weather, but they are still buying and hauling fertilizer.

The colored school closed at this place a few days ago until summer. The patrons express themselves as being highly pleased with their present teacher, James F. McClellan, and recommend him to any of their race as such.

A new schedule took effect on the C. & W. road last Sunday. Train No. 1, west bound, passing formerly at 10:30 a. m., passes now at 4:15 p. m. No. 2 east bound, passing formerly at 4:37 p. m., passes now at 10:30 a. m. We like the new schedule better, but our section man can't go to Henryellen so often.

Mr. L. H. Cosper, one of our young farmers, had rather an expensive joke played on him the early part of last week. About three weeks ago he hired a boy to work with him during the year. The boy had been with him but a short time when he began wanting to trade on credit, and last Saturday a week he gave the boy an order to go and get what he wanted, and he, of course, invested in a suit of clothes, getting into Cosper's debt about ten or twelve dollars, and on the following Tuesday night he took clothes and all but a new pair of shoes, which he forgot, and skipped the city.

CHOCTAW.

Shelby Siftings.

The Shelby Literary and Debating society held its regular meeting at the High School building last Thursday night. A short business session preceded the literary program. The order of entertainment for the evening was a debate between the young ladies and gentlemen of the society, the subject being: "Resolved, That beauty is more attractive than intelligence." The result was an easy victory for the young ladies. Never before did they look more charming, and never did girls speak as they spake. All honor to our fair members, and of our "negatives" we will say—they will speak "another way." The committee has arranged a very interesting program for the next meeting, consisting of music, reading, recitations, essays, etc. All are cordially invited to attend. The next meeting will be held Thursday night, March 28th. Our society was honored with the presence of Hampden DuBo e and Clem Greek, of Columbiana, at the last meeting.

F. H. SPEARS,
Corresponding Secretary.

Harpersville Echoes.

Money is scarce.
The cold weather continues.
Why don't somebody marry.
Our sick people are all improving.
Wonder who killed those birds which Prof. Lee was seen with Saturday evening?

Dr. Steadham, of Easonville, has located in our town and is going into the drug business.

Mr. Thurston Darby, of near Birmingham, spent several days of last week with the family of Col. Kidd.

Mrs. Davis, of Kelley's creek, came down a few days ago to spend some time with her daughter, Mrs. Simmons.

The wild turkey gobbler is heard now, and some of our boys are hunting him early and late. Who will be the first to kill?

"Square" Moss will hold his first court on Saturday before the second Sunday in next month. Everybody invited to attend.

Mr. John Kidd went down to Montgomery last week, we don't know what for, but suppose that he went to consult Governor Oates in regard to moving the capitol to Vincent, as he is now a citizen of that booming little town.

Died, near this place, very suddenly on the 12th inst., Mrs. Walton, of the Weldon neighborhood, aged 63 years. She came out here just one week before she died, perfectly well, to see her daughter's sick children, and was taken sick on her arrival and lived only a week. She was taken back among whom she had lived so long and burried in the Weldon cemetery. She leaves several children, besides relatives and friends, to mourn her departure. We extend our sympathy to the sorrowing ones, in this, their sad hour of bereavment.

JAKE.

Items from Sterrett.

It did rain last week.

Road working is the order of the day this week.

There are several cases of sickness in our community.

Sam Perry has gone to Birmingham to work. So we hear.

Asa Goodwin, Sr., of Hillman, came over Sunday to visit relatives.

B. W. Cosper, of the trestle crew, was up to see home folks a few days since.

Joel H. Falkner, of Dadeville, has returned to his home here to stay awhile.

We are sorry to state that Little Curtis Byers has been very sick the past week.

Prof. Kinnett is wearing a broad smile every day and is very pleasant among his pupils. It's a girl.

Miss Myrtie Neal, who has been teaching music here since our last writing, left Sunday to visit Birmingham.

Died, several days ago, a little son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Hix. We greatly sympathize with them in the sad loss of their only child.

Died, in the Vandiver settlement, last week, Perry Whitfield, of heart trouble. To the bereaved family we extend our sympathies.

The subject to be debated this week is: "Resolved that war has been more destructive to life and property in the United States than intoxicant drinks." This subject suggest some good logic.

The many friends of our clever merchant, R. E. Cosper, will be sorry to hear that he has been confined to his room for more than a week and unable to attend to business; we hope he may soon recover and be at his post again.

We are sorry to chronicle the severe illness of S. M. Goodwin, who has been sick for the past two weeks, but he is improving some. Although he is confined to his home, yet he is smiling through his afflictions. It is a bouncing boy.

On Sunday night, 10 inst., while on his way from Mr. J. W. Perry's to his home, Mr. A. B. Allen, our estimable saw-mill man, was stricken with paralysis of the brain caused by coagulation of blood. It is very doubtful if he ever gets up again. This sad affair is very much regretted by all who know him; he was a very useful man being the head of the firm of A. B. Allen & Company.

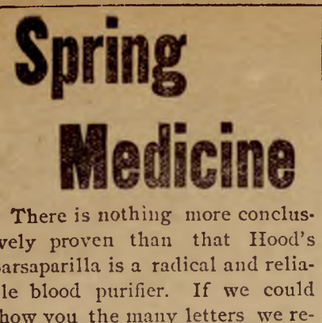
Spring Medicine

There is nothing more conclusively proven than that Hood's Sarsaparilla is a radical and reliable blood purifier. If we could show you the many letters we receive from people of whom we never heard before, telling of remarkable cures of scrofula, salt rheum and all kinds and degrees of disease of the blood, you would be as fully convinced of, and as enthusiastic over, the merits of Hood's Sarsaparilla as we are. By taking it now you may realize the benefit to be derived from Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Hood's Sarsaparilla



"I had scrofula and was almost blind. had been a great sufferer for 15 years. had tried physicians and different medicines but did not get any benefit. I had almost given up all hope when one day I saw an advertisement of Hood's Sarsaparilla. The testimonial gave me confidence and I purchased a bottle. After I had taken two bottles I was greatly improved. I continued and

It Entirely Cured Me.

I have waited a year and found the cure is perfect, thanks to Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Hood's Sarsaparilla Cures

I will ever be ready to recommend it to anyone suffering from impure blood. It is a wonderful medicine and any home should not be without it." Miss Rosie Favors, 1007 South Chestnut St., Muncie, Indiana. Get Hood's.

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 50c and $1 bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

Some Plain Facts Concerning the New Gold Loan.

Some unprincipled journals find a queer satisfaction in trying to persuade their readers that the more successful the new gold loan is shown to be the more the administration should be scolded for making it. Their reasoning is that the higher the prices obtained for the new bonds, the more the taxpayers have been robbed, and this rests on the assumption that these prices could have been obtained by the treasury had the bonds been offered at open competition in this country. We do not know that they forget, but they choose to ignore, that the conditions which make these high prices possible were brought about by the loan itself and could not have been realized by a loan on other terms. The advance in the new bonds measures the increased confidence of the world that the gold reserve will be ample and will be maintained, and that confidence is due to the fact that by the terms of the loan gold will be put into the reserve and kept there.

Suppose the administration had adopted the plan of asking for a domestic gold loan. The first thing requisite would have been to fix the price at which bonds should be offered to the public. What price could safely have been determined? Could the critics of the recent plan have said? No doubt they would now undertake to say, with that ex post facto wisdom which is at once so cheap and so worthless. But could they have said then? Not one of them. Any banker who should have ventured three weeks ago to answer such a question would have been regarded, and justly regarded, as an unsafe person. But assuming this impossible condition to have been met, the next question would have been: Where would the gold have been got? If it could have been got at all at home it would have come out of the treasury. If it had been got from abroad, one of two things would have happened. Either sure provision would have had to be made by a powerful syndicate that the gold, once put in the treasury, would stay there, and that involves the substance of the present plan, on such terms as could have been made with a syndicate strong enough to do the work, which would have been certainly no better than the terms now made. Or the gold would have gone out of the treasury as rapidly as did the proceeds of the November loan. In the former case there would have been no real change from the plan now so bitterly denounced. In the latter case our condition would have been worse than it was in the early days of February.

We are aware that there is no use in explaining these perfectly plain facts to the writers or the "statesmen" who are waging a war of demagogic abuse upon the administration. They care nothing for the facts, and if they were able to understand them, which in many cases is doubtful, they would pay no attention to them. Their motive is simply to create a passionate resentment in the minds of the ignorant and to pose as defenders of the people against those who would deceive them. But it is the enemies of the administration who are practicing deceit, and in a most shameful fashion. Happily, as we believe, their efforts will be futile. The American people have a keen scent for honesty, and they will know as time goes on and the great benefits bestowed on them by the wise and brave action of Mr. Cleveland become more and more plain, that they have been honestly as well as ably served. And they will turn a deaf ear to the hoarse cries of the demagogues and go about their daily business, reaping from it the advantages which Mr. Cleveland has made possible for them.—N. Y. Times.

OPERATION OF THE NEW TARIFF

Receipts Are Larger Than Under the McKinley Measure—To Stop Gold Exports.

Figures concerning the operation of the new tariff law during the first six months of its operation are now available. They justify those friends of the new law who have stood firm in its defense amid all the storm of criticism aimed against it. It is well understood by everyone that a great diminution of receipts from internal revenue sources was inevitable after the enactment of the new law. This could not have been averted, for manufacturers always anticipated any addition to the tax on spirits and other internal revenue articles, and loss of receipts are sure to follow. This loss is temporary, however, and in this case the receipts will soon be up to and in excess of the old mark. In the most important customs feature of the operation of the new law, the figures give great satisfaction to the friends of the measure. The new law went into effect August 28, 1894, and by comparing the receipts of September, October, November and December, 1894, and January and February of this year with the corresponding six months of the preceding years it is easy to determine whether the new law has given an increase or decrease of customs receipts. The following figures show the customs receipts for the six months in question, month by month, under the new law, and during the corresponding months of the preceding year under the McKinley law:

WILSON LAW.		McKINLEY LAW.
Sept., 1894	$15,564,000	Sept., 1893	$12,569,773
Oct., 1894	11,902,118	Oct., 1893	10,909,531
Nov., 1894	10,200,332	Nov., 1893	10,218,638
Dec., 1894	11,293,049	Dec., 1893	9,153,215
Jan., 1895	17,361,916	Jan., 1894	11,454,893
Feb., 1895	13,384,091	Feb., 1894	10,590,528
Total	$79,086,456	Total	$64,786,541

It will be seen that the customs receipts during the last half year, under the new law, were greater in every month than the old, and in the aggregate were nearly 25 per cent. greater than those of the corresponding months of the previous year under the McKinley law. The figures showing the exact quantity of dutiable and free importations for the half year have not been completed, but those obtainable at this time indicate that the dutiable importations for the first half year under the law will be from $35,000,000 to $40,000,000 greater in value than those under the corresponding months of the last year under the McKinley law, while there is also an increase in importations of non-dutiable articles. Thus it is apparent that the new law is increasing free importations, increasing dutiable importations, increasing customs receipts, and will increase the internal revenue receipts when operations under it assume a normal condition.—Chicago Herald.

AMERICAN CARPETS ABROAD.

Curious Admission Made by an Official Organ of High Protection.

We do not quite understand why the Protective Tariff league publishes in its weekly journal, the American Economist, a long article taken from the Textile Mercury (English) of the 19th ult., relating to the failure of certain manufacturers of carpets in Kidderminster. It is explained in this article that the failures were due chiefly to "American competition" in the English market—that is to say, to the underselling of the English manufacturers at their own doors by manufacturers who shipped their goods from this country.

As the Protective Tariff league and the followers of McKinley generally have asserted that the recent reduction of our duties on English carpets would ruin the domestic industry, because American manufacturers could not compete with the English here at home without the aid of a high duty, to say nothing of competing with them in England without the aid of any duty whatever, the league's purpose in circulating this article through the country is not clearly disclosed.

We quote a few sentences. Concerning the failure of "the well-known and hitherto successful firm of H. R. Willis & Co., limited," the Textile Mercury says:

"This firm has suffered severely from the general bad trade during the last two years and from the effects of American competition. The almost total failure of the Brussels industry, consequent upon the enormous reduction in Axminster makes, which that competition has caused, has hit Kidderminster very badly."

After announcing the failure of Whittal Bros. & Co., also of Kidderminster, the English journal goes on as follows:

"The Brussels section of the industry has suffered severely from the reduction in prices of Axminster makes, brought about by the necessity of meeting the competition of the moquettes sold on the English markets by the Alexander Smith company of Yonkers, New York state."

It is also pointed out that the agent of this company arrived recently at Liverpool, and that the English manufacturers "may expect an increase of carpet exports from the states before long.

"The fact is one which, in the present condition of the English carpet trade, is perhaps to be regretted. There it is, however, and it must be reckoned with. From conversation with leading buyers we are assured that, notwithstanding what has been said against them, the American carpets are good value for the money. For the first time in the history of the country the states last year shipped to this country more carpets than we sold to them."

And these carpets were sold profitably in England in open competition with the English makers, without the assistance of any tariff protection and in spite of the disadvantage of ocean freight charges.

We think the league's subscribers will rub their eyes when they see this article in the American Economist or in any of the numerous journals in the interior of the country to which the league's weekly journal supplies tariff matter in stereotyped plates, free of cost.—N. Y. Times.

LESSONS FOR M'KINLEYITES.

An Illustration of the Folly of the Protection Policy.

These are times when those of the McKinley tariff school should be in high feather. Their congratulations should be cabled to France and the ties of amity between the two nations should be declared stronger than ever. The fraternal hand should also be extended to Germany, and the little major who is the high priest of protection here should at least be given the homage of a patron saint there. The doctrines which have been preached to our farmers, our stockraisers, and all the other producers in this country of unlimited resources, are being practically applied by our sister governments of the eastern continent. They are erecting barriers against our commerce just as we erected barriers against theirs during the greater part of a century, and the republican party must applaud, or, by opposition, make the acknowledgment of its own political heresies.

France is now saying to her millions of people that they must be content with a poorer quality of beef and pay more for it, in order to protect the stock-growers of their own country, and properly stimulate an "infant" industry. All must suffer that a few may prosper. There is no advance in wages, no compensation of any kind for the additional burden thus imposed. The masses are forced by the strong arm of the law to pay tribute to the few. It is intimated that there is to follow this blow to American trade and to the vast majority of the French people another equally telling upon both. There is a movement to exclude American wheat and to still further restrict a market in which it has fallen to the value of hog feed. The policy of Germany is along the same lines of high protection and calls for the plaudits of the McKinleyites.

In the light of such procedure the scales should fall from the eyes of those who have held to the delusion that a nation like this can tax itself into the highest attainable state of prosperity. No greater folly is conceivable than that the country which should be the granary of the world; which in the extent and the wealth of its resources is without a rival, which has the genius, the intelligence and the enterprise that entitle it to supremacy, should set the example of barring the commerce of the outside world in which it should find a market for its own surplusage. The greatest producer for years closed its doors against those who came to trade with it; and now that its opportunities for foreign sales are being systematically curtailed those responsible for our own error must approve protection abroad or renounce their own faith. Germany and France afford object lessons in high protection that the disciples of McKinley would do well to study.—Detroit Free Press.

WAS GOULD INSANE?

Financial Worry and Physical Exertion Not the Greatest Destroyer of Human Life.

For Humanity's Sake, After Thirty-six Years of Nerve-Creeping Slavery, He Tells How He Was Set Free.

Caldwell, N. J., March 19, 1895.—(Special.) Since one of our prominent citizens suffered so terribly from tobacco tremens, has made known his frightful experience in behalf of humanity, the ladies here are making tobacco-using husbands' lives miserable with their entreaties to at once quit tobacco.

The written statement of S. J. Gould is attracting wide-spread attention. When interviewed to-night he said: "I commenced using tobacco at thirteen; I am now forty-nine; so, for thirty-six years I chewed, smoked, snuffed and rubbed snuff. In the morning I chewed before I put my pants on, and for a long time I used two ounces of chewing and eight ounces of smoking a day. Sometimes I had a chew in both cheeks and a pipe in my mouth at once. Ten years ago I quit drinking whisky. I tried to stop tobacco time and again, but could not. My nerves craved nicotine and I fed them, till my skin turned a tobacco-brown, cold, sticky perspiration oozed from my skin, and trickled down my back at the least exertion or excitement. My nerve vigor and my life was being slowly sapped. I made up my mind that I had to quit tobacco or die. On October 1 I stopped, and for three days I suffered the tortures of the damned. On the third day I got so bad that my partner accused me of being drunk. I said, 'No, I have quit tobacco.' 'For God's sake, man,' he said, offering me his tobacco box, 'take a chew; you will go wild,' and I was wild. Tobacco was forced into me and I was taken home dazed. I saw double and my memory was beyond control, but I still knew how to chew and smoke, which I did all day until towards night, when my system got tobacco-soaked again. The next morning I looked and felt as though I had been through a long spell of sickness. I gave up in despair, as I thought that I could not cure myself. Now, for suffering humanity, I'll tell what saved my life. Providence evidently answered my good wife's prayers and brought to her attention in our paper an article which read: 'Don't Tobacco Spit and Smoke Your Life Away!'

"What a sermon and warning in these words! Just what I was doing. It told about a guaranteed cure for the tobacco habit, called No-To-Bac. I sent to Druggist Hasler for a box. Without a grain of faith I spit out my tobacco cud, and put into my mouth a little tablet upon which was stamped No-To-Bac. I know it sounds like a lie when I tell you that I took eight tablets the first day, seven the next, five the third day, and all the nerve-creeping feeling, restlessness and mental depression was gone. It was too good to be true. It seemed like a dream. That was a month ago. I used one box. It cost me $1, and it is worth a thousand. I gained ten pounds in weight and lost all desire for tobacco from the first day. I sleep and eat well and I have been benefited in more ways than I can tell. No, the cure was no exception in my case. I know of ten people right here in Caldwell who have bought No-To-Bac from Hasler, and they have been cured. Now that I realize what No-To-Bac has done for me and others, I know why it is that the makers of this wonderful remedy, the Sterling Remedy Company, of New York and Chicago, say: 'We don't claim to cure every case. That's Fraud's talk, a lie; but we do guarantee three boxes to cure the tobacco habit, and in case of failure we are perfectly willing to refund money.' I would not give a public indorsement if I were not certain of its reliability. I know it is backed by men worth a million. No-To-Bac has been a God-send to me, and I firmly believe it will cure any case of tobacco-using if faithfully tried, and there are thousands of tobacco slaves who ought to know how easy it is to get free. There's happiness in No-To-Bac for the prematurely old men, who think as I did that they are old and worn out, when tobacco is the thing that destroys their vitality and manhood."

The public should be warned, however, against the purchase of any of the many imitations on the market, as the success of No-To-Bac has brought forth a host of counterfeiters and imitators. The genuine No-To-Bac is sold under a guarantee to cure, by all druggists, and every tablet has the word No-To-Bac plainly stamped thereon, and you run no physical or financial risk in purchasing the genuine article.

The wind o' the north
Sends great storms forth.

Taken together all sorts of weather.

God's Music.

Since ever the world was fashioned,
Water, and air, and sod,
A music of divers meaning
Has flowed from the hand of God.
In valley, and gorge, and upland,
On stormy mountain height,
He makes him a harp of the forest,
He sweeps the chords with might;
He puts forth His hand to the ocean,
He speaks and the waters flow—
Now in a chorus of thunder,
Now in a cadence low.
He touches the waving flower bells,
He plays on the woodland streams—
A tender song, like a mother
Sings to her child in dreams.
But the music divinest and dearest,
Since ever the world began,
Is the manifold passionate music
He draws from the heart of man!
—Temple Bar.

The Rule of Contrary.

How things do go by contraries
In this sublunary sphere!
And men's names, of Fate's vagaries,
Are the queerest of the queer.

Mr. Goodman is a bad man,
Mr. Wellman's always ill;
Mr. Joy, he is a sad man;
Mr. Wiseman's wisdom's nil.

Mr. Blackman is a white man,
Mr. White, he is a black;
Mr. Stout he is a slight man,
Mr. Neat is mighty slack.

Mr. Winter's full of ardor,
Mr. Summer is always cold;
Mr Gamble ne'er a card or
"Chip" was ever known to hold.

Mr. Long he is a short man,
Mr. Wildman he is meek;
Mr. Learned's an untaught man;
Mr. Meek has got the "cheek."

Mr. Tailor ne'er made breeches,
Nor did Nailor drive a nail;
Mr. Pitcher never pitches,
Nor does Sailor reef a sail.

Mr. Wait is always early,
Mr. Early's always late;
Mr. Sweet is always surly,
Mr. Crook is always "straight."

And so, thro' the categories!
Oh, what is there that can lie
Like men's names—except the stories
Told by tombstones when men die?
—Boston Globe.

A Reason for It.

The world is always sunny
To the chap that has the money;
But you've got to hunt the honey,
Like the bees!
If they idled every hour,
In the shine, or in the shower,
Would they ever find a flower,
In the breeze?

Though the stormy wind is blowin',
There is reapin', there is sowin',
An' milk an' honey flowin'
Left an' right!
But you've got to brave the weather;
You must lengthen out your tether
If you want to win the feather,
In the fight.

ORIGIN OF COLD WAVES.

A Mountain Valley in British Columbia Where They Take Their Rise.

It is frequently asked, Where do cold waves originate? The coldest portion of the North American continent is, in all probability, in the Saskatchewan valley, east of Mount Hooker and Mount Head, both of which are situated in the Rocky Mountain range that divides British Columbia from this valley and the Alberta country. The height of this mountain range prevents the eastern trend or flow of vapor from the Pacific ocean from crossing over into this valley, as it would were it not for the presence of this high range of mountains. Yet it must not be supposed that extreme cold always prevails here, because at certain intervals the vapor from the Pacific flows east by way of the Alaskan peninsula, through the upper valley of the Athabasca river into Alberta and the valley of the Saskatchewan, and there meeting with a more southern and eastern flow of vapor that flows through the gap in the mountain range, made by the bay of San Juan, it warms and expands the atmosphere, crosses the path of the cold wave, and a warmth of from twenty to forty degrees is the result, as we often see graphically marked on the weather map by red dots, here and there on its surface. But this does not satisfactorily answer why it is that the cold wave leaves its home in the above-mentioned valley to go junketing on a southern tour. To find the cause of those successive cold waves we will have to look in quite another direction, down to the northern tropical latitude, where the great evaporation of those warm currents and ocean surfaces is carried westward from the Atlantic ocean by the trade winds, and is massed together between those winds of the eastern off-shore winds, blowing sometimes from Florida, and at other times from Texas, but in either case promoting a cyclonic action, which has the effect of enlarging the area of the storm, and the immediate result is an enormous expansion of the atmosphere usually denominated "low." As this low moves across the surface of the middle or eastern states it pours down large quantities of water in the shape of rain, and is constantly receiving accessions of cloud matter to replenish its energies; and thus in this manner it creates more or less of a vacuum into which the air from the northwest is drawn with more or less momentum, and the cold wave is completed.—Washington Post.

TRIALS OF A HOSTESS.

Social and Domestic Difficulties to be Encountered and Overcome.

A hostess may be said to have many trying moments while fulfilling her hospitable obligations. Social and domestic difficulties have to be encountered and surmounted more or less successfully, and the best made of the inevitable. Then there are two channels through which a hostess is made to tremble or to feel something very much akin to that fear mingled with annoyance with which so many are too well acquinted. A point is scored on every occasion when contretemps and dilemmas are not allowed to appear on the surface or to become apparent through preoccupation of speech or manner, and to carry off a difficulty with ease and grace is one of the most useful lessons to practice. It is easier to say what should not be done than what should; but to make light of an annoyance, rather than magnify it into a grievance, is a rule safe to follow.

A host is quite as prone to err in the matter of making a grievance as is a hostess, and a displeasing husband, whose smart cook happened to get out of her depth in some of her courses, drew attention to these culinary failures by angrily indicating each one to the lady seated at his right hand. The intense chagrin and discomfiture of the hostess may be imagined. Things will not always go smoothly in the best ordered households, and when anything unexpectedly goes wrong the received rule is to let it pass by as quietly as may be, and not to make it a subject of conversation and comment.

Competition is a serious matter to cope with. It is keen and alert, and a hostess can not escape from its influence. If unequal to taking the lead, she must at least follow close in the wake of those who do; she must be up to date in surroundings and accessories, in what is of importance as well as in mere trifles. To keep pace with others she must observe, she must remember, she must keep her eyes open, and she must bring her intelligence to bear upon even the pettiest details; she must instruct, she must admonish, and bear with patience and equanimity shortcomings and disappointments on the part of her domestic.—London Queen.

A CAT'S ACHIEVEMENT.

Puss Adds a Mite to the Knowledge of Naturalists.

Poor pussy has often served the purposes of science, but generally not to her own comfort, and frequently with the loss of her life. Recently, however, a cat in Australia proved her usefulness in the advancement of human knowledge without being compeled to sacrifice herself on the altar of science.

This remarkably gifted, or remarkably fortunate, cat belonged to one of the troopers who accompanied the recent exploring expedition into the interior of Australia. One day it brought to its master a strange little animal which it had captured among the rocks. The trooper handed the animal over to Dr. Stirling, the anthropologist of the party, who saw at once that pussy had made an important discovery.

The animal she had caught was a new and apparently rare species of the tribe of insect-eating marsupials which are scientifically named phascogale, belonging to the great family of which the giant kangaroo is the most conspicuous representative. The greatness of pussy's good fortune was shown when the delighted men of science whom she had favored with the prize of her hunting employed several of the native inhabitants of the country to find some more specimens of the little marsupial.

Several days of hunting by men incited by the offer of valuable rewards resulted in the discovery of only two more specimens. The animal lives in holes among the rocks, and feeds upon ants and other insects. The native name for it is the "amperta."

We are not informed whether the cat discoverer got any reward, but she ought at least to be decorated with a blue ribbod.—Youth's Companion.

WOMEN'S FACES

—like flowers, fade and wither with time; the bloom of the rose is only known to the healthy woman's cheeks. The nervous strain caused by the ailments and pains peculiar to the sex, and the labor and worry of rearing a family, can often be traced by the lines in the woman's face. Dull eyes, the sallow or wrinkled face and those "feelings of weakness" have their rise in the derangements and irregularities peculiar to women. The functional derangements, painful disorders, and chronic weaknesses of women, can be cured with Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. For the young girl just entering womanhood, for the mother and those about to become mothers, and later in "the change of life," the "Prescription" is just what they need; it aids nature in preparing the system for the change. It's a medicine prescribed for thirty years, in the diseases of women, by Dr. R. V. Pierce, chief consulting physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, at Buffalo, N. Y. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription will cure the chronic inflammation of the lining membranes which cause such exhausting drains upon the system. It cures nervous prostration, sleeplessness, faintness, nervous debility and all disorders arising from derangement of the female organs and functions.

Mrs. Jennie Williams, of Mohawk, Lane Co., Oregon, writes: "I was sick for over three years with blind dizzy spells, palpitation of the heart, pain in the back and head, and at times would have such a weak tired feeling when I first got up in the morning, and at times nervous chills.

Mrs. Williams.

The physicians differed as to what my disease was, but none of them did me any good. As soon as I commenced taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, I began to get better; could sleep well nights, and that bad, nervous feeling and the pain in my back soon left me. I can walk several miles without getting tired. I took in all three bottles of 'Prescription' and two of 'Discovery.'"

We would not have expended

HUNDREDS OF THOUSANDS OF DOLLARS

doing galvanizing, for which we made no extra charge, had there not been merit in it. Galvanizing consists in coating the strong but most perishable (in thin sheets) metal, steel, with the almost indestructible (even when very thin) metals, zinc and aluminum. If there were not great merit in galvanizing, no one would pay ½ more for galvanized barbed wire or sheet iron than ungalvanized costs. If we were making painted windmills to-day, we should furnish an

8 Ft. for $15

That is a good price for an 8-foot painted windmill.

WE BUILD FOR THE AGES. WE WOULD NOT SELL YOU A POOR, PAINTED WHEEL, NOR ONE MADE OF METAL GALVANIZED BEFORE BEING PUT TOGETHER, IF YOU WOULD PAY US DOUBLE PRICE FOR IT. We build the best we know, and knowing that painted thin sheets are practically worthless, we have nothing to do with them. The enormous cost of preparing to do galvanizing, and of doing it well on a large scale, deters others. SOME BUY GALVANIZED SHEETS AND PUNCH AND SHEAR AND MAKE THEM UP AFTERWARD. WHEELS OR VANES MADE OF GALVANIZED SHEETS RUST OUT FIRST AROUND THE RIVETS, JOINTS, AND EDGES, AND ARE, THEREFORE, NOT SO GOOD AS PAINTED ONES. How any concern can get our prices for painted windmills and painted towers, or those made up of galvanized material, cut, sheared and punched after the galvanizing is done, can only be explained by the fact that people who buy them are ignorant of the value of galvanizing. We now galvanize everything after it is completed, even bolts and nuts. We galvanize with the most improved processes and in the most perfect known and reliable manner.

*The process: When a section of an Aermotor Wheel is all riveted up, completed and cleaned of rust and impurities, it is immersed in melted zinc and aluminum and left there until it becomes as hot as melted zinc, and until every crack, and opening of every closed up and entirely melted, and pieces composing the soldered and welded then you have something that is strong, enduring and reliable. It is expensive to do, and small doers cannot afford to do it. We keep 60 tons of zinc and 4 tons of aluminum melted from one year's end to another. The silvery white coating which fills every pore and covers every portion of the Aermotor, Wheel, Vane and Tower, it is first put on, but after a chemical combination or alloy, which cannot be melted and is practically indestructible. In our premises of wind-mills, towers, etc., and as an illustration of what we are DESIGNING AN OLD PERIOR SHAPE AT A PRICE, ANNOUNCED IT IN INFINITELY SURPRISINGLY SMALL THE OFFER OF AN ALL-STEEL VERY SUPERIOR FEED CUTTER, WORTH $40 AT PRICES IN OUR NEXT AD. WE SHALL OFFER YOU SOMETHING OF STILL GREATER INTEREST.

SOUTH'S TRADE GOOD

General Improved Conditions Reported From Large Cities.

BRADSTREETS' AND DUN'S SUMMARIES

Better Feeling Reported From All Points, Based On the Recently Developed Strength in Cotton, Flour and Wheat—Failure Report.

NEW YORK, March 23.—Bradstreets says:

Improvement in general trade is more marked, but not so general. It is more conspicuous at larger New England points—notably Boston and Providence—at New York, Pittsburg, Cincinnati, Louisville and other centers along the Ohio river valley to St. Louis and as far west as Kansas City. Similar reports come from Chicago, Milwaukee, and St. Paul, the first named announcing that smaller quantities of four per cent money are being offered the banks working steadily toward a five per cent. basis, and loans continuing to improve and reserves being lower than for a year past.

From other cities a better feeling is reported based on the recently developed strength in cotton, wheat and flour. The widespread prevalence of the inquiry whether this upward movement is the beginning of a permanent recovery from the two years of depression is of itself significant. Wool remains unchanged, although the volume of business is smaller, because it is between seasons with dress goods mills and Australian wools are more popular. No changes in quotations are noted for coffee, sugar or naval stores. On the other hand cotton has jumped up 5 to 16 points.

At Nashville, Memphis, and Savannah the week's volume of business is reported slightly in excess of a week ago, increased demand being noted in groceries, hardware and agricultural implements. At no other prominent southern cities are gains reported except New Orleans, though trouble with the dock freight handlers has resulted in a loss of business. At Charleston, Chattanooga, Atlanta, Jacksonville, Birmingham and Galveston trade is of moderate or fair volume, with collections slow.

Dun's Failure Report.

The volume of business through clearing houses gains a little, being 14.1 per cent larger than last year, for the week, but 32.1 per cent less than for 1893. Most of the increase is at New York, and here and elsewhere partly due to active speculation. Bankers report a decided decrease in commercial paper offered and Western banks give evidence of a larger demand by reducing balances here.

Failures during the week have been 276 in the United States against 244 last year, and 36 in Canada against 50 last year.

DEFEAT OF A SIKH COMPANY.

Lieutenant Ross, Forty-Six Soldiers, Eight Camp Followers, Dead.

CALCUTTA, March 23.—News was received here yesterday of the defeat of a Sikh company, under Lieutenant Ross, by Chitralis. Lieutenant Ross and sixty Sikhs were marching to reinforce the troops at Reshun. The natives, who were behind breastworks near Karagh, fusiladed them and forced them to retreat. They followed the company very closely and eventually hemmed them in on all sides. There were about one thousand natives, all firing steadily upon the Sikhs.

Lieutenant Ross, forty-six Sikh soldiers and eight camp followers were left dead upon the field. The rest of the force escaped. Another relief force will be started for Reshun with all haste.

MORE OFFICIALS GONE WRONG.

Sensation in the Municipal Council at Galveston, Texas.

GALVESTON, Tex., March 23.—A startling sensation was occasioned in this city yesterday afternoon when it became known that the grand jury had found bills against City Tax Collector Thomas D. Gilbert and ex-Auditor R. H. Tiernan. The bills against Gilbert charge misapplication of the city's funds, and there are four counts against him. Only one indictment was found against Tiernan, alleging alteration of items in the books with intent to defraud. Both were arrested and gave bonds.

FOR THE ATLANTA UNIVERSITY.

A Public Meeting in Its Interest in New York Sunday.

NEW YORK, March 13.—A public meeting in the interests of the Atlanta University at Atlanta, Ga., will be held in the Broadway Tabernacle Sunday evening. The principal address of the evening will be delivered by Dr. Chauncey M. Depew. The Rev. Dr. Horace Bumstead, president of the University, will make a statement of its work for the higher education of colored youths, and Butler R. Wilson, one of its graduates, will also address the meeting.

WILL MEET NEXT IN GEORGIA.

The Society of the Army of the Cumberland at Chickamauga Next.

WASHINGTON, March 23.—General H. V. Boyton, corresponding secretary of the society of the army of the Cumberland, has been authorized by General Enosen Rosecrans, its president, to appoint the next annual reunion of that society at Chickamauga, Ga., on September 18, being the day before the dedication of the national military park.

The Impersonator of Col. West in Court.

Cotton's Active Decline.

NEW YORK, March 23.—Cotton declined 10 to 12 points, and closed steady at a net decline of 8 to 11 points, with sales of 231,800 bales.

PAYMENT FOR THEIR SERVICES.

Important Measure Passed Before the British House of Commons.

LONDON, March 23.—William Allen, radical commoner for Gateshead, moved yesterday in the house of commons that the members receive payment for their services. He reminded the house that a similar resolution was passed in the session of 1893, with the government's approval, although no subsequent action had been taken. The country would not object, he said, to the small additional tax necessary to cover members' salaries.

Sir H. Stafford Northcot, conservative for Exeter, offered an amendment to the effect that further burdens should not be imposed upon the nation.

Sir William Harcourt, chancellor of the exchequer, said the payment of members was the logical outcome of the extension of the suffrage. The house was now too much one class. He repudiates the suggestion that the payment of members would lead to corruption and the election of unfit men. Democracy might be trusted to prevent such evils. The proposal was wise and expedient and its execution would conduce to the honor of the house. He promised to advance it in every way possible.

Mr. Goschen opposed the motion. He was proud to be acquainted with the genuine labor members now in the house, he said, and he would welcome more, but the payment of members now in the house would lower the status of parliament and taint the purity of public life without increasing the number of workingmen in the commons.

Sir H. Stafford Northcot's amendment was lost and Mr. Allan's motion was passed by a vote of 176 to 158.

CAPTURING AMERICAN TRADE.

The Pushing Methods Pursued by German Merchants.

WASHINGTON, March 23. — United States Consul General DeKay has more to say about the pushing, aggressive German methods of capturing the lucrative American trade for German manufacturers in a special report to the state department. He has transmitted a translation of an official publication which contains valuable suggestions to German merchants looking to the extension of their trade with the United States. It concisely tells of our American business practices, how agents may be secured, how goods should be packed, and many other facts of interest to exporters, and altogether the whole publication might serve a useful purpose if adopted for the guidance of American merchants looking for foreign markets for their products. One passage in the official article that is full of significance at this time reads as follows:

"However gratifying it may be when our exporters receive such advices from official sources, yet would we beg to remark that all such consuls would be useless if our government shall be driven by agrarian influences to risk our commercial relations with the world in general, but especially with the United States."

MONTGOMERY MAKES ANCHOR.

Will Proceed to Complete the Tests of Southern Coal She is Making.

MOBILE, Ala., March 23.—Captain Davis, of the cruiser Montgomery, came to anchor yesterday and refused ta talk, but he has, it is believed, completed his investigation into the case of the murdered American, Penton, and will report the facts to the secretary of the navy, who will in turn transmit to the department of state. The Montgomery will now proceed to complete its tests of southern coal she has been making. There are two varieties yet to be tested, and when these are completed, the ship may join Admiral Meade's squadron on the Central American coast. Admiral Meade's squadron has arrived at San Domingo. The next port of call will be Port au Prince.

TO STRENGTHEN HER NAVY.

Efforts Under Way to Raise England's Reserve to Fifty Thousand Men.

LONDON, March 23.—In the house of lords yesterday Lord Brassey commented upon the insufficient number of men available for manning the navy, and proposed that the naval reserve be raised to 50,000 men. Although, he said, the navy was never so well prepared as it is at present, the margin of waste is not sufficient and is far behind that of the French army.

Earl Spencer, first lord of the admiralty, agreed with Lord Brassey that it was necessary to strengthen the reserve so as to be ready for the waste of war. The admiralty committee will soon present a report dealing with the question.

THE BOYS MUST NOT SMOKE.

Bill Passed in Nebraska Forbidding Sale of Cigarettes to Miners.

LINCOLN, Neb., March 23.—The senate yesterday passed the anti-cigareete bill with an amendment forbidding cigarettes to be sold to all persons under 21 years of age. The bill passed by the house absolutely forbade the sale or making of cigarettes. The amendment will probably be concurred in by the house.

Increased Speed, Beginning Monday.

WASHINGTON, March 23.—Commencing Monday, March 25th, the Atlantic Coast line and the Plant system will increase the speed north bound of their New York and Florida special vestibule train, leaving St. Augustine at 11:35 a. m. instead of 9:30 a. m., as at present, and arriving at northern points at the present time.

WAS SECOND TO RUBE

Another of Alabama's Notorious Desperadoes Killed.

JIM MORRISON CAPTURED, BUT DEAD.

A Life of Crime and Daring Brought to An End by a Faultless Breech-Loader in the Hands of a Deputy—The Captured Man's Record.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 23.—Jim Morrison, the most notorious desperado Alabama has produced since the palmy days of Rube Burrows, was killed Thursday afternoon, thirty miles from this city in the forks of Little and Big Warrior rivers by Deputy Sheriff Henry Cole. Morrison has a record of devilty and during covering several years, has been in the convict mines two times, the last time breaking out and getting away after being badly shot. A price has hung over his head for a long time and several ineffectual and one fatal attempt was made to capture him.

On this attempt, near Coethite, a posse headed by Deputy Sheriff Dexter of Slocton, Bibb county, got Morris and a pal named Davis, in a close place and a desperate duel resulted. Dexter was killed and Davis wounded and captured. Davis was with Morrison in the mines and escaped with him. For a long time, Morrison had been living in disguise and under cover near the scene of his death and Deputy Cole learning the exact location' determined if possible to capture him. With the assistance of a Mr. Hubbard, Cole went to a place where Morrison, it was known, would come at night, and waited in the woods for him. Morrison soon came along and when thirty paces away was ordered by Cole to "throw up your hands." Instead of doing this, he took his Winchester from his shoulder, but was not quick enough, Cole firing and landing five buckshot in his body and head from a double barrelled gun. Morrison lived but a short time. His body was brought here yesterday and identified by two of his brothers in jail, under indictment, and two other brothers.

CARLISLE TO STUMP KENTUCKY

Reported That the Secretary Would Like Senator Blackburn's Seat.

WASHINGTON, March 23.—Secretary Carlisle intended to go to Kentucky early this month, but the president's absence and other things prevented. He will not go now until after the arrival of his son, William K. Carlisle, from Europe the latter part of next week. It is hinted that his chief object is to arrange for a canvass of his state in the interest of sound money.

He is said to be anxious to make a number of speeches in the Bluegrass state in behalf of his financial policy, and to forestall Senator Blackburn's free silver campaign. The secretary of the treasury, it is also said, has designs on the United States senatorship.

PEARY RELIEF EXPEDITION.

Philadelphia Academy Will Probably Not Contribute Toward the Fund.

PHILADELPHIA, March 23.—The Academy of Natural Sciences will probably not contribute toward the fund for fitting out an expedition to bring back Lieutenant Peary and his party from Greenland. Dr. Nolan, librarian of the academy, says that the return given by Peary in the past has not been sufficient for the outlay.

It is even regarded as possible that Peary may be compelled to remain another year in the north, although he once told Dr. Nolan that he could make his way to St. John's unassisted. Any expedition to reach him must start soon.

SHE WILL MARRY HER CHOICE.

Daughter of a Philadelphia Millionare to Wed a Printer of Boston.

BOSTON, March 23.—John Bohen, a printer of this city is soon to marry Miss Theresa Gertrude Butler, only daughter of Captain H. G. Butler, the Philadelphia millionaire. The engagement has been kept a secret, it is said, at the desire of the young woman's parents, who do not favor the match. But Miss Butler persists in having her own way, and if nothing prevents the couple will be married on Easter Monday night.

Senator Brice Had Aiken Appointed.

WASHINGTON, March 23.—Secretary Carlisle yesterday appointed William Martin Aiken, of Cincinnati, supervising architect of the treasury, to succeed Jeremiah O'Rourke, who resigned three or four months ago. The appointment seems to have been made on the recommendation of Senator Brice, of Ohio.

Heavy Stealing Alleged.

NEW YORK, March 23.—Barry Mines, of Port Richmond, S. I., is under arrest in New York on a charge of having stolen several thousand dollars from the banking firm of J. P. Morgan & Co. Mines was in the employ of the firm. It is said his stealings will reach the sum of $10,000.

A Pow Wow at the White House.

WASHINGTON, March 23.—The Arapahoe and the Cheyenne Indian chiefs, who have been in this city for several days on business before the Indian office, visited the White house in full dress regalia (Indian fashion), paint, feathers, buck tails, etc., and had a short pow wow with the Great Chief.

Anthony Comstock Raids Brodie's.

NEW YORK, March 23.—Anthony Comstock raided Steve Brodie's saloon on the Bowery in New York last night, seizing seventy pictures alleged to be obscene and arresting John F. Reilly, who was in charge. Brodie is "starring" on the stage.

Satisfactory Negotiations With Guatamala.

CITY OF MEXICO, March 23.—Negotiations with Guatamala are proceeding slowly but satisfactorily. A rupture is possible put not probable. There is no truth in the recent war rumors.

WILL THE MILITIA BE REMOVED.

Business Men of New Orleans Will Give no Further Aid in Keeping Them on Duty.

NEW ORLEANS, La., March 23.—The general conference committee at their executive mansion yesterday came to the conclusion not to vote further supplies for the maintenance of the militia now doing duty on the levee. The meeting was unanimous and the decision was arrived at without much doubt.

It was the sense of the meeting that the members of the commercial bodies had done all they could be expected to do, in the premises, but relied on Governor Foster to be able to steer a clear course in the difficulty.

The conclusions of the conference now leave the entire matter in the hands of the governor. His excellency's movements will be watched with much anxiety by the public. The following was the resolution unanimously passed at the meeting yesterday:

Resolved that it is the sense of the general conference committee in response to the governor's inquiry, that having already more than exhausted the subscriptions they have been able to secure, they cannot furnish more funds.

Governor Foster was immediately called upon by a reporter after the adjournment of the meeting. He would not say whether he intended to continue to keep the military in active service or not.

The general supposition is that Governor Foster will advise with friends in the matter and endeavor in other ways to raise the necessary means of sustaining military protection. No one believes for a moment that he will remove the soldiery from the front until a settlement has been made of the existing differences.

CONSIDER FOREIGN AFFAIRS.

The Most Important Matters Before Mr. Cleveland's Official Family.

WASHINGTON, March 23.—The cabinet meeting yesterday was devoted mostly to the consideration of foreign affairs. Secretary Gresham went over to the White house armed with sundry official documents relating, it is understood, to the Nicaraguan and Venezuelan situations, and the Allianca incident. The Thurston matter, it is understood, will remain in abeyance until March 27th, when a steamer is due from Honolulu which will probably bring official advices bearing on the subject of Mr. Thurston's recall. It appears to be the belief in state department circles that Spain is not disposed to make any decided stand against the demands of this government in the Allianca matter. The situation in Cuba and the cabinet crisis at Madrid are pointed to as reasons why the Spanish government is anxious at this time to remain on good terms with the United States and it is predicted that Spain will waive part of what she believes to be her rights in the questions at issue and meet this government half way. On the other hand, it is said that the Washington administration is willing to pass by, for the present at least, any alleged utterances of Senor Muruaga, the Spanish minister, that may be construed as uncomplimentary to Secretary Gresham.

World's Fair for Montreal.

MONTREAL, Que., March 23.—The citzens have decided to have a world's fair in Montreal in 1896. A joint stock company will be formed, with a capital of $400,000, to which the Dominion government and corporation of Montreal will be asked to contribute. It is expected that the fair will be opened May 24, 1896, the Queen's birthday, and remain open for five months.

The Honors to Prince Bismarck.

BERLIN, March 23.—Kaiser Wilhelm is going to pay a personal visit to Friedrichsruh on Tuesday next, and he and his sons, Princes Eitel and Adelbert, will be accompanied by a suite of twenty-five, or by Prince Hohenlohe and the imperial military and civil households.

Was the Schooner Irene Fired Upon.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 23.—Philip Isaacs, of Fort Myers, Fla., who is in the city, says that the statement that the American schooner Irene of Key West was fired upon last Saturday by the Spanish cruiser Infanta Isabel is untrue.

Costa Rican Priests Accused.

SAN JOSE, Cost Rica, March 23.—Two priests have been arrested on a charge of conspiring to assassinate President Yglesia. Four others have been banished for revolutionary tendencies. Difficulty with Nicaragua is imminent.

Great Storm on the Riviera.

TOULON, France, March 24.—A terrific storm is raging along this coast of the Mediteranean.

THE PALMETTO JOINS

A People's Party to be Organized In Tillman's State.

EFFORTS BEGUN IN THAT DIRECTION.

John J. Dargan, of Sumpter, an Avowed Populist, Starts the Ball and Will Push It to a Point He Claims. The Movement.

COLUMBIA, S. C. March 23.—For several years the effort organize a people's party in South Carolina has been confidently expected. A good deal of quiet work has been done in the past few years among real populists but they have been biding their time. Today Colonel John J. Dargan, of Sumter, an avowed populist makes the announcement that he will organize the people's party as soon as the constitutional convention fight is over. He says:

The first end to be achieved is a free ballot and an honest count. No man is for the sake of any party, factional or race triumph, willing to commit, or to encourage others to commit, fraud or perjury, or resort to any election tricks of any kind, need expect leadership in this state—not at least while I am above ground."

"JONES, HE PAYS THE FREIGHT"

Was Up to Date in the Closing of the Binghamton Savings Bank.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., March 23.—When the preliminary examination in the case of the people against David Brownson and Tracy R. Morgan was continued yesterday the cross examination of Bank Examiner Backus was taken up where it was left off Thursday afternoon.

"Did you not know there was over $25,000 in the safes of the Brooms county bank on the night you took the assetts to the Binghamton savings bank, and that in the morning a lot of democrats drew their money out?" asked Mr. Wales.

"I understand from Receiver Kellogg that in the morning a man whom the books of the bank showed had $11,000 deposited came in and drew out $11,000."

"Who was he?"

"Edward F. Jones," (ex-Lieutenant governor.)

A number of telegrams were produced in evidence showing the authority which Mr Backus had for closing the bank.

Members of the Committee Bear Out Senator Darling's Statement.

BOSTON, March 23.—The committee on mercantile affairs of the legislature adopted the following in executive session at the state house yesterday:

The undersigned, members of the mercantile affairs, who were present with Senator Darling during the visit to Richmond, take this opportunity te emphatically corroborate all that our chairman has said. In the interviews published in the Boston press, we further desire to express ourselves to the effect that the presence of Mr. Teamoh was in no way resented by the committee or any member thereof, and that his company was in every way pleasant and agreeable to all. The committee make this a positive and final statement in the matter. ISAAC P. HUTCHINSON, Boston; CHARLES O. BANCROFT, Clinton; WILLIAM J. DONOVAN, Boston; GEORGE M. EDDY, New Bedford.; ROBERT T. TEAMOH, Boston; FRANK CHANDLER, Belmont.

ON SOUTHERN BALL GROUNDS.

The Northern Teams Playing Practice Games in Dixie.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., March 23.—The Baltimore baseball club opened the season here yesterday with an exhibition game with the local team and this being their first game their work was very creditable. A large crowd saw the game and the Baltimore people made a fine impression both by their excellent ball playing and their gentlemanly conduct. The score was Baltimore, 16; Montgomery 1.

CHARLESTON, S. C., March 23.—The weather was bleak and threatening yesterday afternoon and there was only a small attendance at the ball park. Washington and Boston played a snappy game, the champion winning by a run in the ninth inning. The score:

Boston.....0 0 0 1 0 1 0 1—3 11
Washington.....0 0 0 0 2 0 0 0—2 5

Batteries; Sullivan, Dolan, Wilson and Warner; Stockdale, Anderson, McGuire and Coogan.

OHIO'S NEXT GOVERNOR.

There Seems to be a Lively Contest for the Republican Nomination.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, March 23.—The contest for the republican nomination for governor seems to have narrowed down now to seven persons, with a few minor figures in the background, ready to become full-fledged candidates, if there should be a deadlock in the convention, giving them reason to hope for success. These seven are, in the order of their apparent strength, Jame H. Hoyt, of Cleveland, George K. Nash, of Columbus, J. H. Doyle, of Toledo, J. Warren Keifer of Springfield, E. W. Poe of Bowling Green, now auditor of state, Asa S. Bushnell of Springfield and congressman Charles H. Grosvenor of Athens. Two others, not avowed candidates, but mentioned frequently in connection with the nomination, are ex-Congressman Henry L. Morey of Hamilton, a cousin of ex-Governor James E. Campbell, and General A. L. Harris of Eaton, now lieutenant governor of the state.

TRILBY ON THE RACE TRACK.

The Handicap of That Name on the New Orleans Turf Won by Metropole.

NEW ORLEANS, March 23.—Trilby has broken its way into the race track, and yesterday the Trilby handicap guaranteeing $750 to the winner was made the feature of the programme with ten good horses in the field. Metropole went to the post a strong favorite at two to one, and with Penny up, virtually won the race as he pleased. The weather was fair and the track fast. Imported Wolsey was favorite in the first race, and finished third. Peytonia, an odds-on favorite in the second race, came in second, and Minerva in the third race was the first favorite to land the purse.

OPPOSE MANNING'S METHOD.

Ballot Reform League of Louisiana Adopt Resolutions to That Effect.

NEW ORLEANS, March 23.—The ballot reform league of Louisiana has adopted the following resolution in regard to the Manning manifesto in New York:

Resolved, That while this leage looks to the accomplishment of its purpose through the co-operation of sincere ballot reformers, without regard to their political affiliations, we view with distrust any attempt to invoke the aid of other communities in the settlement of our local problems, and we take occasion to distinguish this league from the southern ballot rights league, and to express our disapproval of the methods pursued by certain members of that organization as exemplified in the recent manifesto published in New York City.

MUST ANSWER FOR CONTEMPT.

Judge McAdam Orders Ex-Representative Campbell to Appear.

NEW YORK, March 23. — Judge McAdam has issued an order calling on ex-Congressman Timothy J. Campbell to show why he should not be punished for contempt of court for statements made by him at the hearing of his contest against Henry C. Miner for the representation of the eighth congressional district. Campbell alleged that John Simpson, the republican candidate, was replaced on the list of candidates by a mandamus of a Tammany judge (McAdam) and directed to Tammany police commissioners.

WOULD DESTROY CHURCHES.

An Attempt to Burn the Catholic Churches in Washington City.

WASHINGTON, March 23. — Two attemps were made yesterday afternoon to set fire to Catholic churches in Washington. The first attempt was made upon St. Dominic's, in South Washington, and later another similar attempt was made at St. Patrick's. It was believed that the same person, a mysterious woman in black, was the incendiary in both cases. The police, who think the woman is probably some religious fanatic, are making efforts to capture her.

MRS. MARY E. LEASE DECLINES.

She Thought the Salary of the Mayor of Wichita, Kan., Too Small for Her.

WICHITA, Kan., March 23.—After two postponements of the citizens' convention, Mrs. Mary E. Lease has declined the nomination of mayor of Wichita. If she accepted the nomination she would be compelled to resign her position at the head of the state board of charities, where the income is three or four times greater than the mayor's salary.

Mexico's Crack Bull Fighter Gored.

CITY OF MEXICO, March 23.—Word has been received of the fatal goring at Culiacan, state of Sinaloa, of Pencoat Diaz, the most famous bull fighter in Mexico. He was gored in the groin three time and badly tramped, making death certain. Demetrio Rodriguez, who was lately killed in a similar way at Durango, was an old associate of Diaz.

Fames in the Prairie Grass.

GUTHRIE, O. T., March 23.—During a high wind a spark from a chimney set fire to a straw stack in Pawnee township yesterday and the flames soon spread to the dry prairie grass and the country round for many miles was devastated. A number of farmers lost all their buildings, hay, grain, implements, etc., and many head of stock perished.

The New Civil Service Rules.

ALBANY, N. Y., March 23.—The state civil service commissioners yesterday approved the amendments to the New York city civil service rules which provide for the registration of all laborers in the city service and require the heads of departments in need of laborers or artisans to apply to the local civil service board for names.

A Boat From the Reina Regente.

MADRID, March 23.—It was officially announced yesterday that a boat belonging to the Reina Regente had been found on the beach near Malaga.

Senator Jones Much Improved.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., March 23.—A telegram to Dr. C. M. Taylor, of this city, from Washington, Ark., says Senator Jones is much better and is thought to be out of danger.

THROUGH THE STATE

Current News For the Week Throughout Alabama.

THE MANNING MANIFESTO CRITICIZED

The Tragedy at Selma a Hoax—Camden Post Office Robbed Sunday Night. Other State News Condensed in Short Paragraphs.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 20.—In an interview in today's Age-Herald, Dr. R. A. Mosely, Jr., chairman of the state republican executive committee, characterizes the manifesto of the two populists, Congressman Howard and Legislator Manning, relative to the financial condition of Alabama, as a most disgraceful act on the part of two men occupying prominent positions. "No man," says he, "has the right to attack the credit of his own state. The statement is an egregious blunder, to say the least of it, and seems to seek to drive men and money away from Alabama.

THE SELMA TRAGEDY A HOAX.

Details of the Occurrences Leading up to the Report.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., March 20.—There is really nothing in the story of the tragedy near Selma. Notice had been posted in the neighborhood threatening arson, murder and rape. Several white men went to the church for the purpose of arresting three negroes, and did so. The negroes were carried before a justice of the peace and ordered held for action of the grand jury. The justice accompanied the prisoners and saw them safely landed in the Selma jail. Other negroes failed to learn what had become of the prisoners and reported the story of the lynching.

BURNS THAT MAY PROVE FATAL

An Alabama Lady Burned in a Horrible Manner Near Birmingham.

BIRMINGAAM, Ala., March 19.—About 7 o'clock last evening, Mrs. J. M. Lehart, of Woodlawn, a suburb of Birmingham, was horribly burned, though it is not thought fatally. She was sweeping up oil from an overflowed lamp and the broom ignited. In attempting to put out the fire her clothing caught and before assistance arrived her face, hands, neck and breast were badly burned and all the cuticle peeled off. She is in a very bad condition, but the probability is, she will recover.

KILLED BY A FREIGHT TRAIN.

R. M. Winters, an Alabama Carpenter, Met Death on the Cross Ties.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 21.—R. M. Winters, a carpenter, 65 years of age, was struck and killed yesterday by an Alabama Great Southern south bound freight train, one mile south of Argo. Winters was deaf and did not hear the approaching train. He lived at Gadsden and was making his way to Birmingham.

CAMDEN POSTOFFICE ROBBED.

Thirty-Five Hundred Dollars Captured in an Alabama Raid.

CAMDEN, Ala., March 20.—The post office at this place was robbed Sunday night of $3,500. The door was prized open with a hatchet and the safe blown open with powder. The greater portion of the money belonged to private parties and had been left there for safe keeping. No clue to the robbers.

St. Patrick's Day at Birmingham.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 19.—Rev. Father Clifford, of Rome, Ga., filled the pulpit at St. Paul's Catholic church here, and delivered a powerful panegyric on Ireland's partron saint, St. Patrick. Ancient Order Hibernians society, division No. 2, were celebrating last night with a grand ball. Over 200 couples participated.

ALABAMA NEWS CONDENSED.

At the recent city election at Attalla Messrs G. L. Cox, S. H. Camden, G. W. Hills and J. H. Wood were elected school commissions to take control of the public schools at that place.

Judge Bilbro, of Gadsden, fined a young blood of Jackson county $1 this week for smoking in the court house at Scottsboro.

Marion Powell, Sr., of Sand Mountain, made the past season 2,800 cotton seed on one acre of land, with home fertilizer.

At the recent city election at Collinsville Dr. J. D. Hall was elected mayor and R. M. Crump, T. F. Cochran A. P. Hoge, J. A. Keener and G. Y. Newman as aldermen.

James Harden, John Fortner, Sam Hardin and William Norris, all of DeKalb county, have been indicted in the United States court for counterfeiting and the evidence is very strong.

The Alabama Great Southern railroad company has decided to inclose the yard in front of their hotel, the Foreman house at Attalla, and make ofitan attractive flower yard.

THE * CHRONICLE.

C. C. DuBOSE, Editor and Proprietor.

COLUMBIANA, MARCH 28, 1895.

JUDGE LEROY F. BOX.

It is with feelings of profound sorrow that we announce the death of Judge Box, which occurred at the Cleveland hotel, Edwardsville, Ala., on Tuesday evening at 5 o'clock.

The news was not unexpected, as we had been advised that he had been stricken with paralysis a few days before, still the sad announcement cast a gloom over this whole community and those from a distance assembled here to attend court where he was expected to preside.

But his life work on earth has terminated. We now speak of one "who was, and is not."

Judge Box was one of nature's noblemen—a Christian gentlemen. He was no less remarkable for his presence than for his virtues. His frame was large and well proportioned; his countenance grave, thoughtful and benevolent; his whole bearing and deportment conciliated esteem and commanded respect. After serving as state superintendant of education he was elected judge of this judicial circuit. To the execution of these functions he brought a mind well stored with legal lore, unwearied industry, invincible patience and perseverance, fine natural abilities and stainless integrity. The most inexperienced member of the bar, in addressing him, was sure of an encouraging hearing and a fair and impartial consideration of his argument, while he enforced the rules and maintained the decorum and dignity of the court. His manner was so mild and his firmness so gentle, that the most sensitive feelings were not wounded; the most irritable could not take offense. The examination of witnesses before him was always conducted with a due regard to the cause of truth and justice. The modest, the diffident and the candid were protected, the reluctant or equivocating subjected to the full vigor of a searching scrutiny. Nothing could exceed the impartiality with which as a judge at law he laid the evidence in a cause before a jury. Truth and justice was his watch word. He served his country well in time of war and in time of peace. He was a member of the gallant old 10th Alabama regiment, where he served as a brave and faithful soldier. As a lawyer and as a judge he was an ornament to his profession, and though the places that once knew him shall know him no more forever, yet will the memory of this Christian gentleman, this "just judge," rise as sweet incense in the memories of all who knew him. His works do follow him.

"BLIND TIGERS" MUST GO.

It is a fact that no intelligent citizen of Columbiana will attempt to deny that whisky is being and has been for months past sold here in open defiance of law and decency. These men who have been daily trampling upon the law have been so successful so far in escaping its punishment that they are getting bolder after every court, until this infamous traffic is assuming alarming proportions. For the past month these men-slayers and orphan-makers have been doing a thriving business, and there has been scarcely a day during the period mentioned when from two to five and sometimes ten intoxicated men could not be seen on our streets. Truly the whisky fiend has held high carnival in this place of late, and he would be in his glory today but for the fact that the grand jury is in session.

Time and again have attempts been made to suppress this evil, but it has only been scotched not killed. In a few instances indictments have been found against offenders, but there are men here who are always ready to go on their bonds, and to do everything in their power to shield the guilty ones from punishment. As a consequence this curse is daily growing more menacing, because the dealers feel secure from detection, and of late it has reached a point where it is simply unendurable.

Now, the christian people of this place propose to rise as one man and kill this monstrous evil for all time to come. Men who are engaged in this damnable traffic had better desist before the angry cyclone of public condemnation bursts upon their unholy heads, otherwise they are certain to be buried in the debris found in its wake. There is to be no temporizing in this matter. They have simply to quit and that right now or take the consequences of their folly.

The Chronicle boldly and fearlessly expresses its opinion in this matter in a way that he who runs may read and fully understand its position. We propose to hew to the line in this and all other matters and let the chips take care of themselves. Of course we are aware at the outset that we will arouse the enmity of the whisky men, but we want it distinctly known by all men that we do not want the friendship of any man or set of men, if in order to secure it we must sacrifice principle or conform to their views. As a public journal whose aim is to uplift and educate, we will always be found on the moral side of every question. The Chronicle is not a truckler, neither is it owned or its opinions controlled by any man or set of men outside of its proprietor.

The blind tiger must go, and we intend to use our influence in getting it started and keeping it on the move.

EACH month has its uses. March is nature's house cleaning month. She sweeps the cobwebs from the sky with the wind as a broom, and washes the earth with the rain clouds as pails of water. She rustles the dead leaves on the ground as if shaking out a carpet. She paints the ceiling on high of a deeper blue and spreads a green carpet on the floor of the earth. If she chances to throw a little dust and ashes in our eyes as we pass along we can forgive it for the cleanliness and sweetness to follow.—Age-Herald.

AN old man went into a life insurance office and asked to be insured. The company asked his age. His reply was ninety-four. "Why, my good man, we cannot insure you," said the company. "Why not?" he demanded. "Why, you are ninety-four years old." "What of that?" the old man cried. "Look at statistics, and they will tell you that fewer men die at ninety-four than at any other age." — London Spare Moments.

ALL signs point to improving business. The railroads are earning more money; the bank clearances are enlarging; rates for money show that more money is being drawn out of the banks to be used in industry and trade. The whole drift is the right way.

THERE is a good long string of young monarchs and potentates now occupying the public attention. The king of Spain is 8 years old; the queen of Netherlands, 14; the king of Servia, 18; the khedive, 20; the Emperor of China, 23, and the Czar, 26.

IT IS estimated that only 2 per cent of the population of this country will be reached by the income tax clause, and hence those having to pay it claim that it is an indirect tax, therefore unconstitutional.

CAPITAL FLOWING SOUTH.

The New York Price-Current which is in a position to know whereof it speaks says: "Capital is rapidly flowing to the South. The remarkable industrial progress in the southern states is attracting considerable attention among New York capitalists, and giving stability to southern railroad stocks. It is only a question of time when southern railroad securities will dominate Wall Street, instead of the great Pacific roads of the far West, which pass through a farming country and depend upon movement of the crops for earnings. Northern capital is pouring into the southern states and transforming the broad acres into workshops and villages, expanding the iron and cotton-manufacturing industries, assisting railway equipment, pushing electrical construction and promoting new enterprises in the hardware, lumber, phosphate, machinery, building and many other lines. As the South has made a splendid record in such industries as iron, cotton oil, sugar, naval stores, phosphate, fertilizers, tobacco, peanuts, oysters, etc., why should not good progress be made in the more recent departures? Northern capitalists have confidence in southern manufactures, and that is the secret of their great interest in the welfare of that section. They realize the fact that a large field is ripe for profitable investment, and are acting accordingly, instead of risking capital on foreign ventures. The question of railroad rates may soon be settled to the satisfaction of manufacturers, as considerable railroad construction is found necessary in the more progressive states to meet the demand for increased transportation. We have always believed in the South as an industrial centre, and it is some satisfaction to see the fondest hopes almost realized."

For seven years or more Mrs. W. D. Louder, of Quincy, Ky., was subject to severe attacks of cramp colic. Mr. S. R. Morse, a druggist of that place, recommended Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy, which has effected a permanent cure, saving her much suffering besides the trouble and expense of sending for a doctor, which was often necessary. Sketches of the History of Shelby County.

BY REV. E. B. TEAGUE.

No. 1.

Chronological order will not be observed, but convenience. That may be done, if the sketches ever assume permanent form, with thorough revision. It is designed to give an elaborate account of the physical features of the county, and its mineral and agricultural possibilities when the materials can be collected. My memory is tenacious of facts, except names and dates, and may be relied on.

The court house, mentioned in another number, was first in Cahawba valley, one mile and half above Siluria, near the present L. & N. R. R. Presently removal was voted for, the contest being between Montevallo and Columbiana. Columbiana was successful. In the jollification over the victory a large pine standing about where the present jail is, was perforated with augur holes, and these filled with powder, answered for canon. The explosions were heard many miles around. I saw the torn and scarred tree not many days after. The first jail, burnt in a few years, was built of white oak logs, well hewn and fitted together, a double wall, that is to say, a wall around a wall, with the space between filled with upright poles, closely set. Loflin Quinn was the contractor. The jail stood where Hall now lives, on the road to Shelby Springs, near the spring which in those days was one, instead of the several we now have. A notorious old fellow named Caldwell, constantly under indictment as long as he staid in the county, once escaped from this jail by boring a hole through the log wall with a large augur supplied by some one from without. This notorious character was finally arrested, about 1829, for killing an Indian, their then country east of the Coosa river. The report was that the Indians were pursuing him endeavoring to escape with a lot of stolen ponies, and that he shot and killed one of them. He was convicted and sentenced to be hanged. I followed the cart on which he was carried to the place of proposed execution. His coffin was his seat, a blanket, for it was chilly, about his shoulders, intended it was said, for his winding sheet. The poor old man, of sixty, ruddy and fine-looking, was bathed in tears like a child. When we reached the place a grave appeared, dug at the foot of the gallows. A sort of amphitheatre of hills, east, south and north, surrounded the spot, crowded with spectators, though as the terrible moment of expected execution drew nigh many women retired in their distress beyond the crest of the hills, I, a boy of some ten years, after two or three essays, got by the guard who maintained an unoccupied space of a half acre or so, and stood near the gallows. The chaplain prayed and shook hands with the prisoner. The sheriff ascended the gallows with the prisoner. His feet were placed upon the slide, the noose adjusted about his neck, the hood let down over his eyes, he was told he had ten minutes to live. Such agonizing prayer I never heard, something, I imagine like the wailings of a lost spirit. I had been powerfully touched all the way out from the jail to the gallows, and would have given anything to see the poor old man released. To the universal surprise, but doubtless relief of many, in a few moments, Esquire, afterwards Judge Moody, ascended the gallows, stood on the plank beside the condemned man, and began to read a reprieve from Governor Gayle. The hood was removed, the prisoner let down, reseated on the cart, some friends bathed in tears of joy congratulated him, returned to the jail, as it was understood for protection from about forty Indians who had come across the river to witness the execution of the slayer of their comrade, for they tossed their hands on high, and seemed greatly excited, I imagine with the conviction that the white man's court was but a farce when the red man's blood was shed.

Soon after this event there was another more exciting even than this if a little amusing. Mr. Amos Elliott Sr., used to deny the whole thing, but he was a very small boy, and I old enough to have perfect understanding of everything, besides, only a few years ago I compared notes with Dr. Wilson, of Montevallo, and his report, who at the time was a young man, entirely agreed with what I heard at the time, never disputed in those days. Sundry squatters, it was I think March 1832, in anticipation of settlement, had gone beforehand into the territory east of the Coosa, still occupied by the Indians the last of whom left for Arkansas the fall of 1836. The women among these hasty settlers thought they recognized signs of hostility on the part of their redskin neighbors—perhaps some chickens were stolen with other interferences. They became alarmed. It was known the lower Creeks sympathised with the more hostile Seminoles attacking the stage coach it will be remembered, killing passengers and burning coach between Montgomery and Columbus, 1835—6. The militia were called together by Col. Smoot, at the Court House, and seventy-five young men, as mounted riflemen volunteered to go over into the "Nation," and set matters right if anything threatened. Soon the Indians became alarmed. One of them from Hillibee town to whom "Bob McAdams," who owned what is now McGowan's ferry, a timid man, had given a blanket to notify him if at any time an attack was meditated against the white people, coming to the river a stormy windy day, hallooed with excited manner across the stream to McAdams. "Run Bob? Sulgee!" Must we run Bob? There are a great many. That was all Mc. could hear. He essayed two or three times to get into a canoe and go over: but the Indian violently motioned him to go back, and so ran off and reported the village must run. McAdams understanding we must run, sending his family off to a place of security, reported all around to his neighbors they must escape. The report spread rapidly, growing as it went. People retired to hidden spots; gathered in groups at others. That night Samuel Brasher and Charles Mundine, from Columbiana, went down to the hill above the "river mill," at the Islands below the ferry, to watch for the Indians, for by this time it was told they would cross at the fordable place upper end of the islands, the river being low at the time. Buchanan, the miller, and "Steve Hosey," for fun, threw rocks into the river and yelled. The watchers heard, became convinced that it was ponies plunging through the water and warriors ready for massacre riding them. They left at full speed for the court house, shouting wherever they saw lights. "Indians, Indians!" A large company assembled near Mr. Elisha Nelson's, now West's, had gone out some distance over a hill and made up a fire that could be seen to the road at the house. Alarmed afresh by the messengers, they dispersed everywhere into the woods. One mother left her babe at the camp fire, which, picked up by Mrs. Elisha Sentell, was carried some two miles to the house of Ben Harper, on Four Mile, and cared for through the night. The house was found unlocked, Mrs. S. went in with her charge, and found milk with which to nurse it. When the messengers reached Columbiana the population, perhaps 150 souls, immediately dispersed and ran away, as it was said, leaving only an old man in town who was too much intoxicated to know of the danger. Toilets were imperfectly made. Ladies accepted any kind of conveyance, rode or walked or ran as best they could. Next day the road toward Montevallo was strewed with handkerchiefs, bonnets and shawls. One young lady, not far away, who had long been very much bed-ridden, more mentally than physically sick, mounted behind her mother, rode away, and got well! My actual knowledge may be stated in few words: A weak-minded negro girl ran out into the field where I and my brother Jim were cutting corn stalks before the plows sowing oats, crying, "Go home, children; the woods are alive with Injuns!" My brother, dropping his hoe, ran with all his might, screaming: "Oh mama, oh mama!" I walked fast, ran to another part of the farm after old Dunk and the ox cart. We loaded it with bed-clothes and provisions and drove out, mother and children, to the pine woods back of what is now Mr. Riddle's place on Four Mile. Next morning while biscuit were being, cooked ham fried mother exclaimed, "La, me! yonder comes the Indians." But it proved to be other refuges apprehending we were Indians.

SOME REVENUE FIGURES.

From the Philadelphia Times.

The claim that the McKinley tariff provided sufficient revenues and allowed a surplus besides proves to be just as false as lots more claims that have been made by the high tariff boomers. During the four years' run of the McKinley law the customs revenues fell off to the extent of $157.000,000 as compared with the previous four years under the tariff of 1883. The expenditures of the government exceeded the receipts by $31,000,000 where in the previous years the excess in receipts amounted to $387,000,000. There were sufficient returns in revenue to tide the Harrison administration over, but this was due to the $110,000,000 surplus from Cleveland's first term, and if the Harrison term had lacked this it would never have recovered through the operations of the McKinley bill. The government expenditures during the McKinley tariff years aggregated $1,462,000,000, about one million dollars for every day in the year, and this was an increase of $285,000,000 over the Cleveland term when the aggregate was $1,153.000,000.

Another noteworthy fact is given in the net gold exports from this country during the McKinley period, the amount being $160,000,000, while in the Cleveland years the country received $4,700,000 more gold than was exported.

It is too early to judge of the capabilities of the Wilson tariff, especially when the revenues must be devoted to meeting the costly deficiencies and provisions of the McKinley law, which substituted a $10,000,000 bounty and cut off a revenue of $47,000,000 in the single item of sugar alone; but the Wilson law is meeting with the indorsement of the commercial and industrial centres, and that is all its advocates ever claimed for it.

A severe rheumatic pain in the left shoulder had troubled Mr. J. H. Loper, a well known druggist of Des Moines, Iowa, for over six months. At times the pain was so severe that he could not get rid of it until he applied Chamberlain's Pain Balm. "I only made three applications of it," he says, "And have since been free from all pain." He now recomends it to persons similarly afflicted. It is for sale by Parker & Armstrong

"Some man whose wife bought him a necktie at a bargain sale, likely," said the Cheerful Idiot, and then the conversation languished while the pie disappeared.—Indianapolis Journal.

UNSUNG.

BY ALBERT BIGELOW PAINE.

There's many a song in the air, my dear,
And many a song on the sea;
And God and His angels are there, my dear,
To whisper their music to me.

But, alas! when those forces awaken the chords
In my heart, the responses are bare;
They struggle one glorious moment for words,
Then perish in silence there.

Yet some time, I know, will be voices to sing,
Though mine shall have never learned how—
Sweet echoes to answer each quivering string—
The angels are forming them now.

For some one shall measure the chimes that are swung
By the sirens down under the sea,
And gather the murmuring songs that are sung
By the wings of the wandering bee.

And some one shall tell us the tale of the skies
As never a poet hath done,
And sing the ineffable glory that lies
In the land of the westering sun.

And some one shall whisper the tales that are told
By the winds to the roses that nod,
And some one shall picture the pathway of gold
That winds by the waters of God.

And perhaps in that beautiful, far-away time,
When life and its failures are through,
I shall know of these songs in some far-away clime,
And perhaps I shall sing them, too.

THE RELIGIOUS WORLD.

Recalling the fact that the last years of the Fifteenth Century saw the opening up of a new world to civilization, to letters and art; that the last of the Sixteenth Century saw the tremendous revival of intellectual pursuits in Europe which created modern literature in England, Germany, and France; that the last of the Seventeenth Century saw the rise of a new Commonwealth in England which has become the latter model of constitutional government for all nations; that the last of the Eighteenth Century marked the complete establishment of a government "of the people, by the people, for the people," the editor of The Interior, Chicago says:

"And what shall distinguish the end of the century in which we now live, God knows; but he who has marked that of all time it is the most wonderful since Christ came need not to consider it strange that its final years cast a thoughtful shadow upon the mind of even the most careless, and sober for a moment the most trivial of all the devotees of pleasure."

The writer then reviews the wonderful progress of the civilized world during the century now closing. Among other things he notes the fact, as attested by Edward Atkinson, that not one prize-machine of the World's Fair of 1854 is in use in America today, and that even the inventions that charmed us at Philadelphia in 1876 have for the most part shared the same fate; further, that the chief features of the Columbian Exposition of 1893 were not dreamed of in 1883. And he continues:

"It is doubtless true that these changes have been more rapid in our own land than elsewhere. At the beginning of this century half of Pennsylvania and two thirds of New York were still in possession of the Indian or in dangerous proximity to his haunts. Our population, which now covers the breadth of a continent, was hemmed in for the most part between the sea and its nearest mountain range. Our numbers were few, our area narrow, and our future but dimly discerned.

"But even more remarkable have been the changes in the religious life of the people. Our histories have dealt chiefly with the lives of leaders, and left the mass of readers in ignorance of the fact that one hundred years ago irreligion had nearly claimed our continent for its own. It was in the end of the last century that there began in the backwoods of Kentucky that most marvelous awakening of a people since the days of the Great Reformation; and from that time on we have been a new people. Religion had never been at a lower ebb in America than at the last decade of the last century. It has never claimed more of the thought and reverence and love of the people than in the last decade of the present.

"When we remember that this century has been distinguished not the less for its Christian missions, for the conversion of Hawaii, Fiji, Madagascar, and millions in Japan, China, India, and other fields, it may be readily believed that the present war between the progressive Sunrise Kingdom and conservative Celestial Empire sounds the signal for the Twentieth Century. It was Victor Hugo that said, 'The problem of the next century is the problem of Africa.' He might better have said, 'is the problem of the whole Orient.' When this vast kingdom, embracing more than one fourth of the whole human race, wakes to the life of modern thought, it must be waked by some such rude touch as that of war. When the walls of China are thrown down, Asia, the oldest of the homes of man, becomes a field for gospel triumphs such as have not been possible before.

"The end of the century ought to be to every believer such a period as Simeon knew when God revealed to him that he should not see death until he had seen the Lord's Christ. We ought to live in expectation of new glories, new victories, divine epiphanies. These are not the days to be spent in Herodian banquets, but days to be passed in the temple awaiting the revelations of God's will and purpose. And to the waiting church or the lingering saint, God will suddenly appear in His holy house by His manifest providence, filling the whole world with His celestial glory."—The Literary Digest.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substituto for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."
DR. G. C. OSGOOD, Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."
DR. J. F. KINCHELOE, Conway, Ark.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."
H. A. ARCHER, M. D., 111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their ontside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."
UNITED HOSPITAL AND DISPENSARY, Boston, Mass.
ALLEN C. SMITH, Pres.

The Centaur Company, 77 Murray Street, New York City.

"Perhaps you would not think so, but a very large proportion of diseases in New York comes from carelessness about catching cold," says Dr. Syrus Edson. "It is such a simple thing and so common that very few people, unless it is a case of pneumonia, pay any attention to a cold. New York is one of the healthiest places on the Atlantic coast and yet there are a great many cases of catarrh and consumption which have their origin in this neglect of the simplest precaution of every day life. The most sensible advice is, when you have one get rid of it as soon as possible. By all means do not neglect it." Dr. Edson does not tell you how to cure a cold but we will. Take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It will relieve the lungs, aid expectoration, open the secretions and soon effect a permanent cure. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Parker & Armstrong.

Judge County Court.
Columbiana, March 25, 1895. 14

Probate Notice.

State of Alabama, Shelby County, Probate Court, 22d day of March, 1895. Estate of Levi Armstrong.

This day came I. D. Mason, administrator of the estate of Levi Armstrong, deceased, and filed his account, vouchers, evidences and statement for a final settlement of the same.

It is ordered that the 15th day of April, 1895, be appointed a day for making such settlement at which time all parties in interest can appear and contest the same if they think proper, and that publication be made for three successive weeks in The Chronicle, a newspaper published in said county.

JOHN S. LEEPER,
March 28, t3. Judge of Probate,

Notice to Non-Residents.

The State of Alabama, Shelby county. P. E. Williams, et als complainants, vs. Alabama Iron & Steel Company et als. defendants.

In Chancery at Columbiana, Alabama, Sixth District, North-Eastern Chancery Division, Monday, March 25, 1895.

In this cause it is made to appear to the Register, by the affidavit of J. M. Reynolds, one of the attorneys for the complainants, that the defendants, the Central Trust Company of New York, a corporation under the laws of New Jersey, with its principal place of business in New York city; the Chemical National Bank of New York city, a corporation under the "National Bank Act." located in New York city; the National Park Bank of New York, a corporation under the "National Bank Act," with its principal place of business in New York city; Mrs. Esther A. Peter, whose residence is unknown to affiant; and Mrs. C. S. Plumb, who resides in the state of Kansas, but affiant does not know at what particular place, are all non-residents of Alabama, and further that in the belief of said affiant, the defendants are over the age of twenty-one years.

It is therefore ordered by the Register that publication be made in The Chronicle, a newspaper published in Columbiana, Ala., once a week for four consecutive weeks, and that a copy of said order be posted at the Court House door in said county thirty days, requiring them the said Central Trust Company, The Chemical National Bank of New York, The National Park Bank of New York, Mrs. Estha A. Peter and Mrs. C. S. Plumb to answer or demur to the same within thirty days after the 22nd day of April, 1895, and failing so to do a decree pro confesso will be taken against them in said cause. It is further ordered that a copy of said order be mailed to each of said defendants, where their residence or post office is known.

Done at office in Columbiana, Alabama, this the 25th day of March, 1895.

Rev. E. B. Teague proposes to write a succinct history of Shelby County. Anything that this grand old man does is done well.—Advertiser.

The trains on the Shelby branch of the Mineral railroad now run as follows: Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays at 11:40 a. m.; Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays at 4:05 p. m.

The ladies of the Methodist church will give a pound party at the Methodist parsonage, Friday (tomorrow) night. All are most cordially invited to attend and contribute to the success of the pounding by bringing liberal donations. Let everybody go and encourage the ladies in the good work. The ladies by the way of social entertainment will have recitations, music, etc.

The article in another column headed "Blind Tigers Must Go," is respectfully referred to the foreman of the grand jury.

In this issue of The Chronicle will be found the first of a series of articles giving the history and resourses of Shelby county. The author is Dr. E. B. Teague. We need say no more. Nothing we could say would add one iota to his brilliant record. To know him is to love and admire him. These articles will be deeply interesting and should be preserved carefully.

The Columbiana Literary Society met on last Friday evening, March 22, 1895, at the residence of Dr. J. H. Williams. There was quite a large crowd present, and the programme, which had been well arranged and prepared, was executed to the honor of all participants. After the business and literary exercises were completed the society was honored by short talks from W. B. Brown, W. B. Greek, J. T. Leeper and H. E. Reynolds, all of which were very entertaining and full of praise for the noble work our society is accomplishing. After an hour of pleasant intercourse the society adjourned to meet again on April 12th at the residence of E. B. Nelson. JOHN S. LEEPER, JR., Cor. Secretary.

Dorwin-Bentley.

On last Sunday afternoon, at the residence of Lafayette Ray, near Lewis, this county, at 2 o'clock, a quiet wedding took place. The contracting parties were Mr. Milton J. Dorwin, foreman of The Chronicle office, and Miss Mollie J. Bentley, daughter of E. A. Bentley, of this place, Rev. J. C. Lyons, of Wilsonville, officiating. Quite a large number of friends and relatives of the contracting parties were present. Soon after the nuptial ceremonies were over, the happy couple came to this place in a buggy, where they arrived late in the afternoon. They have taken apartments with Mrs. Mardis, in West Columbiana.

Mr. Dorwin is a sober, steady printer and a good workman. Miss Bentley, that was, is a young lady of fair face and form, and will, no doubt, preside with queenly grace over her new home.

The Chronicle heartily congratulates the happy couple, and earnestly hopes they may find more flowers than thorns in their journey just begun.

Circuit Court.

Circuit court convened Monday at noon. Owing to the illness of Judge L. F. Box, Hon. R. W. Cobb was appointed by Governor Oates as special judge to hold this term of court. Judge Cobb's charge to the grand jury was a model one. He laid particular stress upon the evil consequenses of carrying concealed weapons and selling liquor without license, and charged the jury plainly as to their duty. These two evils, he declared, were the productive source of 90 per cent of the crimes committed in this county, and every honorable means should be resorted to to suppress them. Tuesday morning Judge Cobb received a telegram announcing the death of Judge Box, and he at once adjourned court for that day in honor of that worthy and highly esteemed gentleman. At 2 o'clock of that afternoon a meeting of the bar of this county was held in the court house, and following are the resolutions adopted by that body.

WHEREAS, We, the bar of the Circuit Court of Shelby county, Alabama, have received the news of the death of Hon. Leroy F. Box, and have assembled for the purpose of doing honor to the memory of this distinguished circuit judge, therefore be it RESOLVED—First, that in the death of Hon. Leroy F. Box the bar and judiciary as well as all the citizens of this commonwealth have sustained an irreparable loss.

RERESOLVED—Second, that in our acquaintance and intercourse with Judge Box we have ever recognized in him the conscientious christian, the upright citizen, the noble gentleman, the able and just judge.

RESOLVED—Third, that our long acquaintance with Judge Box has inspired us with lasting respect, and we will ever cherish his memory.

RESOLVED—Fourth, that we deeply sympathize and sincerely mourn with the members of his stricken family in this hour of their deepest affliction.

RESOLVED—Fifth, that these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of this court, and a copy of the same be sent to his bereaved family.

It takes a hustler for the newspaper business in this locality just now, but we are equal to the emergency. We write a poem, discuss the tariff, umpire a ball game, report a wedding, saw wood, beat a lawyer, describe a fire so that the readers will shed their wraps, make a dollar do the work of ten, shine at a soiree, address a horticultural society, measure calico, abuse the liquor habit, test whisky and beer, subscribe to charity, go without meals, attack free silver, defend bimetalism, sneer at snobbery, wear diamonds, invent advertisements, overlook scandal, praise babies, delight pumpkin raisers, minister to the afflicted, heal the disgruntled, fight to a finish, set type, mold opinion, sweep the office, praise the widows, flirt with the girls, run for office, speak at prayer meeting and stand in with everybody and everybody and everything: but it is an uphill business when you strike a delinquent subscriber.—Jellico Advance-Sentinel.

Preacher—"Yes, brethren, there'll be no night there; no night there."

Folding Bed Man—"Shucks! That kind of preachin' breaks me all up."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

A Tribute of Respect.

HALL OF SHELBY LODGE, No. 140, A. F. & A. M., COLUMBIANA, ALA., January, 1895.

We, the committee, appointed to draft resolutions on the death of Bro. John Spencer, beg leave to submit the following:

Whereas, On January 3, 1895, it was the will of our Supreme Grand Master to call our beloved brother, John Spencer, from labor on earth to refreshment above.

Whereas, Brother Spencer was the oldest member of our lodge, being in his 89th year, a consistant and devoted member of the Presbyterian church for fifty-two years, an affectionate husband, a kind father, an accommodating neighbor, a charitable and constant friend, a faithful and honorable citizen and an upright Mason, beloved and respected by all, and more especially by those who knew him best; therefore be it

Resolved—First, that in the death of Brother Spencer our lodge has lost its oldest and one of its truest members.

Resolved—Second, that we, as members and brethren of this lodge, while we bow in humble submission to the will and pleasure of the Great Architect of the Universe, who doeth all things well, we cherish the hope that when our brother's work was called to pass the test of an unerring square. it was found true, well formed, a perfect Ashler, worthy a place in the temple above, whose maker and builder is God.

Resolved—Third, that we extend to his bereaved wife, children and relatives our sincere and heartfelt sympathy in this their hour of sorrow, and would point them to Him who is able to give them comfort and consolation from His unwasted bounty.

Resolved—Fourth, that the members of this lodge wear the the usual badge of mourning for thirty days and that the altar be draped the same length of time; that a copy of these resolutions be furnished the bereaved family and a copy be sent to The Chronicle and People's Advocate for publication. J. R. WHITE, J. F. MILSTEAD, J. S. LEEPER.

Both Wonderfully Helped

Husband Cured of Rheumatism—Wife of Salt Rheum.

"My husband was suffering last summer with a severe lameness in his arm and it became so painful he could not sleep nights. He was losing all strength in that arm and a doctor told him

It Was Rheumatism

But did not do him any good. I finally persuaded him to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. He has taken three bottles and the pain has left his arm. His strength is fast coming back and his general health is much improved. We feel very grateful for the benefit Hood's Sarsaparilla has been to him. Last winter I was taken with a terrible itching and burning skin disease of some kind. It spread all over my back and arms. I also had terrible headaches. After using several bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla have not been bothered since." MRS. HATTIE HIGGINS, Durand, Mich.

Hood's Sarsaparilla Is the Only True Blood Purifier

Dyspepsia Cured

"I have been suffering from dyspepsia since last year and have tried different medicines but all to no purpose. I have often heard people talking of Hood's Vegetable Pills, and was induced to buy a box. After trying them I was greatly relieved and recommend them to all others similarly afflicted." D. The Greatest Medical Discovery of the Age.

KENNEDY'S MEDICAL DISCOVERY.

DONALD KENNEDY, of ROXBURY, MASS., Has discovered in one of our common pasture weeds a remedy that cures every kind of Humor, from the worst Scrofula down to a common Pimple.

He has tried it in over eleven hundred cases, and never failed except in two cases (both thunder humor.) He has now in his possession over two hundred certificates of its value, all within twenty miles of Boston. Send postal card for book.

A benefit is always experienced from the first bottle, and a perfect cure is warranted when the right quantity is taken.

When the lungs are affected it causes shooting pains, like needles passing through them; the same with the Liver or Bowels. This is caused by the ducts being stopped, and always disappears in a week after taking it. Read the label.

If the stomach is foul or bilious it will cause squeamish feelings at first.

No change of diet ever necessary. Eat the best you can get, and enough of it. Dose, one tablespoonful in water at bedtime. Sold by all Druggists.

In our adv. two weeks ago we told of our very superior all-steel hand and power feed cutter to be offered at $10 worth $40

Last week we told of the process of galvanizing and its indispensable preservative qualities. Next week we will give you the experience of two representative business firms of Illinois, one of whom has sold 400 and the other 500 Aermotors. The week following we will quote a price on the best pumps made (hand, wind mill and irrigating) lower than was ever before dreamed of; and the week following that we shall talk to you of steel galvanized tanks, with covers, at the unheard of price of 2½ cents per gallon. This is cheaper than wood. They do not shrink, leak, rot, rust or give taste to water.

The Aermotor Company treats the public generously. While state legislatures are passing laws to secure repairs for farm machinery at reasonable prices, IT IS A FACT THAT THE AERMOTOR COMPANY HAS FOR THE YEAR 1895 BEEN COMPELLED TO RAISE ITS PRICES ON REPAIRS BECAUSE SOME OF ITS CUSTOMERS HAVE BEEN ORDERING INDIVIDUAL PARTS TO MAKE UP COMPLETE MACHINES, SINCE IN THAT WAY THEY COULD GET A MACHINE CHEAPER THAN BY ORDERING IT ASSEMBLED. People are not compelled to buy machinery; they are compelled to buy repairs. The Aermotor Company, in this respect generous to a fault. It sold so low that customers could assemble a machine at less than the assembled machine would cost. But since it was not certain that they would get the machine assembled in good shape, for the protection of its own reputation, the Aermotor Company has raised the price of certain repairs just enough to prevent this in future. Not only has the Aermotor Company always given the best goods at the lowest price, but a new article at any price, but est price and refused to sell it has now ESTABLISHED TWENTY BRANCH HOUSES IN VARIOUS PARTS OF THE COUNTRY IN ORDER TO HAVE NOT ONLY ITS GOODS EASILY ACCESSIBLE, BUT TO HAVE ITS REPAIRS WITHIN EASY REACH. It expects soon to greatly increase this number of houses. This is a matter of the greatest importance to those who are purchasing machinery. Accidents will happen, and a wise man will look to it that repairs can quickly be had at reasonable cost. Our very low prices and high standards in everything connected with water supply and power production by wind, together with the accessibility of a full line of our goods and repairs, will be appreciated.

SHILOH'S FATED FIELD

Great Reunion to Be Held on This Historic Spot.

Now It Is a Memorial Park—Soldiers of the North and South Will Meet There and Recount How It Took Place. A Great Battle.

Since the appropriation of $95,000 for the establishment and dedication of a park on the historic battlefield of Shiloh, or Pittsburg Landing, was passed by Congress, the veterans have been at work, and on April 5, 6 and 7 the survivors of the terrible conflict on that field of battle will hold a meeting there that will be the largest reunion ever held in the South since the war.

The reunion will be under the auspices of the old armies of the Tennessee, the Ohio and the Mississippi, the purpose being to mark the positions held by the various commands and to promote the good feeling between those who wore the blue and the gray.

The Shiloh Battlefield association was organized April 10, 1893, on the occasion of the thirty-first anniversary of the battle, on the battlefield. It is composed of soldiers, both North and South, whose object is to have the old battleground purchased by the government and made a national memorial park. There are buried on this field over 4,000 Confederate dead, besides many of the Union dead who were never removed to the National Cemetery there.

The committee, appointed by the association, from the Senate and the House, was authorized to carry through such measures as would have the result desired. From the Senate Hon. Isham G. Harris, of Tennessee; Hon. John Sherman, of Ohio; Hon. W. F. Vilas, of Wisconsin, and from the House Col. D. B. Henderson, of Iowa; Gen. Joseph Wheeler, of Alabama, and Gen. John C. Black, of Illinois, were selected. The bill for the purchase and improvement passed the House and Senate, being approved by President Cleveland December 28, 1894, the bill providing three commissioners to have charge of the park, one from each of the Northern armies and one from the Confederacy.

The troops in the association are the Army of Tennessee, commanded by Gen. Grant; the Army of the Ohio, commanded by Gen. D. C. Buell, and the Army of the Mississippi, under the command of Gens. Albert Sidney Johnson and P. G. T. Beauregard.

The prime organizer of the movement to make the battlefield a memorial park was a Union soldier, Col. E. T. Lee, of Monticello, Ill., who is secretary of the Shiloh Battlefield association. He served four years, participating in a number of battles and marches, including Fort Henry, Fort Donelson, Shiloh, Corinth, Hatchie river, Vicksburg, Jackson (Miss.), the march to the sea and through the Carolinas. He was only in his 17th year when he enlisted, but he served courageously throughout the war, being badly wounded in the right hand and shoulder at the battle of Jackson, Miss., on July 12, 1863, when Pugh's brigade was almost annihilated. Since the war he has written many articles on the Shiloh battle, which show him well conversant with the duties of his position. His energy is untiring, and he has written thousands of letters to the survivors of Shiloh in consequence, and has now enrolled over 12,000 names of these old soldiers.

At the general reunion there will be some very interesting minor reunions, including the Third Iowa Infantry's reunion with the Forty-first Illinois Infantry, who were known and called the twin brothers of Pop Pugh's First Brigade, Fourth Division of the Army of Tennessee; they served together throughout the entire strife, and this will be the first time since they separated they have had the opportunity to talk of the time of war.

Many prominent ex-soldiers will be there, including all the survivors of the famous Croker's Iowa brigade, who will mark the position at the "Hornet's Nest." The Shiloh association of Nebraska will attend in a body. The Chickamauga, composed of Gens. Fullerton, Boynton, and Col. Smith and Gen. Stewart, will also attend. Gens. McClernand, Lew Wallace, B. M. Prentiss, James R. Chalmers, D. C. Buell, R. J. Oglesby, Col. A. C. Waterhouse, Capt. Ed McAllister, Col. I. P. Rumsely, Col. D. B. Henderson, Col. Cornelius Cadle, will greet their old comrades, as will many others of the Shiloh brigades.

It was never thought by the Union commanders that Shiloh or Pittsburg Landing would be the scene of battle. It was intended as the temporary camping ground of the Union forces while awaiting the arrival of Gen. Buell with the Army of the Ohio, when the combined forces under command of Halleck were to attack Johnston and Beauregard at Corinth, where they commanded a hardy body of soldiers, and where their intrenchment was thought very secure. The Union generals had no idea that the Confederates would leave their place of security to attack larger forces, but Gen. Albert Sidney Johnston was smarting under the criticisms of the Southern people for his inactivity, so he decided to reverse the principles of war—leave the fort and attack the enemy.

"We must go to the front; the ball has opened," was the remark of Gen. Grant when he heard the boom of cannon on the morning of the 6th, warning him of the approach of the Confederate forces.

Gen. Johnston had formed his army in three parallel lines. They moved forward under his personal command, striking Gen. Sherman's division at Corinth. He advanced upon Sherman with full force and with much rapidity, rushing his line of battle right on to the batteries and throwing many of the raw Union troops into great confusion, capturing several pieces of artillery, the camps of the Union army and all the provisions.

The line of battle advanced rapidly, meeting Prentiss and McClernand and pushing them back to the line of battle formed by Gen. Hurlburt at the Peach Orchard and Hornet's Nest.

In the morning at 10 o'clock Gen. Grant concentrated the Union forces, and in this way the further advance of the Confederates was stopped. The contest at this point is very vividly described by Col. William Preston Johnston:

When the Confederate army reached Hurlbut's fourth division and that of W. H. L. Wallace's, a gigantic contest began which lasted more than five hours. The Confederate assaults were made by rapid and often unconnected charges along the line. They were repeatedly checked and often repulsed; sometimes counter charges were made that drove them back a short distance, but whether in assault or recoil both sides saw their bravest soldiers fall in frightful numbers. At each charge there went up the wild yell heard above the roar of artillery. Hurlbut's men were massed in a position so impregnable and thronged with such fierce defenders that it won from the Confederates the title of "The Hornet's Nest." For five hours brigade after brigade was led against them. Hindman's brigade, which earlier in the day had swept everything before them, were now reduced to fragments and paralyzed for the rest of the day. A. P. Stewart's regiments made fruitless assaults, Gibson's brigade was ordered by Bragg to the assault and made a gallant charge, but, like the others, recoiled and fell back with very heavy loss. Bragg ordered them again to the charge and again they suffered a bloody repulse.

The bloody conflict lasted until nearly 4 o'clock p.m., the Confederate brigade having been four times repulsed, and without making any impression upon the Federal center. Then Gen. Johnston came up, observed the situation and coolly said: "This is the key to the landing. They are offering stubborn resistance here. I shall have to put the bayonet to them." Then Gen. Isham G. Harris left him to lead the Forty-fifth Tennessee.

Gen. Johnston rode to the front and then slowly down the line. His hat was in his hand, disclosing his unfurrowed brow. His presence was majestic, and when he spoke the men who stood ready to follow him seemed inspired. He then rode to the center of the line, turned in his saddle, and in a persuasive voice said: "Men, they are stubborn. We must use the bayonet." He resumed his position in his saddle, and said, "I will lead you," and rode toward the Federal lines.

A perfect sheet of flame greeted the Confederat body, as with a mighty shout the line moved forward in a charge. The line withered, but there was not an instant's pause. Gen. Johnston and his followers reached the crest, but not until a work of carnage had been done and Gen. Johnston's horse shot in four places and his clothing riddled with bullets. The Federal line, as they fell back, kept up a withering fire, and a minie ball from one of them cut short the career of Albert Sidney Johnston. Gen. Harris, riding up to him and seeing him very pale and as if in great pain, asked him, "General, are you wounded?"

"Yes, I fear seriously," was his answer, and the last words he ever uttered.

Beauregard was thrown in full command at the death of Gen. Johnston, and was in great glee over what he thought was assured victory.

But the tide of battle was to turn. At 4 p.m. Stewart's brigade, under heavy fire, was forced back and shot and shell was now being poured into Hurlbut's left, which gradually gave back, though contesting every foot of the ground. They were in perfect order, however, and took up their position on the last line of defense, one mile from the landing. Prentiss and Wallace held their positions on the right, and with orders from Gen. Grant to hold it at all hazards. However, he was surrounded and compelled to surrender his 1,500 men at about 5 o'clock in the evening. Gen. Wallace was shot and wounded in trying to bring his command from their position.

Gen. Grant during a lull, subsequent upon the surrender of Prentiss, had thrown up some breastworks, and as the remnant of the army came back they formed in line along the brow of the hill fronting Gill's run. The line had hardly been completed when Gen. Chalmers' Mississippi brigade came to a ravine and in range of the Federal artillery. Sheet after sheet of flame greeted the Confederate force, and added to this the gunboats Tyler and Lexington, in the Tennessee river, began firing their 15-inch shells into the Confederate line. They could not stand this terrific fire and were driven back.

Early the morning of the 7th and throughout the day the roll of infantry and artillery was heard all along the lines. The Confederates were being driven back and were contesting every inch of the way. Not until Shiloh Church was reached could the Confederates hold any position, and there they held, notwithstanding charge and recharge, until Gen. Grant came up and selected Viatches' brigade of Gen. Hurlburt's division, with other regiments and formed them into line for the final charge.

"Well do we remember," writes Col. Lee, "when they took off their hats and gave three cheers for the Union and the old flag. Then sweeping up the slope and over the ridge they disappeared down the decline, carrying everything before them and driving the Confederate army from the field. Cheer after cheer went up as the last shot died away in the distance and Shiloh was won."

Gen. Beauregard placed the number of Confederate loss at 10,699, and Gen. Grant the Union loss at 13,047. But these figures, in the judgment of many, are far below the number lost.

In the National Cemetery at Pittsburg Landing, Tenn., are 4,000 Union dead, besides the number taken North and interred by friends and relatives. The loss of killed and wounded and those who died of wounds received is not less than 30,000.

MICHIGAN'S BENEFACTOR

An Oft Repeated Story of True Philanthropy.

What Chas. H. Hackley Has Done for Western Michigan.

(From Grand Rapids, Mich., Evening Press.)

The most beautiful spot in all this city is inseparably associated with the name of Hackley. Chas. H. Hackley has been in the lumber business here continuously since 1856 and in that time has amassed a fortune which gives him a rating among the wealthy men of the nation. But with wealth there did not come that tightening of the purse strings which is generally a marked characteristic of wealthy men.

It is not a wonder then that the name of Charles H. Hackley is known at home and abroad. His munificence to Muskegon alone represents an outlay of nearly half a million. For the past twenty years he has been a constant sufferer from neuralgia and rheumatism, also numbness of the lower limbs, so much so that it has seriously interfered with his pleasure in life. For some time past his friends have noticed that he has seemed to grow young again and to have recovered the health which he had in youth.

To a reporter for the Press Mr. Hackley explained the secret of this transformation. "I have suffered for over 20 years," he said, 'with pains in my lower limbs so severely, that the only relief I could get at night was by putting cold water compresses on my limbs. I was bothered more at night than in the day time. The neuralgic and rheumatic pains in my limbs, which had been growing in intensity for years, finally became chronic. I made three trips to the Hot Springs with only partial relief and then fell back to my original state. I couldn't sit still and my sufferings began to make life look very blue. Two years ago last September I noticed an account of Dr Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People and what they had done for others, and some cases so nearly resembled mine that I was interested, so I wrote to one who had given a testimonial, an eminent professor of music in Canada. The reply I received was even stronger than the printed testimonial and it gave me faith in the medicine.

"I began taking the pills and found them to be all that the professor had told me they would be. It was two or three months before I experienced any perceptible betterment of my condition. My disease was of such long standing that I did not expect speedy recovery and was thankful even to be relieved. I progressed rapidly, however, towards recovery and for the last six months have felt myself a perfectly well man. I have recommended the pills to many people and am only too glad to assist others to health through the medium of this wonderful medicine. I cannot say too much for what it has done for me."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are for sale by all druggists, or may be had by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y., for 50c. per box, or six boxes for $2 50.

The Hot Springs of South Dakota.

The following letter from Mr. W. M. Tyson, Commander of the Pennsylvania Soldier and Sailors' Home at Erie, Pa., written on his return home, after a stay of some weeks at Hot Springs, South Dakota, indicates that the Springs are in a fair way to become one of the leading health resorts of the country:

ERIE, PA., Feb. 28, 1895.

Col. FRED EVANS, Prop.,

"Evans Hotel," Hot Springs, S. D.

Dear Sir: Among the many who have been benefited by treatment at the Hot Springs, S. D., and have experienced courteous hospitality at your hands, I claim the right to say a word in behalf of the Springs as a health resort, and cannot do better than to state the facts in my own case.

I left Erie, Pa., about November 1, 1894, my friends at the time doubting whether I would ever recover my health. I arrived at Hot Springs so weak and disheartened that it required aid to leave the cars and reach the hotel. For the first two weeks I felt no improvement. Then I experienced a change, which continued until my departure, and returned to my home very much stronger, and almost free from pain.

I do not hesitate to say to anyone seeking relief from pain, and desiring rest, that I do not believe there is any place where an invalid can go and find so many advantages, such as healing waters, pure air, grand mountain scenery and comfortable hotel accommodations, as Hot Springs, S. D. The elegant Evans Hotel is equipped with every provision for comfort, and all that goes to make one feel at home. I am so thoroughly convinced of the many advantages to be found at your location, that it is a pleasure for me to recommend the Hot Springs to invalids, and to those seeking amusement as well as health.

Wishing you every success, and that Hot Springs may become better known and appreciated, I am Truly yours, (Signed) W. M. TYSON.

AN ALARMING STATEMENT CONCERNING WOMEN.

HOW BAD HABITS ARE FORMED.

The New York Tribune says: "The habit of taking 'headache powders' is increasing to an alarming extent among a great number of women throughout the country. These powders as their name indicates, are claimed by the manufacturers to be a positive and speedy cure for any form of headache. In many cases their chief ingredient is morphine, opium, cocaine or some other equally injurious drug having a tendency to deaden pain. The habit of taking them is easily formed, but almost impossible to shake off. Women usually begin taking them to relieve a raging headache and soon resort to the powder to alleviate any little pain or ache they may be subjected to, and finally like the morphine or opium fiend, get into the habit of taking them regularly, imagining that they are in pain if they happen to miss their regular dose."

In nine cases out of ten, the trouble is in the stomach and liver. Take a simple laxative and liver tonic and remove the offending matter which deranges the stomach and causes the headache. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are composed entirely of the purest, concentrated, vegetable extracts. One Pellet is a dose; sugar-coated, easily swallowed; once used, always in favor. They positively cure sick headache and remove the disposition to it.

MR. E. VARGASON, of Otter Lake, Lapeer Co., Mich., writes: "I not infrequently have an attack of the headache. It usually comes on in the forenoon. At my dinner I eat my regular meal, and take one or two of Doctor Pierce's Pleasant Pellets immediately after, and in the course of an hour my headache is cured and no bad effects. I feel better every way for having taken them—not worse, as is usual after taking other kinds of pills. 'Pleasant Pellets' are worth more than their weight in gold, if for nothing else than to cure headache."

URANUS is really a gigantic world, more than sixty times as large as ours. Its vast distance, now about 1,700,000,000 miles from the earth, is what causes it to look so small.

IT is due to the dust that the heavens are blue. We see the sunlight reflected by every particle of dust. There is nothing but the dust between us and the sun to transmit its light to us.

MERCURY must get much more heat from the sun than the earth does, since it is so much nearer to the sun. If there were living creatures on Mercury the sun must also look much larger to them than it does to us.

Current News For the Week Throughout Alabama

A TRAGEDY THAT PROVES FATAL.

A Sabbath Afternoon Battle Between Two Families Near Tuskegee. The Trial of Renton a Farce. Other Alabama News.

TUSKAGEE, Ala., March 26.—Sunday about dusk a shooting scrape occurred near Armstrong Chapel, 8 miles from here, which resulted in the killing of Saab Riddle, dangerously wounding his brother Charlie and wounding Andrew, aged 8, in the leg. The parties who did the killing are Captain John Christian and son William, who are now in jail. Both families have been on unfriendly terms for some time, it seems from what could be learned of Williams statement that he was letting down the fence near Riddles cow pen when the young men came up and ordered him off. He went home and told his father what had occurred and both armed themselves with guns and returned to the pen. On seeing them approach the Riddle boys commenced firing and Christian then fired with the above result. The Riddle boys stated that they were not armed; that they were shot for nothing and did not know Christian and son were near until they sprang out and commenced firind at them. No arms were found on the Riddle's by several who were there immediately after the killing. Andrew it is said, who with his sister preceeded his father and mother, after hearing the report of the guns, started towards his brother, when one of the Christian men said: "There's another G—d d—m Riddle—shoot him. The grand jury will probably investigate the case next week.

TRIAL THE VERIEST FARCE.

Murderers of C. W. Renton, at Brewers Lagoon, Will Go Scott Free.

MOBILE, Ala., March 25.—It has been learned that the cruiser Montgomery went first to Brewers lagoon, where the officers, headed by Captain Davis, went ashore and visited the ruins of the house occupied by C. W. Renton, the murdered American.

It is said that the murder was committed because Renton had property Brewers lagoon company desired to get control of and there was but one way to get it, to put Renton out of the way, which was done. The officers of the Montgomery will not say so for publication, but it is understood from information they have received, they consider the trial of the suspected parties the veriest farce, two of the participants in the murder being intimate friends of the then governor of Honduras. Capt Davis will not be interviewed, but it is also understood that he is of the opinion that the Honduran government, should pay indemnity to the widow of Renton, and will so recommend.

Prominent Alabamian Dead.

EDWARDSVILLE, Ala., March 27.—Judge Leroy F. Box, died here yesterday. Judge Box had been a member of the state legislature, was state superintendent of instruction for four years and was serving his third term as circuit judge when he died.

Event in Alabama Musical Circles.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 25.—The management of O'Briens opera house, this city, has contracted for the appearance of the United States marine band here during the latter part of April.

ALABAMA NEWS IN BRIEF.

The Daily State, Birmingham's new morning paper, appeared Sunday.

Miss Bertha Townes has resigned the city editorship of the Huntsville Tribune.

Rev. Sam. P. Jones, the great Methodist, will lecture on the 3rd day of April at Dadeville.

The Etna Iron works, at Tecumseh, which has been idle for four years, will resume operations in a few months.

Jack Martin was killed Friday night by a man named Hooper at Jasper. The dispute arose at a school entertainment.

The ore washers in and around Tecumseh are taxed to their fullest capacity to fill orders they are receiving for their ore.

In Randolph county, near Wildwood postoffice, an illicit distillery was captured Monday, a complete outfit and several bushels of mash.

The four-year-old daughter of Mr. John C. Kirtland, who lives near Blackwood, had the misfortune to break her arm by falling from a mule.

Tom Smith has closed a contract with A. M. Stewart & Co., to cut 160,000 feet of lumber to be used in constructing the Dwight Cotton mill at Alabama city.

Howell & Clark, of Alexandria, Calhoun county, closed a contract last week to furnish 250,000 feet of lumber to be used in constructing the cotton factory at Alabama city.

Mrs. Whitlock, an aged lady of Tecumseh, while climbing across a fence Saturday morning, fell and injured her back and spine in such a manner that there is no hope for her recovery.

A woman emigrant agent is one of Birmingham's latest novelties, and she has been quite successful. On the Kansas City, Memphis & Birmingham train, which left that city Sunday afternoon was an extra coach, and it was filled with negro families. They were in charge of Mrs. Lovette, of Atlanta.

All portions of the state have been heard from regarding the attendance on the Alabama Commercial Association except the the black belt. Anniston, Montgomery, Troy, Mobile, Florence, Evergreen, Decatur, Cullman and a number of other localities are sending representatives, but nothing as yet from Selma, Demopolis or that section.

McKINLEY IN SAVANNAH.

City Council and Citizens General do Honor to the Distinguished Republican.

SAVANNAH, Ga., March 30.—Governor William McKinley, of Ohio, and party consisting of Mrs. McKinley, Mr. and Mrs. William Osborne, Mr. Mark A. Hanna and Mr. Joseph P. Smith, arrived here from Jacksonville last night at 8:45 o'clock. The party was met at the train by ex-Collector T. F. Johnson, Captain W. J. Doyle and ex-Postmaster Joseph F. Doyle, well known local republicans, and driven to the DeSoto hotel. A meeting of the city council was called yesterday afternoon to make some arrangement for a reception to the governor and committee consisting of Mayor Myers and Aldermen Garrard and Falligunt appointed to call on him. The committee met him in his private parlor at the hotel last night and it was decided that he and his party should be given a carriage drive around the city to Bonaventure and other points of interest today.

Governor McKinley was informed that the city council desired to call on him this morning at 10 o'clock. He said that he would be glad to meet the members of the council but requested that there be no speech making. He was informed his wishes in this matter would be respected. A trip down the river is on the programme for today and the governor and his party will leave for Washington, D. C., tonight at 12 o'clock.

NICARAUGA CANAL MATTERS.

Warner Miller and Other Stockholders Call on the President and Gresham.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—Four prominent citizens of the metropolis were much in evidence at the White House and the state and war departments today. They are Messrs Hiram J. Hitchcock, Warner Miller, Smith M. Weed and Franklin Bartlett. The first named is the president and the others are large stockholders in the Nicarauga Canal company. That it related to the political situation in Nicaragua is almost beyond question, and is also the presumption that they advocated a vigorous enforcement of the Monroe doctrine in case of threatened territorial powers encroachment of European powers. It is understood that they expressed their appreciation of American interests in Nicaraugua, as indicated by the concentration of warships in the vicinity.

THE RATES AGREED UPON.

Coke Producers of Connellsville District Come to Terms.

PITTSBURG, Pa., March 30.—The coke producers of the Connellsville region have settled upon the following rates to take effect on and after next Monday: Furnace coke, $1.35; foundry $1.60; crushed $1.65. The American Manufacturer says of the change: "Some of the buying side of the market professed to believe that the increased cost of material would not make any marked difference in pig iron prices, but this was before the figures were announced. One reason for this opinion may be that low prices have prevailed so long that it is difficult for some to believe that higher figures may soon be reached."

TRADE MUCH IMPROVED.

Bradstreets Weekly Review Reports the Situation Encouraging.

NEW YORK, March 30.—Bradstreets' weekly review of trade says:

General trade for the third week in succession continues to show evidence of improvement. In no other direction is this so plainly indicated as in the tendency of prices. A week ago encouragement had been obtained from a generally unexpected advance in cotton and wheat. Following their slight reaction, the week has witnessed a firm cotton market.

A moderate improvement is announced from Memphis, Nashville, Birmingham, Atlanta and Augusta; dry goods, groceries, hardware and plantation supplies feeling the change most. At Chattanooga and Savannah the trade is quiet, but at Jacksonville there has been a decrease in volume. The movement in dry goods at New Orleans has felt some increased demand, but shipping interests continued disturbed. The season is backward at Galveston, with trade only fair.

THE APPOINTMENTS MADE.

Democratic Postmasters to Take Charge of Cincinnati and Cleveland Offices.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—The recent activity of Senator Brook, ex-Governor Campbell and Hon. Tom Johnson, of Ohio, regarding the appointments of postmasters at Cincinnati and Cleveland, O., has brought matters to an interesting stage and the republican incumbents who have been held over somewhat longer than usual for such prominent positions will very likely within the next twenty-four hours hear of their successors being appointed. On authority of Secretary Thurber, it was said the appointments would be made today.

NEGROES FIGHT A DUEL.

Alabama Colored Politicians Disagree and Fire Fatal Shots.

SELMA, Ala., March 30.—Last night about two miles east of Selma. Jerry Dumas, a negro politician, got into an altercation with Scott Wilson, colored, about the last congressional elections. Both negroes are prominent republicans. They drew revolvers and began firing at each other. Scott was almost instantly killed and Dumas' death is hourly expected.

A Republican Attempt Defeated.

MADRID, March 30.—A republican attempt to obstruct the progress of the budget in the chamber was defeated yesterday by a large majority, the liberals supporting the government. Thirteen republican votes were recorded. It is believed that the budget will be completed before the end of next week.

The Sun's Cotton Review.

NEW YORK, March 30.—Cotton rose 2 to 5 points early in the day on the near positions, May showing the most firmness, but later on this advance was lost and May, June and July fell one point below the last prices of Thursday, but they closed at Thursday's final quotations.

LEFT WITH THE CASH

Sensation in the Official Circles of Montgomery.

JUDGE RANDOLPH AWAY AND BEHIND.

Amount of the Probate's Defalcation Not Yet Accurately Known—The Subject Seen Last in New Orleans and May be in Central America.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., March 30.—For some days thers has been considerable gossip regarding affairs in the office of Probate Judge F. C. Randolph. This grew into a great volume yesterday when it became generally known that he had been absent for two weeks and that he drew on the day he left all the money to his credit, a considerable sum in two banks. In one bank he drew for the announced purpose of making settlements with the state for collection of license money. Inquiry makes it plain that he did not pay over the sum. For some months shortages have been alleged, but on the 15th of January he paid over all that then stood against him. It is the general surmise that he collected on current quarter and settled what he was charged with to the end of last year.

When the grand jury met some weeks ago, a committee called on the governor to have an official examination made of the office by the state examiner of his accounts. The request was complied with and the state examiner has been diligently at work, and the absence of the judge during the time has been widely commented on.

The grand jury adjourned over until April 8th in order to give time for the examination, until the report is made it will be impossible to tell what is the amount due the state and county.

Judge Randolph left here on the night of the 15th and seen in New Orleans on the morning of the 16th. It is believed that he has gone to Honduras or some Central American state.

PANNILL REMAINS IN JAIL.

He is Unable to Give a Heavy Bond and is Not Making Anything.

LYNCHBURG, Va., March 30.—At the request of Mr. Montague, United States district attorney, the judge yesterday in the United States court set the rehearing of the case of the government against Robert H. Pannill for aiding and abetting in the embezzlement of funds from the First National bank for the extra session of the court which convenes in this city on the 23rd of April next. Pannill's bail was fixed at $10,000 but his friends were unable to raise the amount.

WANTS THE BIRTHDAY OVER.

Prince Bismarck Growing Weary of the Progressing Festivities.

BERLIN, March 30.—Prince Bismarck said yesterday in conversation with an architect visiting him at Friedrichsruhe: "I shall be glad when the birthday week is over. I ought to have been on horseback when the emperer came, but I cannot manage it now. My bones are too stiff. I cannot get my leg over the horse's back." The enormous influx of visitors in Friedrichsruhe continues. The number of students on April 1 will be much greater than first expected.

CAPITOL REMAINS AT ST. PAUL.

All Efforts to Remove to Minneapolis Have Been Abandoned.

ST. PAUL, Minn., March 30.—The question of the removal of the state capitol to Minneapolis came up yesterday afternoon. The judiciary committee in the house reported that Minneapolis had no right to give the state Loring Park and that the legislature had no power to grant such authority. The report was adopted without a dissenting vote, and the capitol remains in St. Paul.

SHAFT TO CONFEDERATE DEAD.

Beautiful Monument Unveiled at Union Springs, Alabama, Appropriately.

UNION SPRINGS, Ala., March 30.—The monument to the Confederate veterans of Bullock county was unveiled here today in the presence af an immense throng of people. J. W. A. Sanford, of Montgomery, was the orator. The completion of this work is almost to the unceasing labor of love of the patriotic women of the community.

ATLANTA DEADLOCK BROKEN.

George E. Johnson Elected Chairman of the Police Commissioners.

ATLANTA, March 30.—The police commission deadlock, which has been on for a week, has been broken. George E. Johnson was elected chairman. Chief Connally, who refused to obey the mayor's order to arrest a police commissioner, has been re-elected. It was a compromise by both sides.

Mill Destroyed and the Owners Killed.

DAYTON, N. Y., March 30.—The boiler in the saw mill of D. J. Ingersoll, at East Leon, about eight miles from this village, blew up yesterday afternoon. The mill was completely destroyed. The owner, D. J. Ingersoll, and his uncle Denziel Ingersoll, were both instantly killed.

Seven Duels Arranged Without Arms.

BUDA PEST, March 30.—Seven of the eight duels arranged between the election officer Tarnoczy and deputies have been settled amicably. Mutual apologies were offered for the abusive language which provoked the challenges.

The Weather Gets Warmer.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—Forecast: For Georgia, fair, southerly winds, warmer in extreme eastern portion. For Alabama, fair and continued warm, southerly winds.

What the Loss Will Aggregate.

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., March 30.—The people are yet viewing the ruins of Thursday's fire and countining the cost. The loss is fully $300,000, with small insurance.

WILMINGTON'S POLICE BOARD.

Organize and Shake Up the City Officeholders Promiscuously.

WILMINGTON, N. C., March 30.—The police board, consisting of five members, of which four are republicans and one populist, organized yesterday. This board was created by the late fusion legislature and has control of all the patronage and appointments with one or two exceptions.

There was a pretty general shaking up, though quite a number of positions were given to democrats, among them chief and assistant chief of the fire department, superintendent of health and the secretary of the police board. The chief of police is a populist. The captain and three out of four sergeants are democrats. Nearly half of the privates are democrats. The balance are populists and republicans, including four negroes.

The board of aldermen, consisting of eight democrats and two republicans, and the board of audit and finance, composed entirely of democrats, hold over for two years under the act of the legislature. These two boards control all appropriations.

THE LOVE FOR HER HUSBAND.

Wife Turns Upon the Officers When Arresting Her Murderous Husband.

OTTUMWA, Ia., March 30.—Fred Pietzmeier, a coal miner, yesterday, while under the influence of liquor, attempted to compel his thirteen year old daughter to drink beer. A murderous fight with his wife was in progress when Officer Graves arrived upon the scene. Pietzmeier, opening the door, deliberately shot the officer through the heart. When the patrol wagon arrived with reinforcements a pitched battle ensued, Mrs. Pietzmeier and her son, aged seventeen, fighting the officers with chairs, to keep the husband from arrest. Pietzmeier attempted to shoot the chief of police, but was thwarted by Officer Johnson, who in turn narrowly escaped being shot in the abdomen.

To guard against lynching Pietzmeier was spirited away to Fort Madison, and is safely locked in the penitentiary to await his trial. The dead officer was connected with some of the oldest and best families in the city.

SIXTEEN YEARS A BIGAMIST.

Georgia Lady and Daughter Claim a Respected Florida Citizen as Husband.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 30.—At Jasper, Fla., a sensation has been caused by the appearance of a lady and girl from Georgia, who claim to be the wife and daughter of R. A. Chaney, a respected citizen. Chaney came here years ago, married into a prominent family and has several children. The Georgia lady claims Chaney deserted her sixteen years ago and Chaney does not deny it. No steps have yet been taken looking to his prosecution.

SWELLED THE LIABILITIES.

Several Large Failures Reported for the First Weeks in March.

NEW YORK, March 30.—R. G. Dun & Co., reports failures as follows:

Several large failures this month have swelled the aggregate of liabilities for three weeks of March to $11,271,121, against $10,065,991 last year of which $8,411,342 were of manufacturing concerns against $4,469,118 last year, and $4,834,779 in trading concerns against $4,225,082 last year. The failures this week have been 234 in the United States against 338 last year, and 42 in Canda against 30 last year. But the recent increase indicates past rather than recent conditions of unsoundness.

THE MAN OF MANY ALIASES.

Southern Express Company Takes Steps to Extradite the Diamond Thief.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., March 30.—The Southern express company yesterday instituted proceedings to extradite Diamond Charley, who is now held in Toronto for diamond swindles in Georgia a few weeks ago. It is now believed his name is Abe Rothschild, whose parents live in Cincinnati and are wealthy. He is known under a half dozen aliases.

THE FOURTH VICTIM OF LEAD.

Body of John Underwood, Leader of the Cincinnati Southern Robbers, Found.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., March 30.—The report that the dead body of John Underwood, leader of the highwaymen who attempted to hold up the Cincinnati Southern express, had been found was confirmed yesterday. This makes the fourth victim of the detectives' bullets. The third, a tramp named Martin, was living yesterday, but his death is expected hourly.

'TWAS A COSTLY EXPERIENCE.

North Carolina Family Pays Heavily for Refilling Stamped Packages.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—Secretary Carlisle yesterday compromised the case against B. O. Jenkins, of the Fifth North Carolina district for re-filling stamped packages, etc., and failing to pay tax, by the defendant paying $610. J. F. Jenkins of the some district, son of the former, for aiding and abetting the father, was fined $290.

Brazilian Ministers' Brother.

WASHINGTON, March 30. — Minister Mendonca received a cable from Rio Janerio yesterday that his brother, Dr. Lucio Mendonca, had been appointed a justice of the supreme court of Brazil. The statement that the minister himself had been selected was an error.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., March 30.—Manager Higbee, of the International Navigation company, says that the Cramps will launch the St. Paul in about ten days.

Asks For a Heavy Cuban Credit.

MADRID, March 30.—Navarro Revertea, minister of finance, asked the deputies yesterday for a Cuban credit of 1,200,000 pesetas.

COLONY FOR GEORGIA

Location of Forty Thousand Soldiers in the Empire State.

THE MOVE REGARDED AS CERTAIN.

Mr. Fitzgerald, Founder of the Old Soldiers Colony, Looks Over the Ground and Satisfies Himself as to Climatic and Other Advantages.

ATLANTA, March 30. — Mr. P. H. Fitzgerald, the founder of the old soldiers' colony with headquarters at Indianapolis, is in Atlanta in final conference with ex-Governor Northern about the location of his colony in Georgia. Mr. Fitzgerald, through the American Tribune, published at Indianapolis, Indiana, has secured a paid up membership in the colony amounting to 14,000 heads of families and comprehending about 40,000 people, who are seeking location in a milder climate at the south. Governor Northern has been negotiating with Mr. Fitzgerald, the head of the colony, for several months and he has finally induced him to come to Georgia for a personal inspection of the advantages offered by this state. These gentlemen have just returned from a tour of the southern part of the state and Mr. Fitzgerald will go to Indianapolis today fully prepared to recommend the settlement of his colony in Georgia. It is understood that his recommendation will secure this large colony of federal soldeirs for Georgia.

HE WOULD NOT APOLOGIZE.

Senator Stewart of Nebraska Censured, But Takes It With Ease.

LINCOLN, Neb., March 30.—Senator Stewart, who Thursday engaged in a hand-to-hand encounter with the sergeant-at-arms, was yesterday censured by a vote of the senate. He was given twenty-four hours to apologize, but instead sent the following note to the clerk's desk:

As regards the violent and brutal assault made upon me by the sergeant-at-arms of the senate, who has no business whatever to interfere with the work of the committee of the whole until the president has resumed the gavel and cannot then restore order, I have no apology to make, and if a majority of this senate desire to go on record as endorsing such brutal disregard of the rights of a member, I certainly shall not be the one to try to pevent them.

The vote of censure was nearly unanimous, but six populists members opposing it.

PAPER'S SHARP COMMENT.

The Debats on Sir Edward Grey's Statement Before the House of Commons.

PARIS, March 30.—The Debats says in commenting on Sir Edward Grey's statement before the house of commons last evening:

These re-criminations are unfounded. We do not admit that France's silence as to England's claims to the upper Nile region meant consent. France was no party to England's treaty with Germany and Italy in which these claims were admitted. We must object to Sir Edward Grey's confounding British and Egyptian rights. The Khedive in the eyes of France is the sole and legitimate chief under the Sultan's sovereignty. We do not know that we have any expedition on its way to the upper Nile region, but we do know that France under all circumstances will recognize the Portes and Egypt's rights to the upper Nile and nobody's else.

WILL REPORT FOR TURNEY.

The Prospective Result of the Fraud Investigation in the Governorship.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 30.—The investigation into the charges and counter-charges of fraud in connection with the Evans-Turney gubernatorial election has progressed so far that yesterday it was possible for the first time to make an estimate of what the result would be. The action taken by three sub committees at work in different parts of the state shows that the general committee report to the general assembly a majority between 4,000 and 6,000 votes in favor of Turney whereas the face of the returns gave Evans a majority of 700.

'TWAS NO SUCH GOOD NEWS.

The Delaware Deadlock Not Yet Broken Though Likely to Be.

WILMINGTON, Del., March 30.—The first break in the ranks of the Addicks men yesterday in the senatorial contest at Dover created some excitement in this city. It was taken as an indication that a senator might yet be elected. There is no sign, however, that either of the other five Addicks men will leave their man.

Hottest March Day on Record.

DES MOINS, Io., March 30.—The thermometer at the signal service station registered 89 degrees yesterday afternoon, the hottest on record for a March day. Winter wheat and pastures are suffering severely from the combined drought and heat.

Legislature Preparing for Sensations.

WINNIPEG, Man., March 30. — No amendment was offered yesterday to the motion of the government for adjournment of the house to consider the school question and the legislature accordingly adjourned to May 9, when sensational developments are expected.

Local Legislative Assemblies.

LONDON, March 30. — The house of commons passed by a vote of 128 to 102 yesterday evening J. H. Dalziels resignation affirming that it was desirable to establish local legislative assembles for England, Scotland, Ireland and Wales.

Dominion Cabinet Crisis Ended.

OTTAWA, Ont., March 30.—The Dominion cabinet crisis is ended. Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper has returned to work in the cabinet, the difficulties between himself and Premier Bowell having been amicably settled.

Republican Convention Badly Divided.

MADRID, March 30.—The republican convention which has been in session since the beginning of the week closed yesterday. It was very inharmonious and ended with a division of the party.

PROGRESS OF THE EXPOSITION.

Latest Additions in Points of Attraction and Interest.

ATLDNTA, March 30.—Mr. L. Steringer, who was consulting electrical engineer at the World's Fair, is in the city to advise with Mr. H. M. Atkinson, chairman on the committee on electricity of the Cotton States and International exposition. He has been over the grounds examining carefully their possibilities for electrical display, and has in process of development a new and original scheme for electrical display on the lake. He is now examining the maps and plans of the chief of construction, with a view to perfecting this display. He thinks it will exceed anything ever projected.

Mr. S. F. B. Morse, of the Southern Pacific railroad, is in the city for the purpose of perfecting arrangements for a display of the Southern Pacific railway at the Cotton States and International Exposition. That company proposes to erect a building and install an exhibit representing the products of the territory traversed by its lines.

HORACE COOPER CONVICTED.

He Shot Down Maggie Pitts in Cold Blood.

ELKTON, Md., March 30.—The jury in the Horace Cooper murder case, which has been on trial since Monday in the circuit court for Cecil county, rendered a verdict yesterday morning, after being out for more than twelve hours, of murder in the first degree. The murder for which Cooper will pay the penalty occurred on Sunday, November 18, last, at Cokesberry, this county, a small negro settlement, when he shot and fatally wounded his sweetheart, Maggie Pitts, colored, because she refused to marry him. Cooper is a desperate character, and visited her home on Saturday night intending to kill her, but was prevented by Perry Gibson, an old colored man. He returned on Sunday and shot her three times, which resulted in her death two day afterward.

THE ACCIDENT IN HUNGARY.

Miners Killed by a Falling Cage—The Man Responsible Goes Insane.

BUDAPEST, Hungary, March 30.—Six men were killed yesterday by the falling of a cage in a silver mine in Schemnitz, caused by negligence by the workman guiding the cage in which the men were ascending the shaft. He had become exhausted from watching several nights at the bedside of his sick wife, and for a moment fell asleep. When the cage reached the top of the shaft it was stopped, and broke from its fastening, falling 200 feet into the pit. The workman who caused the accident has become insane.

THE SUGAR TRUST CASES.

Trial of the Contumacious Witnesses to Be Held Before the End of the Month.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—Judge Cole, in the district criminal court has decided that the trials of the contumacious sugar trust witnesses should take place before the end of next month, although he did not grant the motion of Mr. Nathaniel Wilson, the counsel for H. O. Havemeyer, and Treasurer Searles, of the sugar trust, to set their trials before the 15th of April, because District Attorney Birney stated that at present he was unable to decide upon a day.

NATURAL GAS AT FULTON.

If the Flow Proves Permanent It May Be Piped to Syracuse.

FULTON, N. Y., March 30.—A seemingly inexhaustible flow of natural gas was struck at this village last night. At a depth of 1,645 feet the drill had penetrated the Trenton limestone, when suddenly a jet of gas issued having a pressure of nearly five hundred pounds. Great excitement prevails at Fulton on account of the discovery. If the flow of gas should prove a permanent one it will probably be piped to Syracuse.

PEACE IN MANITOBA.

Legislature Suddenly Adjourned, and the School Question Laid Over.

WINNEPEG, Man., March 30.—The Manitoba legislature will not deal at present with the parochial schools mandate from Ottawa, as it has been decided by Premier Greenway to adjourn the house till May 9. This is a surprise. A member of the cabinet says the remedial order on schools is too important a matter to be dealt with precipitately. During the recess the government will have opportunity to study the situation.

LORD ABERDEEN FOR IRELAND.

Belief That He Will Become Viceroy There Again to Save the Liberals.

OTTAWA, Ont., March 30.—The rumor that the governor general, Lord Aberdeen, has been offered the Lord Lieutenancy of Ireland is gaining credence. Things are precarious for the party in power in Great Britain, and the Viceregal position in Ireland, likely to be vacant through Lord Houghton's acceptance of another office, was never more popularly filled than by Lord Aberdeen.

FAILURE OF A BRISTOL BANK.

Assets Over $25,000, More Than the Liabilities—Depositors Lose Nothing.

BRISTOL, Tenn., March 30.—The Bristol Bank and Trust company assigned yesterday. Assets, $50,159; liabilities, $24,720; due to depositors $16,900. The Hanover bank, of New York City, with claims for 5,100, pushed the bank to the wall. It is the second assignment of the bank in fifteen months, and it is expected it will pay in full easily.

Five Yale Students Missing.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., March 30.—A local paper has a rumor that a party of five Yale students on Saturday hired a boat of a local boatman, and neither the boys nor the boat have since been seen.

New York Treasury Balances.

NEW YORK, March 30.—Treasury balances; Coin $80,599,000; Currency $6,913,000.

KENTUCKY POLITICS

Secretary Carlisle to Step to The Arena.

SENATOR BLACKBURN TO OPPOSE HIM.

Everything in Progress, Looking to Opening One of the Most Memorable Campaigns in the History of the Blue Grass State.

FRANKFORT, Ky., March 30.—The Kentucky democrats are not waiting to see what course the president may pursue with regard to another international monetary conference before taking sides on the present aspect of the silver question, but are already dividing on the line of free coinage and preparing for a most energetic state campaign. Their convention for nominating a full state ticket will be held at Louisville in June, and although there are local issues of enough importance to occupy them, and although the republicans will endeavor to hold them down to the local issues, the one overshadowing national issue is certain to receive a very great deal of attention at their hands, both before and after the convention. Not improbably, indeed, the complexion of the ticket itself may depend upon the expression as to silver embodied in the platform adopted.

Unusual interest attaches to this contest by reason of the probable participation in it of Secretary Carlisle.

The matter has been made the subject of a good deal of discussion in the Kentucky newspapers, and now, as the time draws near for a decision to be reached, Mr. Carlisle is being pressed to accept an invitation for an early appearance in the arena. There is hope that he may be able to improve an opportunity to be afforded him about the middle of April, when a rally of the democratic clubs of Louisville will take place, and when he could address himself to the whole political question, state and national. An invitation to attend this meeting is now in his hands and if he decides to accept it his deliverance on the occasion will attract national attention. Some of the time will have to be given to the financial question, and this portion of the address, will, of course, be accepted as the voice of the administration calling democrats to duty.

The Kentucky democracy is split in twain on the silver question, and more feeling exists than has ever appeared in factional strife in the blue grass state before. The anti-free coinage sentiment is voiced by Secretary Carlisle, Senator Lindsay and Henry Watterson. They are ticketed as gold bugs and as the mouthpieces of Wall street. Behind them are the commercial bodies of the towns and cities, the capitalists here and there engaged in developing the resources of the state and business men generally. This faction is strong in talent and political experience.

The Kentucky republicans, full of confidence this year, will take the first go. They will meet in May and make their nomination and adopt their platform. As far as possible, they will keep local issues to the front.

HE FAVORS THE INCOME TAX.

The President Said to Have Changed His Views on the Subject.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—President Cleveland is said to have become a convert to the income tax. If the fifty-fourth congress should attempt the repeal of this law, as is expected, Mr. Cleveland will probably be found standing in the way of the accomplishment of that act. When the proposition was first made in the last congress the president was not favorable to it, and it was with great difficulty that he was converted to a corporation tax, which he recommended in his message, thinking that the proposition would not be pressed beyond that point. He was not at all pleased when a general income tax was adopted, and it is believed that he looked forward to the time when the law might be repealed. Very recently, however, it is said, he has become convinced that the tax is in entire accord with his tariff policy, and that through it the opportunity may be afforded ultimately for a still further reduction of customs duties than that made by the Wilson-Gorman bill. The returns to the internal revenue bureau give promise of a considerably larger revenue from this source than he had expected, and to that extent relieves him of the fear that a shortage in the treasury might compel him to accept at the hands of a republican congress some increase of tariff rates. He sees in it also a means of revenue in the event of the foreign tariff war being pressed to an extreme.

This attitude of the administration may have some bearing upon the decision of the supreme court as to the constitutionality of the income tax.

Death in Jacksonville of Alexander Benton.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 30.—Alexander Benton died of consumption here yesterday. The deceased was from Haverhill, Mass., and a member of Pythian lodge, No. 23, K. of P., in that city. The local Knights of Pythias have telegraphed to the friends of the deceased for instructions as to the disposition of the body.

And the Husband Went Crazy.

BRISTOL, Tenn., March 30.—A woman in Dickinson county, Va., near Round Gap, has given birth to five children at one time, four of which are living, and give promise of doing well.

THE CHRONICLE.

C. C. DuBOSE, Editor and Proprietor.

COLUMBIANA, APRIL 6, 1895.

LAST Monday Prince Bismark passed the 80th milestone in his life's journey and all Germany celebrated the event.

ALABAMA'S output of iron will exceed that of Pennsylvania at no distant day. Her facilities for the production of high-grade iron and steel are much superior; all we want is capital to develop them.

THE coming of warm weather starts the tide of immigration southward, and people are pouring into the southern states by the thousands. With the proper encouragement extended Alabama's population can be doubled in the next five years.

A COMMITTEE of Chicago's prominent citizens called upon President Cleveland, Monday, and extended an invitation to him to visit that city in order that the citizens might express their high appreciation of his course on the financial question.

ANY man can take a newspaper. It is the cheapest thing he can buy. It costs no more than a postage stamp. What good does it do you? It instructs you and your wife and teaches your children. It comes to you, rain or shine, calm or storm, bringing best news of the neighborhood. No matter what happens it enters your door as a welcome friend, full of sunshine, cheer and interest. It shortens the long summer days and enlightens the long winter nights. It is your adviser, your gossip and friend. No man is just to his wife and children who does not give them the home paper to read. —Ex.

ABOUT five-eights of the revenue of Uncle Sam's great postal service comes from the sale of postage stamps. During the last year $84,000,000 worth of these little pieces of paper were sold at the postoffices throughout the country. Fifty million dollars of this output was composed of ordinary postage stamps, and the remainder of stamps for newspapers, periodicals, postage due stamps and special deliveries. A fact which strongly illustrates the growth of the postal service in this country is found in the official returns. The sale of postage stamps has more than doubled in the last thirteen years, the total sales of 1881 having been less than $26,000,000.

GOVERNOR MCKINLEY wishes it expressly understood, down South, that he favors both gold and silver as standard money and that his position is accurately defined by the republican plank of 1892. When he goes back North, his attitude may be differently explained, but the governor understands the advantage of a straddle. He is in line with his party which enunciated in 1892 that "the American people, from tradition and interest, favor bimetallism," and he is in line with himself, for in these days the populist support is a consideration, and what else is he down South for than to meet the populist leaders and brace them up with a platform opinion that works both ways?

IT IS predicted that the coming season hot weather will prevail, this being the year of the lunar cycle. A writer bassed his predictions on the fact that every 19 years since 1837-38 the weather during the winter and summer has been exceedingly warm. He says that the summer of 1877 was intensely hot—100 and over in the shade for many consecutive days. Then again in 1875-76 he cites the fact that carpedters worked all winter up on the Centennial buildings, and the summer of 1875 was intensely hot—and the victims to sunstroke many of them strangers to the country. And so 19 years more brings us to the present season—1894-95; and if we may judge by the past, the summer which is to follow, according to this prediction, must be a "scorcher."

ON April 1st all the coke operators in the Connellsville, Pa., coke regions advanced wages 15 per cent. This advance in wages was inaugurated by Carnegie, Frick & Co. two weeks ago.

AT the city elections held April 1st in almost all of the northern cities the republicans have carried everything, The republican candidate for mayor of Chicago was elected by over 45,000 majority, while the council is overwhelmingly republican.

THE Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph has some private advices covering the cost to this country of the second Cleveland administration, and the figures given are about as large as any organ could rightly be expected to print as a partisan authority in government finance. The cost is placed at $10,000,000,000 to $15,000,000,000, the mere matter of a few billions of dollars by way of margin not being worth the bother to explain. If the Pittsburg paper is correct this country is a ruin. The census of 1890 gives the aggregate real and personal wealth of the states and territories at $17,000,000,000. Here is only a trifle of $2,000,000,000 left, and since this condition is so, or nearly so, or might be so, what became of the $15,000,000,000 wiped out in the past two years?

THIS, from the Boston Herald, is good reading: We have never had the least doubt that but for the civil war (and this constitutes the incalculable cost to us of the mistake of negro slavery) we should now be practically without a customs tariff, occupying, as regards the other nations, the position of the workshop of the world, while paying to every one who could come within the classification of a skilled worker wages higher than were paid anywhere else, or than have ever yet been paid here. No doubt this is our ultimate destiny under any circumstances, unless social discontent, due to the unequal distribution of wealth which the artificial laws of the last thirty years have brought about, puts a check upon our progress. But in the meantime the way to advance is to broaden out our markets, and to make it evident that in industrial competition it is intelligence, sobriety and industry that tell."

IN spite of all assertions to the contrary, there was more silver coined by the commercial powers of the world, in the twenty-five years, 1865-90, than in any preceding century; and in spite of all this enormous conversion of silver into money, the value of the metal, measured by gold, went steadily down. Why, in the period 1878-93, a term of fifteen years, the United States alone absorbed for coinage, no less than $550,000,000 of silver, measured by gold on our ratio. From 1865 to 1873, a period of eight years, France coined, on her ratio of 15.5 to 1, not much less than one billion dollars of silver! In a single year, 1868, she minted, in round figures $250,000,000 of silver. Her silver coins are scattered all over Europe. She herself still retains $492,000,000 of them, that are full tender. The talk to the effect that silver has been discriminated against at the dictation of the "money power" is sorry rot, as the facts plainly show. The metal went down because its intrinsic value had moved toward the value of copper. The world won't recognize stuff as worth $1.29 an ounce, that costs to produce only from 10 to 50 cents an ounce. It isn't fit for money, except in the token capacity.—Chattanooga Times.

THE republicans and the free silverites are awfully afraid of good times rolling around before another presidential campaign opens. The probabilities are that business will so revive as to settle the silver question for the time being, and that an international agreement will be reached that will effectually solve the problem. The free silverites don't want this to happen. They want nothing but free silver at 16 to 1, independent of what other countries may do and regardless of what effect it may have on all interests at home. Under the democratic tariff law imports are increasing and because of this the republicans are trying to work up a scare. On this subject, the Pittsburg Post says: "When we buy more it means we are selling more. International trade is an exchange of the commodities of one country, not for coin, but for the commodities of another country. Because we are buying a little more in England than in panicky times, the republican organs are groaning in stimulated anxiety over the future of American trade. Do they not know England is the best customer we have on the face of the globe, and that we sell it more of American products than we sell to all other nations combined? A marked feature of the late panic was the great falling off in our foreign trade. That this trade is increasing shows we are on the return tide to prosperity. That is the commercial history of the country. The republican press is finding fault with improving business and industrial boom. We will probably have one, and it will be owing to the wise policy of the substitution of a reform tariff for exploded, dishonored and defunct McKinleyism."—Advertiser.

KEEP GOD ON YOUR SIDE.

Through sorrow and anguish,
Through trial and pain,
Or when joy sheds her brightness
Like bountiful rain,
Whatever your station,
Whatever betide,
In your Zionward journey
Keep God on your side.

Put your resolute shoulder
In time to the wheel,
And in life's urgent battle
Be worthy your steel.
Be kindly, be honest,
Be void of false pride,
And thus may you daily
Keep God on your side.

As you cross over Jordan
With billows cold,
As you near the great city
Whose streets are of gold,
All sin may be vanquished,
All terror defied,
And your spirit triumphant
With God on your side!

Sketches of the History of Shelby County.

BY REV. E. B. TEAGUE.

No. 2.

Before the name Columbiana was adopted, the burgh was designated by a number of names, more commonly called "Coonsboro," as some say from a coon story; but I well remember the name was older at least than one of the stories (for I have heard a second). I give the real facts of one of them, as a matter of personal knowledge. Mr. Henry Brasher lived on the place the long-time home of Jefferson Elliott, on Four Mile creek. There was a large pond at the foot of the hill east of the first house built upon the place by the original owner, Levi Weaver, then occupied by Mr. Brasher. Mrs. B. had been washing, and leaving her little boy, two or three years old, at the house, descended the hill to rinse the clothes in the clear pond. Presently she heard the child screaming, ran up the hill, and found a coon biting and scratching him in the face. With a mother's heroism, she seized the coon by the throat and choked it to death! but her sleeves being rolled up to the elbow, the coon scratched her arms severely. I saw the child and mother a week or two after on a visit to my mother, and looked at the scratches on both mother and child then cicatrizing. The other story is that something similar occurred at the spring in town, that part being then a wood. Of this I know nothing personally, but probably both occurrences may have taken place, or the real one been mislocated.

The first inhabitants of the place whom I best recollect were, first, Dr. Carter Roberts, who owned the place and adjoining farm now known as the Spencer place. He was a practicing physician, older brother of the famous Taxan lawyer and statesman, Oran M. Roberts. They were raised in St. Clair county. The doctor was a man of property, having married the only daughter of a Mr. Bridges, whose property, it used to be told, was made over to him on condition of caring for the old man in his old age and "furnishing all the whisky he wanted!" The first merchant I knew in the place, about 1828, was a Frenchman, whose name was Genet. His store stood about where the brick building known as Mrs. Sterrett's now stands, was built of poles, perhaps a story and a half high, the family occupied the back part and up stairs. Mr. Isaac Estell was the clerk and supervisor. Messrs. Thomas and Samuel Brasher, both in after years members of the legislature, who had a store a little while on the hill above the famous spring at the head of Bullace creek, next removed their business to the place. Merchants then embraced in stock dry goods, groceries, hardware and liquors. The Brasher brothers were men of reputation for high character and business capacity, and ultimately acquired a fine property. Their store at first stood where the residence of our worthy and genial druggist, Joseph Parker, now stands, indeed it may be a part of the old building. Soon after, Charles Mundine, who had occupied a year or two the same store at the head of Bullace creek, also removed to Columbiana, occupying a log building, as the Brashers, which stood where Mr. Amos Elliott now lives. He was regarded a sharp trader, and zealous and demonstrative as he was religiously, very frequently shouting, the boys used to tell hard tales on him and often made him the subject of sportive remarks. Mr. William Baker, the father of our venerable and beloved old citizen, Mr. James Baker, had a tavern where the burnt district now is, near the crossing of Main and College streets, the first frame building erected in town. The second one was that still standing opposite the jail. About the same time "Davie" Owen opened his hotel on the Spencer lot, having purchased the fine farm adjacent. Mr. Baker's was a popular house, but I was better acquainted with Mr. Owen's. His table was profusely provided with everything appetizing, largely supplied from his extensive farm. Mrs. Owen, however, was the ruling spirit of the establishment, a woman of great force of character, and reputed somewhat of a vigaro, once provoking one of her boarders to subject her to treatment such as a man rarely suffers. Coming out of the Owen's house, after dinner at the presidential election, 1840, with Thos. P. Crawford, of Centreville, then a fellow-student at the University, smacking his lips he said, "You have mighty good eatins up here in Shelby."

We came near getting into a scrape that day. It got abroad we were going to speak! We were not ready for such a fearful proposition, though very zealous young whigs. Then presently something quite amusing occurred. As we passed through the crowd an outlandish-looking stranger, considerably in his cups, pointed to the buttons and stars on our University uniform and exclaimed, "I once wore that star ten years!" Meaning, I suppose, in the U. S. navy.

About 1832, the brothers, A. A. Sterrett, Esq., and Dr. Major Sterrett, appeared among us, just entering upon professional life. "Judge" Sterrett, as we afterwards knew him so well, was of most sedate appearance, grave almost to sadness in after years. He became a proverb of professional diligence, and of fidelity in every relation of life; succeeded cleverly, married eligibly, a daughter of Mr. Henry Gooch, of the "Kingdom," and spent a long life, with the exception of a few years at Kingston, in Autauga county, legislator frequently, and for a time county and probate judge, with his chosen people. A model man, socially and religiously, a strange depression and discouragement, due perhaps to softening of the brain, shadowed his last days. The doctor was quite a contrast in bearing—joyous, even hilarious, old citizens even yet remember his ringing laugh. He was a successful physician, beloved by all, and greatly regretted when, after eight or ten years he passed away, short of the meridian of life. Pure, exemplarily pure, in all his habits, he was eminently worthy of the esteem always accorded him.

John M. McClanahan, lawyer, legislator, probate judge, commencing his career a few years later, was a most interesting character. Teaching an old field school awhile, he went off to Tennessee, two or three years to a higher institution, kept, as I have heard, by a scholarly uncle; returned a good scholar and himself taught a few years more grammar, mathematics, surveying—holding office as county surveyor; read law and soon came to the bar. At about twenty-six years of age he was elected to the legislature by almost a unanimous vote. He gradually gained position at the bar and before many years accumulated a fine estate. He was a man of rare sagacity, full of sound advice, which he affectionately dispensed to those who sought it. His old pupils revered him, and when the news came back from Louisiana, whither he had gone to retrieve his fortune lost in the war, that he was slain by lightning, many a sigh escaped his friends of departed years.

Dr. Thomas P. Lawrence, a cotemporary for years, was a remarkable man. Highly educated, well read up in his profession and in general science and literature, it was a treat to converse with him. His somewhat rough and stern manner, however, repelled some people. He seemed like a man that some unexplained and hidden grief preyed upon. Careless of his toilet, for the most part, when dressed up and in genial mood, he was a Chesterfield in manners. When he spoke in public, as he sometimes did, he was a Yancey, filled with glowing and noble sentiments, that penetrated the very soul of his hearers. Though not religious, he occasionally manifested the deepest emotion on religious subjects. Leaving the community, after some years, for the West, it was rumored that he had returned to the ministry—which at the beginning of life he had exercised among the Methodists—among the Primitive Baptists. This imperfect picture of the times would lack shading if I should omit to mention "Dick" Shackleford, a man of finest personnel, of fluent and eloquent conversation, capable of anything he might attempt, whose life prospects were blasted by drink. He used to explain with great pathos, when in his cups: That having acquired his law education, he became engaged to a "most accomplished girl," and the day of marriage was at hand, when unfortunately engaging in a social game of cards, not at all betting, the fact came to the knowledge of his prospective father-in-law, who at once interfered to break up the engagement. An explanation, he said, would have at once repaired the mischief, but he was too proud to make it, and so lost his deep first love; hence all his woes; hence a reckless, objectless life. His friends kept him up for years, but he gave way more and more to his unfortunate habits. At a late period he conceived a passion for another lady, when, wreck as he was, it was too late to expect encouragement. He lived, he died, he was buried: only in the last respect having a history much more enviable than the beasts that perish.

Our better halves say they could not keep house without Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is used in more than half the homes in Leeds. Sims Bros., Leeds, Iowa. This shows the esteem in which that remedy is held where it has been sold for years and is well known. Mothers have learned that there is nothing so good for colds, croup and whooping cough, that it cures these ailments quickly and permanently, and that it is pleasant and safe for children to take. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Parker & Armstrong.

Some men are like sparrows—never get high enough to cease being nuisances.—Cleveland Plain-Dealer.

It will be an agreeable surprise to persons subject to attacks of bilious colic to learn that prompt relief may be had by taking Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy. In many instances the attack may be prevented by taking this remedy as soon as the first symptoms of the disease appear. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Parker & Armstrong.

THAT PLEDGE.

BY T. K. ROBERTS.

MR. EDITOR: As there seems to be an unusual degree of misunderstanding with reference to the pledge we are endeavoring to influence the unmarried ladies and girls to sign, we have decided to place it before the public that all may know.

THE PLEDGE.

I hereby solemnly promise that, God being my helper, I will never become intimate with a man or a boy who uses, or allows to be used, any intoxicating stimulants, or in any other way intentionally disrespects God.

I furthermore promise that I will do all in my power to promote total abstinence. Relying upon God for strength, I now append my signature.

The meaning of the pledge is simply this: God being my helper, I will never become the wife of a man, nor even the intimate friend of a man who is sacriligious, or who uses or allows to be used any intoxicating stimulants. The main object of the pledge is to help men not to drink, and to prevent women from becoming drunkards' wives. No true woman can afford to associate with a man who persists in drinking. If the man prefers his bottle to her, she had better cut his acquaintance at once. We have never yet found a man who was willing to marry a drinking woman. Men demand that women be sober, virtuous, pure and true. We hold that women have the right to demand the same of men. And when our women begin to exercise this divine right we may expect a better state of society. Some say the girls may violate the pledge without knowing it. No true girl will become intimate with a stranger. Suppose they commence drinking after marriage? None of those who sign this pledge will marry a man who refuses to sign the pledge of total abstinence with her. Suppose the girls break the pledge? They will not do this for they know they can get a release by simply writing for it to the proper one. This is the understanding. Suppose this pledge had been signed and faithfully kept by all the unmarried girls since fifty years ago. There would not today be a drunkard's child in all the land. This gives us the ideal view of the plan. "How many times have you presented the subject?" "Three times." "How many signers have you?" "Sixty-three."

Mr. Editor, if in the providence of God this simple plan becomes the means of preventing one girl from becoming a drunkard's wife, we shall feel amply compensated for all our labor. We earnestly solicit the co-operation of every true woman. Any girl or unmarried lady may become a member of "our band" by copying the pledge, signing it and sending it to us. We will transfer the name to the book of signers. "Any opposition?" "Yes, by those who love whisky and the devil.

CARNEGIE'S LATEST BLESSING.

From the Philadelphia Times.

Just on the eve of Mr. Carnegie's departure for Europe in quest of rest and recreation, comes another declaration of opinion, in which McKinley receives an indorsement, prospects for prosperity are referred to, silver and gold differences are summed up and the industries of the country are nicely patted on the back. Mr. Carnegie always goes abroad after inspirations of this sort. The climate is too trying to detain him. There is something paternal about it all—just like the breaking of home ties—and then it is so pleasing to bestow blessings after the days of reaping in which things go all one way.

True, it is not long since Mr. Carnegie referred vigorously to the invidious tariff. The duties on the Wilson schedule provided a special variety of grief to him in that they were taken from woolens and chinaware and knit goods, making of these articles luxuries the rich alone could buy, as the cheaper woolens become the less possible is it for the working classes to buy them. It was positive pain, too, for Mr. Carnegie to find tinware substituted for chinaware, as a 15 per cent reduction in chinaware was enough to deny the article to the poor consumer, and Mr. Carnegie promptly had a pain about it.

And then while Mr. Carnegie was cultivating this pain his agents were quietly buying up all the coke the Western Pennsylvania ovens were turning out. What a blessing it was to pile up 450,000 tons of coke in his mill yards at Pittsburg, McKeesport, Homestead and Braddock at 90 cents a ton, and then, when the yards could hold no more, to increase the wages of the cokesters 15 per cent., tack the increase on the selling price and allow the other iron and steel manufacturers to come into the market at a cost of production 25 per cent higher than he himself was compelled to charge, and with a private little corner all his own worth at least a clean million dollars.

No wonder Mr. Carnegie is fond of blessings and parting benedictions. They drop like the blossoms of spring and as they fall he goes to Europe. After the campaign contribution of 1892, and the Homestead riots he went to Egypt. At other critical periods when blessings are necessary he has gone to his castle in Scotland and to Paris. And wherever he goes Mr. Carnegie remains the admiration and inspiration of a grateful people.

I recommend Chamberlain's Pain Balm for rheumatism, lame back, sprains and swellings. There is no better liniment made. I have sold over 100 bottles of it this year and all were pleased who used it. J. F. Pierson, druggist, South Chicago, Ill. It is for sale by Parker & Armstrong.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."
DR. G. C. OSGOOD,
Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."
DR. J. F. KINCHELOE,
Conway, Ark.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."
H. A. ARCHER, M. D.,
111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

Judge County Court.
Columbiana, March 25, 1895. 4

Probate Notice.

State of Alabama, Shelby County, Probate Court, 22d day of March, 1895. Estate of Levi Armstrong.

This day came E. D. Mason, administrator of the estate of Levi Armstrong, deceased, and filed his account vouchers, evidences and statement for a final settlement of the same.

It is ordered that the 15th day of April, 1895, be appointed a day for making such settlement at which time all parties in interest can appear and contest the same if they think proper, and that publication be made for three successive weeks in The Chronicle, a newspaper published in said county.

JOHN S. LEEPER.
March 28, 13. Judge of Probate.

Shelby Siftings.

Capt. T. G. Bush is here on business preparatory to the meeting of the board in New York next week.

Misses Eloise Bell and Mollie Glenn have been indisposed for several days. Both will soon enjoy their pristine health.

There is a large attendance at the colored Congregational conference. It convened Friday, and adjourned Tuesday.

On the night of the 4th, there will be an intertainment at the school house for the benefit of the Methodist parsonage. Everybody must attend. It is enough to say that the ladies will supervise.

Great interest was manifested at the quarterly review at the Methodist church last Sunday. The classes were familiar with all the lessons to the gratification of our efficient superintendant A. H. Avery.

Died in the Sawyer neighborhood, on the 2d, at 7 A. M. with typhoid fever, Miss Belle, daughter of Rev. W. P. Hale, in her 15th year. How sad for one to be summoned hence in her most lovable girlhood days.

This community of one accord rejoiced and was exceedingly glad of the appointment by Gov. Oates of Hon. H. W. Cobb to hold the court for Shelby county. We sincerely hope that he will be appointed to fill the unexpired term of the lamented Judge Box.

The young ladies who visited Columbiana on the 1st, speak in glowing terms of their reception and entertainment by Miss Lela Parker. It was indeed an enjoyable visit. They are grateful to Mr. W. O. Dunn for his conveyance, the "hand car," and his many courtesies.

The reading of essays and the debates at Prof. Franklin's school, attracts large audiences, all of whom go home, highly entertained and well pleased. At the last debate the subject was "which is the most attractive beauty or inteligence." The young ladies plead in behalf of beauty, and came off with flying colors. The young men humbly succummed.

Spitting Blood

Given Over by the Doctors!

LIFE SAVED BY

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL

"Seven years ago, my wife had a severe attack of lung trouble which the physicians pronounced consumption. The cough was extremely distressing, especially at night, and was frequently attended with the spitting of blood. The doctors being unable to help her, I induced her to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and was surprised at the great relief it gave. Before using one whole bottle, she was cured, so that now she is quite strong and healthy. That this medicine saved my wife's life, I have not the least doubt."—K. MORRIS, Memphis, Tenn.

TOWN AND COUNTY NEWS.

Good morning, Mayor Browne.

E. L. Spencer left yesterday for Birmingham.

Walter Duran, of Chewacla, spent Tuesday in town.

N. A. Graham, of Calera, spent Monday in our city.

J. H. Duran, of Calera, was in town Friday and Saturday.

C. N. Pritchard, of Aldrich, was up for the day on Saturday.

W. B. Hubbard, of Harpersville, spent last week in town.

Henry Milner transacted business in Birmingham Tuesday.

C. L. Meroney, of Montevallo, has been in town a day or two.

Hon. Gaston A. Robbins, of Selma spent Saturday in our town.

W. F. Adams, of Weldon, paid us an appreciated call yesterday.

Maj. J. T. Milner, of Birmingham, was in town Monday and Tuesday.

D. R. McMillan returned yesterday from a three days' trip to Montgomery.

Mrs. A. H. Averyt, of Shelby, spent Monday in our town visiting friends.

Mrs. I. D. Mason is spending the week with her mother near Childersburg.

Miss Minnie Hubbard, of Vincent, is a guest of her sister, Mrs. Dr. John Williams.

Who took that pound of eight penny nails to the Methodist parsonage Friday night?

Miss Agnes Averyt, one of Shelby's fair belles, was a guest of friends in town Saturday.

Mrs. Louis T. Grant, wife of our once Sheriff, now of Vermont, is in town on a visit.

Mr. John Vines, of Clanton, spent Monday in town with the family of John T. Cromwell.

Misses Bell, Harold, Carter and Riddick, of Shelby, were in town on Monday, visiting friends.

Miss Lucy Backus, of Selma, was in town two or three days this week selling the ladies Easter bonnets.

The Commissioners court has been in session the past three days, and have had an unusually busy session of it.

John Edwards and wife, of Childersburg, spent Friday and Saturday in town, guests of his sister, Mrs. I. D. Mason.

C. J. Christian left last week for Bessemer, where he has secured a position. He has our earnest wishes for success.

The election for city officers was held Monday, and the ticket headed by Hon. W. B. Browne and tailed by B. L. Moore was elected.

G. E. Brewer, of Talladega, has been appointed by the governor as judge of the Seventh circuit to succeed the late Judge L. F. Box.

Quite a number of our young people took advantage of their holiday, Monday, and enjoyed the beauties of nature and the sunshine by spending the day on the mountain.

Rev. J. L. Ferguson and little Bessie, of Birmingham, spent Saturday and Sunday in town. He came over to preach the funeral of Miss Francis Stinson, daughter of Lige Stinson, at Chappel church.

Married, Sunday last, near the Narrows, on Yellow Leaf, at the residence of the bride's father, Mr. Wm. Cooper, Esquire Gilbert officiating, Mr. Robert Blackerby and Miss Laura Cooper.

The Confederate Veterans reunion will take place at Houston, Texas, May 20-24, and the railroad fare from all points will be one cent a mile for each mile traveled. We understand that quite a number from Shelby county contemplate making the trip.

Noel Mason, of Texas, spent Monday and Tuesday in town. Mr. Mason came back to Shelby county some days ago, and was married on Wednesday to Miss Ella Farrington, a beautiful and bright young lady of near six mile. The happy couple left at once for their future home in Texas. They have the very best wishes of their many friends throughout the county.

The good people of our town gave Rev. T. M. Wilson a real good "pounding" last Friday night. The weapons used were hams, sacks of flour, packages of coffee, and many other articles two numerous to mention; and strange to say he appears not to be the least bit sore over it. Well, if he thinks he can stand another we are ready to help give him a better one still.

The contract to build a steel bridge over Shoal creek, in Montevallo, was awarded Tuesday by the commissioners court to Watkins & Hardaway, of Birmingham. the price being $2.70).60. The steel span is to be 100 feet in length and 16 feet wide, and the approachers of stone filled in with dirt. Mr. McGowan was also authorized by the court to build a wooden bridge over Four Mile creek, near Blue Springs church.

Card of Thanks.

MR. EDITOR: Will you give me the privilege through your paper of returning thanks to the good people of Columbiana for the high appreciation shown us the evening of the 26th of March in the way of a pounding? It was a success in every particular. We also return thanks to the Woman's Missionary Society for getting up and making the occasion a grand success.
T. M. WILSON.

Dots from Coosa Valley.

Corn planting is the order of the day. Our farmers are very much behind with their crops, but they are making up all lost time.

Dick Cater, who has been very ill, we are glad to know is improving slowly.

Hon. Sam Henderson, of Talladega, visited relatives here a few days ago.

Miss Belle Gardner, of Cresswell, was the gust of Miss Mattie Baldwin a few days last week.

Harpersville Echoes.

Most all of our people are attending court this week.

Judge Russell visited his son, Barney, at Pratt City last week.

There has been 125 beef cattle driven from here to Birmingham since November last.

Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Scales have returned from Texas, satisfied to remain in Alabama.

Dr. Corley, of Talladega, spent last Saturday night and Sunday at Harpersville and went from here to Columbiana Monday morning.

Dr. Steadham has given up the idea of going into the drug business here and has located in Childersburg. He is a genteel, clever gentleman, and is said to be a good physician, and our best wishes go with him.

It looks now like are going to have fruit this year, and also blackberries, but what we are going to do until they are in is agitating the minds of a great many just now; saying nothing about what we will do from then until sorghum time.

The young folks, and old ones too, are requested to meet at the Academy next Friday night for the purpose of organizing a debating society. This is a move in the right direction and should be attended by all. Somehow the society died out last summer, and Harpersville is at a loss without it. So don't forget the time but come and bring your neighbor.

JAKE.

Items From Cresswell.

An appreciated shower fell Sunday and Monday.

Mr. John A. Logan made a business trip to Sylacauga Saturday.

T. L. Bates, of Vincent, spent Monday night with his mother here.

Miss Ethel Kidd, of Vincent, spent Saturday and Sunday with relatives here.

Mrs. Jno. Corley and Miss Effie Fitch made a hasty trip to Childersburg the other day.

Dr. A. J. Massey, of Woodlawn, was in our village last week extracting and filling teeth.

Rev. F. G. Mullen filled his regular appointment at the Baptist church the fourth Sunday.

Nearly everybody have been summoned from here to appear before the grand jury this week.

After a delightful visit to her sister, Mrs. Belle Chancellor, and friends of this place, Miss Ada Cooper returned to her home at Cobb.

Mrs. U. C. A. Bates returned from Sycamore Sunday where she has been in attendance at the bedside of her sister, Mrs. Meacham, who has been very ill, but is now reported better.

And they steal plow-stocks, too. On going back to his work last Thursday morning, L. H. Cooper found that some one had visited his field in the night and stolen one of his $4.00 pony plow stocks.

Owing to delays at the ferry, Prof. May failed to fill his appointment at 11 o'clock on the 3d Sunday, but he preached an interesting sermon in the afternoon and left a standing appointment for the 3d Sunday in each month. We welcome Bro. May in our midst.

Rev. W. J. Ray, of Howard College, originally or this place, passed through our village last Saturday en-route to Hollins to fill an appointment, returning to school Monday. He will preach at the Baptist church at this place the second Sunday in April. Be sure to come, Will, we want to see you.
CHOCTAW.

Items from Sterrett.

We are having some pretty weather now.

S. J. Warren went to Birmingham last week.

Rev. Jobe Falkner preached here last Sunday.

Several of our citizens are attending court this term.

R. F. Falkner, of this place, served on the petit jury last week.

Rev. W. J. Ray, of Howard College, is to preach here next Sunday.

J. M. Goodwin is serving on the grand jury at this term of court.

Mrs. J. A. Butler and Miss Bettie Hunt, of Jemison, are visiting relatives here.

Mrs. Mary Johnston has been sick for the last two weeks but is some better now.

Mr. R. E. Cosper's health has improved so as to enable him to be at his post again.

Our school will vacate in two weeks when the pupils can take a little rest and recreation till July.

Intoxicating drinks gained the argument when the question of war and drinks was discussed that we spoke of before.

A. G. McDermot and family are visiting relatives in Birmingham. They will start for Washington State some time this month.

And now its Henry Falkner that wears such a broad smile on his face on account of the arrival of a young lady at his house.

Johnnie Goodwin, of Bessemer, was over to see his best girl on the fourth Sunday. Come again, John, we are always glad to see you.

Prof. G. H. Green, of Branchville, and J. B. Skinner and wife, of Moody, Ala., are over circulating among their friends and to attend court.

We are glad to say that the health of S. M. Goodwin has greatly improved since we last wrote, but he is yet unable to stir about. We hope he may entirely recover soon.

Mr. A. B. Allen's condition has not changed but very little. He is yet helpless and has no use of his mind. We think he will have to be carried to Tuscaloosa before he improves much.

J. A. Stewart, of the trestle crew, came up last week to attend circuit court, but we think he has been attending another court also, where there is but two persons to hear the evidence.

"There must be something in the wind" is a very true saying just at this time, for Mr. Rufus Lester, of Columbiana, was visiting here Monday, and we think it is the charms of this place or else he was after a Hunt of some kind.

There came near being a serious difficulty here last Friday when two fellows stepped off the train and threw a pistol on each other and began to scuffle over it, but luckily no one was hurt. All three of the parties were unknown.

A man by the name of Skelton announces that on the second Sunday in May at 3 o'clock p. m., he will preach on the point of Potato Hill Mountain. We don't know his object in this, but predict that he will have a large assemblage of young folks, at least.

The citizens of this community are earnestly requested to meet at the grave yard Saturday before the third Sunday in this month, for the purpose of cleaning it off and putting it in nice order. Evverybody and his daddy turn out and help in this much needed work.

BONAMI.

Those who never read the advertisements in their newspapers miss more than they presume. Jonathan Kenison, of Bolan, Worth Co., Iowa, who had been troubled with rheumatism in his back, arms and shoulders, read an item in his paper about how a prominent German citizen of Ft. Madison had been cured. He procured the same medicine, and to use his own words: "It cured me right up." He also says: A neighbor and his wife were both sick in bed with rheumatism. Their boy was over to my house and said they were so bad that he had to do the cooking. I told him of Chamberlain's Pain Balm and how it had cured me, he procured a bottle of it and it cured them up in a week. 50 cent bottles for sale by Parker & Armstrong.

Roumania has 48,000 square miles, the exact size of Louisiana.

Electric Bitters.

This remedy is becoming so well known and so popular as to need no special mention. All who have used Electric Bitters sing the same song of praise. A purer medicine does not exist and it is guaranteed to do all that is claimed. Electric Bitters will cure all diseases of the liver and kidneys, will remove pimples, boils, salt rheum and other affections caused by impure blood. Will drive malaria from the system and prevent or cure all malarial fevers. For cure of headache, constipation and indigestion try Electric Bitters—entire satisfaction guaranteed or money efunded. Price 50 cents and $1 per bottler at Parker & Armstrong's drug store.

There are four provinces in China larger than any of our states.

It Should be in Every Home.

J. B. Wilson, 371, Clay St., Sharpsburg, Pa., says he will not be without Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, coughs and colds, that it cured his wife who was threatened with Pneumonia after an attack of "La Grippe," when various other remedies and several physicians had done her no good. Robert Barber, of Cooksport, Pa., claims Dr. King's New Discovery has done him more good than anything he ever used for lung trouble. Nothing like it. Try it. Free trial bottles at Parker & Armstrong's drug store. Large bottles, 50 cents and $1

The State of Alabama, Shelby county. P. E. Williams, et als complainants, vs. Alabama Iron & Steel Company et als, defendants.

In Chancery at Columbiana, Alabama, Sixth District, North-Eastern Chancery Division, Monday, March 25, 1895.

In this cause it is made to appear to the Register, by the affidavit of J. M. Reynolds, one of the attorneys for the complainants, that the defendants, the Central Trust Company of New York, a corporation under the laws of New Jersey, with its principal place of business in New York city; the Chemical National Bank of New York city, a corporation under the "National Bank Act." located in New York city; the National Park Bank of New York, a corporation under the "National Bank Act," with its principal place of business in New York city; Mrs. Esther A Peter, whose residence is unknown to affiant; and Mrs. C. S. Plumb, who resides in the state of Kansas, but affiant does not know at what particular place, are all non-residents of Alabama, and further that in the belief of said affiant, the defendants are over the age of twenty-one years.

It is therefore ordered by the Register that publication be made in The Chronicle, a newspaper published in Columbiana, Ala., once a week for four consecutive weeks, and that a copy of said order be posted at the Court House door in said county thirty days, requiring them the said Central Trust Company, The Chemical National Bank of New York, The National Park Bank of New York, Mrs. Estha A. Peter and Mrs. C. S. Plumb to answer or demur to the same within thirty days after the 22nd day of April, 1895, and failing so to do a decree pro confesso will be taken against them in said cause. It is further ordered that a copy of said order be mailed to each of said defendants, where their residence or post office is known.

Done at office in Columbiana, Alabama, this the 25th day of March, 1895.

Strong Nerves

Depend upon pure, rich, red, nourishing, strength-giving blood. The nerves derive their sustenance from the blood and when they are weak it is because they do not receive the nourishment needed. The true cure for nervousness will not be found in opiate or sedative compounds. These only allay the symptoms.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Removes the cause by purifying and enriching the blood, giving to it just those qualities which are demanded for the proper support of the nervous system. Hundreds of women who once suffered from nervousness, write that they have taken Hood's Sarsaparilla and nervousness has disappeared. This was because Hood's Sarsaparilla purified their blood.

Weak and Worn Out

Close confinement causes thin, depleted blood, and that tired feeling. Hood's Sarsaparilla gives pure blood, appetite and strength. A well known telegraph operator writes as follows:

Hood's Sarsaparilla Makes Rich Red Blood

"I have taken several bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla and am continuing with it regularly. It does everything that is claimed for it. It is an excellent blood purifier. When I commenced taking Hood's Sarsaparilla I was troubled with impure blood, boils and pimples broke out on my body, but now they have entirely disappeared. Hood's Sarsaparilla is an excellent medicine for that tired feeling. It puts new life into weak and tired out people." MILTON S. BETTIGER, 2371 North Third St., Philadelphia, Pa.

Hood's Sarsaparilla Is the Only True Blood Purifier

By purifying the blood, it gives nerve mental, digestive and bodily strength.

Hood's Pills the after-dinner pill and family cathartic 25c.

"GENTLEMEN: Regarding prospects for the coming year, would say, we hope to double our last year's output of Aermotors, or, at least, as we have done in the past, sell twenty-four out of every twenty-five windmills that are sold. Since commencing the sale in 1889, WE HAVE SOLD ABOUT

500 AERMOTORS

We do not attribute this fairly good record entirely to our efforts, but to the superiority of the goods which you make. BEARDS & DAVIS, Urbana, Ill., February 18, 1895."

GENTLEMEN: We bought and put up Aermotor No. 2, and out of the first fifty which you made we had thirteen. Since that time we have sold about

400 AERMOTORS

In our small territory is represented the history of the Aermotor and the Aermotor Company from the beginning to the present hour. That history is one of unbroken triumph. Aside from the Aermotor other windmills put up have been but few enough with which to in our territory—just show the infinite su- compare and periority of the Aermotor in design, workmanship, finish (all galvanized after completion), and ability to run and do effective work when all others stand idle for want of wind. We should have sold more, but this region was well supplied with wind power when the Aermotor appeared, it being only 66 miles to Chicago, and had for years been the battle ground for ten or twelve of the largest, best known and strongest windmill companies, all being located within 50 miles of us. MUCH OF OUR BUSINESS HAS COME FROM REPLACING WOODEN AND OTHER UNSATISFACTORY TOBY WHEELS WITH AERMOTORS. You say you have during the past year surpassed any previous year's record by about one-half, and that you expect to double your last year's output the coming year. Count on us for our portion of it, for the Aermotor never stood farther above all competitors in reputation and in fact than to-day. SMITH & BAIRD, Marengo, Ill., February 25, 1895."

The next Aermotor ad. will be of pumps. We shall offer for three way force pump. All dealers should have it or can get it to sell at that price. All Aermotor men will have it. The week following will appear our advertisement of galvanized steel tanks at 2½ cents per gallon. They neither shrink, leak, rust, nor make water taste bad. Aermotor Co., Chicago.

$7.50 A $15

OLD SOUTHERN HOMES.

With Their Traditions and Associations.

Hospitality is one of the oldest traditions of the Southern people, and it has survived all the changes wrought by social and agrarian revolution since the war. It is the best heritage of slavery times, and is treasured alike in the stately mansions which were built long ago and in the showy and artistic residences with which the architects of the day have adorned the flourishing cities of the new South. Perhaps it is in the oldest houses that the choicest flavor of refinement of courtesy is retained. That is natural, for the splendor of the appointments of the palaces built for the tobacco millionaires and the merchant and railway princes encourages ostentatious display, and that lessens the charm of simplicity. The old-time hospitality was unaffected, warm and gracious. It counted not its own resources. It was not puffed up with a sense of its own social importance. It opened without pretension a household to a stranger or a visitor, and by simplicity of entertainment and absence of restraint made him feel at home as soon as he had crossed the threshold or taken a seat at the table. That is still the characteristic feature of Southern hospitality.

A Frenchman has said that the best-bred man in the company is the one who makes the fewest people uncomfortable. It is the pleasantest charm of an old-time Southern house that a visitor is at once put entirely at his ease and released from embarrassment and a sense of strangeness. He is entertained without having the uncomfortable feeling that either host or hostess is making any effort or taking any trouble on his account. Introduced in the drawing-room, he is unconscious at dinner of being a new acquaintance. There are no pauses in conversation, and there are no artificial expedients for directing or shifting it. The visitor is brought quickly into touch with everybody and enabled to forget that he is not in his own house and among his life-long friends. When he leaves the house he may not be able to remember the furnishings of the drawing-room or the details of the table service, but he carries away with him a distinct impression of warmth of congenial fellowship with those who had been strangers, but are now friends. The newer houses may have finer rooms, more elaborate decorations and greater refinement of social etiquette; but what are these in comparison with the unaffected simplicity and naturalness of old-time courtesy.

There are many fine things to be said about these Southern houses, but the choicest tribute must be reserved for the lovely old ladies who are to be found in most of them. The young ladies and the middle-aged wives and mothers are charming, too, with their sensitive, high-bred faces and their soft, melodious voices; but the old ladies are exceptionally well preserved in figure and feature, and delightful in conversation. Montaigne said of Cicero's "De Senactute," "It gives one a good appetite for growing old;" and the same impression is produced by the cheerful, genial, yet calm and serious talk of the best representatives of the passing generation of Southern women. They do not affect to be young, yet have not lost their animation of manner nor their interest in life. They are entertaining, womanly and bright, as quick as their granddaughters to perceive a good point in a story, and as fine as choice old lace in the thread and texture of their homely simplicity and cheerfulness. There are good portraits of famous ancestors in some of the old houses, but there are no better studies of the lights and shades of advancing age and of the compensations attending increasing infirmity in the evening of life than are to be found in the charming old ladies of the Carolinas, Georgia and Tennessee.

There are old planters throughout the cotton belt who appear to less advantage than their wives and mothers. Advancing years have found them overburdened with debt and without capacity for adjusting themselves to new conditions and extricating themselves from financial embarrassment. These are the men who were large slave-owners before the war, and have continued to raise cotton under unprofitable conditions rather than part with a portion of their land or put any of it to other uses. Old age has stolen upon them unawares, and they are sullen, peevish and morose; yet they are not ready to profit by experience, nor to emancipate themselves from traditions. Because their fathers and grandfathers planted cotton, they consider it beneath their dignity to do anything else, and the merchants from motives of self-interest have encouraged them to persevere in a fatal policy. These unfortunate old men are living on the plantations where they were once rich and surrounded with slaves, and where they might again be prosperous if they would only consent to become farmers instead of planters. But that is what they cannot do. They are convinced that any occupation except cotton-planting will degrade them in the estimation of their neighbors by identifying them with negroes and poor white trash, who have always been "truck farmers."

These forlorn and morose planters are the exception to the general rule of adaptability among Southern men. At the close of the war an easy-going, indolent population, which had been dependent upon slave labor, was confronted with abject poverty and had to learn how to work. Self-respecting labor, which was before unknown, became a badge of distinction. A man who did not work was despised. The grandson of a famous Governor tilled his fields with his own hands; men with historic names settled down to occupations which had previously been considered vulgar Yankee trades, and with the same courage and gallantry with which their brothers had marched to their death on the battlefield those who had been brought up in luxury and idleness triumphed over privation and inexperience and restored their fortunes. Southern men, who live either in the old mansions or in the new houses provided for them by modern architects, are proud of the pluck, endurance, courage and practical efficiency which they have shown. The experience which has been gained in a workaday world has broadened their minds, promoted tolerance of opinion and deepened their respect for the resources of manhood.

The old houses in town or country are still regarded with affection by swarms of negroes who were once slaves. There is a peculiar relation existing between the old negroes and their former masters, and neither emancipation nor the lapse of time, nor political agitation, has impaired its binding force. The plantation-house, where "old master" and "old missus" are still living is looked upon by gray-headed negroes as in a real sense their own home. They always expect to be invited to the family festivities at Christmas time, and to return to their cabins laden with presents. If they are in trouble, they turn first to "the Colonel" at the hall for assistance and relief. An old negro who was run over on a railway gasped out in his dying moments that he "wanted to see the Major," and then left a last message for him. "I wanted to ask him," he said, "if he wouldn't keep an eye on my old lady when I am gone." That was an illustration of the sympathetic relations prevailing between former slaves and their masters. The dying negro knew that the former master was the only one who would do anything for the relief of the old colored woman.

There are many exceptions to the rule, but ordinarily there is a kindly feeling existing between former slave-owners and the negroes who once belonged to them. The old names are retained: "Massa George" smiles upon "Uncle Ned;" and forlorn Leah, bereft of a favorite grandchild, wends her way to "the hall" to talk it over with "missus" and to be comforted in her affliction with the gift of an old bonnet and a black silk handkerchief. In a little while all these associations between the races will be broken off. The rising generations of planters and negroes have no relations of sympathy arising from slavery conditions. The old negroes alone have any claim upon the great houses, and they are rapidly passing from the plantation scene. But while this is true—and there is a prevailing prejudice in the South against "the young niggers" as a worthless class, inferior to the slavery-trained negroes—there is a gradual growth of tolerance and charity, and an increasing disposition to deal justly with the black man. The tenants of the great houses are beginning to believe that they have in their negro labor a working force which is more trustworthy and economical than any body of workers in the North. With this increased valuation of negro labor there is a kindlier and more indulgent feeling for the race.

There was a decade after the war when Northern visitors were not welcomed in the old Southern houses, but resentments and bitterness have passed, and there is now an era of good feeling. A Southerner's instincts are too keen and true in matters of hospitality to allow him to wound by acrid political comments the feeling of any one whom he entertains. Moreover, he has regained a large measure of his prosperity, and finds himself in closer sympathy with men from the North on industrial and national questions; and he enjoys an opportunity of discussing public questions with them. A visitor entering one of the old houses finds that his host instead of avoiding delicate political and sectional subjects steers conversation into the eyes of the wind. While he may be intense in his expression of opinions, and frank and aggressive in manner, he betrays no signs of bitterness or passion. A Southern man seems to be possessed with the idea that men like himself are misunderstood in the North, and he never loses an opportunity of explaining the inherent difficulties of the negro question and of setting himself right. He is, moreover, sensitive respecting his loyalty to existing institutions. He rarely closes a discussion without declaring that in any emergency of foreign war or of riotous outbreak over labor troubles there will be more volunteers from the South than from the North in defense of the nation. The returns of the last census have caused great satisfaction in the South from the evidence afforded of the low percentage of foreign-born population in the Cotton States. "The North has more foreign than native blood!" is a declaration frequently made, and it is followed by the exclamation, "The South is the stronghold of true Americanism!"

Perhaps the finest tribute which can be paid to the occupants of the old Southern houses is that they have not outgrown their chivalrous feeling for women any more than their refined ideas about hospitality. The talk about women in smoking-rooms and in the clubhouses is higher and purer in tone there than it is in the North. There is among Southern men a feeling of respect and almost reverence for the opposite sex, which tends to purify the social atmosphere of the old houses. The follies of the duello have been discarded, and questions of honor are no longer either matters of high tragedy or of low social burlesque; but there is one thing which it is unsafe for any man to do in the presence of a true Southerner. That is to say anything derogatory to the dignity or purity of a Southern woman. That is an unpardonable affront which the true chivalry of the old houses cannot endure.—New York Tribune, Sunday, March 10, 1895.

A TRAIL IN THE JUNGLE.

Mowgli and the Black Panther Hunt for a Stolen Treasure.

Here is a characteristic description of a hunt through the jungle by Mowgli, the boy who was reared by the Wolf-pack, and the black panther Bagheera.

Mowgli made an easy way for himself up a convenient tree, knotted three or four creepers together, and in less time than it takes to tell was swinging in a hammock fifty feet above ground. Though he had no positive objection to strong daylight, Mowgli followed the custom of his friends, and used it as little as he could. When he waked among the very loud-voiced bird-peoples that live in the trees, it was twilight once more, and he had been dreaming of the beautiful pebbles he had thrown away.

"At least I will look at the thing again," he said, and slid down a creeper to the earth; but Bagheera was before him. Mowgli could hear the panther snuffing in the half light.

"Where is the thorn-pointed thing?" cried Mowgli.

"A man has taken it. Here is his trail."

"Now we shall see whether the Thun spoke the truth. If the pointed thing is dead, that man will die. Let us follow."

"Kill first" said Bagherra. "An empty stomach makes a careless eye. Men go very slowly, and the jungle is wet enough to hold the lightest mark.' They killed as soon as they could, but it was nearly three hours before they finished their meat and drink and buckled down to the trail. The jungle-people know that nothing makes up for being hurried over your meals.

"Think you the pointed thing will turn in the man's hand and kill him?" Mowgli asked. "The Thun said it was death."

"We shall see when we find," said Pagheera, trotting with his head low. "It is single-foot" (he meant that there was only one man), "and the weight of the thing has pressed his heel far into the ground."

"Hai! This is as clear as summer lightning," Mowgli answered; and they fell into the quick, choppy trail-trot in and out through the checkers of the moonlight, following the marks of those two bare feet.

"Now he runs swiftly," said Mowgli. "The toes are spread apart." They went on over some wet ground. "Now why does he turn aside here?"

"Wait!" said Bagheera, and flung himself forward with one superb bound as far as ever he could. The first thing to do when a trail ceases to explain itself is to cast forward without leaving your own foot-marks on the ground. Bagheera turned as he landed, and faced Mowgli, crying, "Here comes another trail to meet him. It is a smaller foot, this second trail, and the toes turn inward."

Then Mowgli ran up and looked. "It is the foot of a Gond hunter," he said. "Look!" Here he dragged his bow on the grass. "That is why the first trail turned aside so quickly. Big Foot hid from Little Foot."

"That is true," said Bagheera. "Now, lest by crossing each other's tracks we foul the signs, let each take one trail. I am Big Foot, Little Brother, and thou art Little Foot the Gond."

Bagheera leaped back to the original trail, leaving Mowgli stooping above the curious narrow track of the wild little man of the woods.

"Now," said Bagheera, moving step by step along the chain of footprints, "I, Big Foot, turn aside here. Now I hide me behind a rock and stand still, not daring to shift my feet. Cry thy trail, Little Brother."

"Now I, Little Foot, come to the rock," said Mowgli, running up his trail. "Now I sit down under the rock, leaning upon my right hand, and resting my bow between my toes. I wait long, for the mark of my feet is deep here."

"I also," said Bagheera, hidden behind the rock. "I wait, resting the end of the thorn-pointed thing upon a stone. It slips, for here is a scratch upon the stone. Cry thy trail, Little Brother."

"One, two twigs and a big branch are broken here," said Mowgli, in an undertone. "Now how shall I cry that? Ah! It is plain now. I, Little Foot, go away making noises and tramplings that Big Foot may hear me." The boy moved away from the rock pace by pace among the trees, his voice rising in the distance as he approached a little cascade. "I—go—far—away—to—where—the—noise—of—falling—water—covers—my—noise; and—here—I—wait; Cry thy trail. Bagheera, Big Foot!"

The panther had been casting in every direction to see how Big Foot's trail led away from behind the rock. Then he gave tongue. "I come from behind the rock upon my knees dragging the thorn-pointed thing. Seeing no one, I run. I, Big Foot, run swiftly. The trail is clear. Let each follow his own. I run!"

Bagheera swept on along the clearly marked trail, and Mowgli followed the steps of the Gond. For sometime there was silence in the jungle.

"Where art thou, Little Foot?" cried Bagheera. Mowgli's voice answered him not fifty yards to the right.

"Um!" said the panther, with a deep cough. "The two run side by side, drawing nearer!"

They raced on another half-mile, always keeping about the same distance, till Mowgli, whose head was not so close to the ground as Bagheera's, cried: "They have met. Good hunting—look! Here stood Little Foot, with his knee on a rock—and yonder is Big Foot."

Not ten yards in front of them, stretched across a pile of broken rocks, lay the body of a villager of the district, with a long, small-feathered Gond arrow through his back and breast.—Rudyard Kipling, in St. Nicholas.

A SONG FOR EASTER.

WHEN the springtide with its cheer,
And the flowers fair appear,
And the leaves upon the branches gently wave,
How the thoughts of those we've lost,—
In the shadow and the frost—
Rise in beauty to our vision from the grave!

Ah! far fairer than the flowers,
Stealing back into the bowers,
Sweeter than the voices of the birds that sing,
Are the thoughts of those we love,
In the paradise above,
In the glory of the never-ending spring!

Yet their memories abide
In the sunlight at our side,
And they whisper words of comfort when we weep;
And above each silent grave,
Easter lilies seem to wave,
Sign they were not dead but only fell asleep!

As we meet the flowers below—
After winter frost and snow—
So past silence of the long and weary years,
Shall we meet the loved and blest,
And shall enter in their rest,
And shall know no more of partings or of tears.

—William Brunton, in Good Housekeeping.

MISS ISABEL'S EASTER GIFT.

MISS ISABEL MERRILL came out on the veranda of her widespreading, pleasant home to bid her guest a hospitable adieu. It was a custom the genial judge, her father, had taught her.

To-day the wide porch was a place for lingering. The warm spring sunshine made flickering tracings of the leafless vines upon the stained floor. A straight marble walk led from the entrance to the steep village street. Opposite, was a well-kept, pillared mansion. Beyond, the eye looked down into a narrow valley, filled with streets of pleasant homes that ran up the slopes beyond to the railroad tracks and station. One or two long, many-windowed mills with their flocks of wooden houses about them, all garish in yellow paint, told of the industries of the little village. There was a glimpse beside one mill of a sheet of falling water like glistening silver.

"THE LORD BE PRAISED, MA'AM!"

"The lines have fallen to you in pleasant places," the caller said, softly, taking in all the promise of the sweet spring day and longing to speak comfort. But Miss Isabel made no assent. A small boy came up the white walk leaving the print of each muddy shoe upon its polished surface, and handed Miss Merrill a note. She looked up from its reading with a shadow of a frown.

"They want my ivy for the church to-morrow," she said. "It has been taken there for the last five years, but it is so large now it disturbs it sadly. It did not recover from the effects of the removal last year for three months, and I said then it should not be taken down again." Then suddenly, while both face and tone belied the more gracious words: "Yes, tell them they may have it. But I will send it myself; at least it will fare better in David's hands. What does it matter, anyway!" bitterly.

The caller was watching the shabby boy down the street.

"I am glad the winter is over and gone for such," she said then. "That is Eddie Wright. He and his little sister are to go the poorhouse. Their mother has just died, on the Lane. She used to be a teacher. Her husband died three years ago. She has been sick all winter, and I suppose they have really suffered from hunger and cold."

"So? I did not suppose we had any suffering in this village—except heart suffering," Miss Isabel added.

Had her caller been one of the "wise women" she might then have found her opportunity. Instead, being somewhat in awe of Miss Merrill, she went her way, and the mistress turned back, through the wide doors, across the broad hall and the long, sunny sitting-room into the small conservatory where the fresh green of leaves and the brilliant blossoms spoke of love and tendance. All around its upper border lay the thick, green leaves of a beautiful ivy, and, as Miss Isabel from her high step unloosed the many loops that held the swaying vine in place, her thoughts went back over its history. It was ten years since the judge, her courtly, beloved father, had brought her the green slip from a city florist. It was just after the death of her mother, and he had said they would part the slip, and during the summer time one should grow on the grave of their beloved.

That was well! Was not all her life thenceforth linked with death? Her brave, strong young brother had helped her with the slips; and told them then of his purpose to devote his life to the lost ones of Africa. Her father, who loved God better than self, gave him up; but she, never. And when, after two years of work, the fever of the country made him its victim, it seemed but a second burial.

But life had still been full and rich while her father was a part of it. The beautiful home had its mission of cheer while he was at its head. It was when he went, a year ago, that Miss Isabel seemed to draw the shades over every grace and hope of life. She dropped out from its interests and seemed to have no heart for either the joys or sorrows of others. The home was still sunny and bright, but it was sadly still.

"I wish something would rouse Miss Isabel," Martha would say to David when, the work of the day done, they rested in the large kitchen. "A woman's good for nothing unless something's pulling at her heart strings. Miss Isabel wants a husband, or some child, or some fellow feeling for somebody. If it's sickly, all the better. A sick cat's better than nothing for a lone woman."

And David, well assured of his wife's wisdom, nodded a sleepy assent.

The Easter morning came full of a glorious sunshine. Miss Isabel sat down by her window, Bible in hand, to read her morning lesson, of that other morning in a far Judean land, when the stone was rolled away from the door and the angel came to the waiting women with his wonderful promise.

"But he comes not to me," whispered the heart of the lonely woman, "for my dead hopes there is no resurrection."

When the church bell rang out its sounding summons she obeyed its call and sought the familiar pew.

"Holy, holy, holy," sang the choir with an earnestness that bore many of the worshipers into sacred presence. "'Tis the day of resurrection," followed the clear voice of the soloist, and the tall lilies bent their heads, and the green palms swayed gently in the soft breezes that floated in. But to all notes of joy or promise Miss Isabel's aching heart had but one answer: "There is no Easter awakening in my life. All its joy lies in the past and there is neither hope nor need of me more."

She gave but little heed to the sermon of her old pastor; there was too much ring of gladness to suit her mood. The hymn that followed was unnoticed at first, but the last verse, in the clear bird-notes of the soprano, every word distinct, arrested her attention:

"To-day the angels are standing still
Beside the open graves,
The darksome gloom with their light they fill,
As they speak of the Lord who saves
Christ conquered death in that bitter strife,
He will bring us into eternal life."

Something dimmed the sad eyes suddenly. Had He then so loved her? and what had she done for Him?

"Dear Lord," spoke the pastor's voice, full of tender longing, "if there is any soul here unwilling that Thou shouldst roll away the stone from the door, wilt Thou have pity and show that soul Thyself? If there is any heart here that has buried all its good or all its worth to humanity under any stone of self, wilt Thou in tender mercy roll the stone away, and bid the dead come forth to living work, and to God?"

And that word was for Isabel Merrill. Alone in her own room, she gave the afternoon to a look at her stone. From her sealed heart she drew out its self-pity, its neglect of others, and held them up in the light. She saw how many talents had been committed to her, and that she had buried them under her selfishness. Deep humility took possession of her that grew at last into a longing desire that this Easter day might become her awakening.

That evening the glad praise service seemed all for her. After it she walked homeward with the caller of the day before.

"Did you say those Wright children were going to the poorhouse?" she asked at parting.

"I suppose so, yes, unless some one offers to take them."

Miss Merrill found Martha in the conservatory straightening up a plant the cat had thrown over.

"Martha, I am thirty-five years old, am I not?"

"You should know, surely."

"And that is 'years of discretion,' is it not?"

"With some, yes."

"Martha, I am going to adopt two children."

"The Lord be praised, ma'am. A body with a big house, and money in the bank, and a lonesome heart, is to be pitied."

Another Easter day comes around to the pleasant home on the hill, but Miss Isabel finds brief time for her morning study. The children, who have been hers now for nearly a year, require attention. Little Alice, who has the voice of a bird, is to sing at the evening concert, and Eddie is to speak, and Miss Isabel is as proud and anxious as any mother in the land.

But they are not all. In the sunny bedroom off the sitting-room, a sweet-faced old lady lies among her pillows, and, almost helpless from rheumatism as she is, everyone in the house comes to her for comfort and advice. She has outlived all near relatives, and there had been for her only an Old Ladies' home in a strange city when Miss Isabel "took her in." And in the kitchen an old man feebly totters about, or waits in restful quiet by the window. It is a distant cousin of David who has no one to care for his infirmities.

"A giving spirit is a dreadful growing thing," Martha says. "If you once let it in, it's like yeast a-spreading and spreading until the whole batch is full of it."

Miss Isabel's reward is already great: "For there is no debtor in the world so honorable, so superbly honorable, as love."—Howe Genning, in Chicago Advance.

FROM THE BOTTOM OF THE SEA.

Ship's Lead Brought Up a Five Dollar Gold Piece from the Depths.

When the steamer City of Augusta of the Savannah line was just in sight of Cape Hatteras recently one of the passengers, an old man with snow-white hair and beard, walked into the saloon and approached a group of passengers seated at a table. In his hand he held a five dollar gold piece. Stopping before the group and holding out the coin he said:

"There is a gold piece that has just come from the bottom of the ocean. I was on deck when they were heaving the lead and after the second officer had examined the soap on the end of it to see what kind of substance it brought up and had placed it again in the rack at the side of the rail, out of curiosity I, too, examined it. Looking at the end where the soap is put I saw through the dark gray clay which the lead had brought up from the bottom something glisten, and, taking out my knife, dug into the soft substance and drew forth this gold piece. It was edgeways in the soap at the end of the lead and in no other way could it have got there than by being picked up from the bottom."

As he held the gold piece in his hand and afterward passed it to the passengers to examine it could be seen that it was covered with soap and was dull in appearance. The water where it is asserted the coin was taken was about one hundred and fifty feet deep. All of the passengers soon heard of the find. Many doubted the story of the white-haired passenger, but he firmly adhered to the original story that the gold piece came from the bottom of the ocean and was brought up by the lead of the City of Augusta. Capt. H. C. Daggett, the commander of the ship, shook his head when he heard the story. That night at dinner he told the passengers that he had decided to give up his command and go fishing for gold pieces off Cape Hatteras instead.

Easter Eggs.

It is said that eggs, rabbits and lilies rule at Easter. These three emblems of the season certainly furnish a great amount of merriment and gladness, as the festivities of the occasion depend largely on a full supply of them. The practice of using eggs is traced back to the ancient Greeks and Egyptians, as well as to the Romans and Gauls, who taught their people to look upon the egg as a symbol of divinity. The gift-giving of eggs at Easter is an old custom derived from the Persians, who exchanged eggs at their New Year's feasts—that is, at the beginning of their agricultural year—in token of a renewal of vernal life. The Jewish people used the egg in the feast of the passover, and even the ancient Druids performed their religious rites with ceremonies of egg symbols. In Italy eggs are carried to church and blessed, after which they are used on the table with floral decorations. Visitors are invited to partake of Easter eggs as a special act of courtesy.—Detroit Free Press.

A Pertinent Question.

'T was Easter services; her fair and soulful face
Seemed quite the personation of both piety and grace;
And to this day, when memory her winsome presence brings,
I think the thought her face first brought—an angel, minus wings.
But was it prayer she offered as in loveliness she sat?
Ah, no! She simply asked a friend, "Where did you get that hat?"

—Nixon Waterman, in Puck.

The Wife at Easter.

She pretends it is love,
But it means a new bonnet.
Why kind as a dove?
She pretends it is love,
But I am above
All such guile and frown on it.
She pretends it is love,
But it means a new bonnet.

—James Jay O'Connell, in Judge.

A GRAND REUNION.

Confederate and Federal Clasp Hands in Friendly Greeting.

NOTABLE REUNION ON SHILOH'S FIELD

From Five to Ten Thousand Veterans in Attendance—Interesting Exercises and Pathetic Incidents.

Shiloh, Tenn., April 5.—Shiloh is being fought over again in the memory of the survivors of that bloody field. All day long the river steamers and private conveyances from all the country around and the nearest railway stations have poured their thousands upon the ground consecrated by the best blood of American manhood. The crowd was so scattered that at no time was it possible to estimate it with any degree of accuracy, but it is estimated to be between 5,000 and 10,000.

The Park Commissioners, Cornelius Cadle, of Cincinnati; Col. R. F. Looney, of Memphis; Gen. D. C. Buell, of Carabice, Ky., and Secretary U. W. Reed, of Chicago, have been on the grounds since Tuesday.

There have been many touching incidents during the day. In fixing the localities of the positions of the various commands old men have faced each other today for the first time since those two momentous days thirty-three years ago.

P. W. Bynum, Mayor of Corinth, exhibited the field glasses of Gen. Phil Sheridan, which in some way had fallen into his hands.

The most pitiable object ever seen is J. P. Lanford, of Company A, Forty-fourth Tennessee, who for ten years has been absolutely helpless and unable to move his hands, until they have almost withered away, while his nails have grown until they resemble an eagle's claws. He was brought on a hand-barrow from New Market, Ala., to the battle-field. The only other member of his regiment present is Nathan Smith, of Lincoln county. Many were the dimes and dollars which found their way to a basket on his couch.

After spending most of the day in fixing various positions of commands, especially about the Hornet Nest, Gen. D. M. Prentiss addressed a large crowd at 10 o'clock a.m. from the grand stand.

At 2 o'clock the ex-Confederates held a meeting at Shiloh Springs, at which Capt. J. W. Irwin presided, and the following resolutions were adopted:

Whereas, this is the second annual reunion of the soldiers of the Union and Southern army held on this memorable field; therefore, be it

Resolved, by the Confederates here assembled, That we extend to the friends and representatives of the Federal army in attendance on this occasion a hearty, cordial greeting, and express a sincere desire that this association be forever perpetuated so long as any of the survivors of Shiloh may be permitted to remain.

The resolutions were adopted with enthusiasm. Gen. Joseph Wheeler, Gen. A. T. Stewart and Capt. Thomas H. Paine were appointed a committee to present the resolutions to the association at 4 p.m.

Gen. Wheeler delivered the address of welcome, in which he compared Shiloh with the great battles of the world and said in that battle more men were killed than in any of the wars from the first settlement of the country and prior to 1861 more men lost their lives, in proportion to those actually engaged, than any other battle in history.

Gen. P. M. Prentiss followed in a speech in which he gave a most interesting account of the capture of his command. He told about the woods taking fire during the battle, and said that the Confederates quit firing, while his men laid down their guns and carried the wounded Confederates to a place of safety. He said the moment he threw up his hat and surrendered, not another Confederate gun was fired.

He was followed by Gen. Buell, who delivered an exceedingly thoughtful address.

Capt. Thomas H. Paine, of Jackson, followed Gen. Buell with a brief and beautiful speech, in which fraternal greetings were mingled with hopeful utterances of the unity and perpetuity of the government.

There are many tents stretched on the battlefield tonight. The farmers in the neighborhood have thrown open their doors to visitors, and the six steamboats at the landings are crowded.

A Shocking Discovery.

St. Paul, Minn., April 5.—A shocking discovery was made today in an upper room of an old hotel at Lacrosse. On the lower floor lives Mrs. Zinc and her seven children. For three months she had been living with the belief that her husband had deserted her, but it now develops that not only was he a dead and she a widow all this time, but that she had been in the same house with his lifeless body ever since he disappeared.

The last seen of Zinc was on December 24 last, when he left the house, saying he was going out to look for work. Nobody saw him return, and nothing was heard of him. The second-story of the house where Mrs. Zink resides is untenated, and D. Cameron, who owns it, went there to open the upper rooms. One of the doors was locked. Procuring a key he tried to open it, but a weight on the other side prevented. Through the crack he saw the arm of a man, and securing some assistance, forced open the door. There on the floor lay the body of Zink. The cord around his neck told the story. He had fastened one end of the rope to the door-knob and then sank down as far as it would let him, and was strangled. This evidently happened about Christmas, when he disappeared.

Nobody Knows How the Court Stands on the Income Tax Question.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—All sorts of wild and unsupported rumors have been circulated to-day as to how the supreme court stands upon the income tax question. Nearly every member of the court is mentioned as having individually called on the president and assured him first one way and then the contrary. As a matter of fact no members of the court has seen the president since the case was taken under advisement, and the judges are keeping their own counsel, as becomes the dignity of their high office. Every statement as to how they stand upon the question involved must therefore be mere guesswork.

A BIG SHORTAGE

Found in the Carson Mint by Supt. Mason.

CARSON, Nev., April 6.—Shortages approximating $90,000 have already been found in the mint by Supt. Mason of the government assay office, New York, who is here in charge of the investigation. All the suspected melts have not been examined, and the secret-service agents under control of Agent Grant, of Chicago, will probably make some important arrests soon. The shortage on one melt alone amounted to $22,000. It purported to contain 2,200 ounces of metal, half silver and half gold, but it had only forty ounces of gold.

THE VICTIMS

Of the Explosion at the Fishermen's Exchange, in New Orleans.

NEW ORLEANS, April 6.—The following is a corrected list of those who lost their lives yesterday morning by the explosion of gunpowder at the Fishermen's exchange, near the French market:

Mrs. Selathe, his wife.
Child of Mr. and Mrs. Selathe.
Mrs. O. Edwards, a shrimp gatherer.

GREAT BRITAIN'S CLAIM

Against Nicaragua Will Not Lead that Power to Make Territorial Reprisals, Her Colonial Possessions Being Already Large Enough to Satisfy Her—Only Wants Proper Indemnity for Gross Indignities Suffered.

WASHINGTON, April 6.—The announcement is made that Great Britain will not seek, in her present controversy with Nicaragua, to acquire any part of the latter's territory. The importance of this declaration, of which Secretary Gresham was advised Thursday, lies in the fact that the belief has existed here for several weeks that back of Great Britain's claim for damages against Nicaragua lay her purpose of taking forcible possession of certain of Nicaragua's territory.

It has been suggested that Great Britain, in driving a hard bargain with Nicaragua, until her demands were satisfied, would occupy such parts of her coast as would not only give her a foothold there, but would be a menace to the Nicaraguan canal when built.

Minister Bayard has been in constant communication with the state department for several months with reference to the troubles between Great Britain and Nicaragua on the one hand and Great Britain and Venezuela on the other hand. No dispatches in regard to Venezuela have been received, however, for several weeks.

It is authoritatively known that the British minister of foreign affairs has, within the past forty-eight hours, informed Mr. Bayard that Great Britain does not desire an inch of Nicaraguan territory; that her colonial possessions are already sufficiently large to satisfy her ambition, and that what she desires of Nicaragua is that a proper indemnity shall be paid to British Proconsul Hatch and other of her majesty's subjects who were driven out of Bluefields during the troubles in the Mosquito reservation last autumn.

Assurances have also been given that while Great Britain will show an earnest determination to collect that indemnity, there is little, if any, probability that Greytown will be bombarded by a British fleet in the event that Nicaragua shall be slow in complying with Great Britain's request. That one or more British vessels will be sent to Greytown there is little doubt, but that any overt action will follow their arrival at that point is not expected.

A SHOCKING DISCOVERY.

The Body of a Man Who Suicided About Christmas Found in an Unoccupied Room.

ST. PAUL, Min., April 6.—A shocking discovery was made yesterday in an upper room of the old hotel at La Grescom. On the lower floor live Mrs. Charles Zink and her seven children. Sensation in the Official Circles of Montgomery.

JUDGE RANDOLPH AWAY AND BEHIND.

Two Negro Politicians Fight a Duel. The Unveiling of the Confederate Monument at Union Springs. Other Alabama News.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., March 30.—For some days thers has been considerable gossip regarding affairs in the office of Probate Judge F. C. Randolph. This grew into a great volume yesterday when it became generally known that he had been absent for two weeks and that he drew on the day he left all the money to his credit, a considerable sum in two banks. In one bank he drew for the announced purpose of making settlements with the state for collection of license money. Inquiry makes it plain that he did not pay over the sum. For some months shortages have been alleged, but on the 15th of January he paid over all that then stood against him. It is the general surmise that he collected on current quarter and settled what he was charged with to the end of last year.

When the grand jury met some weeks ago, a committee called on the governor to have an official examination made of the office by the state examiner of his accounts. The request was complied with and the state examiner has been diligently at work, and the absence of the judge during the time has been widely commented on.

The grand jury adjourned over until April 8th in order to give time for the examination, until the report is made it will be impossible to tell what is the amount due the state and county.

Judge Randolph left here on the night of the 15th and seen in New Orleans on the morning of the 16th. It is believed that he has gone to Honduras or some Central American state.

SHAFT TO CONFEDERATE DEAD.

Beautiful Monument Unveiled at Union Springs, Alabama, Appropriately.

UNION SPRINGS, Ala., March 30.—The monument to the Confederate veterans of Bullock county was unveiled here today in the presence af an immense throng of people. J. W. A. Sanford, of Montgomery, was the orator. The completion of this work is almost to the unceasing labor of love of the patriotic women of the community.

NEGROES FIGHT A DUEL.

Alabama Colored Politicians Disagree and Fire Fatal Shots.

SELMA, Ala., March 30.—Last night about two miles east of Selma, Jerry Dumas, a negro politician, got into an altercation with Scott Wilson, colored, about the last congressional elections. Both negroes are prominent republicans. They drew revolvers and began firing at each other. Scott was almost instantly killed and Dumas' death is hourly expected.

Another Factory for Huntsville.

HUNTSVILLE, Ala., April 1.—Huntsville has added another factory to her growing list of manufactories. This last one is to manufacture the Economy ice cream freezer. The stock company was organized under the laws of Alabama, with the following board of directors: S. J. Mayhew, R. D. Curd, Jas. H. Bone and S. S. Pleasants, who elected as officers S. S. Pleasants, president; Jas. H. Bone, secretary and general manager; S. J. Mayhew, treasurer, and D. D. Shelby, general attorney.

They Inspect Alabama's Insane Asylum.

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., April 3.—The superintendents of the state hospitals for the insane from North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia and Mississippi are now here for the purpose of inspecting the methods employed in the treatment and management of the insane in Alabama's noted charitable institution.

GADSDEN, Ala., March 30.—Miss Eva Devine, living ten miles from here, was burned to death yesterday. She was making soap in the yard and her clothing caught with the above result.

ALABAMA NEWS IN BRIEF.

Arrangements are now in contemplation for putting on an extra train to and from Chickamauga. This will be quite an acquisition to that town.

Negotintions are still pending for the proposed purchase of the Henderson steel plant at North Birmingham by the Birmingham Rolling Mill company.

Rev. L. O. Dawson, of Tuskaloosa, has been invited to deliver the commencement sermon for the Marengo Female Institute which event takes place on the first Sunday in June.

The Montgomery registration prior to the municipal primaries closed Saturday showing 2509 votes registered. In the Reese campaign for mayor and council there were 2347 voters registered.

News has just reached Montgomery of the attempted assassination of Arthur P. DeBardeleben, a wealthy planter living a few miles south of Montgomery. DeBardeleton was shot in the abdomen and is not expected to live.

J. W. Adams and associates of Allentown, Pa., have secured at $350,000 an option on the two Coal furnaces at Sheffield, 300 coke ovens at Jasper, the Gamble coal mines six miles from Birmingham, Sheffield and Tennessee river railroad, and 70,000 acres of mineral

DUN'S TRADE REVIEW.

A Quarterly Review of Commercial Failures Compared with Same Time Last Year—Returns Showing the Conditions of Retail Trade in March Throughout the Country, and the Distribution of Goods to Final Consumers.

NEW YORK, April 6.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade, issued today, says:

Commercial failures in the first quarter of 1895 numbered 3,802, with liabilities of $47,813,683, averaging $12,600 each. There were also thirty-five bank failures with liabilities of $12,682,537, or about $360,000 each. If both were lumped together as in other reports they are the aggregate of liabilities here reported would be $60,496,220, that is, $13,580,000, or 28.9 per cent. more than is shown in any other report for the quarter. But Dun's review not only gives commercial and banking failures separately, but shows that of the former 651 were of manufacturing concerns, with liabilities of $20,223,991, averaging $30,000 each, while 3,107 were of trading concerns with liabilities of $25,979,894, averaging about $8,000 each.

The decrease in number of commercial failures, compared with the first quarter of last year, is but 11.7 per cent., while the decrease in liabilities is $16,300,000, or 25.4 per cent. About 30 per cent. in manufacturing and 20 per cent. in trading. The instructiveness of the report and its value as an encouragement are largely due to the separation of banking failures, in which the liabilities were $12,682,537, against only $3,482,542 last year.

Returns of the highest importance given this week show the condition of retail trade in March throughout the country, and the distribution of goods to final consumers, in comparison with the same months in 1894 and 1893, while the returns fully given on other pages cannot be condensed into a single comparison, and in view of widely-differing conditions in different sections and branches, might in that form be the less useful, there is gratifying evidence that in most trades and districts marked improvement over 1894 is realized, though on the whole trade is smaller than in 1893. Everywhere, also, the occurrence of Easter in March last year, but in April this year, is found to account for much difference in the volume of retail trade, especially in dry goods and millinery; and the severe weather and backwardness of the season also retarded recovery. While the volume of trade, in quantities of goods sold, is, nevertheless, larger than last year, but, on the whole, smaller than in 1893, the main difference, in comparison with 1893, is found in the general decline of prices, which makes trade in value smaller, even where it is clearly as large or larger in quantity.

Accounts from the chief centers of wholesale trade are also encouraging. There is not only a hopeful spirit, but real gain in business, though not equally distributed geographically or as to branches of trade.

Instructive comparisons of daily averages by months show that all sections have been gaining, but the east rather more than others.

Railroad earnings in March were only 1 per cent. larger than last year, and 13 per cent. less than in 1893, which is scarcely better than the report for February or January, but the loss is mainly on granger and southwestern roads, while eastern roads show a handsome gain. The best news from the industries is that labor troubles have been settled or avoided, Mahoning iron and eastern woolen mills being again in active operation.

Next in importance is the demand for many manufactured products, which gives greater reason to hope that recent advances from the bottom may prove successful. Following the rise in coke, there have been this week sales of 2,000,000 tons lake ore at about 13 per cent. advance, and finished products are no longer inactive, Bessemer rising to $10.65, gray forge to $9.25, common bar to 95 cents, structural angles to $1.05, and plates $1 per ton.

The cotton manufacture, stimulated by the rise in raw cotton, goes on gaining, though cotton has halted. Better demand appears for many qualities, and in some slight advances in prices.

Sales of wool reflect the renewed confidence of manufacturers as strikes are out of the way, for 6,675,100 pounds were sold last week, against 4,648,200 for the same week last year. No rise in prices is seen or expected in view of the heavy sales and receipts of foreign wool.

Stocks have made scarcely any advance, doubt about coal settlements having weakened Jersey Central 3¼ cents and the closing of Havemeyer and Spreckel's refineries having weakened sugar some.

Speculation in products has been dull and sales of cotton have fallen to 70,000 bales, with no change in prices, which are now higher than two weeks ago. Large receipts and unprecedented stocks are certainties for which decrease in acreage is only expected.

Wheat receipts at the west were small last week, but in March larger than last year, with Atlantic exports about the same. Conflicting accounts give no clear light as yet on the prospect for the next crop.

The demand for money is somewhat better, but since April 1 less increase is noted in commercial loans.

In Honor of the Silver Wedding of King Humbert.

WASHINGTON, April 6.—United States Consul A. H. Johnson, at Venice, has informed the department of state that the "First of the biennial international exhibitions of art, promoted by the city of Venice," will be held between the 22d of April and the 22d of October next. During the exhibitions a series of notable fetes, which will include contests in various athletic sports open to the champions of all nations, will be given. The expositions are to commemorate the silver wedding of the king of Italy.

THE * CHRONICLE.

C. C. DuBOSE, Editor and Proprietor.

COLUMBIANA, APRIL 11, 1895.

HERBERT SPENCER, one of the world's greatest philosophers, bankruptured himself publishing charts to go with his books, and did not make enough on a lecture tour to pay expenses. On the other hand, a French high-kicking concert hall singer gets $3,000 a week in New York for amusing the public. Who says that this is not the age of advanced civilization?

FREE coinage of silver at a ratio of 16 to 1 simply means that the owners of silver mines will be paid one dollar for every 57 cents' worth of silver they carry to the mints. If we just had to vote for a bill to give an artificial value to things, we would prefer to advocate the enactment of a law providing that our farmers shall receive one dollar for every 57 cents' worth of cotton, corn or hogs they produce and bring into market. That would suit our part of the country better.—Greensboro Watchman.

MCKINLEY has completed his victorious march through the South. Wherever he went he found a little knot of protectionists who fell over each other to kiss his hand and swear by the sword of Capt. Kidd to stand by him as long as there was a button on his coat. Mr. McKinley may have mistaken these demonstrations for a spontaneous uprising of the masses. If he has, he must hereafter revise his opinions. There are hardly enough men in any county of the South who believe in McKinleyism to organize a grand jury.—Memphis Commercial-Appeal.

ONE of the most notable days of February is the 29th, generally remarkable by its absence. The question is often asked, "What is the use of a 29th of February?" The reason all the years are not 365 days long is that the earth makes the year by traveling round the sun, and it takes 365 days, 5 hours, 48 minutes, and 49 7-10 seconds to make the journey. We let the odd fractions of a day run on till they make a whole day, which we tack on to the end of February. But even this makes the year a few minutes too long, and so February must renounce all claim to its twenty-ninth day in the years 1900, 2100 and in every hundredth year which cannot be divided by 400 without a remainder. This brings the almanac year so nearly to the real year that it will take some thousands of years before people find out the difference, and then, if posterity be wise as we are, it may correct the time to suit itself.

NOTHING better tells the story of the beneficial effects of free raw material for the woolen industries of the country than the announcement by the leading manufacturers at Lawrence that the schedule of wages paid prior to the reduction in March, 1894, had been restored. The increase amounts to 10 and 15 per cent, and is entirely voluntary. It affects the mills in Haverhill, Andover, North Andover and Franklin Falls as well as Lawrence, and the firm operating them is not alone the first in the woolen manufacturing business in the New England States, but the largest in the country. The new tariff then is not crushing out the wool manufacturers, as the high protectionists claimed would follow its enactment. On the contrary, the mills are running day and night, they are being enlarged, wages are better and consumers purchase better goods at lower prices. But the organs are very slow in finding this out.

IT IS the recognized duty of the home paper to advertise and talk for home institutions, but too often they fail to realize that the paper itself is one of the most important "institutions," and no one thinks it worth while to drum for the paper. It's a poor rule that don't work both ways. The editor is supposed to get $1 per year for each paper sent out, and admitting that he gets it, does he not have to prepare copy 52 times; set up the type 52 times; writes the subscribers's name 52 times; mail it 52 times, and 99 times out of a possible 100 has to ask for the dollar 52 times. Who says he don't earn his money 52 times? Three hundred and twelve movements just to hear the cagle scream once! Now we don't claim to begrudge our time, nor do we deem our citizens cruel; yet, we must say, the honors are unequally divided. So let's all pull together and build up both town and paper. Who'll send in the next advertisement? They help both sides. —Talladega News-Reporter.

THE returns of the department of agriculture show that, during the last three years, 10,822 acres of land have been planted with 612,000 peach trees in three counties in Georgia by twelve companies, the most of them organized by New Jersey and Delaware men, with capital from those states. No returns have been received from the small orchards planted by local farmers in the same localities who have caught the peach fever and are devoting their idle land to that industry. Within the next two or three years these trees will begin to bear fruit, and the Georgia crop will come into competition in the Chicago and New York markets with that of California. It takes two days for a car of Georgia peaches to reach New York and three days to reach Chicago. The freight to the former city is $160 a car, and to the latter $185, while the distance from California is seven and nine days, and the freight charges $275 and $320 respectively.

THE PEA VINE.

But few of our people realize the fact that in the pea vine lies, to a great extent, the future of the southern farm. The habit of the South has been to clear up a piece of land, skim it for a few years, paying no attention to preserving the soil but actuated solely by the desire to get every bale of cotton out of it while fresh, turn it out to sedge grass and clear more. This thing has about run its course and now here and there yon can find a farmer who has found out the secret that it is easier and more profitable to reclaim the worn out and discarded lands than to clear and put in cultivation new fields.

In this process of bringing up old worn lands nothing excells the ordinary pea vine. It will grow on almost any soil, will thrive on our light, sandy lands where clover will not grow. Clover is a wonderful renovator of worn out soils but there is much light, sandy soil in the South where clover will not grow successfully and its place must be taken by something else, and here is where the pea vine gets in its best work.

We append the experience of an Ohio man upon a worn out Alabama farm and commend it to the careful consideration of our readers:

"In the summer of 1889 I took charge of sixty acres of land in Alabama, upon which an ox, a mule and a family of six negroes were gradually starving themselves and the land. The yield of the place the year before was one bale of cotton, fifteen barrels of corn and a few bushels of yams. Ignoring the numerous criticisms of neighbors, I proceeded to fill the soil with vegetable matter and plant food by turning under cow peas and crimson clover. I planted no crops until I had done this. My first crop of cotton was planted on a heavy growth of vines that died on the ground. My first crop of corn was fed on the decayed roots of crimson clover. Starting with four head of stock and $300, there is now (in four years) on the place ten milch cows and four mules. Last year (1893) the farm produced twenty bales of cotton, about 1,000 bushels of corn and feed for the stock. The milk made 15,000 pounds of butter, and the net profit was about $1,000. All of this was done under adverse circumstances, as I was away much of the time, and reliable help was scarce. By turning under cow peas and crimson clover, feeding cotton seed meal to stock, instead of applying it to the soil, carefully saving the manure and using it on the crimson clover, there is great hope for the poor land of the South. The only way out of the trouble here is less cotton, and rotation with pea vines, crimson clover, corn, oats, stock and home-made manure. There is no question but that nearly all the subsoil contains plenty of plant food, such as potash and phosphoric acid, only it is too far down for wheat, corn and cotton roots to reach it, as these feed near the surface. In clover and cow peas we have the means to bring this matter near to the surface where it becomes available for other crops. We have a way to supply nitrogen to the soil by obtaining it direct from the atmosphere; the way to add humus, to loosen stiff clay—Nature's own remedy, one that never fails when given opportunity and one that cannot be discounted."

Our better halves say they could not keep house without Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is used in more than half the homes in Leeds. Sims Bros., Leeds, Iowa. This shows the esteem in which that remedy is held where it has been sold for years and is well known. Mothers have learned that there is nothing so good for colds, croup and whooping cough, that it cures these ailments quickly and permanently, and that it is pleasant and safe for children to take. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Parker & Armstrong.

THE DEVIL'S BITTERS.

T. K. ROBERTS.

Whenever an institution of the devil becomes disreputable and begins to lose its attraction, he strives to maintain it by changing its name. In spite of civil law gambling flourishes under many names. I believe the latest is "Progressive Euchre." Likewise the devil has changed the name of the dance over and over again, making it worse every time. This is his business. Realizing that intoxicating stimulants are the most destructive missles that fly from the infernal battery, the devil exercises in their manipulation his most characteristic ingenuity. So we hear alcohol spoken of as a "cordial," an "eye-opener," an "appetizer," a "digester," an "invigorator," a "settler," a "night-cap." Call up the 150,000 men who went from the United States to the drunkard's hell last year, and they will tell you the above labels are absolutely false, and that the true ones are "concentrated hell," "conscience killer," "head breaker," "soul destrover," "tears of children," "lifeblood of wives and mothers," "deadly vines of worm that never dies," and "the absolute guarantee of all evil." But though the wolf don the peaceful clothing of the innocent sheep, he is the wolf still, and his torn and bleeding victims reveal his true character. So we see in looking over the country that thousands of our young men have become drunkards through the innocent appearance of the "Devil's Bitters! Bitters! Bitters! What is it? One of the most recent offsprings hatched out of the incubator of hell was named "Bitters," for his mission was to make everything bitter. An agent for a liquor establishment said recently: "You don't want any better whisky than MR. A——'s Bitters." A young man of this town said to me recently: "A fellow tried to get me to drink some bitters with him the other day, but I would'nt do it." God bless him! "I told him he had better get him a shirt or a book with that fifty cents." From this information we are compelled to conclude that some one in our town is selling bitters at 50 cents a bottle. Is it you, brother? Do you say it is not against the law of the country? Why, then, do you keep the "stuff" in your back room, separated from lawful merchandise? "Woe unto him that giveth his neighbor drink, that puttest thy bottle to him, and maketh him drunken also." (Heb. 2: 15.) If it is "woe" to give it, what must it be to sell it? "No drunkard shall inherit the kingdom of God." (1 Cor. 6: 10.) What will become of the man who makes drunkards? I had rather be a Hottentot in the jungles of Africa, drinking the blood of my countrymen and picking the flesh from their bones with my teeth than to be that man in this country who sells under any conditions intoxicating beverages, or any beverage that will cultivate an appetite for strong drink. Jehovah, seated upon the circles of the heavens, or riding in the chariot of the winds, drawn by His lightning steeds, is not able with His all-seeing eye, to discover one single circumstance to justify the sale of intoxicants. On the other hand, every anathematizing condemnatory adjective that the frenzied, phlegmatic, poetic, or philosophic mind can invent is hurled at the abominable traffic in fiery denunciation. It is worse than pestilence, famine, or war—worse than ten Egyptian plagues in one. They say "there's money in it,"—yes, blood money! You've made your brother pay you for robbing him of his mind, body and soul; blasting his hopes for time and eternity. Fellow citizens, it is time for us to awake to the fact that the worst enemies of our country are not corrupt politicians, thieves and anarchists, but men who are promoting the whiskey traffic. They are the legitimate fathers of nine-tenths of our criminals. They fill our jails, alms houses, and asylums. Fathers, mothers, brothers, and sisters, are on the funeral pyre of strong drink! You people who are so particular lest we attack the liquid devil too boldly, will have your son some night thrust into your door dead drunk, and your daughter will come home broken-hearted with her children because her husband has, by strong drink, become a demon. God help us to do our duty!

Better Business Coming.

St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Nobody, of course, looks for anything like a boom in the next few months. The business torpor of two years can not be overcome suddenly. The improvement will be slow for a while, but it will be continuous, and before the present year ends the normal conditions will probably be restored and trade reach the level of the period immediately preceding the panic. As measured by bank clearances, the business of the country is still 10 or 15 per cent. below that of 1892, but the gap is steadily narrowing. Prices of all sorts are about this much below the average of that year, so that the present clearances may represent as large a volume of transactions as those did. Because of the increase in population and in extent of industries, however, which has taken place in the past three years, higher figures than those will have to be reached before the level of the prosperity of 1892 will be touched, but it is evident that that line will soon be in sight.

I recommend Chamberlain's Pain Balm for rheumatism, lame back, sprains and swellings. There is no better liniment made. I have sold over 100 bottles of it this year and all were pleased who used it. J. F. Pierson, druggist, South Chicago, Ill. It is for sale by Parker & Armstrong.

WHEN WILL THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY DIE?

As the recent city elections throughout the country have shown a decided slump towards the republican party, many are saying that the democratic party is dead. We do not believe it, for we are enabled by the following signs, given in rhyme, to predict exactly the date of the demise of the democratic party. Read carefully.

When the lion eats grass like an ox
And the fish worm swallows the whale.
When terrapins knit woolen socks,
And the hare is outrun by the snail
When serpents walk upright like men,
And doodlebugs travel like frogs
When grasshoppers feed on the hen
And feathers are found on hogs.
When Thomas cats swim in the air,
And elephants roost upon trees,
When insects in summer are rare,
And snuff never makes people sneeze.
When fish creep over dry land,
And mules on velocipedes ride,
When Dutchmen no longer beer drink,
And girls get to preaching on time,
When billygoats butt from the rear,
And treason no longer is crime,
When a humming bird brays like an ass,
And limberger smells like cologne
When plowshares are made out of glass,
And the hearts of Georgians are stone,
When ideas grow in Populites heads
And wool on the hydraulic ram,
Then the democratic party will be dead,
And the country won't be worth a d—n.

* A DREAM-CITY DREAM.

BY O. T. DOZIER.

Near twelve o'clock one summer night,
At great "Columbian Fair,"
All tired out, with brain oppressed
From viewing wonders there,
I sat me down a while to rest,
In a building wondrous grand,
And soon my soul was lulled to sleep
By strains from Gilmore's band.

I know not just how long I slept,
Nor what took place the while,
But there amid that stranger throng
With music to beguile,
A stranger lone I fell asleep,
And think I must have dreamed,
The music was a medley sweet,
Or so at least it seemed.

I heard or dreamed, or dreamed I heard,
Way down on the Swanee,
And back in old plantation home
Once more I seemed to be.
I heard the darkies' happy songs,
And my heart was filled with joy,
To be once more amid the scenes,
I loved so when a boy.

Another old familiar strain,
While dreaming there I heard,
Sweet "Annie Laurie" and my soul
Again with love was stirred.
And by my side I seemed to see
My Love, of days gone by,
And felt that I for her sweet sake,
"Would lay me down and die."

A pause, then faintly on my ear
The sweet notes seemed to fall,
Of "Home, Sweet Home," that sweetest strain,
And dearest, too, of all.
And in my heart a rapture wrought
Of peace and joy and love—
A vision bright of all that's dear—
A glimpse of Heaven above.

But hark! A change; my sleep was broke,
My Southern heart was fired,
By strains the grandest, sweetest yet
That ever God inspired.
'Twas "Dixie Land" that on my ear
In thrilling raptures fell,
I sprang to feet, threw hat in air,
And yelled a "rebel yell."

Three cheers, I cried, for Dixie Land,
The land that gave me birth,
Three cheers and then "a tiger too,"
For grandest land of earth.
What recked I then of thousands there
Who gazed with scornful eye?
When grand old Dixie smote my ear,
I had to yell or die.

*The group of buildings comprising the Columbian Fair was called "The Dream City."

ITEMS FOR FARMERS.

Growing small fruits for the northern markets would be a money-making enterprise in Alabama. They would reach the consumer at a time when prices are high and the demand good. —Montgomery Advertiser.

Mr. A. L. Steverson, of South Florence, is a believer in strawberries, which he finds a very profitable crop, hardly ever bringing less than ten cents a quart. He will have two acres of plants this spring, which will yield an abundant crop, judging from the present outlook.—Leighton News.

"We raise dogs and buy wool," says an exchange. This is true, and there should be a change. The worthless curs in Jackson county will not let our farmers raise sheep. We have about come to the conclusion that Alabama ought to levy a tax on dogs and thereby give aid and encouragement to raising sheep.—Gurley Herald.

The Sheffield Reaper gives this sensible advice: "Farmers, do not be deceived by the atempt to secure an agreement to decrease the cotton acreage. Look well to the food crops. With as providential a year as last the cotton crop will loom up as large as ever. Pigs, potatoes, poultry, peas and pumpkins will help the farmer to whip the gaunt wolf from the threshold."

More food crops should be the rule with farmers and planters in the South this year. Crops should be raised to fill barns and granaries and to feed to cattle and hogs. Make each state self-supporting as far as possible in this respect and depend not on cotton alone. Of course all will not do this, but the movement to this end is gaining converts each day. A trial should be given the plan of reducing the cotton output, and if tried fairly the result cannot in any event place the cotton growers in a worse condition than they are now, and may be to their very great advantage.—Nashville American.

Sketches of the History of Shelby County.

BY REV. E. B. TEAGUE.

No. 3.

We learn from the "Memorial Record of Alabama," under the territorial government, justices of the peace were appointed by the governor. The constitution adopted in 1819, provided that a competent number of justices should be appointed for each county, in such mode and for such term of office as the general assembly might direct. Their jurisdiction in civil cases was limited to cases in which the amount in controversy should not exceed $50, and right of appeal was given. When the legislature came to give effect to this provision of the constitution, two justices of the peace and one constable, were to be elected by the qualified electors within the limits of each militia captain's company in the several counties, the elections to be held by the commanding officer of each company and two freeholders or householders, all the white population eighteen years of age or over, to be eligible to vote. The provisions relating to justices of the peace remained substantially the same until the great social and political revolution accomplished by the war.

Under the territorial government the governor was empowered to appoint and commission five persons in every county, one of whom should be chief justice of orphan's court. Court was to be held twice a year. This court was given full power and authority to take the probate of wills, of conveyances, and to record the same; to issue letters testamentary and letters of adminstation. The first change in the law governing the county courts was the act under which one judge of the county court, for each county in the state was elected by joint vote of both houses of the general assembly. The records show that this mode of appointment went into effect with the admission of the state into the Union.

The sheriff opened the courts in territorial times: and if a quorum of justices were not found to be present, adjourned the court from time to time. Minutes were well kept, in a good hand, with correct orthography. The clerk styled the court, "the honorable the orphans' court," occasionally "the worshipful!" The first court according to the record, was held "on the fourth Monday of April, one thousand eight hundred and eighteen, "at William I. Wilson's, the place appointed by law." This, I suppose, should be 1817, as the next minute says the court met February 1818, "at the court house," "according to their adjournment." The justices were George Phillips, chief justice; Bennet Ware, Patric Hayes, justices. Presently the name of Nathan Lee, making four, appears as one of the justices. Then that of James Walker, making the "five," authorized to be appointed, though only three except in a single case, when there were four, ever sat together. The name of Thomas W. Smith also, once or twice, near the close of this term of county court, appears.

The name of Thomas W. Smith, as judge of the county court, is signed to the minutes Sept. 29th, 1821, two or three previous terms, having been adjourned by the sheriff in consequence of the absence of a quorum of justices or of the judge. The history of the justices is unknown, perhaps irrecoverable. That they were men of character is a necessary inference from their appointment by the governor, to whom doubtless they were recommended by the people. If however, as I suppose, Bennet Ware was the father of the late distinguished Horace Ware, I have heard he was a man of note and great force of character, who first suggested the feasibility of making iron from the ores about Montevallo, soon carried into effect by Horace Ware, Edmund King and Daniel E. Watrous, who made bar iron when I was a boy, forged by a trip hammer, on the large creek flowing by Montevallo. This hammer, on its anvil, which had for its handle a large square oaken beam, and weighing five hundred pounds, used to test the strength of the best men to lift it; few could do so. Of Mr. Smith, the first judge of the court, I have no means of knowing anything. The last minute signed by him is dated March 7th, 1825. From June 6th, 1825, to Nov. 6th, 1826, the minutes are signed by Joab Lawler. Mr. Lawler, as I have heard and learned, came to the community of Montevallo, some years before, as a sort of general supervisor of the affairs of Edmund King; was soon made a justice of the peace; presently represented the county several times in the legislature; was appointed register of the land office for the district embracing the Creek nation, the last of whom were removed to Arkansas in the fall of 1836; became a member of congress, dying at Washington during his second term. He was a gifted Baptist preacher, whom when a boy, I often heard, maintaining his integrity like his honored successor, Judge Tarrant, amid the turmoil of politics. After Mr. Lawler, Leonard Tarrant became judge February 1827-1829. Judge Tarrant was a noted local Methodist preacher, a superior "school master," a farmer, and a legislator for several years. When Gen'l Jackson wanted an emigrating agent, who should protect the Indians as to their reserves, he inquired for an "honest man," and was pointed to Leonard Tarrant, though they told him the judge was a whig. For this he did not care, but true to his avowed maxim, "is he honest, is he capable?" at once appointed him. A more magnificent personnel than Judge Tarrant I never saw—full six feet high, erect as an arrow, a waist before he became corpulent like a grey hound, but powerfully muscular, with broad hips and massive chest, and a head and face like Apollo. I reckon he preached well, as I remember one of his sermons, on a funeral occasion, to this day, though when I heard it I was only ten years of age. The successors of these noble men receive suitable notice in other connections.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."
DR. G. C. OSGOOD, Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."
H. A. ARCHER, M. D., 111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

CURED BY USING

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

"Several years ago, my blood was in bad condition, my system all run down, and my general health very much impaired. My hands were covered with large sores, discharging all the time. I had no strength nor energy and my feelings were miserable in the extreme. At last, I commenced taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla and soon noticed a change for the better. My appetite returned and with it, renewed strength. Encouraged by these results, I kept on taking the Sarsaparilla, till I had used six bottles, and my health was restored."—A. A. Towns, prop. TOWN AND COUNTY NEWS.

"Full many a gem of purest ray serene
The dark unfathomed caves of ocean bear."
Full many a bargain goes for days unseen.
Because the people do not know it's there.

R. P. Barnett, of Shelby, paid us a call Monday.

Jessie Hardin, of Montevallo, spent Sunday in town.

E. B. Nelson transacted business Tuesday in Anniston.

Miss Barksdale, of Aldrich, was a visitor in our city Saturday.

Editor Graham and Maj Huggins, of Calera, spent yesterday in town.

Col. J. M. Falkner, of Montgomery, was a visitor in our town this week.

Judge G. E. Brewer, of Talladega, was in town a day or two last week.

W. C. Cannon, of Sylacauga spent Tuesday and Wednesday in our city.

Rev. W. I. Sinnott left Tuesday for Hartselle to attend the meeting of Presbytery.

Mr. Milton J. Dorwin and wife visited Mrs. Dorwin's parents, near Longview, last Sunday.

Our clever friend R. B. Posey, of Harpersville, was a pleasant caller at our office last week.

Mrs. John Upshaw, of Coosa county is spending the week with her sister Mrs. A. D. Wortham.

Miss Fannie McMath, of Montevallo, spent Saturday and Sunday with her sister Mrs. D. B. McMath.

And the grand jury only found 17 true bills. We are glad to know crime is on the decrease in our county.

Miss Naldo Christian, of Shelby, was a guest of her sister Mrs. C. J. Christian Saturday and Sunday.

W. C. Denson, of Pelham, was appointed last week by the county commissioners as one of the board of equalization.

James Millstead returned last week from Atlanta, and has taken charge of the L. & N. depot, the agent, J. H. Newton, being off on a visit to Florida.

Jones Reinhardt, of Whitewright, Texas, is on a visit to relatives and friends here. He is a native of this county, but moved to Texas several years since, where he has been very successful and is now "well healed."

The report of the grand jury found in this issue is respectfully referred to our county commissioners, and they are urgently requested to ponder it well. They will find thein not only food for reflection, but a pointer that should be promptly acted upon.

L. N. Bowden, one of the gifted editors of the Montevallo News, spent Sunday in town. It is said he left in such a happy state of mind that his "face was all smiles." We are always glad to see Mr. Bowden and hope he will remember we keep the finest stock of wedding cards on hand, in the the state, only a short notice is needed to fix you up 250, Louis.

REPORT OF GRAND JURY.

To the Hon. R. W. Cobb, Judge Presiding:

We, the grand jury for said county, empanneled, sworn and charged at the present term of this court, to inquire for said county, respectfully report to your honor that in the discharge of our duties as such grand jury, we have diligently inquired into all indictable offenses committed in the county which have come to our knowledge, and have returned bills in all cases in which the evidence justified a presentment.

We have, by personal inspection, examined the county jail, and find it in as good condition as its sanitary arrangement will admit. We recommend that the commissioners' court adopt some means by which its condition may be improved. Something should be done to remove the filth and excrements that accumulate about the jail. The prisoners are provided with good, wholesome and sufficient food.

Upon examination of the county treasury, we find there was in cash on the 1st day of April, 1895, in the hands of the treasurer the sum of $14,297.61.

Upon examination we find the books and papers of the county superintendent show that he had on hand on the 28th day of March, 1895, $113.95.

We find the sheriff's accounts with the state for feeding prisoners proper and correct. That proper fee books have been kept in the office of the probate judge, and the fees correctly entered therein.

We find that the inmates of the poor house are well and properly cared for in all respects.

We find the court house in good repair. The newly erected vaults are a credit to the county, and all the records and public documents of the county are secure from fire.

The bonds of the county officers are in good form, with sufficient sureties, except that of John Russell, justice of the peace of beat No. 10, and would advise that his bond be strengthened on account of the death of two sureties.

We have investigated 35 charges; examined 160 witnesses and returned 17 true bills.

We desire to return our thanks to your honor for your lucid charge, to the solicitor for his able counsel, and to all others in authority for their uniform courtesy and kindness; and now having discharged our duty, we make this our final report and ask to be discharged.

G. H. AVERYT, Foreman.

Harpersville Echoes.

Dr. E. B. Teague spent last Sunday with Harpersville friends.

Prof. Lee and W. B. Hubbard spent last Sunday in Childersburg.

Mrs. Gorman and Miss Della Thompson visited Birmingham last week.

Cotton planting has commenced, corn is comeing up, and spring surely has come.

Mr. James Self, who has been at Woodard, Ala., has returned home and will farm with his father this year.

Died, at Easonville, last Friday, Mrs. Terry. She was an estimable lady, loved and respected by all who knew her.

Rev. Mr. McCord did not accept the call here, and hence the Baptist are without a pastor, but will elect another next Sunday.

Well, did you just see all the "pops" down at court last week. They were all there even the Czar of Cresswell and his man Friday, by gingoes.

The young boys from 8 to 16 years organized a debating society last Saturday night. Go it, boys, while you are young, for large oaks from little acorns grow, and large streams from little fountains flow.

"JAKE."

Shelby Siftings.

The Methodist and Congregational churches of Shelby will have sermons next Sunday appropriate to the Eastertide.

Rev. J. E. Roy, D. D., of Chicago, who is visiting in the South, preached a powerful sermon at the Congregational church of the Covenant, March 31, on the experience of Paul at his conversion as related to his subsequent character.

The readers of the The Chronicle here regard the articles of Dr. Teague as intensely interesting. His work will be if incalculable value if he is spared to complete his history of the county.

The missionary committee of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor prepared a program which was presented at the Church of the Covenant last Sunday night. Miss Kitty Averyt read an essay, geographical and descriptive, on Madagascar; Miss Lucia Witherby on the People, their Condition in Heathenism; Mr. E. T. Witherby spoke on the French in the Island—the Present Conflict; Rev. A. T. Clark on the Introduction of Christianity,—its Growth, Persecution and Martyrdom. This "missionary concert" was one of the most interseting and profitable ever held in Shelby.

A Card!

Having been very busy trying to repair my losses by the fire which destroyed my residence, kitchen and much of my substance, I have neglected to return my sencere thanks to the good people of Columbiana, Wilsonville, and other points, for their prompt and generous assistance rendered myself and family in that our hour of need. May God's choicest blessings ever attend the generous donors is the prayer of your grateful servant. JOHN MORRISON.

MARRIED.—At the residence of the bride's parents, March 31st, Mr. Robert Blackerby and Miss Laura Cooper. In crossing the Narrows that evening, while they were all out buggy riding, Robert and his girl ou a cart, the rest of the crowd in a two mule wagon, the mules failed to pull when about midway the creek, the girl became frightened, and was in the act of leaping out into the water, when Robert, not forgetting his kindness, asked them to please wait until he could get rid of his girl, then he would back old Charlie and carry them all out on his cart, one at a time. But old Charlie, not being used to traveling that way, made an awkward step and fell, upsetting the cart and threw Robert out into the water. As bad luck would have it, old Charlie fell with his good eye down and could not see how to get up, so Robert was forced to go around and hold the poor old horse's head up out of the water to keep him from being drowned, and, by the way, horse and all were saved.

An Imagination.

When a Third street man came into the house the other evening, they were manipulating something in the kitchen that filled the halls with an odor which could scarcely be called sweet.

"Whew!" he exclaimed to his wife. "What the mischief is that that smells so?"

"Why," responded the wife, who had got used to it, "it's nothing but your imagination."

"Well, I guess not," he said indignantly. "If I had an imagination that smelled like that, I'd take it out and have it disinfected at once."—Detroit Free Press.

Those who never read the advertisements in their newspapers miss more than they presume. Jonathan Kenison, of Bolan, Werth Co., Iowa, who had been troubled with rheumatism in his back, arms and shoulders, read an item in his paper about how a prominent German citizen of Ft. Madison had been cured. He procured the same medicine, and to use his own words: "It cured me right up." He also says: A neighbor and his wife were both sick in bed with rheumatism. Their boy was over to my house and said they were so bad that he had to do the cooking. I told him of Chamberlain's Pain Balm and how it had cured me, he procured a bottle of it and it cured them up in a week. 50 cent bottles for sale by Parker & Armstrong.

Notice.

Notice is hereby given that the commissioners' court of Shelby county will refuse to pay for any lumber or timber to be used on the public road hereafter, for causwaying or other purposes, until the claim is sworn to by the owner, approved by the overseer, and certified by the apportioners of the beat; and the apportioners are requested to see that nothing but the best heart lumber be used, and that it is absolutely needed before it is used.

All arrangements to causeway with poll, timber or lumber, must be with the consent and approval of the apportioners.

La Grippe.

During the prevalence of the grippe the past season it was a noticeable fact that those who depended upon Dr. King's New Discovery, not only had a speedy recovery, but escaped all of the troublesome after effects of the malady. This remedy seems to have a peculiar power in effecting rapid cures, not only in cases of la grippe, but in all diseases of throat, chest and lungs, and has cured cases of asthma and hay fever of long standing. Try it and be convinced. It won't disappoint you. Free trial bottles at Parker & Armstrong's drug store, Columbiana, Ala.

Take Notice.

The State of Alabama, Shelby county. P. E. Williams, et als complainants, vs. Alabama Iron & Steel Company et als. defendants.

In Chancery at Columbiana, Alabama, Sixth District, North-Eastern Chancery Division, Monday, March 25, 1895.

In this cause it is made to appear to the Register, by the affidavit of J. M. Reynolds, one of the attorneys for the complainants, that the defendants, the Central Trust Company of New York, a corporation under the laws of New Jersey, with its principal place of business in New York city; the Chemical National Bank of New York city, a corporation under the "National Bank Act," located in New York city; the National Park Bank of New York, a corporation under the "National Bank Act," with its principal place of business in New York city; Mrs. Esther A Peter, whose residence is unknown to affiant; and Mrs. C. S. Plumb, who resides in the state of Kansas, but affiant does not know at what particular place, are all non-residents of Alabama, and further that in the belief of said affiant, the defendants are over the age of twenty-one years.

It is therefore ordered by the Register that publication be made in The Chronicle, a newspaper published in Columbiana, Ala., once a week for four consecutive weeks, and that a copy of said order be posted at the Court House door in said county thirty days, requiring them the said Central Trust Company, The Chemical National Bank of New York, The National Park Bank of New York, Mrs. Estha A. Peter and Mrs. C. S. Plumb to answer or demur to the same within thirty days after the 22nd day of April, 1895, and failing so to do a decree pro confesso will be taken against them in said cause. It is further ordered that a copy of said order be mailed to each of said defendants, where their residence or post office is known.

Done at office in Columbiana, Alabama, this the 26th day of March, 1895.

Rheumatism

Is a disease of the blood, and the acid which causes it is neutralized and expelled by Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier:

Hood's Sarsaparilla Makes Rich Red Blood

"In the fall of 1892 I began to have sciatic rheumatism, and soon my suffering was so intense that I could not rest day or night, except under strong opiates. I was fast breaking down in my general health, and felt that my days were near an end. In February I began to take Hood's Sarsaparilla, and before I had taken the third bottle I was free from pain, could do farm work, and to this day I have not felt the least symptoms of a return of the trouble. We all feel that we cannot afford to get along without Hood's Sarsaparilla and Hood's Pills in the house, and I cannot express my gratitude for the benefit I have received from them." W. R. Davis, Marrow Bone, Kentucky. Remember

POLITENESS OF THE MEXICANS.

An Engineer's Experience with It After a Session with Tequila.

"For manifesting a grave and imperturbable courtesy in every circumstance of life give me the Mexican people," said a civil engineer who lived long in the southwest. "Here is a case in point. A dozen years ago I was visiting Hermosillo, the capital of Sonora, and, falling in with an old engineering comrade one afternoon, we drank not a little tequila. Tequila, or mescal, perhaps you know is a clear white liquor distilled from the century plant, and possessing much of the taste and potency of Irish whisky. There was a circus in town, and in the evening Johnson and I went up the street to see it. The performance did not greatly interest us and we left the show before it was half through and started down the street on our way to the hotel. The tequila we had drunk was still animating us and inspiring a spirit of adventure. As we came opposite the great house of Dr. Monteverde, one of the grandees of Sonora, we saw perched on a stone post at the entrance of the courtyard a white turkey, and here we stopped and fell to guessing at the weight of the bird.

"At last to settle our difference of opinion we started in to catch the turkey. It ran into the courtyard and we followed. Upon the veranda at one side of the courtyard the household were sitting enjoying the evening coolness. At our unceremonious advent they raised not a word of protest but only laughed as the turkey ran wildly around with Johnson and me in pursuit. After a long chase we caught the bird, and approaching the group on the veranda tried to inform them that we should like a pair of scales to weigh it with. Neither Johnson nor I had an idea what the Spanish word for scales was, and so we indicated the best we could by signs what we wanted. They showed much interest in the endeavor to catch our meaning, and at last we made ourselves understood.

"'Si, senor,' said the head of the house with perfect bonhomie, and calling a servant, gave him some directions in Spanish. The servant departed, and presently came back with a pair of scales, which were placed at our disposal. We weighed the turkey, set the bird at liberty, returned the scales with thanks, and declining the courteous invitation of the hospitable hidalgo that we should sit down and have a glass of wine, we lifted our hats and went on our way.

"Fancy two strangers invading private premises and going through such a madcap performance anywhere else you have ever heard of, and then tell me the Mexicans are not the politest people in the world."—N. Y. Sun.

POISONOUS STINGS.

Reassuring Facts Vouched For by Eminent Bug Sharps.

The bureau of entomology has been collecting some interesting information lately about scorpions, centipedes and tarantulas. Respecting these creatures all sorts of nonsensical beliefs are prevalent, and travelers who have visited tropical regions disagree as to the effects of their bites. That the poison of any one of the three is apt to be deadly has often been asserted. The question derives particular importance from the fact that the animals are constantly imported into this country in bunches of bananas and among other fruits from lower latitudes.

Tarantulas are simply big spiders of the kind that build houses with trap doors. Their bite is very severe and painful, the scar lasting for a long time, but, though it produces a violent inflammation for a short time, it is not dangerous to life. Such, at all events, is the belief of Prof. C. V. Riley. In regard to the centipede, Prof. Riley says that its bite in warm climates is sometimes excessively virulent and painful, though at other times, oddly enough, the poison causes little inconvenience. That it is ever fatal is not believed.

Scorpion stings are very painful indeed. They are dangerous in proportion to the size of the animal, its age, and the state of irritation in which it may be. Temperature also has an influence upon the venom. It may be that the sting is occasionally followed by death, but such cases must be very rare. There is no doubt that the sting of certain species commonly found in South America causes fever, numbness in various parts of the body, tumors on the tongue, and dimness of sight. These symptoms last from twenty-four to forty-eight hours. The effects produced diminish in violence with repetition, so that a person who has been stung many times may become actually proof against the poison.

Some scorpions are much worse than others. The rather small, slender, pale-colored kinds have the worst reputation. In warm latitudes certain places are nearly free from scorpions, while others are overrun by them, for reasons not well understood. They are extraordinarily numerous in a valley in the Tierra Templada of Mexico. There it is hardly possible to turn over a stone without finding three or four small and wicked scorpions of a pale color beneath it.

It is a common belief that the legs of the centipede are poisonous, and that they will leave a trail that burns like fire if the animal runs over the bare flesh. This is wholly a mistake. The creature is naturally timid, and will not even try to bite if it can get away. The poison cause a good deal of pain, with fever and distress of the head. Centipedes are fond of vermin-infested beds, and in tropical countries beds are very apt to be so infested.—Washington Star.

A YOUNG GIRL'S TRIALS.

Nervous Troubles End in St. Vitus' Dance.

Physicians Powerless—The Story Told by the Child's Mother.

[From the Reporter, Somerset, Ky.]

Among the foot hills of the Cumberland Mountains, near the town of Flat Rock is the happy home of James McPherron. Four months ago the daughter of the family, a happy girl of sixteen, was stricken with St. Vitus' dance. The leading physicians were consulted but without avail. She grew pale and thin under the terrible nervous strain and was fast losing her mental powers. In fact the thought of placing her in an asylum was seriously considered. Her case has been so widely talked about that the report of her cure was like modernizing a miracle of old. To a reporter who visited the home the mother said:

"Yes, the reports of my daughter's sickness and cure are true as you hear them. Her affliction grew into St. Vitus' dance from an aggravated form of weakness and nervous trouble peculiar to her sex. Every source of help was followed to the end, but it seemed that physicians and medicine were powerless. Day by day she grew worse until we despaired of her life. At times she almost went into convulsions. She got so that we had to watch her to keep her from wandering away and you can imagine the care she was.

"About the time when our misery was greatest and all hope had fled, I read of another case, almost similar, that had been cured by a medicine known as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Almost in desperation I secured some of the pills and from that day on the wonderful work of restoration commenced; the nervousness left, her cheeks grew bright with the color of health, she gained flesh and grew strong both mentally and physically until to-day she is the very picture of good health and happiness.

"It is no wonder that I speak in glowing terms of Pink Pills to every ailing person I meet. They saved my daughter's life and I am grateful."

The foregoing is but one of many wonderful cures that have been credited to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. In many cases the reported cures have been investigated by the leading newspapers and verified in every possible manner. Their fame has spread to the far ends of civilization and there is hardly a drug store in this country or abroad where they cannot be found.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are now given to the public as an unfailing blood builder and nerve restorer, curing all forms of weakness arising from a watery condition of the blood or shattered nerves. The pills are sold by all dealers, or will be sent post paid on receipt of price (50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50—they are never sold in bulk or by the 100) by addressing Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

COSTLY FURS.

The Immense Business Done in London in Handling Skins.

One of the most interesting branches of trade is the fur business. It is interesting in its first steps; that is, the pursuit of the animals which are to supply the pelts; it is interesting in the curious concentration of pelt-sellers and buyers in London in each of four months of the year—January, March, June and October; and it is interesting in the beautiful dressed skins, robes and prepared garments which are its final result.

London has maintained for many years the pre-eminence in this trade. American skins go to London to be sold by auction, and then come back to America to be worn by American men and women; very likely under some high-sounding foreign name. Russian buyers go to London to buy Russian skins.

A year's auction sales of furs in London often amounts to twenty million dollars.

Many curious incidents and caprices of the London market are recorded. Ever since the middle ages the ermine has been the fur of royalty, and it is still used in the trimming of the state garments of kings and queens; but it long ago fell into disfavor with women of fashion. White ermine skins became so cheap that the Canadian, Siberian and Chinese hunters no longer sent them to market.

Two or three years ago, however, the word went around from some mysterious fashionable source that ermine should be once more the mode. Suddenly all the buyers began to demand ermine skins, and the price went up to a great figure.

As was to be expected, the market was soon glutted. Chinese hunters sent to London no fewer than ten thousand ermine skins in the spring of 1893. And then they promptly went out of fashion.

The ermine has been, in literature, a symbol of innocence and purity, on account of its whiteness, but the animal is far from being an innocent and harmless creature. It is a rapacious and bloodthirsty sort of stoat or weasel, given to killing for the mere love of killing.

The ermine is white with the exception of the tip of its tail, which is black. These tips, dressed with the white fur at regular intervals, make the spotting of black which is seen on regal or other garments of ermine.

The finest and most costly and fashionable fur, at the present time, is the Siberian zibeline or sable, an animal which is said to be rapidly nearing the point of extermination. This little creature, known to science as Mustela zibellina, is a sable about eighteen inches long, with a bushy tail and a sharp, whiskered nose. It has a remarkable rich, three-fold fur, dark brown or black, and very lustrous.

The chase for the Siberian sable is now confined almost entirely to the peninsula of Kamchatka. It is a dangerous business, for it must be carried on in winter, and at that season the wilder parts of Kamchatka are even more inhospitable than those of the Hudson bay territory.

The very finest of these zibelines do not reach the London market. They are sent to the Russian imperial court, and are thenceforth known as "crown zibelines." The rest go to London, where they come into competition with the Canadian black sables.

The fur of the sea-otter, commonly called the fur-seal, is still in great request, and is likely, perhaps, to become more so if the efforts of diplomacy do not more effectively preserve it from extinction. The choicest sealskins now bring a high price. One of fine quality was sold in London last year for eleven hundred dollars.—Youth's Companion.

THE WICKEDEST KING.

Cruelty and Perfidy of Philip II. of Spain.

The figure of Philip II. may truly be said during the whole of his long reign to have hung like a dark shadow over Europe. He crushed out the life of Spain, where the deadly terror of the Inquisition barred all free thought or speech, and reduced the Spanish mind to such a level that it is even now far behind that of any other country in the west. No sovereign had such splendid opportunities, and no sovereign ever so wantonly and so wickedly threw them aside. The wisest minds that have come to the consideration of his life and times have all concurred in estimating Philip II. at what must now be held to be his true value. They have had ample opportunities of late years to enable them to pass true judgments, and the more fully the old archives are inspected the more thoroughly do these bear out the opinions that have been formed of this despot's character.
